

Cronise, Albany Editor, Elected Conference Head

Banquet for State Guests Ends Newspapermen's Annual Meeting

Prize to be Awarded for Best Editorial

In the election of officers Saturday noon during the closing session of the Oregon Newspaper Conference Ralph R. Cronise, editor and co-publisher of the Albany Democrat-Herald, was elected president and George S. Turnbull, professor in the school of journalism, was re-elected secretary of next year's conference.

More than 100 editors and their wives were guests of the student body at a banquet Saturday noon, which formally ended the conference. Sol Abramson, editor of the Emerald, was toastmaster.

Hal E. Hoss, of the Oregon City Enterprise, explained the plan for selecting ten outstanding editorials each year to be printed in a memorial book form, and a committee was named to work out plans for the Harvey Scott Memorial contest. A prize will be given to the best editorial from the Oregon press each year.

Biggs, Alderman Talk
Hugh Biggs and Henry Alderman spoke at the banquet.

"Improving the News Coverage of the Country Field" was discussed by Chester A. Dimond, editor of the Newberg Graphic, in the opening session Saturday morning. He emphasized the value of country correspondence and farm notes to a country newspaper.

Dean Collins, of the Portland Telegram, pointed out the difference between propaganda and publicity in his talk on "Propaganda and Its Antitoxins." "A liberal quantity of frankness and obstinacy, a large and commodious waste basket, and an income sufficient to live upon, independent of the newspaper business" he recommended to editors as the only antitoxins for malignant propaganda.

Ignore suggestions of small-town types who attempt to dictate to the paper, and stay out of petty quarrels, was the advice of Mrs. May

Johnson, editor of the Madras Pioneer, who talked about "Getting Human Interest into the Weekly Paper."

Committee Named
Frank Jenkins, editor of the Eugene Morning Register, discussed cost-finding systems and advocated the appointment of a committee to work out a uniform cost-finding system for all Oregon papers. A committee consisting of Jenkins, Lee Drake, editor of the Astoria Budget, Elbert Bede, Cottage Grove Sentinel, H. L. St. Clair, Gresham Outlook, Edgar McDaniel, North Bend Harbor, and H. B. Cartledge, McMinnville Telephone-Register.

The Ben Franklin Club of the Willamette valley met at a banquet at the Anchorage Saturday night. Z. K. Kimball, president of the organization, presided, and Dr. John Henry Nash, famous printer of San Francisco, was the chief speaker.

Physical Education Majors Hold Varied Positions Over States

Varied positions are held by former physical education majors, according to letters received by Miss Florence D. Aiden, head of the department.

Charlotte LaTourette, '25, is planning to study in New York City next year. Her present position is with the San Francisco Y. W. C. A. as an instructor in the physical education department.

A promotion from an elementary school to junior high school after three weeks of work, was the good fortune of Irva Dale in Detroit, Michigan. Her students are of all nationalities, Polish, Ukrainian, Roumanian, Hungarian, negro, and a few Scotch and English.

Regina Devault also has foreign students in her classes in the Fowler Union high school, Fowler, California. About half of the school includes Armenians, negroes, and Japanese, she says, and this constitutes one of their hardest problems in student management.

Not all of the graduates are teaching. Esther Pike is taking orthopedic work in the Walter Reed hospital, Washington, D. C. This is the army medical center, and nurses from there are transferred to other places over the United States. Miss Pike will stay in the hospital until April, when she may go into civilian or government, she is undecided which.

Society

By HELEN SHANK
With the end of the term imminent there comes a lull in the hustle and bustle of college social activities, and the few frivolous thoughts which still linger in the minds of joy-loving students are concerned with plans for vacation festivities. At the same time the campus has been filled with visitors, and with the championship basketball series, the Oregon State Newspaper Conference, and the Symphony Orchestra concert the past week has been a busy one.

An interesting event of Sunday morning was the wedding of Miss Isobel Hawkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hawkinson, to Beldon Babb, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Babb of this city, which took place at the Episcopal church here at nine o'clock. The bride was unattended and guests included members of the immediate family only. Directly following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Osburn hotel, after which the couple left for a short motor trip through California.

Both were former students here. Mrs. Babb was a member of Chi Omega and Mr. Babb is affiliated with Beta Theta Pi. They will make their home in Eugene.

Active members of Thespian, freshman women's honorary society, were hostesses on Saturday afternoon from three to five at the College Side Inn. Honor guests were the Thespians of last year, who are now sophomores. Bridge and dancing were enjoyed during the afternoon, and a number of delightful features were given, including piano solos by Myrabelle Palmer, several songs by Glenna Haycock, president of Thespians this year, and a clog dance by Helen Peters. Place cards in the shape of the letter T, the Thespian pin, and clever favors stood at each place.

Miss Beatrice Locke of Portland, visiting delegate of Gamma Phi Beta, spent the week-end at the chapter house here. Several informal affairs were planned for her pleasure.

Members of Delta Gamma sorority sponsored a benefit bridge tea dance at the Campa Shoppe on Saturday afternoon. A number of town and campus friends enjoyed the affair, some coming at two o'clock to play bridge, and others calling at four o'clock for tea and dancing. The Kollege Knights of the Campa Shoppe furnished the music.

Miss Ruth Corey was hostess on Sunday afternoon from four to six at her apartment on Emerald street for the Seven Seers. Emerald feature writers. After tea was served a meeting was held at which plans for the Seven Seers dance next term were discussed. Those present were Paul Luy, Donald Johnson, Joe Sweyd, John Butler and the hostess.
