

Husky Contest Marks Start Of McEwan Style

'Psychic Flop' Detailed Webfoots at Bottom Of Conference Ladder

By RICHARD H. SYRING Sports Editor

The football season of the University of Oregon is ended. The emerald green jerseys of the Webfoot grid squad have been safely tucked into the moth balls until next season. Four jerseys, with the mud of Washington stadium still clinging to them, have been worn for the last time. Numbers 17, 22, 19, and 12 worn respectively by Captain Beryl Hodgen, Victor Wetzel, John Warren, and Homer Dixon will be worn by new men next year, but the succeeding quartet will not fight any harder than these four did in the annual game with the University of Washington last Thursday. Much tribute has been paid to these wearers of the coveted Lemon-yellow, who gave everything to bring victory.

The 7 to 0 loss to the Washington Huskies, though not an Oregon victory, leaves a sweet taste in the mouths of the Webfoot fans. It marks the beginning of the realization of Coach John J. McEwan's style of play. This fall saw a new system introduced on the Oregon campus; the previous one being discarded because of the new shift rule. The Turkey Day game witnessed the wide sweeping offensive of the Webfoots, mixed with deception, functioning perfectly for the first time this season.

Coach McEwan is still quite elated over the team's showing. "The team played better against Washington than any other time this year. The rushing attack was good and the plays worked with precision. One of the nice things to watch was the tackling of the Oregon team. Hodgen played a particularly fine game as did Wetzel, Warren and Dixon. Mason's work, along with Woodie's and Burnell's, was outstanding. Time after time Mason, who has been playing every position in the backfield, hit Captain Pat Wilson of the Huskies and shoved him back a yard or two," he said.

McEwan pointed out two things which helped account for the unfavorable showing this season. First, the system of attack was new. Secondly, what he claims was a "psychic flop" helped keep the Webfoots at the bottom of the conference percentage column. "The team looked good against the Idaho team but were tired out when they met California a week later. The students saw what the team could do in their first conference tilt, so they were keenly disappointed after the Bear game. The team immediately became discouraged and it has taken practically all season to get the squad out of the dumps," remarked the big coach.

According to McEwan prospects look brighter for next year than any other time since he assumed head grid mentorship. "If the team keeps up the rate they were going against Washington, things will look very good for next fall. We lose only four lettermen and have some wonderful material from this year's freshman team to draw from." The Captain plans to make very few changes in the present system as he explained that there were plenty of strong points when the style was working correctly.

December 9 and 10 will see the Coast Conference meeting in Portland. Oregon has a tentative schedule of six conference games to submit. Coach McEwan would like to

E. Thompson Speaks To Hygiene Students

Elmore E. Thompson, director of the University of Oregon five-year nursing course, and professor of public health in the school of social work of the Portland center of the University, spoke to Dr. Wilmoth Osborn's hygiene class yesterday afternoon on "Nursing Education." She also spoke to Miss Bess Brown's history of nursing class on "Hospitals I Have Visited in Italy." Miss Thompson returned to her headquarters at Salem last night.

Amphibians Prepare Co-eds for Dangers Of Mill Race Season

For ladies who contemplate swimming home from moonlight millrace rides, or for those who may be called upon to save their partners in case the canoe should overturn suddenly, the Amphibian club is giving free canoeing instruction at the swimming tank in the Woman's building, tonight at 7:30.

Past experience, club members declare will bear up the theory that campus women should know how to handle canoes as well as roller skates. Consequently, both faculty women and co-eds will be given a stationary lesson on the side of the pool first, wielding a paddle and getting nowhere. After that, they will be given a canoe and set afloat on the waters at their own peril. If they show promise, the women will then be taught other tricks of the trade, such as boarding a canoe in the deepest water, unassisted by galantry, and another art called "gunwaling," which is a study in balance.

In case the applicants have any energy left after that, the Amphibians will show them how it is possible to pump stale air out of their comrades, without the aid of a barrel.

Art Objects on Sale for Fine Arts Building

Collection Includes Many Pieces Suitable for Christmas Gifts

A large and beautiful collection of imported art objects, ranging from handsome tapestries and hand woven rugs to small brass novelties and pieces of jewelry, will be on display and offered for sale this coming Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, for the benefit of the University Fine Arts building. This sale is being sponsored by the Eugene branch of the American Association of University Women, and will be held at 1026 Willamette street.

These importations have been made by Mrs. Ruth B. Wheeler, a graduate of the University of Oregon, who lived in the Orient for 14 years. While there she bought Oriental art goods for a number of gift and importing shops in the United States.

