

Oregon Students Start Beaver Fight; Noise Parade To Feature In Rally

Oregon Team Is Confident Of Victory

Webfooters Are Eager to Meet Beavers At Homecoming

Big Game Tomorrow Will Be Hard Fought

Charles Williams Is on Infirmary List

By JOE PIGNEY
A pugnacious flurry of green-clad Oregon football warriors bristled around Hayward field last night in final preparation for a mighty Homecoming battle with the Oregon Agricultural College tomorrow at 1:30.
The Webfooters are intent upon a victory, and are in the right mood to realize their hopes. Although last night's practice session was a light one in comparison with the workouts during the first part of the week, the spirit of the Oregonians was at the same boisterous and energetic peak with which they will tackle the Aggies in the Armistice Day classic.

McEwan Is Confident
Coach John J. McEwan is more confident of a victory over the Beavers than he has been before any other conference game of the season. Providing it does not rain tonight, Hayward field will be in the most advantageous condition for the fleet Oregon backs, according to McEwan. The Webfoot gridiron drains rapidly, and the water leaves the sawdust packed hard and smooth.

Charles Williams, backfield man, is the only casualty that is seriously handicapping the strength of the Oregon team. Williams is in the infirmary suffering from an attack of flu. He is one of the hardest workers on the squad, and it will take a very serious illness to keep this fighter from tearing off a piece of Beaver meat.

Mason and Burnell at Halts
George Burnell and Dave Mason will probably start the contest at the halfback positions. Burnell's ability needs very little comment, and if he is "right" the Aggie defenders will have to be exceedingly alert to stop his wide end sweeps. "Speed" is an accurate pass receiver and a good interference runner.

Mason has improved rapidly since the first of the season, and, as he is only a sophomore, much will be expected from him during the next two years. Mason is not an extraordinary ground gainer, but he is consistent. He is an excellent de-

Co-Eds and Professors Gamble On Beaver Onslaught Outcome; Syring Scientifically Spills Dope

It's the "burning question of the hour"—the outcome of the orange Beaver's visit to the campus. In fact the hangers-on around the fraternity fireplaces have been holding some heated discussions (the co-eds don't rate right now) and even said co-eds have opened up their savings banks and tossed in their money along with the gamblers. Professors may not have fireplaces or savings banks—but even they have ideas. And here's the dope, gossip or rumor. Call it what you will and then ask me another.

"Tell me. Is there anything in luck. I mean in connection with a game like Friday's?"
"And Professor Howe of the English department, executive council, etc., etc., promptly replied.

"There is no such thing as luck, strictly speaking. But the team seems in good shape (probably in better shape than the students) and if the students get behind the players, they will go through alright."
Bill Iggerty, P. I. P. editor of this publication, when asked a civil question on the outcome of the game, said, "Betting odds favor

Ticketless Will Be At Game, k Beneficial

"Once an Aggie, always an Aggie" with me. Marion McClain, manager of the student Co-operative store, is very indignant because the Emerald in a story yesterday said that he urged all students to get tickets for the O. S. C. game early.
"I did not say O. S. C. They have been Aggies to me for 25 years and still are, and will always be." Mr. McClain graduated from Oregon 21 years ago. He says that in those days it wasn't always a "be nice and gentlemanly" policy but that there was much conflict between the two schools.

There will be half the Oregon student body outside the folds tomorrow when the Oregon varsity meets the Beavers on Hayward field, according to the student ticket manager. Today is the last opportunity for an exchange of the student body ticket for a gridiron duet. The Co-op will be closed Friday, Armistice day. Jack Benefield says that no student will be admitted unless the exchange has been made. No charges for the football ticket.

Ignaz Friedman To Present First A.S.U.O. Concert

Brilliant Polish Pianist Will Appear Tuesday, November 15

Ignaz Friedman, Polish pianist, the first artist on the year's A. S. U. O. series, will appear in concert at the Woman's building Tuesday, November 15, at 8 p. m. Students may gain admission by presenting their student body tickets. Members of the faculty and the general public may purchase tickets at the Co-op, Laraway's, or the A. S. U. O. office.

