

Who's Who in Speakers for Semi-Centennial

Literary People, College Presidents and Professors Listed

Dr. Clarence Cook Little, is now president of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan. He graduated from Harvard in 1910 with a bachelor of arts degree. He received the degrees of master of science from Harvard in 1912, doctor of science in 1914, and in 1924 the degree of doctor of law from New Hampshire. Dr. Little was president of the University of Maine from 1922-25, after which he became head of the Michigan University. He is the youngest college president in the United States.

Colonel W. S. Gilbert is a member of the University of Oregon board of regents. He was at one time a clergyman in Eugene, but is now located in Astoria.

Dr. Frederic Logan Paxson is a professor of history at the University of Wisconsin. He received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1898. He was a Harrison scholar from 1898-99, and a Harrison fellow, 1902-03. In 1902 he received his A. M. degree from Harvard and his Ph.D. in 1903. He has been professor of history at several universities over the country and has written much on American history. One book, "History of the American Frontier," won the Pulitzer prize for the best work on American history for the year of 1924.

Mrs. Eva Emery Dye, one of the speakers for Tuesday's program, is an Oregon authoress who resides at Oregon City. She received the degree of bachelor of arts from Oberlin college in 1882, later getting her master of arts degree from the same institution. She is the author of several books on Oregon frontier life and early Oregon history, the best known being "McLoughlin" and "Old Oregon."

Dr. Joseph Schafer, is the superintendent of the Wisconsin State Historical society. He received his degree of doctor of Philosophy from the University of Wisconsin in 1900. He was head of the department of history at the University here from 1904 to 1920. In 1922 he was editor of the Wisconsin Magazine of History. Dr. Schafer is the author of several books and essays on history.

The president of the University of Kentucky, Dr. Frank LeRond McVey, received his bachelor of arts degree from Ohio Wesleyan university, in 1893. Later he received the degree of doctor of philosophy from Yale, and that of doctor of law from Wesleyan University, 1910.

Dr. Willard Eugene Hotchkiss is now dean of the Graduate School of Business at Stanford University. Dr. Hotchkiss studied in France and Germany besides receiving degrees in the United States. He is the author of several writings on business and economics.

Dr. John P. Buwalda is professor of geology at the California Institute of Technology. He is an authority on western geology, particularly of Oregon. He has done considerable research work in the John Day section. Before taking his present position, Dr. Buwalda was head of the geology department at the University of California.

Dr. Henry Suzzallo, deposed president of the University of Washington, received degrees from Stanford University, Columbia University, and the University of California. Dr. Suzzallo is known all over the United States for his work in educational circles. He has been elector of the Hall of Fame since 1920.

Dr. Arthur Griswold Crane is the president of the University of Wyoming. Dr. Crane received degrees from Carleton College, 1902, Teachers College, Columbia University, 1918, and Columbia University, 1920. He was president of the State Normal school, Minot, North Dakota from 1912 to 1920. He was the builder and organizer of this

(Continued on page four)

Frosh To Meet In First Game Today At 2:30

Columbia Squad Said to Be Handicapped By Injuries

Both Teams to Play Deceptive Football
Yearlings Will Appear in New Suits

THE freshman football team is to play its first game of the season this afternoon at 2:30 when it meets Columbia University of Portland in the annual tilt between these two teams. Columbia has been hard hit by injuries lately, but Coach Harrington is bringing down a formidable array of football talent. The frosh will present a strong lineup for the game and all concerned predict a fairly close game with the yearlings holding a slight advantage. The Cliffdwellers have never succeeded in downing the freshmen but played a tie game several years ago. This contest has come to be one of the big games on the freshman schedule.

Head Coach Reinhart predicts a good game and announces that win or lose the frosh can be counted upon to put up a good fight. The team is all "hopped up" for the game as this is the first chance the men have of fighting for Oregon. Most of the injuries suffered by the players during the past week have responded to treatment and the wearers of the green lids will put a well balanced team on the field.

