

Campus Will Receive Its Quack-Wack.

Webby Subscriptions Are Over 1000 Mark; More Wanted

First Issue Will Appear Homecoming

Duck Will Have Most Blase Waddle

THE Webfoot campaign has reached the 1000 mark, which was set as the necessary quota for the publication of the new magazine. The first issue will make its appearance during Homecoming week-end.

The subscription blanks will be left with the representatives of the various living organizations for those who have not as yet been solicited may subscribe. Those who are unaffiliated with campus organizations will have the opportunity to subscribe for the Webfoot at the office in the Journalism shack.

Receipts Mailed Subscribers Receipts will be mailed to those persons who have not paid the entire amount as soon as the $1.25 is turned in to the business manager. Meetings are held each afternoon and evening at which time members of the staff make the last minute plans for the publication of Webfoot.

"You notice our freshmen this year," advises Philippa Sherman, one of the editors of the magazine. "They're the most sophisticated, ultra blase bunch of babes that have come to these parts since I first registered in the University. But I was a freshman once and I know why they act that way. It's because they're new and scared stiff and don't want anyone to know about it. So they put on a bold front and cover their timidity with a worldly-wise appearance.

"And that's just what 'Webby' is doing. His little yellow legs are frightfully shaky, and he has the feeblest, most stage-struck quack that a duck ever owned.

"But it won't be known for he's going to wear brilliant, flaring plumage never before seen on a barnyard fowl, there'll be a twinkle in his eye, a saucy tilt to his head, and he'll have a sophisticated swagger that all his brother freshmen will want to copy."

Beer Suits and Scarfs Insignia of Sophomores

Beer suits, to inspire envy in the hearts of all men who are not sophomores, and white scarfs, to be the pride of all sophomore women, will soon blaze forth on the campus as the official insignia of the class of '29. All sophomores at the meeting in Villard hall at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon unanimously agreed on "white and frothy" beer suits to insure recognition to the "biggest and best class," the sophomores; as Robert Foster, president of the class, remarked in the meeting, Dean Straub said we were "the biggest and best class." Sophomore women will wear jaunty white silk and wool, or flannel scarfs, either square or long and narrow, the size to be decided at a meeting later in the week. Previous to this year, no successful garb for sophomore women has been worn, but this year "chie" white scarfs to correspond with the beer suits of the men, will distinguish sophomore girls from all others.

Swedish Royalty Delayed Eleven Hours [By Tardy U. S. Reception Committee]

Genevieve Swedenburg, Oregon Student, Tells of Voyage With Crown Prince and Princess

It isn't often that a member of the royalty must wait on his entertainers, nor is it the custom to ask a guest to remain outside of the door until the host is ready, yet this is the experience of Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden, who, accompanied by the Princess, arrived in the United States May 28, for a tour of the country and a visit with government officials. Miss Genevieve Swedenburg, University of Oregon student, who made the trip with the Prince on the Gripsholm, tells the story.

Frosh to Start Work On Blazing "O" Fire

AS shown in the "burning of Rome," and "stove wood," something more than a few matches are needed to make a big fire. Barrels, boxes, rubbish, boards, and oil will take the place of the famous buildings of Nero's "spree," in the freshmen bonfire on the night of Friday, October 22, on Skinner's butte. All inflammable material which can be secured will be gathered on Thursday and Friday of that week and members of the "Frosh" class will be scouting around for material between now and then. To the people of the city goes the plea of the freshmen class for donations of bonfire material, the more, the merrier. Trucks will call on Thursday and Friday of next week for the donations and the people are urged to co-operate.

The bonfire, this year, for the first time, will take the form of a blazing "O," and because of its prominent position upon the butte, will be visible from all parts of the town.

Music School Gives Program For Assembly

Trumpet, Bassoon Duet Unique Addition; Solo By Leota Biggs

The first of six musical programs to be held during the year under the auspices of the school of music of the University at the weekly assembly in the Woman's building at eleven o'clock, will take place this morning.