The program, which will include one of Friedman's own compositions, follows:

- Sonata C Minor, Op. 3.....Beethoven
- Twenty-four Variations, and Fugue on a theme of Haendel.....Brahms
- Berceuse.....Chopin
- Valse C Sharp Minor.....Chopin
- Four Studies.....Chopin
- Soiree dans Grenade.....Debussy
- Second Viennese Dance.....Friedman
- Hark, Hark the Lark.....Schubert-Liszt

The Chopin group is of particular interest because Friedman has been acclaimed by leading critics as a master interpreter of this composer. Even in the Etudes, which

Forty Alumni Expected at Initial Meet

Two o'Clock Is Time Set For Convention; Guild Hall Setting

Delegates Are Elected From State Districts

Alums to Dine, Then Join In Rally

Delegates to the alumni convention have been elected by all the districts of the state, and about forty representatives are expected, according to Jeannette Calkins, secretary of the alumni association.

The alumni convention is novel for the University of Oregon, but it has been highly successful and popular at other institutions. Meetings will be held in Guild hall and the first session starts promptly at two o'clock this afternoon. F. G. Young, president of the alumni association, will be the presiding officer and Jeannette Calkins will act as secretary.

Bealar to Speak
Delegates are to register in the Administration building on their arrival and they will be given special green tags to distinguish them from the other alumni, who will wear yellow badges.

Donald Bealar, president of the student body, will welcome the delegates, and Dr. James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of literature, science and the arts, will address them in the absence of Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University, who is in the East. Dr. Gilbert will speak on the plans and aims of the school.

This evening, delegates will gather at the Anchorage for dinner, and afterward they will join the students at the rally.

Districts and Delegates
The districts who have elected their representatives and the delegates are:

Multnomah—Dr. Fred Zeigler, Chester Moores, Wm. M. Calk, Jr., Beatrice Locke, Jennie Huggins, Dorothy Fliegel, and Stan Anderson, all of Portland.

Lane—Ed. F. Bailey, Junction City; Judge E. O. Potter, Mrs. Ruby Goodrich, and Lynn McCready, of Eugene.

Baker and Grant—James T. Donald, and Henry McKinney, Baker.

Clatsop and Columbia—M. R. Chessman, C. W. Robison, Astoria.

Cos and Curry—William Coleman, Myrtle Point.

Jackson—Marie Myers Bosworth, Larry C. Mann, Medford.

Jefferson, Crook and Deschutes—Jay H. Upton, Bend.

Malheur and Harney—Mrs. Helen Dillman, Burns.

Sheehan, Gilliam, and Wheeler—Mrs. Clare Yoran Smythe, Arlington. Tillamook and Yamhill—Arne Rae, and Bernard McPhillips, Tillamook.

Union and Wallowa—Mrs. Hazel Barta Peg, La Grande; Harold Hamstreet, Enterprise.

Benton—E. L. Getz, Corvallis.

Wasco—Clarence R. Ellis, The Dalles; Ed Ward, Dufur.

Some of the delegates are unable to attend the convention, but they have authorized someone to act as their proxy.

Two Football Players Infirmary Patients

Even the infirmary officials are co-operating with the ol' Oregon spirit. Charles Williams, sophomore major in business administration, and a back on the varsity eleven, is in the infirmary with a bad cold. Every possible effort is being made, however, so that he will be able to play in Friday's game. George Lowe, a member of the freshman football squad, is in the infirmary with an arm infection, but he will be well able to play Saturday.

Beer and Pretzels Will Be Plentiful At Jamboree Saturday

"And a good time was had by all." That is a trite phrase that is not allowed in good newspaper circles and all good journalists condemn it. However, that is what they will all say next Sunday after the Journalism Jamboree—a d that isn't half—so will other students on the campus who are invited.

Claudia Fletcher, president of Theta Sigma Phi, women's professional journalism sorority, states that plans are nearly complete for the event. "If it is like past 'jams' it will be most picturesque, the liveliest, and the best dance of the year," she said.

Birch beer and pretzels will be the refreshments, serpentine tape will be strung from "ear to ear," and many novel ideas in dances, and costumes will feature the annual frolic of the future newspaper men and women.