An especially large collection of small pieces suitable for Christmas gifts will be shown, such as lamp shades, pottery in various sizes, brass antiques, and imported jewelry. Chinese embroidered linen will also be featured, as the present revolution in China led to heavy exportation of these goods in order to prevent their confiscation or destruction by soldiers. At present the soldiers have occupied the workrooms from which Mrs. Wheeler buys her linen, and it is not known when more of this hand embroidered linen can be secured.

Tapestries from Europe, hand-carved Italian walnut picture frames, Florentine gold leaf frames, breath blown glass from South America, scarfs of brilliant coloring woven by head hunters of the Philippines, will all form part of this display of imported goods. All University students are especially invited to visit the display.

World Tour Debaters Lose to Filipino Team

In the third contest of their tour, the University of Oregon world tour debaters were defeated by the University of the Philippines Thursday night by an audience vote, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Manila. The Oregon men upheld the negative of the question: "Resolved, That the United States should immediately grant independence to the Philippine islands." Over 4000 persons attended the debate, the majority of whom did not vote.

The team's next debate will be tomorrow night with the University of Hong Kong. The Oregon boys will take the affirmative of the question: "Resolved, That foreign powers should relinquish extra-territorial privileges in China."

A dinner in honor of Dr. Heymans will be served in the Palm room of the Osborne hotel at 6:30 and the lecture will follow at 8:30 in the chemistry lecture room, McClure hall.

Dr. Heymans gave an illustrated lecture yesterday afternoon before the students and faculty members of Sigma Xi. His subject was "The Cardio-inhibitory and respiratory centers."

Miss Marcia Seeber To Speak at Bungalow

Miss Marcia Seeber, Seabeck division secretary of the Y. W. C. A., will speak at the five o'clock today at the Bungalow. Miss Seeber arrived on the campus yesterday noon and will be here all this week.

Girls who wish conferences with her may arrange for them by calling at the Bungalow. Miss Seeber took over the work this year which was formerly done by Miss Elsie Huller. The visiting secretary has supervision of Y. W. work in Washington, Idaho, and Montana. Her headquarters are in Tacoma. Katherine Kneeland will lead the five o'clock today.

Chinese Refugees Describe Massacre Done by Red Troops

(By United Press) HONGKONG, China, Nov. 28.—Refugees arriving in Hongkong today from Haifung and Lukfung districts in southeastern Kwangtung told stories of wholesale massacres by red troops.

They said more than 800 persons had been put to death in one small town.

All property was confiscated, the reports said. In the future, it was said, the government would get 30 per cent of the crops, the farmers would retain the rest, and the land owners would have nothing.

Chinese strikers in Canton, whom the government has housed there for two years, were ejected from the premises Friday. They began the campaign of terrorism during the week-end.

Handel Oratorio To Be Presented Thursday Night

Main Recitatives and Airs Will Be Included in Presentation

The famous "Hallelujah" chorus will be included in the presentation of the "Messiah" by the Eugene Oratorio society, Thursday evening of this week, in the auditorium of the music building, under the direction of John Stark Evans. This society, which has a membership of 180 University students and townspeople, has been active upon the campus in previous years. Handel's "Messiah" will be its first public rendition of an oratorio, since its reorganization this fall.

The other main choruses to be presented are "Glory of the Lord," "Behold the Lamb of God" and the triple chorus, "Worthy is the Lamb," "Blessing and Honor" and "Amen."

The Handel oratorio is one of the earliest compositions of this form. It was written in 1742 for performance at a Dublin charity concert. Because of the limited choral material and the small orchestra, Handel was obliged to write in a simple four part style, which greatly enhances the fervent quality of the production. Although it has been revised at times, Handel's original work still retains its popularity. The Oratorio, as presented by the Eugene society, follows the original score.

Included in the solo parts are a number of tenor arias, "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted" and "Behold and See If There Be Any Sorrow," which will be sung by Mr. John B. Siefert; head of the voice department in the school of music. The alto arias to be sung by Mrs. Prudence Clark, contralto, are "He Was Despised" and "O Thou That Tellest Good Tidings to Zion," which also has a chorus part. Mrs. Clark will also sing the alto recitative "Then Shall the Eyes of the Blind Be Opened" and in a soprano and alto air "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd" with Madame Rose McGrew. Eugene Carr, baritone, will sing the air, "But Who May Abide the Day of His Coming" and the recitative, "Thus Saith the Lord."