A portion of the hour will be devoted to a rehearsal of the new Semi-Centennial song, the words of which were written by Irene Stewart, an alumna of the University, and the music by Rex Underwood, professor of violin, providing the copies of the song, which are being printed in Portland, arrive in time.

A trumpet and bassoon duet will prove a unique addition to the program, stated John Stark Evans, instructor in the school of music. The program will be opened by a "March" played by the University orchestra, led by Rex Underwood. The next number will be a violin solo by a member of the school of music. Miss Leota Biggs of the music school will sing a soprano solo. The program will be closed with an "Overture" by the orchestra and the singing of the Oregon Pledge song by the students.

Announcements regarding Semi-Centennial arrangements, excusing of classes and other details of the program, will be made at the assembly.

Vern Folts Appointed Chairman of Senior Class Informal Dance

Vern Folts was appointed yesterday as the chairman of the senior dance which is to be held on November 5. Doris Brophy was named as the assistant chairman. Folts announces that the committee heads will be named later in the week. The dance will be an informal one and will take place at the Winter Garden. George McMurry's "Blue Boys" will furnish the music.

"We expect this to be a manifestation of the class spirit," declared Earle Chiles, president of the senior class. "This being the first opportunity of the school year for the members of '27, as a whole, to show that they are still the biggest and best class in school."

Debate With Sydney Only Two Days Off

First Forensic Battle Between Colleges To Be Friday

Australian Speakers Possess Experience

Oregon Represented by Bailey and Beelar

FRIDAY evening at 8:30 o'clock the University debate team will meet the representatives of the University of Sydney at the Methodist church, to decide the topic, "Resolved: That it is to the best interests of the United States that the cabinet form of government be adopted."

This is the third international debate in which the University has engaged, the previous ones being with British Columbia and Oxford last year. The forensic squad from Australia is composed of alumni members who have an added advantage of age and experience.

Donald Beelar and Ralph Bailey, both experienced speakers, will uphold the negative argument for Oregon. Sydney H. Heathwood, John Godsal, and Noel D. McIntosh form the South Pacific team.

Island Debaters Experienced Sydney Heathwood, who is the leader of the visiting team, has been active in election campaign and other political issues in Australia. He represented his college two years ago against the Oxford debate team. He is connected with an advertising firm in Australia.

John Godsal is a journalist of note and has a reputation as a college debater. The last member of the squad, Noel McIntosh, is the manager of the forensic trio and a member of the bar of the supreme court and high court of Australia.

Chances Look Even In considering the relative capabilities of the two teams, J. Stanley Gray, debate coach, believes Oregon to have a fair opportunity of winning. Oregon defeated the Oxford team here two years ago, which in turn won a verbal victory over the Australians. Ralph Bailey was one of the three members of the squad which met the Oxford men.

Student body tickets will admit holders to the debate, while townspeople may obtain theirs at the Cop or Laraway's music store, the price being fifty cents.

This affair will be as equally large an attraction as the Oxford debate which drew an audience of 2500, is the opinion of the forensic coach.

New Men Are Invited To Smoker by Campus Masons This Evening

Masons and sons of Masons are invited to attend a smoker to be given at the Craftsman's club on Fourteenth avenue tonight at 7:30. This is the first social event that the club presents this term. The object is to acquaint new men with the old members of the club and to give them an opportunity to become affiliated with the club. Alden Woodworth, social chairman, wishes to emphasize that this smoker will be free to all eligible.

A short business meeting will precede the program which will be interesting and varied. Bob Pilkington, a talented banjost, will open the program. This will be followed by three snappy bouts of boxing consisting of three rounds each. Clinton Davison will give a fencing exhibition, his opponent has not as yet been chosen. A vocal solo will follow after which refreshments will be served.

All Craftsman are urged to be present at this meeting. The membership of the club includes, aside from the students, the professors and assistant professors of the University.

