

"Fantastique" Is About Golliwogs And Such Things

Bored Princess and Ugly Dwarf That Kills Self Form Pivot

School Children to See Matinee of Drama

It's the birthday of the Infanta, and entertainers have come from far and near to amuse her—an African juggler, a Punch and Judy show, the golliwogs, the gypsies, dancers, and the knave of hearts—but it is only the little ugly dwarf who interests her. Such is the situation of the "Fantastique" in the Dance Drama to be given at the McDonald theater April 7.

Everyone laughs at the dwarf except the princess, so she sends them all off, and listens while the dwarf tells her of his life in the forest. As he talks his words come to life in the back of the stage—the wind dances, the dances of spring, of summer, of autumn, and of winter. But the Princess is spoiled, and she is soon bored, and leaves the little dwarf alone.

Dwarf Plays Part
But, he has never had a friend before and grieves that she should leave him. In trying to find his way into the palace, he accidentally reveals a mirror, and for the first time sees himself as he is,—ugly and repellent. So he dies, heartbroken.

The costuming and staging for the Dance Drama are practically completed, according to Miss Lillian Stupp. Several girls stayed over during spring vacation and worked upon the properties and costumes. Every girl is making her own costume, after having been given the material and instructions.

Tickets at Co-op
Tickets will be on sale at the Co-op and the Eugene Music Store, as well as at each of the women's living organizations.

A special performance of part of the Dance Drama will be given on the afternoon of April 7 at four o'clock for the school children of Eugene. Coupons are being given at the various schools for this special presentation.

Doris Helen Patterson will play the harp in place of Emily Williams, who was recently hurt in an accident.

Two Are Penalized For Cheating During Winter Examinations

Cheating in the recent final examinations was the subject of a short meeting of the student advisory committee, composed of a number of the faculty, yesterday morning, and as a result the following penalties were assessed:

Fifteen term hours of University credit were taken from one student as a penalty for copying from a neighbor in a final examination. The customary penalty of suspension from the University for one or more terms was modified in this case because of the excellence of the previous record and other extenuating circumstances of the student.

A fine of four term hours of University credit was imposed on one student for assisting another in cheating. The student in this case did not receive any assistance in his own work.

number will be followed by Freddie West, the carolling baseball player and expounder of high finance, who will scratch his banjo and sing songs which will not be cramped by the presence of ladies.

The next number will be Richmond Hurd and Walter Jones in their sister act on the banjos. This act will be trailed by Dave Mason, all around athlete, and Harold Kelley, cinder artist, who will entertain with the combined charms of the banjo and the cazoote. Kelley, by the way, plays the cazoote.

What's This Mean?

The climax of the evening comes with the three-play, died-in-the-wool, non-shrinking, double-back-action tumbling act perpetrated by Gower, Richmond, and Wetzel. Wetzel is the best known of the three. He gained his fame, however, by pantomiming "the swallow returns."

Other fast acts are being booked, but word has been sent out that every one who can play anything from a piccolo to a pipe organ is invited to appear for a tryout.

Contrary to the usual method of forcing the guests to wait until the end of the amusement before partaking of food, the spectators and spectators will be served cider and doughnuts as soon as they enter the igloo and there are no laws against repeats.

Prof. Fairbanks Wins Fellowship To Study Abroad

Success in Sculpture Gains Notice of Guggenheim Foundation

Avard Fairbanks, professor of sculpture, has been awarded a year's fellowship abroad, in whatever field of study or research he may choose, by the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial foundation. The award was made in recognition of "unusual and creative ability in the fine arts," and is one of about fifty. Fairbanks was selected from several hundred applicants.

The John Simon Guggenheim Memorial foundation was established by ex-United States Senator and Mrs. Simon Guggenheim, as a memorial to a son who died April 26, 1922, and was founded "in order to improve the quality of education and the practice of the arts and professions in the United States, to foster research, and to provide for the cause of better international understanding."

Selection of Mr. Fairbanks as one of the fellowship recipients is a result of national recognition of some of his pieces of art, including "The Doughboy" which has been adopted as a world war memorial by the state of Idaho and erected in heroic size in Moscow and St. Anthony; the Old Oregon Trail medallion; the service memorial at Oregon Agricultural college; and the service memorial at Jefferson high school, Portland.

Fairbanks is a graduate of the He was a student of Beaux Arts in Yale University school of fine arts.

Paris, and has studied at the Arts Student League, New York. He is a member of the National Sculpture society, and of the American Federation of Arts. Before coming to the University six years ago, he was engaged in sculpturing in Salt Lake City, Utah, and in Honolulu.

urday afternoon, 1:30 to 5:30, second women's chorus tryout. The final elimination contests will be arranged on Monday and Tuesday.

Character try-outs will consist of reading small parts, demonstrating the voice, and stage presence. The chorus will be judged on the merits of their ability of dance and the testing of the voice individually and in concert work.

Benoit McCroskey, chairman of the Junior Revue, urges all students to try out. "Come whether you have had experience or not. Let the judges decide your capabilities."

Former Student Flees From Nanking, Word

Dr. Helen Brenton Pryor, a graduate of the University in 1919, and formerly of Eugene, infant child, and her mother, Dr. Mary Brenton, are among the refugees who have fled from the danger zone of Nanking to Shanghai, China, according to an A. P. dispatch. Mrs. Pryor was active in cam-

Dear freinds:

When your watch begins to show symptoms of rheumatism and general debility, just bring it to Mr. Skeie.

He is a real watch doctor. I've seen him perform operations on watches here at the store that looked absolutely hopeless. But he has them ticking away like new in a few minutes.

It takes a steady hand and a good eye to fix a watch. Bring in your ailing time pieces to the watch hospital here and have them cured. Mr. Skeie says, "No cure, no pay." That's fair enough.
