

Junior College Plan Endorsed By Colloquium

Faculty Committee Favors Proposal to Reform Curricula

Course Would Extend Over Two-Year Period

Action Awaits Sanction Of University Staff

THE advisability of establishing a junior college at the University and the various aspects of such a move underwent considerable discussion and finally, endorsement by a colloquium of the faculty at Johnson hall last night. Professor E. H. Decker presided at the meeting in the absence of Dr. H. B. Yocum, chairman of the colloquium, and Dr. W. E. Milne read a report concerning proposed plans for junior college administration. Dr. Milne is chairman of the faculty committee which has been working on the third phase of the proposed general curricular reform, the other two phases being considered by the independent undergraduate committee and the faculty committee on the treatment of the exceptional student.

The three recommendations regarding the junior college plan which were endorsed by the members of the colloquium follow:

Three Proposals Endorsed
That the University of Oregon establish a clearly defined junior college to comprise the instruction received by the student during the freshman and sophomore years.

That major subjects be chosen at the beginning of the junior year, except in the case of certain professional schools.

That the responsibility for advising freshmen and sophomores be placed in the hands of an advisory committee which will assign students to suitable advisors selected from the faculty; exceptions to be made in the case of certain professional schools.

Dr. Milne Describes Features
The features of the junior college plan which were recommended to the committee were briefly described by Dr. Milne. "The plan provides for a broad and liberal education in fundamentals and defers until later the intense specialization which now often begins too early," he said. "Under this system, the end of the first two years will provide a suitable 'getting off place' for those whose capacities or finances do not justify them in continuing for the full four years, at the same time giving these students a rounded out two years course."

"It also gives opportunity for selecting the students of ability for learning their capacities and aptitudes, and therefore making possible a wiser selection of special fields in the senior college."

The recommendations endorsed by the colloquium will come up for consideration by the University faculty at an early date.

Poetry Course Added By Extension Division

The new correspondence course in versification just completed by Alice Henson Ernst and Pat V. Morrisette of the English department, is one of the most interesting courses being offered this term, in the opinion of Miss Mozelle Hair, director of correspondence study.

It has been designed "for those who desire to better understand and appreciate poetry, and for those who wish to write verse," according to the introductory comment on the course. There are sixteen lessons in all, and three hours of university credit are given. "Le Gallienne Book of English Verse" is the text for the course.

Journalists to Give Dance Saturday Night

Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi, women's and men's honorary journalism fraternities, and the Sports Writers' organization, and the campus correspondents, will honor Miss Mary Lou Burton and George Turnbull, professor in the school of journalism, who recently announced their engagement, at an informal supper-dance at the College Side Inn, Saturday evening.

Members of the school of journalism faculty, and their wives, will be patrons and patronesses for the affair.

Rex Underwood String Quartette Renders Versatile Musical Program

Concert Sponsored by Mu Phi Epsilon Honorary Absorbs Interest of Large Audience

By D. F.
The aesthetic quality of the music and the penetrating sweetness of the silver-tongued instruments, brought out by the artistry of the musicians, produced the absorbing interest evidenced by the audience at the Underwood String Quartette concert, which, sponsored by Mu Phi Epsilon, was held at the Music auditorium last evening.

The quartette, composed of Rex Underwood, first violin; Delbert Moore, second violin; Buford Roach, viola; and Miriam Little, violoncello; accompanied by John Stark Evans on the piano, offered a program of five varied and interesting selections.

The first number, the "Quartette," by Rubin Goldmark, whose works and life have been studied extensively by music students during the past term, was an arresting composition of numerous moods and expressions. The sudden quickening of motion in the Poco adagio and the rhythmic sway of the allegro non troppo, both contributed to the appreciative applause received at the end of the composition.

The feature of the evening was the next number, the two Old English songs played in the original melody by Mr. Evans on the piano, and in the revised form by the quartette and piano. The author of the last arrangement was Frank Bridges, who modernized the revision by almost totally ignoring form, giving the first air, "Sally in Our Alley," the captivating, appealing movement that seemed to be seeking expression in the musical sensibilities of every listener. The second air, "Cherry Ripe," on the contrary, affected a lighthearted spirit and a boldness and daring for the audience to open their senses wide in order to let no part of the swiftly changing movements escape.