English Exam Will Be Given Frosh Saturday

Freshman English examinations for those students who were unable to take the regular ones, because of late registration, will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in Villard hall. Students who entered the University too late for the regular examination were given provisional admittance so they could register, but must take this examination if they are to continue in school.

Sinkers Sell Today; Bring Your Nickel

TODAY is the day when the annual Theta Sigma Phi doughnut sale feeds the campus. Good-sized, sugary doughnuts, the very kind you like to munch, will be at hand all during the day. Each cake will cost five cents, with no additional charge for the hole. 'Tis rumored the Theta Sigs, co-ed journalism honorary, will make no endeavor to restrict the sale to one per student.

The members of the fraternity who will peddle doughnuts today include: Minnie Fisher, Frances Bourhill, Alice Kraeft, Grace Fisher, Marian Lowry, Flossie Radabaugh, Margaret Hensley, Ruth Gregg, Geneva Drum, Jane Dudley, Eva Nealson, Genevieve Morgan, and Mary Benton.

Memorial to Be Unveiled With Much Ceremony

Homecoming Speakers Are Announced; Mostly Alumni

Program for Friday and Saturday, October 22 and 23, of the Semi-Centennial will be made to cater especially to alumni. The persons on the program for those two days are graduates of the University with the exception of Dr. Luella Clay Carson, who was the first dean of women here.

Dedication of Deady hall will take place Friday morning. Dr. Carson will deliver the dedicatory address "The Antiquity of Learning and Its Benevolence." In the address she will refer to former graduates, descendants of the older families. She will review the sacrifices made by the pioneers who made possible the University.

Dr. Claiborne Milton Hill, '81, president Berkeley Baptist Divinity school, will speak on "The Spirit of Old Oregon." Dr. John Straub, emeritus dean of men, head of the department of Greek, will give his "Recollections of the Campus in 1876."

Honorable Benjamin B. Beekman, '84, will preside at the dedication, and Rev. Herbert Spencer Johnson, '87, will deliver the invocation and the benediction.

Melba Williams, '19, will give several vocal numbers accompanied on the piano by Frances Pierce, '26.

The unveiling of the memorial to John W. Johnson, first president of the University, will take place Friday afternoon. If the weather is suitable the ceremony will be executed on the north steps of Johnson hall, otherwise in Guild hall.

Hon. Robert S. Bean, '78, will preside. Judge Lawrence T. Harris will deliver the main address "John W. Johnson, the Founder."

Following the address the tablet bearing the words, "Johnson Hall" over the north door, of Johnson hall will be formally unveiled by Emeritus Dean John Straub, and Emeritus Prof. B. J. Hawthorne, a member of ex-president Johnson's family.

Rev. Frank B. Mathews, '95, pastor of the University-Baptist church in Seattle will deliver the invocation; Melba Williams will give a vocal selection.

Herbert Johnson will speak for the Johnson family. Relatives of Deady's, the Johnson family, and descendants of the first board of regents have been especially invited.

Dr. Hall will deliver a short address at this program. From 3:30 until 5 Dr. Carson will be at home to all friends of the University, both men and women, in Alumni hall of the Women's building.

The annual Homecoming rally will be held Friday evening, complete plans for the rally are not yet announced. But, Bill James, chairman, says that it will be colorful, peppy, and spectacular.

Saturday morning at 10 o'clock alumni, as a group, will for the first time meet and hear Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, who will by that time be president. Dr. Hall will speak on the general subject of "Alumni and Their Relation to a University."

At 12, Saturday, the campus luncheon will be served; at 2 the football game between Oregon and

Y.W.C.A. Drive To Have Quota By Week-End

Living Organizations to Be Visited by Speakers On October 16

Non-affiliated Students Result 100 Per Cent

Membership Card for One Dollar Pledge

"PLEDGES are a little bit slow so far, but we feel that the quota will be made before the week is up," was the report made, by Julia Wilson, chairman, on the Y. W. C. A. finance drive which is under way this week. "There will be a meeting this afternoon at five o'clock of all the committee members, so we can check up on the actual money which has been collected." Pledge cards and general information on the progress of the drive will also be turned in at that time. Talks will be given by Miss McGowan, campus Y. W. C. A. secretary, Julia Wilson, and Bill Kidwell. The various living organizations will be visited by speakers during meal-times on Friday.