Tickets for the event may be purchased at the McMoran and Washburne store downtown and the school of music. Since all seats are reserved and the seating capacity of the auditorium is limited to six hundred those wishing to attend should purchase tickets early.

Miss Frances Pierce, president of Mu Phi Epsilon, women's musical honorary, will play the organ accompaniment and the "Pastoral Symphony."

Stanford University Study Plan Unpopular

(By Pacific Intercollegiate Press) STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 29.—At no time have more than half a dozen students taken advantage of the independent study plan which was instituted here about two years ago.

The plan has many things in common with the Oxford system and is almost identical with the plan used at Swarthmore.

Applications for Hall Residence Called For

Students who wish to move into the halls next term are asked to file applications at the dean of women's office at once. Applications are being received from all over the state from people who are entering the University in January, so they must be made now to insure hall residence.

League Keeps Liths, Poles From Fighting

Break Looms Over Vilna, Seized by Poland In 1920

Would Suck Russia Into War Whirlpool

Minister Scores Rumor Of Revolt Plots

(By United Press) KOVNO, Lithuania, Nov. 28.—War between Poland and Lithuania is unlikely because both nations belong to the League of Nations, Premier Minister Voldemaras declared tonight.

He referred to the tense situation existing between Poland and his country ever since 1920 when the Poles occupied Vilna, which had been the constitutional capital of the Lithuanian state created by the League of Nations.

Russia Would Fight The Prime Minister declared, however, that in the event of a Polish Lithuanian war, Russia could not remain neutral.

Voldemaras deprecated the alleged attempts of Poland to foment internal rebellion in Lithuania. These attempts, he said, were doomed to failure.

Must Give Up Vilna The Lithuanian dictator insisted—and this was his most emphatic point—that no understanding with Poland was possible without the return of Vilna, which he said was an integral part of Lithuania.

Although Voldemaras still is in power, despite the ultimatum of military garrisons that he resign, negotiations have been looking forward toward peaceful settlement of internal political problems.

Paralysis Rumor Is False, According to University Physician

Thanksgiving came in for its round of casualties, as recorded by the list of infirmity patients, although infantile paralysis has not as yet made its appearance on the University of Oregon campus.

"It's just one thing after another in the case of ailments," the nurse at the infirmity reports. "There were only six patients who ate Thanksgiving dinner within the portals of the infirmity, though more arrived today—probably as a result of too much turkey."

In the infirmity at present are: Vernon White, sophomore major in biology; Francis Mullins, freshman in business administration; Boyd Yoden, junior majoring in German; Stina Rommel, freshman major in education; T. G. Wendolyn Turner, freshman art major; Esther Cranford, sophomore in education. Vernon Miller, sophomore majoring in economics, is rapidly improving from a bad case of pneumonia.

Dr. Fred N. Miller, chief of the University health service, says that there is no truth in the persistent rumor going about the campus that there are from one to six cases of paralysis among the students.

"My phone has been continually ringing," Dr. Miller complained. "People ask about the 'spread' of infantile paralysis on the campus. Sunday a woman called me up and asked me if it were true that there was 'another case' of the malady. I'm getting tired of it. All the rumors are unfounded so far as I know."

Dr. Boynton To Offer New Class in Physics

A new class in general physics (4 a, b, c), will be offered to students entering the University at mid-year, or to those who wish to commence physics at that time. This class, which will be held under the direction of Dr. W. P. Boynton, will be at 11 o'clock, Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Dr. Boynton states that it will be necessary for at least 10 to enroll in this class before it can be undertaken.

Pictures of Group Received by Co-op

Photographs of the student body, taken November 3, are now at the University Co-op ready for delivery to those who have paid a deposit on them, according to Marian F. McClain, director. The price is $1.50.

'Mystery Pudding' Makes Its Debut at Journalism 'Shack'

The mystery pudding, which has been receiving watchful care and attention in the University cooking classes, made its debut yesterday, when a portion of it was sent over to the news staff of the Emerald.

After having "brewed" for several weeks, the pudding was completed with the addition of several spices. Miss Lillian Tingle, who has supervised the production, iced and decorated the pudding and then handed it to the reporter, saying that the "moist fruit cake" was to be presented to the editorial staff with her compliments.

However, she made a special point of the fact that it was to assume the title of "fruit cake" until after it had been sampled. After so many compliments were made by the day editor, reporters, and professors, it was difficult to tell them that the delicacy was the famous "mystery pudding" and not a cake, so they were left in ignorance of the true situation.