Reinhart's chief concern is over Bobby Robinson, star halfback, who has an infected foot. It remains to be seen whether or not he will be able to start the game. His loss will be greatly felt if he is unable to start as he is a real triple threat man. In scrimmage against the varsity and also in practice he has been averaging better than forty-five yards on his punts and he is one of the best open field runners on the team. He also passes accurately. In case he does not start Reynold MacDonald, former Salem high star will start in his place.

Columbia Has Reserves
Coach Harrington is reported to have lost his stellar performer in Garrity. The last named person holds down a backfield berth and does the kicking and most of the passing. However true this report may be there are several capable men ready to step in and take Garrity's place if he is unable to play. It seems that most of the Columbia players are suffering from minor injuries but these will not amount to much.

Trick Game Expected
The game should prove a very interesting one from the spectators' point of view as the systems used by both tend toward deceptive football. The freshmen will use the new system introduced this fall by the varsity while Columbia will use the Notre Dame style of play. A battle of wits should result and passing will probably play an important part in the game. Much depends on the condition of the field for if it is wet the frosh will be favored due to the ability of Hatton, Ricks, and Johnson to plunge through the line. The teams will be nearly evenly matched in weight with Columbia having the edge in experience as they have already played Albany college and defeated them, 33-0.

All Frosh to Play
The frosh will appear in new uniforms issued last night and will be numbered so it will be easy to find the individual players. The trainers have labored long and hard to

(Continued on page three)

Mixed Quartet and Reading Features Of Vespers Sunday

An especially interesting program will be offered at the Vesper service in the school of music auditorium next Sunday at 4:30 p. m. Miss Josephine Seaman, of La Jolla, California, will give a reading. A musical program will be given by a mixed quartet composed of Madame Rose McGrew, soprano; Mrs. Delbert Oberteuffer, contralto; Mr. David Faville, tenor; and Mr. Eugene Carr, bass. The selection for the quartet has not yet been decided upon.

Boom! Boom! Boom! Campus Can Attend

HARK ye! gentle readers. If you are startled out of an indulgent sleep at 8:30 Monday morning by three shots be reassured that it means neither that the British are approaching by land nor by sea nor that another armistice has been signed. No, the three shots will merely signify that the weather is beautiful and that every one who wishes to may attend the inauguration of Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall which will be held on Hayward field.

Because it will not be possible for everyone to attend the ceremony if held in the Woman's building, the Semi-Centennial committee is making every effort to accommodate those who have not received admission tickets. Accordingly, if the weather permits, the shooting of three bombs will signify that the committee has succeeded in compromising Jupe Pluvius and everyone is welcome. However, if Jupe refuses to listen to reason the inauguration will take place inside and in such a case only those who have admission tickets will be admitted since the largest auditorium available on the campus will accommodate not over 1200 people in addition to faculty and official delegates.

With the exception of exercises on Inaugural day, Monday, all symposia and memorial exercises throughout the week are open to the general public and citizens of Eugene and the state at large are urged to take advantage of the opportunity to meet and hear some of the most distinguished scholars and University presidents in the country. With the exception of inaugural exercises on Monday, no tickets of admission will be required.

Australia Wins From Oregon Team, 107 to 95

Negative Team Will Give Radio Debate Over KGW Tonight

Australia and the state of Oregon, as represented by the University of each, met at the Methodist church last night to decide whether or not the United States should, for its own best interests, adopt the English cabinet form of government.

By a ballot vote from the audience a 107 to 95 vote was cast in favor of the University of Sydney, Noel McIntosh and Sydney Heathwood, upholding the affirmative. This is the third international debate.

(Continued on page two)

Ode Contest Won By Mrs. George Rebec

Paper Will Be Part of Pledge Day Assembly On Thursday

Poems Submitted From All Over State
Writer's Work Praised by Three Judges

By WALTER EVANS KIDD
M. of George Rebec, dean of the graduate school, was awarded first place in the University of Oregon ode contest with her ode, "On the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Founding of the University of Oregon," which will be a feature of the Semi-Centennial pledge day assembly, Thursday morning, October 21.

