

Freshmen to Renew Feud At Corvallis

Tilt With Rooks Saturday Expected To Be Hard-Fought Affair

Babe Team Bothered By 'Center-Complex'

Walgren and Dvorak Tried At Pivot Post

Saturday the Oregon frosh journey to Corvallis to renew the hoop feud between themselves and the Aggie rooks which was initiated last weekend in a duckling trimming by a one point margin.

The frosh have a four-game series with the Beaver yearlings and as but one game has been played, the winner of the series is yet a matter of conjecture. The games should be all close, as the teams are evenly matched.

The final two tilts come a week from this Friday and Saturday, the game Friday, February 17, at Eugene, and the one on Saturday, the 18th, at Corvallis.

Rook Team Good

Spike Leslie regards the present Orange rook team as the best to come from O. A. C. in years and expects all three of the remaining contests to be hard fought battles. Pre-season showings of the frosh and the rooks looked to favor the former, as the Oregon babes went through their pre-conference schedule with a clean slate while two Portland prep schools set the Beaver infants down with a loss.

It is evident now, however, that the rooks have improved greatly and have even a smoother working combination than the frosh, who have been ragged in both their conference appearances in McArthur court.

Leslie is working at present to eradicate this fault of mishandling the ball that seems to trouble the duckling basket artists. Scrimmage is also playing an important part in the duckling cage campaign this week in preparation to the week-end trek to the rook strong-hold.

'Center-Complex' Develops

On defense the frosh showed sieve-like tendencies on frequent occasions during the Aggie tilt—although not as bad or as often as in the earlier Washington freshman game. So defense is claiming its share of the practice session in the Igloo each afternoon.

Like the varsity, the yearling squad is showing symptoms of contracting the ailment called "center-complex." Gene Eberhart has been having trouble in getting the tip-off in the last two games and Leslie is trying out Paul Walgren and Ed Dvorak as alternates for him.

The big blonde Walgren and the willowy Dvorak both have a slight edge on Eberhart in jumping and may be able to work in a remodeled lineup for the coming rook tussle.

Calkins Shows Up

Another Webfoot infant who looked like the money in the last tilt was Windsor Calkins, who besides dropping in a couple of field goals when the local yearlings needed them badly, played a good game at guard.

Cliff Horner and Harold Olinger are still holding forth as the most consistent regular performers for the frosh. Woodward Archer and Jerome Lillie are still in the forefront of the competition for berths as is the diminutive Alf Makinen.

(Continued on page four)

Adventure Accompanies Debaters On Journey Through Oriental Lands

Hempstead, Undaunted by Revengful Hebrew, Calmly Films Terrifying Scene

The tale of how adventure and tragedy and near-tragedy rode side by side with the University of Oregon world tour debaters on their jaunt through old Palestine and Egypt was embodied in a letter received by Ray Nash, editor of the Emerald, from Benoit McCroskey at Rome.

By BENOIT McCROSKEY

Hempstead made a side trip from Port Said to Jerusalem to take pictures of the Holy Land, and while he was doing that, Avery and I were "doing" Cairo. To be more correct, it just about "did" us. We found it to be quite a gay and cosmopolitan city with French influence, especially in the matter of language, more apparent than Brit-

Art Rudd, Former Emerald Editor Arrives for Newspaper Conference

Art Rudd, '24, former editor of the Emerald, who is now covering the United States and Canada for the Publishers' Syndicate of Chicago, arrived here last night to attend the annual Newspaper Conference, which will be held Friday and Saturday.

He comes from New York by way of the through California, and will retrace the northern route to New York by way of Seattle, where he will sail May 5 for London. During his vacation he will do special work for the Emerald in a Britannica in the English language.

During his visit Mr. Rudd has visited with several former Oregon students. He is interested in what President Arnold Bennett Hall is doing in the installation of a new president. "Oregon grads everywhere are proud of Old Oregon as a magazine; and as a former Emerald editor I am glad to see how favorably the Emerald compares with other college papers," the former editor stated.

During his visits to over 40 campuses during the past year he didn't find anywhere any higher interest in the fine arts than at Oregon, he said.

Among the Oregon students visited during his travels were: Sol Abramson, former Emerald editor, who is now an associate editor of The New Student in New York; Kenneth Youel, also a former Emerald editor, now a member of the financial staff of the New York Evening Post; John MacGregor, former student body president, who is now studying law in New York; and Alfred Erickson, former member of the Emerald staff, who is at present city editor of the Sacramento Union.

Politically everything seems favorable to Herbert Hoover in a presidential way, in the country Mr. Rudd visited. In the Gulf region the citizens and newspaper people are quite indignant because the government hasn't made more progress with the plans for Mississippi flood prevention, according to the Oregon grad.

