POLICE ARE ACCUSED OF HAVING PUSHED MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS INTO PLAYERS' MOUTHS WHILE BREAKING UP THE SERENADE.

Gosh! We'd hate to have been playing the bass drum.

This is an action picture of the fracas. The police forward wall had been repeatedly breaking through and throwing the Oregon players for a loss. In the third quarter a second string fiddler was sent in and this action shot shows him running behind perfect interference for a gain for first down. On a delayed punt, the fullback sax player stepped back and threw a pass to the banjo player, but the ball was knocked down by one of the fast police guards. The bass fiddler recovered the ball and tried to make five yards more, but the inspector blew his whistle and the teams left for the lockers.

Divorced are Mr. And Mrs. Lee; He bought front seats To Gay Paree.

It seems that most of the criticisms of the show are directed at the costumes. Tonight we will see if there is anything to them.

TODAY'S MILL RACE CANDIDATE

The prof who comes into class exactly four and three-quarter minutes after the bell has rung.

Above is the last photograph of Abdul Eardrum, who has recently been circulating a petition to have the doors of the Springfield post-office locked in the evenings so that their slamming will not disturb the police in their hunt for disturbing serenaders. Mr. Eardrum is also advocating maxim silencers for roosters, claiming that they run unfair competition to the efforts of serenaders. Train crews, after screeching hours, must push their trains through the sorority district, and no whistles will be tolerated. Ambulance and fire department calls, unless ordered by the victims, must wait until morning.

TODAY'S GEOGRAPHICAL ANSWER

"What is the big noise in the serenading party?"
 "Oh, Juneau," (and she laughed, etc., etc.)

Frosh Ben Dover says his idea of irony is charging a mustache-cup to the frosh class.

CO-ED COUNCIL

Dear Aunt Seerah:
 My roommate has two millionaires' sons trying to get a date with her. Both of them have Lincoln sedans. She turns both of them down continually. What can I do?
 ANXIOUS.

Dear Anxious:
 You had better call in an alienist right away before she becomes violent. Maybe I can help you. What are the boys' addresses?
 AUNT SEERAH.

Desperate efforts are being made by the A. S. U. O. to have Friday's test case transferred to McArthur Court, as a part of the celebrities lecture series. First, efforts were made to have the court room enlarged to hold the extra crowd, but the county fund for the Humane Society had been overdrawn as it was, and they were refused. It is still uncertain whether or not student body tickets will grant admission. If the efforts of the A. S. U. O. fail to bring the court to McArthur, the Seer gridgraph will flash the reports play by play.

No Matter How Much You Learn

YOU KNOW ONLY SO MUCH AS YOU REMEMBER. Your mind will obey you just in proportion to the requirements you place upon it if you give it a chance. You can always remember if you train your mind to serve you when and as you want it to serve. You can think and talk better and clearer with training that will take but a few minutes of your time. Prof. M. V. Atwood, formerly of the N. Y. College of Agriculture at Ithaca, now Editor of Utica Herald-Dispatch wrote: "I have all memory courses and yours is the best of the lot. You owe it to the public to publish it in book form." In response to this and other demands this course has been issued in a handy little volume to fit your pocket and the cost is but Three Dollars postpaid until December when Five Dollars will be the price.

Dear Friends:
 I want to write this to the boys of Eugene and vicinity.
 The next time Dad asks you why you were tardy at school, just tell him you need a watch. How can you be expected to get to school on time and then back to your meals on time, if you haven't a watch.
 So, I'd suggest that you have a little conference with Dad and make this matter plain to him. You can tell him, too, that Mr. Skeie has some boys' strap watches that keep perfect time and cost only $3.50 to $10.00.
 Yes sir, every boy needs a watch, and this store is the place to find it.

Say It With Figures

TOMORROW will be launched officially by the A. S. U. O. a "drive to end drives." Economy of money, time and effort are the recommendations for this comprehensive philanthropic campaign.
 Just what constitutes a charitable organization proved a poser for the committeemen in charge, but they have finally compromised on four beneficiaries.
 There has been, we believe, in the promotion of the campus chest idea, disregard of an important factor. And that is, in the official assumption of the responsibility for solicitation, the administrators have been unconscious of the obligation devolving upon them.
 If the student administration of the University takes over the functions formerly performed by various organizations, passes on the eligibility of these organizations to a portion of the proceeds, sets the figure to be solicited and the ratio of its apportionment, the student administration also should be willing and able to show the students wherein the advantages lie. And they should say it with figures.
 Three thousand dollars is the avowed goal of the driveeets. This sum is to be distributed between four organizations—two campus and two off-campus. The merits and the motives of the organizations are unquestioned, but as to the legitimacy of their claims to student support we are in the dark.
 If the sponsors of the campus chest were to approach the students with an appeal for three thousand dollars with an unequivocal recommendation of the organizations named, with the amount each was to receive clearly budgeted to show why their demand was justified, the case would stand in a different light entirely. But as it is, who knows?
 Permission to publish this budget of the campus Y. M. C. A. has been refused by those in charge of the drive. Whereabouts and availability of other budgets which are bases for campus canvassing are undetermined.
 The Emerald has confidence aplenty in the ability of those conducting the drive, and in their integrity as well. But before Oregon students, most of them family-supported, dig down in their pockets for three thousand dollars, it's only fair that they be shown what it is all about.

Stereotyped Morbidity And Prurience

MANY University men and women who heard Judge Lindsey's innocuous speech have been cast into disrepute through the absence of a few little quotation marks.
 When the Emerald commented after the lecture here, it innocently quoted from Rev. Mr. Clark's sensational advertisement:
 The "morbidity crowd" moved by prurient curiosity" that crowded the Woman's building
 Soon after, the Emerald was flattered to note the appearance of its effusion in the Eugene Guard. But here it was amended and the quotes were absent. Whether they jarred upon the sensibilities of a creative linotype operator or whether they were considered impertinent by a blue-penciling editor has not been learned. The message sped on its way and applied the infamous label to those who are anything but morbid and whose motivation is as crystal pure as a mountain water-fall.
 The editor of the Albany Democrat-Herald read the Guard's editorial. He read of the crowd made morbid by the Guard's little error and became concerned about the wholesomeness of the University environment for Oregon's youth at such a time. The Democrat-Herald says:
 Yet there are some angles to the event, as we glean from the Emerald's comment, which go to show that the delivery of the judge's address within the portals of the State University was ill-advised.
 In the first place, it was a "morbidity crowd, moved by prurient curiosity" that heard the lecture. Young college men and women probably formed a large cross section of the audience. We wonder, really, what effect the discourse will show on them. We are wondering, too, if our young people shouldn't be surrounded by more wholesome influences.
 We are happy to be able to assure The Democrat-Herald that if the students who attended the lecture are, as a group, morbid and pruriently propelled it's entirely through the absence of quotation marks—or, perhaps, in the eyes of the Rev. Mr. Clark.

Homecoming

 reets this phase of the program, will, sometime during the week, make talks before the Lion club, the Rotary, the Kiwanis and the Chamber of Commerce to urge the merchants to do their own decorating. Formerly the students arranged the displays in the windows, but it is thought that the best results would be obtained by leaving the initiative in this line entirely with the business men.
 Both depots will be decorated by the railroad people. There will be a special booth at each depot which will be held open during the entire time of the influx to give out information to alumni. Efforts will be made to give some real service in transportation. Present plans provide for four automobiles at each depot to meet the visitors, and there will be some who will have cars of their own. Cars scheduled for the use of the alumni will have signs on them to designate their use.

 For the Homecoming game many features have been planned by Joseph Holaday, who heads this work.
