

Students' Addresses Wanted by October 1

The annual student directory will be published earlier this year than usual, or by October 10, according to Jack Benefield, graduate manager of the A. S. U. O. The directory will contain the names of every student registered in the University of Oregon and the names of all the faculty members. It will also show the Eugene and permanent addresses of the students and the classes to which they belong. Mr. Benefield says that students who have not turned in their permanent addresses to the registrar's office must do so by October 1.

New Chapel Policy For Southern Cal.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA, Sept. 28. — (P. I. P.) — An entirely new chapel policy has been put in effect for this semester by the administration. Under the new management, services are to be held five times a week, between 9:00 and 9:15 o'clock, during which period all classrooms will be closed. These assemblies will be purely voluntary and of a strictly devotional nature under the direction of Dr. Bruce Baxter. General all-university assemblies are to be called frequently throughout the semester by the president, and will take place at varying hours so as not to affect the same classes. Previously chapel had been compulsory one hour a week and student assemblies were given at 10 o'clock on Fridays with attendance also compulsory.

Camp Cook Aspirants To Receive Training

A course for men in the fundamentals of cooking with special emphasis on camp foods will probably be arranged by Miss Lillian Tingle, head of the household arts department, next term upon the request of N. F. Macduff, forest supervisor. Men cooks are needed in the forest service, and university men would find it remunerative summer employment, says Mr. Macduff. The minimum wage for men cooks is $85.00 a month and board and the maximum is $100.00 and board. The crews range in numbers from six to 15. Tent quarters, stoves and cooking equipment are furnished. In the meantime, many men have enrolled in the household arts classes this fall term, especially in economics of the home, food selection, and camp cookery.

The household arts department is being re-organized this year and there is a heavy enrollment. "We are making the department available to a larger number of students," said Miss Tingle.

After receiving his B. A. from Dalhousie, Mr. Frame took his Ph. D. from Harvard, where he taught for two years. He also instructed two years in the south, and just prior to coming to Oregon he had held a position at the Iowa State college of agriculture.

Mr. Hopkins, who graduated from Oregon two years ago, has been added to the department as graduate assistant. Ralph Bailey, who was a reader last spring term, again holds this position. He graduated last year in the economics department and is now taking his first year in the law school.
