Week-End Busy With Conference

Social events the past week-end were limited to the entertainment of high school students visiting on the campus and attending the eighth annual high school conference.

Frosh Glee To Be Saturday Night

Elaborate plans in progress for the Frosh Glee are to be the making of one of the largest dances on the social calendar this term.

Pi Phi's Have Upperclass Dance

Upperclass members of Pi Beta Phi were hostesses at a "Tin Can Alley Ball" Saturday evening, January 14, at the chapter house.

Miss Roberta Wells had charge of the dance and a feature was given during the evening by Miss Mary Byrd and Miss Muzetta Blair.

Much attention is being devoted to "The Road to Rome," a play by Robert Emmet Sherwood, which is to be read at the Music building this evening at 8 o'clock by Ruby Page Ferguson (Mrs. Anthony Euwer).

Edgar Wrightman, who is attending the University of Oregon Medical school in Portland, Donald Peets, Ray Early, and Fred Heitansen, all of Portland, were former students visiting on the campus last week-end.

The date of the open house, to be held by members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon in their new residence on Fourteenth and Alder streets, has been postponed from January 21 to Saturday, January 28.

Miss Grace Vath, Miss Lucille Bowman, and Miss Helen Loomis spent the week-end at their homes in Portland.

Mrs. Glendora M. Blakeley of Portland, and Mrs. M. O. Hawkins and daughter, Miss Betty, of Coquille, were Sunday guests at the Delta Delta Delta house.

Bert Surry, Joe Freck, and Ralph Bates visited in Portland over the week-end.

Miss Dorothy Teepe, a student on the campus last term, left recently from Portland with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Teepe, for San Francisco to sail for a six weeks' trip through the Panama canal to New York.

Miss Maurine Carroll, dean of women at Medford high school, and Miss Ellen Waters, who teaches at Ashland high school, were guests at the Alpha Chi Omega house during the recent high school conference.

Co-eds Turn Drivers To Earn Pledge Money

U. S. C., LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16. — (P.I.P.) — Southern California leads again! Since large cities in the East are establishing taxi systems with women drivers, it follows that the University of Southern California is the first to introduce the original idea in the West.

THE LIFE OF JESUS, by Ernest Renan. New York. Modern Library. 95c.

The writing of a book such as "The Life of Jesus" is truly a stupendous task. It is a work that is attempted successfully probably not more than once in a century.

Renan's "Life" has always been a thorn in the flesh of Catholicism. None, however, could attack its fact; they were forced to declare the author unqualified to write of Him because the author did not admit His divinity.

UNCERTAIN TREASURE, by Helen Woodbury. Boston. Little, Brown & Co., $2.

Since everyone knows that all modern novels end happily, admission might as well be made now that "Uncertain Treasure" ends in a fashion that gives unconfined joy to all concerned.

Barry and Joan have a great time on their honeymoon, but, when they finally come back to earth and Barry has to go back to work for so much a day, brass begins to show through the gold plating of their happiness.

THAT MIND OF YOURS, by Daniel B. Leary, Ph. D. New York. J. B. Lippincott. $1.75.

When a book of technical or semi-technical nature such as "That Mind of Yours" is published by a reputable company, the first question which pops into the minds of critics is, "does the book justify its publication?"

However, viewed from the light of the casual reader, "That Mind of Yours" is not only worthy of publication but actually fills a need. The infant subject of psychology is growing so rapidly that it is of universal interest.

THE GOOD HOPE, by Herman Heijermans. New York. Samuel French. $1.50.

"The Good Hope" is a gripping drama of the sea in four acts, translated into English by Lillian Saunders and Caroline Heijermans-Houwink.

Much more important, however, to the lover of plays is the second effect, an understanding of the character of those who sail the seas and those who wait behind. The men and women which he has cast in the tiny fishing village are little short of masterpieces of character delineation.

THE DEVIL IN THE CHEESE, by Tom Cushing. New York. Samuel French. $1.60.

A trip into the mind of the modern governess-educated girl is cleverly managed by Tom Cushing in his 3-act fantasy, "The Devil in the Cheese." The girl's parents take her to a monastery to get her out of the influence of a lover of whom they do not approve.

In the meantime the party at the monastery is captured by bandits. Jimmy, the lover, arrives by airplane, saves the party, gets the heroine and lives happily—at least until after the closing scene.

ESSENTIALS OF PUBLIC SPEAKING, by Warren C. DuBois, A. M., LL. B. New York. Prentice-Hall. $2.

Warren C. DuBois, author of "Essentials of Public Speaking," has been teaching the art of making an after-dinner speech for the last 14 years—the length of time which such a speech usually seems to last.

CHRISTOPHER MORLEY, by Babette Hughes. Seattle. University of Washington Press. 65c.

This latest issue of the University of Washington Chapbook series is an essay in rhyme in which the author endeavors—and somewhat successfully, too—to justify the descriptive title which she has appended to Morley's name: "Multi ex Uno."

There were in truth many sides to the character of Christopher Morley. In her attempt to portray these the author introduces the reader to a meeting of the Three Cheers for Morley Club, held at an English inn, with good meat roasting and good wine flowing.

Cast Copies of Noted Originals Received By Art Department

Two shipments of casts which are copied from the work of famous sculptors are recent additions to the equipment of the painting and sculpture departments of the school of architecture and allied arts.

A total number of 18 casts, which will be used by elementary classes in drawing and modeling, include a head of Moses copied from the original by Michael Angelo, the well known figure of the Praying Boy, a head of Diana of Versailles, block heads of Voltaire and Brutus, a lion gargoye, figures of hands and feet, several torsos and anatomies of man, and an anatomy of a horse.

Kenneth E. Hudson, of the painting department, and Harry Camdeu and Olive L. Barrett, of the sculpture department, selected the casts.

Other additions to the painting department are the two new studios, one for the elementary drawing classes, and the other for advanced life classes. The drawing studio is lighted with 10 powerful electric bulbs. Classes have been meeting here since the beginning of the term.

Remodelling of the life studio has just been completed, and classes will take up there on Monday. A new studio skylight and 16 strong lights provide for either natural or artificial lighting.