Report Encouraging

The Y. M. C. A. reports very encouraging results, so far, from its campaign. Two chairmen of non-affiliated students have reported 100 per cent. These men are T. J. Nelson and Eugene Slattery. There have been no reports from the living organization chairmen as yet, is the announcement of Bill Kidwell, who is general chairman of the Y. M. C. A. drive. During the week there will be several speeches made at the different houses, by the following men: Ed Sox, Clifford Powers, Wilford Long, Bob Love, Joe Holaday, Roland Davis, Benoit McCroskey, Tom Montgomery, Bud Christianson, Lowell Baker, Jack Hempstead, Ronald Robinette, and Joe McKeown.

A pledge of one dollar or more entitles the giver to a membership card, which will give the owner special privileges in any Y. W. C. A. organization, was the statement of Mr. Davis, director of the United Christian work on the campus.

Student Makes Many Voyages In Frail Canoe

A. Burg, Jr., Traverses Length of Columbia For First Time

"It isn't lonely on the river. I can't be with people, and so I have to depend on the river and the sky. They both are changing every minute, and I like to learn their moods. The sun rises in the morning, and it's like seeing an old friend. And at night, when I draw my canoe up on a sand bar near the river bank, and the rain pours down on me, I think, 'my roof is leaking,' that's all," said Amos Burg, Jr., canoeist.

Burg has recently completed a trip with Fred Hill, of Spokane, 1000 miles down the inner passage from Skagway, Alaska, up the Fraser River until the current forced them to leave the water and portage by rail to Upper Columbia Lake, the source of the Columbia River, and follow that stream to Portland.

Burg, who formerly attended O. A. C., is registered here in the School of Journalism. He is a graduate of Jefferson high school in Portland. During the World War he was with the French navy and circumnavigated the globe.

In the winter of 1924 he paddled the length of the Columbia River from Canada to the Pacific Ocean, a feat never before accomplished. Prior to that, he followed the Snake River from its headwaters to the ocean. His canoe, "Song o' the Wind," was too badly damaged in the grand canyon near the mouth of Wolf Creek on the third day of the trip to permit him and his companion to continue. With a new canoe, however, he returned to the river and finished his journey alone.

At another time he lost his frail boat in the Cascades of the Columbia, when it capsized and threw him into the water. He swam to a sand bar, but the "Song o' the Winds" was swept down stream.

On one of his trips he paddled from Livingston, Montana, down

Biography Memorial Committee Appointed

ATTENTION SENIORS: Put on your very best salesmanship smiles and prepare to officiate in the sale of the biography of the late President Campbell, also—you, whose names appear in the following list, be present at a meeting of the Memorial Book committee, at 5 p. m. in 105 Journalism building, today, is the request of Ralph Staley, chairman.

Flaming "O" to Be Biggest and Best Bonfire

Display Will Be Seen for Miles Around; Not A Substitute

"People who are under the impression that we are to have no Homecoming bonfire this year are due for a big surprise," said Don Beelar, assistant general chairman of Homecoming. "It is true that there will be no bonfire on the campus but if the plans for the flaming 'O' on Skinner's butte work out properly we will have the most sensational and startling exhibition of fire ever presented at a Homecoming rally. It must be understood that this is not a substitute for the old bonfire but a big improvement," he added.

Dean Walker and Don Beelar drew up the final plans for the fire and appointed committee chairmen to handle the work connected with it. As the rally is to be held down town, it was thought that it would be much better to have the fire on the butte than somewhere on the campus. This will give the "O" a wonderful display and should be seen for miles around. The letter will be of huge proportions so it will be necessary for the freshmen to work just a little harder this year than in previous years to make it a success.