The fine, full tones of the Lento "Music of the Spheres" by Rubinstein; and the impelling quality of the sonorous notes was atmospheric, not real. The sounds rose from a sweet, quiet restfulness to a highly tensioned point saturated to its fullest extent with the sweet singing of the strings and the balancing tone of the piano.

The "Allegro Grazioso" by Gtry-Pochon, the Quartette Op. 76 Op. 5 by Hayden, and the Quartette F Major Op 96 by Dvorak followed in equally as delightful and artistic interpretations.

The pleasure given the hearers and the success of this concert by the Underwood String Quartette can be measured by the appreciative applause from a well filled auditorium; and the congratulatory expressions given the musicians after the musical.

Donut Swim Title Taken By Phi Delt

Delta Tau Delta Second; Betas, S. A. E., Sigma Chi Win Places

Vic Wetzel High Point Man; Wins Free Style

McAlpin, Baker, Bristol, Seivers Win Events

PHI DELTA THETA'S slippery finmen emerged victorious in last night's intramural swimming meet in the Women's building pool, with a total of 21 points. Delta Tau Delta was second with 13 1/2 points, Beta Theta Pi was third with 12, followed by S. A. E. with 11 and Sigma Chi with 8 1/2.

The first event on the schedule was the 40 yard free style swim.

Vic Wetzel secured a commanding lead for the Phi Delt by coming in far ahead of all opposition in 22 4-5 seconds.

McAlpin put the Deltos on an even keel with the Phi Deltos by finishing first in the backstroke in the fast time of 25 4-5 seconds.

The breaststroke for 40 yards was a battle from start to finish with Bartle, an S. A. E., just nosing out Raley of the Phi Psi's.

Back Dive Becomes Flip
"What can really be accomplished in the way of demonstrating the poetry of motion," said Coach Abercrombie, in charge of the meet, "was amply illustrated by the efforts of several potential and some actual divers. In one instance a common backdive was accidentally enlarged to include a back flip and a tremendous splash. However, Bill Seivers of S. A. E., Slausson of Sigma Chi, and Wetzel of the Phi Deltos displayed excellent form in this event."

When the final event, the relay, was begun, the Phi Deltos and the Deltos were leading the pack and each had an excellent chance to win the meet. Stoddard gave the Phi Deltos a good start and they managed to maintain it to the end, although closely pressed by both the Betas and the Sigma Chis.

Wetzel High Point Man
Wetzel of the Phi Deltos was high point man of the meet, taking first in the free style event and third in the dives for 8 points. McAlpin, Baker, and Seivers were next with five points each. Wetzel and Mason of the Betas, who took two fourths, were the only swimmers to place in more than one event.

Results of the entire meet follow: 40 yards free style: Wetzel, Phi Deltos, first; Plangus, Betas, second; Eccles, Chi Psi, third; Rutherford, Deltos, and Hanson, Sigma Chi, tied for fourth; time, 22 4-5.

40 yards backstroke: McAlpin Deltos, first; Konigshofer, A. T. O., second; Hayes, Phi Deltos, third; Mason, Betas, fourth; Case, Chi Psi, fifth; time, 25 4-5.

40 yards breaststroke: Baker, Phi Deltos, first; Bartle, S. A. E., second; Raley, Phi Psi, third; Bird, Deltos, fourth; Bristol, Chi Psi, fifth; time, 29.

Dives: Seivers, S. A. E., first; Slausson, Sigma Chi, second; Wetzel, Phi Deltos, third; Mason, Betas, fourth; Taft, A. T. O., and Owens, Chi Psi, tied for fifth.

Relay: won by Phi Deltos (Stoddard, Baker, Hayes, and Tuck); Betas, second; Sigma Chi, third; S. A. E., fourth; Deltos, fifth.

Hilton Oratory Contest Set for February 10

The date of the Frank H. Hilton oratorical contest for law students has been set for Thursday evening, February 10, William G. Hale, dean of the law school, announced yesterday.

Carlton E. Spencer, registrar, and Dr. James H. Gilbert, acting dean of the college and head of the department of economics, are to act as judges. A third judge is yet to be selected.

The contest will be preceded by a dinner for all students in the law school at the Anchorage.

Irving Vining To Be Speaker At Assembly

President State Chamber Was Special Lecturer During War

"Calls of Service" Is Subject of Address

Robt. McKnight of Music School to Give Solo

IRVING E. VINING of Ashland, president of the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce, and one of the outstanding speakers of the Northwest, is to lecture this morning at the student assembly in the Woman's building on "Calls of Service."