The selection was made, after an extended consideration, from a large number of manuscripts submitted upon diverse themes relating to the present and past life of the University and varying in length from 54 lines to ten pages. The manuscripts came in from various sections of the state, the authors being graduates or members of the present University group. The contest opened last June and closed September 11. The judges were Alice Henson Ernst, chairman, of the English department, W. F. G. Thacher, and Ralph D. Casey, professors in the school of journalism.

Mrs. Rebec, Vassar Teacher
Mrs. Rebec, an A. M. graduate of the University of Michigan, held a Pilgrim Fellowship in English there. Later she taught English at Vassar. Her verse has appeared in several college magazines, Smart Set and Atlantic Monthly. Through her long residence in Eugene, and the state and through an intimate association with the life of the University, she was very able to express the spirit of Oregon's half-century celebration.

Mrs. Rebec's ode of some 145 lines has profound concentration, graceful simplicity, appropriately suggestive imagery, and philosophic subtlety:
"He still has learned, uncoweringly, to wait,
To thrill with ancient pleasure in a sunset sky,
To hush with wonder when the wild geese fly,
To suck up beauty as a wild rose can."

Mrs. Ernst Praises Work
"Her ode has a pleasing variety of pattern and rhythm, flexible manipulation of material and unity of time," comments Mrs. Ernst. "Though local in its descriptions and references, it is given larger significance."
(Continued on page four)

Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall To Take Oath Monday; Semi-Centennial Begins

Ale! Ginger? Don't Know—Ale Anyway

IN the dark of the moon, or at some time when the lights of the law school were not shining with their usual brilliancy, some loathsome culprit did maliciously and feloniously remove, steal, or otherwise spirit away the black letter "H" from the cognomen of the dauntless dean of the law school.

The morning after the night before that worthy individual feasted his optics upon the sign on the door of his office that informed the world that Dean W. G. Ale might be found within.

The powers that be were immediately informed of this sad state of affairs, and another black letter "H" and several spares dispatched to the scene of the calamity. The dean returned to his accustomed sobriety.
Hale!

Oregon Staff Can Assist in Land Research

Dr. Ely Tells Faculty Men They Can Help Solve Problems

Haphazard and unscientific settlement of rural lands, development of city properties, and construction and utilization of public utilities, result in the loss of many thousands of dollars and bring in their wake many human tragedies, said Dr. Richard T. Ely, noted economist, who spoke last night at the faculty Social Science club meeting in the Anchorage, on how research can aid in the solution of these problems.

"No bargain a person makes is so important as the purchase of land," said the speaker, who is director of the national institute of land economics and public utilities. "If the farmer makes an unwise purchase, his land is likely to be a millstone around his neck for a lifetime. The unwise purchase of city property may be equally harmful."
In sketching the work of the institute in showing to public officials, real estate boards, business men and

(Continued on page three)

Dr. Clarence Cook Little To Give Installation Address

Inaugural Procession Will Be Conducted Formally; Outline of Events Is Presented by Celebration Committee

Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall will be inaugurated as fifth president of the University of Oregon Monday morning at the Inaugural ceremony. President Clarence Cook Little, of the University of Michigan, will give the installation address.

The inauguration of Dr. Hall marks the beginning of a week that is to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the University and to launch the institution to further progress. If the weather is favorable the ceremony will be held in the east grandstand of Hayward field; if it is too rainy it will be held in the Woman's

Chinese Works To Be Exhibited In Art Building

Thumb and Fine Brush Work Portraits and Landscapes Shown

"The Oriental is a person who keeps his fancies largely to himself," declared N. B. Zane of the department of art and architecture. "He is very reticent and dreamy. Consequently, things he makes are to a large degree the expression of his dreams."