C. A. Jamin, president of the freshman class, has been appointed general chairman of the committee and under him there will be Harold Kelley, chairman of the construction committee; James Raley, materials committee; Harry Wood, transportation committee; Tom Wells, vigilance committee; Keith Hall, guard committee; and Dorothy Williams, of the women's committee. Further appointments will be made by the class president and will be announced later.

Further plans will be announced at the freshman class meeting this morning at 9 o'clock in Villard hall at which time President Hall will also address the class.

Part of the space of the first floor has been given over to rooms for the various athletic coaches and director of athletics. The balcony on the west side of the building will be equipped with opera chairs. It is planned to use the pavilion for musical events with the possibilities of constructing a temporary stage whenever needed.

The new basketball pavilion will be the only one of its kind in America. Oregon is the first college to

Art Student's Bust Has Setting Amid Fig Leaves, Anatomies And Frocks

Merry Revelers Stage Largest Department Party in History of University

In a setting that would put any Greenwich Village orgy to shame, the art students of the campus and many others got together last night for the hottest blowout ever staged barring none. The revel was staged in the painting studio which was fittingly adorned with decorative designs, casts and various other means of artistic decoration. As a means of variation a line hung with paint besmeared smocks which looked more like the back end of a New York tumbler than an artistic device was swung the entire length of the room.

Various casts were displayed, some with added decoration, some without, representing the members of the department.

Along one side wall in mutual indignation stood two casts of the Venus de Milo. Beside them was a sign explaining that they were "Kerns and Avakian, Hands off and Arms off."

Work Started On Last Unit Of Pavilion

Large Crew Rushing Plant To Completion for Winter Season

Building to Be Ready For Idaho Varsity Game

Large Floor Space and New Roof to Feature

ROME wasn't built in a day and neither will Oregon's new $175,000 basketball pavilion, but it will be completed by the first of January, in ample time for the first basketball game with the University of Idaho Vandals on January 22. The construction contract calls for a finished building by November 1 but labor trouble has hindered A. Pajunen, contractor, in completing the structure on time.

According to J. V. Spore, University inspector, the crew of 60 men are rushing the work to completion as fast as possible. The outside concrete shell of the building has been practically completed save for a small portion near the top. Workmen will begin today in pouring concrete to finish the outside structure.

Interior to Be Finished

The interior of the building is yet to be finished but a foundation has already been laid for the floor. The roof of the building which is nearly completed is perhaps one of the outstanding features. The large covering is a Lamella roof design which was patented some four or five years ago in Holland and has been in use in this country only about two years. It is a trussless arch roof and will be the largest of its kind on the coast. No large mid-floor braces support it but is made up of a number of Lamellas. Ten large steel columns give support from the side of the playing floor. Three large sky lights should give plenty of light for afternoon practice.

Playing Floor One of Largest The playing floor will be one of the largest on the coast. Approximately 16,500 feet of floor space will be available for three practice courts with the main playing floor designed in the middle.

The seating arrangement of the new pavilion calls for a capacity of 7,338 seats and available standing room for 3000 more. When the demand warrants, it will be possible to install an additional balcony which would bring the seating capacity to nearly 10,000 persons.

The pavilion will have two main entrances and twelve exits. Architects have been careful in planning for a speedy clearance of the building. Hall space will be about 14 feet wide and considerable space has been given over to stairways. The east half of the building has a basement in which will be housed shower rooms, dressing rooms, training room, doctor's room and such. According to members of the A. S. U. O. building committee the basement will be fitted out with all modern equipment.

Coaches and Director Have Rooms

Part of the space of the first floor has been given over to rooms for the various athletic coaches and director of athletics. The balcony on the west side of the building will be equipped with opera chairs. It is planned to use the pavilion for musical events with the possibilities of constructing a temporary stage whenever needed.