O'Neil Tragedy To Be Seen First Time on Campus

Constance Roth To Play Feminine Lead in Production

For the first time in the history of the University a play by Eugene O'Neil is being prepared for production. It is "Beyond the Horizon," and will be given by the Guild Theater Players on December 1 and 2.

"Beyond the Horizon" was the first full length tragedy ever written by the now famous author of "Anna Christie," "The Emperor Jones," "The Hairy Ape," and many other well known dramas, most of which have appeared on Broadway. Only one-act plays had been produced by his facile pen before the first appearance of "Beyond the Horizon."

In this play he wipes out the incidences, the melo-dramatic notes, and the frailties of structure which mark the usual tragedy. It is a powerful and compelling piece of work, dealing in a straight-forward and frank fashion with the destructive action of time upon the character of a young man who makes the wrong decision at the most crucial moment of his life.

The central theme develops about the contrast of two brothers, Robert and Andrew. Robert, the dreamer, the idealist, the adventurous, forsakes his plan for sailing to foreign countries to marry Ruth, a country girl with whom both the brothers have been in love. Everyone has thought her to be in love with Andrew, the older brother. He is a more practical person, and the family is surprised when he sails in Robert's place. From that time the plot develops rapidly.

The leading roles are carried by Constance Roth, as Ruth; Laurence Shaw, as Robert; and Cecil Matson, as Andrew.

Tickets may be obtained from the box office in the afternoon or by calling 142. They will be on sale at 50 and 75 cents.

Schroff Exhibit To Be Shown All This Week

The collection of oil and water color paintings of Oregon scenery by Alfred H. Schroff, which has been on exhibit at the little gallery in the Arts building since last Wednesday, will remain there throughout the week, Nowland B. Zane, chairman of the committee on exhibitions, announced today.

The pictures were hung by Eyer Brown and John A. Walquist of the teaching staff of the school of architecture and allied arts. Their placing, together with the lighting facilities of the University gallery, brings out the color tones and atmosphere of the pictures to best advantage, according to Harry Camden, head of the sculpture department.

Ernst Head of Book Selection Committee

Dr. Rudolph H. Ernst, of the English faculty, has been appointed chairman of the committee to select books for the students of the department who are out for honors.

Other members of the committee are Stephenson Smith, Robert D. Horn, and Kenneth T. Rowe.

The first meeting of the group was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in Villard hall and a second during the evening.

By ARTHUR SCHOENI They didn't shed much more blood in the days of knights than's going to be spilled this week in donut basketball.

All that's left is the shouting, and with only Sigma Nu, Beta Theta Pi, Kappa Sigma and the Sphinx left in the race for the championship there should be considerable.

This gelid afternoon at 4:15 Kappa Sigma battles the noisy Sphinx and Beta Theta Pi takes on Sigma Nu at 5:00. Both games will be played in the men's gymnasium.

Good Teams All four are the winners in their leagues and will play a merry go round tournament to settle difficulties. A couple of torrid games are in store for today. Only one of the quartet has lost a game. The Betas dropped a close game to Delta Tau Delta the other day. The rest are undefeated.

As the donut series progresses a few timid females can be seen scattered among the spectators. They are especially invited to the championship round this week. In the old days the student body turned out in large numbers to view the donut basketball games. Times have changed considerably since then, but the spectators' row is still heavily patronized when the championship is at stake.

Kappa Sigs Have Edge Advance dope and comparative scores would give Kappa Sigma the edge over the rest, but predicting is bad business and this reporter hesitates to incriminate himself.

Schedule of play for donut championships:

Tuesday 29—Men's gymnasium, Kappa Sigma vs. Sphinx, 4:15 p. m.; Beta Theta Pi vs. Sigma Nu, 5 p. m. Thursday, Dec. 1—Men's gymnasium, Beta Theta Pi vs. Sphinx, 4:15 p. m.; Kappa Sigma vs. Sigma Nu at 5 p. m. Saturday, Dec. 3—McArthur court, Sphinx vs. Sigma Nu, 4 p. m.; Beta Theta Pi vs. Kappa Sigma, 4:45 p. m.

Officials to be announced.

University Students Involved in Accident

Helen Hanna, junior in the University and a local girl, was run down while crossing the street at Thirtieth and Perry yesterday noon by a car driven by Monte L. Wolf, student from Portland. Miss Hanna was taken to the Pacific Christian hospital. She received severe head injuries.

Mr. Wolf, who took Miss Hanna to the hospital, reported to the police that he was going at a moderate rate south on Perry and turned east on Thirtieth, when he ran into Miss Hanna, who, he claimed, appeared to stop, and then went ahead.