Mr. Vining, who is prominent in state affairs, has a national reputation as a personal efficiency expert and as a speaker. During the world war he was special lecturer for the United States government. For several years he taught classes in personal efficiency at the Oregon Retail Merchants association which met on the campus.

Conducts Efficiency Courses
He is a graduate of Columbia University, and after taking graduate work there, he conducted courses in personal efficiency in New York city in the big manufacturing plants.

Mr. Vining has been travelling throughout the United States this winter, and has spent considerable time in California where he has been studying the problem of the economic unit on the Pacific Coast. Dean Robbins of the school of business administration, who is a friend of his, says that Mr. Vining has an unusually fine voice and dramatic stage presence.

Dean Robbins will introduce the speaker and Dean Straub, dean emeritus of men, will preside. Robert McKnight, senior in the school of music, will give a vocal selection.

Johnstone Takes Up Duties in Office of League of Nations

J. E. A. JOHNSTONE, formerly assistant professor of Greek and Latin at the University, has arrived in Geneva and taken up his duties with the International Labor Office of the League of Nations, according to a letter received by Dr. George Rebee, dean of the graduate school. Mr. Johnstone's work consists of making translations of the letters received by the labor office into French and English.

His letter says in part: "It is too soon for me to say anything about my life here except that I am perfectly delighted with the office and the city. My expenses were granted on a most lavish scale, providing for first-class (not cabin) accommodation throughout, with a subsistence allowance of 40 Swiss francs a day.

"The standard of education in the office is very high. My chief is a most delightful Frenchman and I know that my work will be very enjoyable. There are only two other Canadians and no Americans in this office. One of the Canadians (Eastman) is a historian of international repute and a delightful man."

Committee Aims for Religious Program

The various types of courses in religion where students can earn credits, that are being given by universities or by schools of religion associated with them, were discussed by John F. Bovard, dean of physical education, at the regular meeting promoted by the faculty committee on Religious and Moral Activities held yesterday noon at the Anchorage.

The kinds of courses, how they are administered, and the differences between the university and religious school's courses were discussed. Investigations as to those of a number of universities at Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Oklahoma, North Dakota, Iowa, Michigan Agriculture and California were reviewed by Dean Bovard. There were about thirty present at the meeting.

The committee has been trying to find some way in which a constructive religious program for students next four weeks, when the program of discussions will end, it hopes to have arrived at some result.

Ground-hog Idea Big Hoax, Savant Avers

YESTERDAY was the ground-hog's chance to slumber, which science declares to be his principle occupation, and get away with it. His aversion to interviews, however, prevents exact knowledge as to just what he was doing.

If he did come out to see his shadow, despair is not imperative. The groundhog never applied for his position, and consequently gives little thought to the matter unless he's in a mind to play a practical joke. At least, F. W. Seward, meteorologic scientist who has made a study of the six weeks following February 2 for the last 15 years, declares that only four out of nine predictions for cold ever came true. The publicity he gets is in itself enough to make him a vain and undependable person, which surely wouldn't be cause for condemnation yesterday.

Gabriel Defeats Dallas in Donut Handball Game

Six Men Left in Singles Tourney; All Granted Equal Chance

He fell over as softly as a dying cream-puff, he ddd, and Gabriel pushed him. Bill Dallas was the victim and the donut handball tournament now burning up the bushes was the reason for it. Score: 16-21, 21-16, 21-15.

More of the same: Taylor-Brown set to won by Taylor 21-16, 21-19. Bauman took Widmer to the cleaners after a sudden let up in the second set. Bauman's count reads like this, 21-16, 7-21, 21-18.

The doubles matches were as full of upsets as a Pittsburg stogie is of burlap. Mel Cohn and partner, Long, won two straight sets from Taylor and Dallas, 21-17, 21-16.

Howard and Knutsen were winners by default from McDonald and Palmer. Scott and Oberturner picked a lemon when they took on Leslie and Bliss and drowned in the game 21-19, 21-13.

As the free lance tournaments progress the competition becomes keener, with only the slickers left in the running. In the singles are six men of equal ability, Taylor, Bliss, Cohn, Gabriel, Bauman and Parker, last year's champion. Each is a tough man to lick and much blood will be shed before the 1927 champion is crowned.

