CO-OP

Text Books

All text books are sold at publishers' list price. Students at Oregon purchase their books at the same prices paid by those at Harvard, Princeton, Yale, Columbia or Cornell. Your store pays transportation across the continent and makes no additional charge. Special orders for books will be handled quickly and at list price.

Students' Supplies

The thousand and one incidental items required for work in the different schools and departments are handled at the lowest prices consistent with safe management. The quality of such supplies is the best obtainable for student use. The store does not cut prices but operates on a profit sharing plan. Save your Cash register tickets.

THE CO-OP STORE IS OWNED ENTIRELY BY THE STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF OREGON

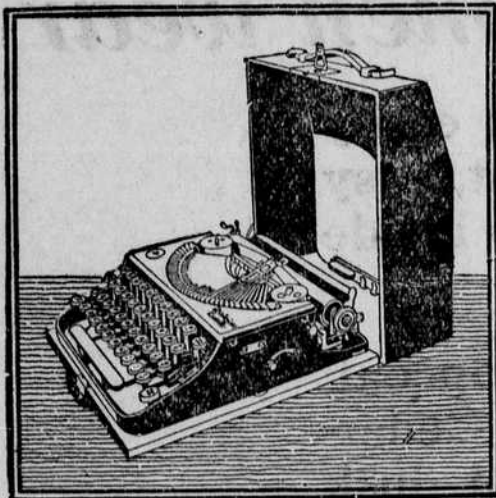

It was incorporated in 1920 by the Executive Committee of the Associated Students. It is a legally constituted Co-operative Society of which every regularly registered student in the University is automatically a member. The managing body is a board of directors, members of which are elected by the students at their election in May of each year. There is no charge or fee for membership in the store.

The purpose of the store is the operation of a convenient depot for the distribution of text books and other supplies to its members. Its sole aim is to give efficient service through Co-operation with students and faculty.

The Store Is Profit Sharing. Save all your cash register tickets. When you have ten dollars worth or more turn them in at the Co-op office and receive a rebate on your purchases.