This is the first time that students other than journalists have been invited to the dance. Tickets are selling fast to the annual ball but may still be secured from members of the "Shack" crew.

Order of the 'O' Parade Will Be Friday Feature

Annual March Will Start At 1:15, Just Before Big Game

As has been the custom in the past, just before the opening kickoff of the big Homecoming football classic, the annual letterman's parade will take place, beginning at gate six on the east side of the field and circling the gridiron to the section reserved for the Order of the "O."

The yearly Homecoming parade of all members of the organization, both those active on the campus and the "old grads" of the Order who return, is one of the features of the day's activities, being an especially important event for the lettermen.

Every member of the Order of the "O" now in school is requested to wear his sweater for the occasion. The line will form soon enough to start, circle the field, and get seated in the special section before the game begins. Men should be on hand by 1 o'clock because the game starts at 1:30.

Student body tickets will be required of the members. They do not have to be exchanged at the Co-op for the special tickets but will be accepted at the gate. This exception is made only with lettermen. Members of the Order of the "O" who desire to take advantage of the special reserved section must be at Hayward field at the east gate in time to participate in the march around the gridiron.

Alumni lettermen will head the procession, the present active men of the order following in the rear. Every eligible man should take part, for this parade is heralded to be the biggest of its kind that has ever graced the cinders of Hayward track.

Juniors, Sophomores Win Speedball Games

A slushy field, a slippery ball—the only thing lacking yesterday afternoon when the girls played speedball was a drizzly rain. The juniors walloped the seniors, 15 to 3, in a fast game. The freshmen were licked by the sophomore second team, 12 to 3. It looked as though the freshmen wouldn't score, but in the second half they lived up and made a touchdown.

Last Chance For Oregon Today at Six

Prizes to Be Announced Sometime Next Week By Ron Hubbs

Chi Psi First Over Top Among Fraternities

Gilbert, Smith, Maddox All Confident

The zero hour approaches! The moment when the procrastinating collegiates—if any there be after reading this warning—will be left shivering outside closed booths, Oregonians.

At six today Oregon salesmen sew up their pens and start counting their subscriptions.

"It's now or never, if you want an Oregonian," was the warning voiced yesterday evening by Sam Kinley, business manager. "Any extra copies in the spring will cost at least a dollar more."

Two More Go Over Top
Two more women's houses had gone over 100 percent according to reports yesterday afternoon. They are Alpha Chi Omega and Alpha Xi Delta. Pi Beta Phi went over the top Tuesday.

Chi Psi was the first men's organization to subscribe 100 percent.

"Who'll win the cash prizes?" is the great question now raging among the representatives.

Ronald Hubbs gives. They are settling the dispute with verbal canons and receipt-book ammunition. Awards will be announced by Ronald M. Hubbs, circulation manager, sometime next week.

Banquet Approaching
The big Oregon banquet which will be held in one of the downtown hotels for the winning team, has started a number of foot-strikes already. They are calculated to work up appetites fitting for the occasion.

All three faculty captains of the opposing teams, Warren D. Smith, William P. Maddox, and James H. Gilbert, were, at a late hour last evening, still optimistic about the outcome of the contest.

Joe McKeown, Phil Livesley, and John Cusick refused to take time off for a public statement of their convictions. Dean Creath and Alex Scott, Ron Hubbs' assistants, likewise would not divulge the "inside dope" on which team was ahead.

The Oregonians will be out for Junior week-end this year. The staff wants to put out the finest year-book Oregon has ever had, Mary Benton, editor, declared. All plans and specifications have been worked out with great care. The one thing

Order of 'O' Group To Head Big Rally For Football Game

As in former years the Order of the "O" will lead the rally parade tonight in its annual Homecoming serpentine into the downtown districts. Frank Riggs requests that all Order of the "O" men be at the Sigma Chi corner promptly at 6:30 p. m. He states that it is vitally necessary that every letterman be there as it is their duty to guard the Victory Drum during the process of the parade. All letter men other than those in football be at the Sigma Chi corner at 6:30. Remember.

Dr. Frank Crane To Be Assembly Speaker Today

Ex-Minister Is Successful In Taking Up Career As Journalist

Dr. Frank Crane, the speaker at this morning's assembly, is characterized by the American Magazine as a philosopher, a leader in that school of thought which values happiness above mental depression, and selfmastery above despair.

