

Cohn Wins Over Bliss; Moves to Handball Finals

Sorsby, Gabriel Combine Too Strong for Cohn, Long, Saturday

Boat Waiting for Those in Losers' Side to Get on

Like the man who just missed getting married because the lady said no, Jack Bliss, Babe Ruth's rival on the Oregon baseball team last year, just missed getting into the finals of donut handball because Mel Cohn beat him Tuesday.

Jack started out like a million, taking the first set 22-20 but suddenly flopped to let the black-haired tennis star take the next two 21-3, 21-8.

'Norm' in Bed
This brings the singles tournament down to two men, Mel Cohn and Norman Parker, 1926 champ. Parker is on the sick list now and the match will probably be held over until next week.

Cohn was off form Saturday morning when he and Wilford Long bowed in defeat to Bill Sorsby and Alton Gabriel, in doubles 21-12, 21-15.

Sorsby had his left hand working overtime and with Gabriel's consistent smashes to the floor-boards, Cohn, Long & Company were easy victims.

The doubles title rests between winner of the Leslie, Bliss—Huestis, Parker set-to against Sorsby and Gabriel.

Scramble Due
But before the victorious pair of that scramble can be crowned official champion they must defeat the winner of the losers' bracket. This lies dormant now while do- nut authorities howl for more action. The following matches must be run off this week: Dahl-Mantz vs Giles-Akers and winners versus Taylor and Dallas; Howard and Knutsen are to play Harper and Deifell and Benson and Neer have Scott and Oberteuffer to cope with.

Rice and McAllister will play Bauman and Stott and the winners have a dispute with Widmer and Reinhart to settle.

Colloquium

work at the end of the sophomore year affords an opportunity to discourage even to the point of withdrawal certain students whose record during the first two years has given no convincing proof of ability to profit by University instruction.

Believing that any drastic scheme of rejection would not at present meet with approval either of the student body or the state at large, the committee's proposal takes form of denying upper division privileges (and the receipt of a bachelor's degree) to any student who has not made approximately three-fourths of his hours with a grade above V or who has for two terms or more failed to make nine hours a term.

The committee proposes to give even such a student, however, a chance to redeem himself by making a record of 3.5 with a normal load for two terms, thereby qualifying himself to proceed toward a degree.

II. Organization of Honors Work
To provide for the organization of honors work on a more definite basis the committee proposes to create a permanent Council on Honors Students, consisting of nine members to be appointed for a term of three years by the president. An executive officer is provided for by the election of a chairman and the registrar is designated as ex-officio secretary. The legislation also provides for an honors faculty consisting of all instructors giving work in conformity with the policy of the honors council. This body will from time to time be called into conference and will assist in formulating policies affecting honors courses or the privileges extended to honors students. The existing honors system is not scrapped but assimilated into the organization so far as it is consistent with the policies of the newly created council.

III. Administration of Honors Work

In the sections dealing with administration the committee has not attempted to define rigidly the powers and duties of the honors council or prescribe in advance rules and regulations governing the conduct of honors work. It has attempted to define broadly and set up safeguards against the abuse of the honors privileges either by students or instructors. The council is given power to prescribe criteria for the selection of honor students, to use all legitimate means in fostering a spirit of independent study in the direction of doing more work in the students' own way, to encourage the establishment of comprehensive examinations given under the auspices of schools and related departments, such as the natural science groups or social science groups, and intended to test the mastery of a field of knowledge as broad as an honor student is expected to cover. On recommendation of department head and the honors council certain upper division requirements may be waived in case they interfere with the pursuit of a specialized field of study which seems worthy of encouragement by the department and the honors council. It should be noted that none of the lower division requirements are to be waived and that honors students are to be held for the 186 hours necessary for graduation.

The committee believes that the faculty will be willing to grant a large measure of freedom to the honors council in promoting a new system of instruction applicable to a group of students carefully selected on the basis of high school records, mental tests and distinction honorably won in two years of lower division work. In making such selections the honors council will be expected to utilize all the records of the registrar's office and the data compiled by the personnel committee. The supervision and extension of honors privileges will be at all times in harmony with a program in which the faculty has manifested a continuing interest and to which, the report assumes, they will be willing to give their sanction.