"It is extremely hard for the American to avoid bringing his own self to the appreciation of Oriental product. It is much like a Persian home without taking off one's shoes. In approaching Chinese things then, if they are dreamy, as most of them are, the American finds himself on unfamiliar ground and has very little patience with them. He is used to things in relation to his conception of reality, those things tangible to him such as wealth, land, and property. He has grown up with a sense of wanting to recognize and feel at home with the things that are pictured. If they are not pictured the way he is used to, he is inclined to be intolerant. He finds himself on relatively strange ground and unless he is a bit poetic by nature, he isn't likely to revel in the product of the Chinese. He is willing to concede the building. Admission in the Woman's building will be by ticket only.

(Continued on page two)

NOTED SPEAKERS TO APPEAR AT UNIVERSITY CELEBRATION

Prominent educators who will appear at the Semi-Centennial in Eugene October 18-23, are: Top, left to right—Dr. Luella Clay Carson, formerly dean of women and professor of English at Oregon; Dr. Henry Suzzallo, former president of University of Washington; Frank L. McVey, president of University of Kentucky; Dr. A. C. Crane, president of University of Wyoming; Dr. W. E. Hotchkiss, dean of graduate school of business, Stanford University. Bottom, left to right—William van Haugstraten, conductor Portland symphony orchestra; Frederic L. Paxson, professor of history, University of Wisconsin; Dr. Claiborne M. Hill, Berkeley Theological seminary; Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of University of Michigan; Dr. Joseph Schafer, superintendent of Wisconsin Historical Society, Madison, Wisconsin.

Highlights of the Inaugural will be the Inaugural procession, with all participants dressed in formal attire; the installation address, by President C. C. Little, University of Michigan; the Inaugural address of Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall.

The Inaugural procession will form at 9:15 at Johnson hall and will march to the place of the ceremony. The order of the procession will be as follows: group one, speakers in the Inaugural ceremony; group two, speakers and participants in the Inaugural banquet program and the programs and symposia for the remainder of the week; group three, regents of the University of Oregon; group four, official delegates; group five, deans of the University of Oregon; group six, faculty of the University of Oregon.

The Inauguration ceremony program will begin at 10 o'clock with the procession by the University orchestra, under the direction of Rex Underwood. The invocation will be delivered by the Right Reverend Walter T. Sumner. This will be followed by a solo, "On Wings of Song" by Mme. Rose McGrew.

Honorable James W. Hamilton, president of the board of regents, will introduce the installing officer, President Clarence Cook Little, of the University of Michigan.

President Little has the distinction of being the youngest president of a state university. The topic of his address will be "Opportunity and the Individual." Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall will reply with his Inaugural address.

President Levi T. Pennington, Pacific college, will deliver the benediction after which the University orchestra will play Schubert's "March Militaire" as the recessional.

Immediately after the inauguration ceremony, delegates will meet with faculty escorts in Alumni hall of the Woman's building. The noon hour will be devoted to informal luncheons for speakers and official delegates.

A reception and formal showing of the Oregon Museum of Fine Arts is scheduled for 2 p. m. This collection will be open during Semi-Centennial week between the hours of 2 and 5 p. m. and 8 and 10 p. m.

Addresses on art will be delivered by Josephine Gaskin Seaman who will speak on "The Shuttle," and Mrs. E. O. Potter, "Cambodia," at 3 p. m. in the library of the museum in the Woman's building.

A banquet to official delegates with Colonel William S. Gilbert, on the board of regents, acting as toastmaster will be held in the Woman's building at 6 p. m.

A program with state, University, and city officials has been arranged. Music will be furnished by the Potter quartette.

Tuesday will be taken up with history and social science symposia. Symposia on natural science, and adult education are scheduled for Wednesday.

Thursday is pledge day. Conferences will be held on music, art and aesthetics and the site of the proposed Fine Arts building will be dedicated to Prince L. Campbell, late president of the University. Dearly hall will be dedicated Friday morning. The memorial to John W. Johnson, first president in the

(Continued on page two)