Oregana Will be Sold By Subscription Only; $2.00 Payment Down

No Oregana year books will be ordered other than for those who subscribe before the edition is distributed, according to Paul Sletton, circulation manager. If those students who have not yet subscribed want a book, they may purchase one at the Co-op or the graduate manager's office on the payment of $2.00 down. This opportunity will last for the next two weeks.

Thus far 1680 books have been sold. Last year all of the books were not sold that were ordered, consequently, there was a deficit. The staff has decided, therefore, that this year they will publish only those which have been ordered. 1900 copies have been ordered but on the first of March, this order will be decreased to that of the number of subscriptions.

"Since the Oregana is a student body function the students should support it, as they do the other activities of the associated students," the circulation manager stated.

The book will be equal to that of last year and perhaps, better, according to Frances Bonhill, editor.

Women's League Tea To Be From 4 to 5:30

The Women's League tea this afternoon will be from 4 to 5:30 instead of 4 to 6 as usual, in order to give houses time to get ready for the Dime Crawl which starts at 6:30 this evening.

Because of this, women students are urged by Gladys Calef, chairman of the tea, to go early and avoid the rush. At 4:45 Helen Hembree will give several character readings. Katharine Elkins will play for the dancing.

Varsity Wins Hoop Game at State Capital

First Team Runs up Big Score at Start; Subs Finish Battle

Westergren High Man; Bally, Emmons Help

Montana Grizzlies Will Appear Saturday

BASKETEERS TAKE-7
The Line-up Follows:
Oregon (32) (26) Willamette Gunther (4) f (8) Hank Ridings (4) f (1) Litchfield Okerberg (5) c (8) Hartley Westergren (9) g (2) Ashby Milligan (2) g (4) Ledbetter. Substitutions: Oregon, Emmons, 4; Bally, 4; Hummel; Kiminki; McCormick. Willamette, Riddell, 3; Minos.

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 2—(Special to the Emerald)—The University of Oregon varsity defeated the Willamette Bear Cats 32 to 26 in the basketball game played here tonight. Westergren, diminutive Web-foot guard, was high point man with nine markers, but was closely followed by Hank, and Hartley, of the Bear Cats, who collected eight scores each.

Al Westergren

Billie Reinhart, Oregon basketball coach, started his first string, but when, at the end of the first ten minutes, they had piled up 24 markers he slipped his super-varsity into the game. This gave the younger men a good opportunity to get some actual playing experience which should stand them in good stead next season.

Subs Score
Keith Emmons and Joe Bally, both members of last year's frosh squad at Oregon, showed up well, each collecting four points. This was the only scoring done by the Webfoot's second team.

The University of Oregon quintet plays its only conference game of the week when it meets the University of Montana casaba men in McArthur court Saturday night. The Montana hoopsters have not annexed a conference game this season. They will end their southern road trip here and the lemon-yellow squad should take the game unless the dope gets a terrible upsetting.

Epps Injured
Dave Epps, forward on the varsity who has been out since the W. S. C. contest at Pullman last week, may be back in the line-up soon. He rubbed a blister on his foot that seemed to turn into a bone bruise. The doctors at the University Infirmary lanced the offending member before the team started on the northern trip, but the foot did not improve as rapidly as expected.

Next week the varsity basketballers get more action. They play the Washington State aggregation in McArthur court Wednesday, February 8. The first game with the Oregon Aggies is slated for the following Friday, February 11.

The remaining conference games are scheduled with the Aggies and the Huskies. The second Aggie tilt for February 22, and the Huskies end the regular season February 26.

Oregon to Compete With Multnomah Club In Fencing Tourney

Oregon's fencing team, composed of L. K. Shumaker, captain, Bernard Duhrkoop, and Clinton Davison, will leave on Friday for Portland to compete with Multnomah club in a fencing tournament, to be held that evening. This match will mark the pioneer steps of the University and the club to introduce in the northwest a sport which is fast growing in popularity.

In a contest held in Portland last year, Oregon was victorious, but was defeated later in a return bout, here.

"When properly staged, a fencing bout becomes one of the fastest and most spectacular sports imaginable," according to Davison, student instructor in fencing. He states that the Winged "M" swordsmen are experienced men and it will be only by the utmost endeavor that the Oregon team will win.