Dr. Crane was born in Urbana, Illinois, in 1861. After his student days at the Illinois Wesleyan University, he filled several important Methodist pulpits. In 1909 he gave up the ministry to enter journalism, in which field he has achieved a great success. A versatile writer, he has more than a dozen volumes to his credit.

"Education means the subjection of mind and body to such discipline as shall enable one to get the most out of his life, and to use his faculties to the greatest advantage," he said in an article in the American Magazine, in which he described technical training as apprenticeship rather than education.

"If I had gone to the right kind of school and had the right kind of teachers (although I have no idea whether such exist), I might have begun my life's work properly when I was twenty-one. As it was, it took me over forty years to find out the kind of work I could do, and still more important, the kind of work other people thought I could do to such an extent that they were willing to pay me money for it."

In another article in the same periodical, entitled "Why I Am a Christian," Dr. Crane said, "Probably the most important reason for my being a Christian is that Christianity increases life. Whatever makes life strong, sane, courageous, free, and happy is good. Whatever makes life feeble, fevered, wretched, and perverted is bad."

"Stop! Look! Listen!" is a good motto in its place, but its place is before you start," he declared in

Roaring Rally 'Busts' Tonight With Big Noise

Cotton Needed Protection For Tender Ears on Firing Line

'We're Started, Try to Stop Us,' Is Slogan

Fireworks Will Outline 'O' on Butte

Attention! Everybody! Let's go! Tonight's the night of nights. The thirteenth annual Homecoming football game will be fought in a revived Oregon style when the year's big parade—one with more pep, vitality, originality, sincerity—with men, women, young, and old, on their toes and a rarin' to go, assemble on the Sigma Chi corner impatiently waiting for the death knell of the invading, aggressive, Beaver. Tonight, the game will be won by automatic installation of one of the most indomitable, breath-taking rallies Oregon people have ever seen. How glad those old grads will be to see that what they've heard about dormancy is all bunk.

Football Team Rallied

"We're started, try to stop us," will resound from the very hoofs of the parade so strongly that its effect will carry over to the line-backing of the Webfoot eleven tomorrow on Hayward field. Last Thursday at assembly the tide was turned from possible inertia to T. N. T. by unusually stirring rally talks and the very sight of a Beaver which mandered across the stage on its way to Corvallis. Last night the football team was given a rally by the students which wrote indelibly on any inferior complex they might have had that the University of Oregon students are fighting with them and tonight's rally will deepen those marks into crevasses through which the state college bunch will run to one of the most spectacular defeats they ever experienced.

Foremost among the devices to be used in this great rejuvenation program will be the noise machines. They have been revived after a two year's rest and will shake loose their rust at about 7:45 tonight when the rally parade reaches Willamette at 6th and the bonfire is at a zenith of its defiant ascendancy. There will be one machine for every two houses on the campus, making a total of ten noise wagons. Drawings have been made by the fraternities for places in the parade, and the most likable instrument of expression will win a prize, a smoking stand. The judges, a faculty member and two students, are to station themselves along Willamette street, and will announce at the Armory the machine that came the nearest to bursting their ear drums.

The rally bunch will gather on the Sigma Chi corner at 6:45 tonight to begin their march of defiance and warning to the Beaver bunch. The rosters will wear nothing more nor less than old clothes and rooster's lids. Dress suits and powdered noses will look like a brigade of muddy ducks had been walking over them, so it's only fair to suggest that old clothes and a backwards voice are appropriate.

Girls Asked to Help
The Order of the "O" will carry a big drum and beat on it as it leads the parade. Then the band will follow, with the rosters marching in line. The urge is rather unique in practice, but nevertheless, all girls on the campus are to be asked as a matter of help, to follow along on the sidewalks or any place where footage and yardage may be had.

Line of procedure will be down the street to 11th, thence down to Willamette. On the way down torches will be passed out to the rosters. It is especially urged that the students fill their pockets with matches for the torches. Efforts have been made to clear the traffic off Willamette and students can greatly aid by remembering to leave
