

Initial Frosh Hoop Call Nets Sixty Candidates

Many Former Prep Stars Are Among Players On Squad

First Practice to be Held In New Pavilion

Sixty enthusiastic candidates for the freshman basketball team responded to Coach Spike Leslie's first call last night. Among this group of men are several former high school stars and two of these were picked for the all-state team last year.

No workout was staged last night but Coach Leslie gathered the yearlings into a room and gave them a talk on the type of basketball played at Oregon and urged everyone to start training at once. Actual practice will not be started until the first part of next term but all the aspirants for a place on the frosh team were urged to attend as many varsity workouts as possible to acquaint themselves with the style of ball played here.

Coach Stresses Study

Coach Leslie suggested that the green cappers devote all their time to their studies so that he will not have a squad of ineligible players next term. He explained the eligibility rules in detail to the men. Freshman practice will be held in the new pavilion which will be completed by the time the first practice is held. The squad is expected to reach almost a hundred players by next term.

To Play Books

Plans are under way to play several strong prep school teams of the state as well as the games with the Aggie rooks. Washington University's babes are also contemplated opponents. The squad will take a trip to Portland where two or three high school teams will be played. A trip to southern Oregon is also being arranged. As has been the custom in past years four games will be played with the rooks.

That a fast team is to be expected was the basis of Coach Leslie's talk to the first year men. He said a man would have to be in perfect condition to play on the team and that he would have to keep going at top speed at all times.

Otherwise the player will be benched, Leslie threatened.

Roland Coleman, former Eugene high player, and Kenneth Potts, who tossed baskets for Milton-Freewater high, are the all-state men to report for the team. Both men were picked on the mythical team at the state tournament held at Salem last spring. Following is a list of the men turning out for
