Winter Term Steals Majority of Formals

April Frolic and Smoker First Big Events

THE heavy winter term schedule of social activities on the campus has given way this term to a lighter program of informal dances, track and tennis meets, and baseball games. There are fewer formals listed, and the calendar is filled out with the April Frolic, Men's Smoker, tea and breakfast dances, dance drama, concerts, bazaars and religious conferences.

Play Within a Play, Plot of Comedy Produced at Guild Theater

Drama Scheduled for Two Nights on Campus

Senior Company Cast for Presentation

THE "Torchbearers," by George Kelly, the comedy to be produced by the senior company at the Guild theater tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15, is a story of a group of elite society people who decide to produce a play for the "poor, suffering seamen" of the Seamen's Institute.

Thus, this is a play within a play. The production for the sufferers benefit had been ready for staging once before but the death of the husband of the leading lady, Katie Buchanan as Clara Sheppard, comes at a most inopportune moment.

"Torch" Is Culture

Mrs. Ritter, Etha Jeanne Clark, steps in. The self appointed director, Mrs. Pampinelli, or Althea Dwyer, says of the matter that "whenever the torch of essential culture is raised there had unfailingly been the concomitant example of human life and in the words of Lincoln, 'that we should die rather than see ideals of art perish."

The rehearsals start, and except for a few minor difficulties such as forgetting lines, and having wrong play goes on in spite of "unfortunate interruptions." More Husbands Lost Besides the characters mentioned there is the langorous, bored, uninipate this year taking part next as are published.