Mr. Rudd was editor of the Emerald when it was changed from a six to a seven-column paper and carried a Sunday literary edition. He was a president of the Pacific Interscholastic Press association, and was affiliated with Sigma Delta Chi, Friars, Hammer and Coffin, and Phi Gamma Delta, where he is a guest while on the campus.

Close Finishes Predominate in McArthur Meet

Third Intramural Contest Witnessed by Small Crowd at Court

In spite of the competitive attraction offered by the dime crawl last night, a few spectators were present at the third intramural track meet of this season, held at McArthur Court. No records were broken, but the famous "blanket finish" was prominent in several of the events. The 45 yard high hurdles and 880 run were particularly close. Hendricks, Sigma Chi, won the former by a hair, and Surry, S. P. E., opened a last minute sprint to break the tape in the half-mile.

Chuck Reed, S. A. E., who has had only one year of training in the high jump, won an unexpected victory from McCulloch, A. T. O., when he cleared the bar at 5 feet 10 inches on his third trial. McCulloch topped 5 feet 8 inches but went out at the higher mark.

Following is a list of the events and places:

45 yard dash (final heat)—Pren-dergast, S. A. E., first; Livesley, S. P. E., second; Schaefer, Friendly Hall, third; and Penrose, A. T. O., fourth. Time 5 seconds.

Pole vault—Sowell, first, at 9 feet 6 inches; Hall, S. P. E., second, at 9 feet.

Shot put—Wetzel, Phi Delt, first, with 47 feet 5 inches; Christensen, Fiji, second, at 41 feet 7 inches; Horn, S. P. E., third, with 37 feet 7 inches, and George Hall, S. P. E., fourth, at 34 feet 5 inches.

Mile run—C. Hill, first; K. Neil, Phi Sig, second; Cogswell, S. P. T., third. Time 4:54.

45 yard high hurdles (final heat)—Hendricks, first; Kelly, Sigma Chi, second; and Moeller, Phi Delt, third. Time 6:1.

880 yard run—Surry, S. P. E., first; Cooper, second; and Steel, Friendly Hall, third. Time 2:10.

High jump—Chuck Reed, S. A. E., first, at 5 feet 10 inches; McCulloch, A. T. O., second, at 5 feet 8 inches; Moeller, Phi Delt, third, with 5 feet 6 inches; and Frank Hall, fourth, at 5 feet 7 inches.

(Continued on page three)

Junior Revue Vocal Tryouts Begin Tonight

Assembly of University High School Will Be Judging Place

Last Opportunity for Chorus Parts Sunday

O'Bryant Will Select Rest of Co-eds Then

What: Tryouts for singing parts in Junior Revue.

When: Tonight, 7 to 10.

Where: University Hi Auditorium.

Who: All campus talent, male and female.

And How.

The only opportunity for campus talent to make itself known for consideration for singing parts in this year's Junior Revue will present itself tonight, according to the announcement made by Madge Normile and Boone Hendricks, who compose the committee in charge of the music for the event.

Specialty Acts Wanted

This is not a tryout for aspirants for the chorus, but for those who wish to take a lead or put on a specialty act. This year's Vodvil will be in the nature of a revue, and a large number will be included in the cast. Solos, duets, trios, quartets, or what have you, will be featured in the presentation.

"No experience is needed to try out, and tomorrow night is the only tryout there will be," stressed Hendricks. "It is for both men and women, and we would like to see a good turnout," he added.

"All talent whether displayed on the campus before or not should take this opportunity to start," said Miss Normile, "for we are going to make this the hottest show in the history of Junior Vodvil."

Chorus Tryouts Sunday

Final tryouts for the women's chorus for Junior Revue will be held Sunday afternoon from 2 to 6 at the McDonald theater, according to Billy O'Bryant, chairman of the Revue.

The afternoon has been divided up into half hour periods and all who did not get a chance to try out last Sunday will be given the opportunity then. The list of aspirants from each living organization must be prepared by Saturday noon, when they will be collected.

Representatives appointed to assemble the names of the candidates are: Margaret Lee Shusher, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Dorothy Franklin, Pi Beta Phi; Alyce Dell Johnson, Delta Gamma; Gladys Calef, Alpha Xi Delta; Florence Summerville, Gamma Phi Beta; Edith Dodge, Alpha Delta Pi; Marjorie Seiple, Kappa Delta; Thelma Mellen, Alpha Gamma Delta; Agnes Petzold, Hendricks Hall; Diana Deinger, Three Arts Club; Juanita Dietze, Thacher Cottage; Helen Smith, Delta Zeta; Austa Graves, Oregon Club; and Miriam Shepard, Sigma Beta Phi.

The time allotted to each house is as follows: 2 to 2:30, Kappa Kappa Gamma; 2:30 to 3, Pi Beta Phi; 3 to 3:30, Delta Gamma and Alpha Xi Delta; 3:30 to 4, Gamma Phi Beta and Alpha Delta Pi; 4 to 4:30, Kappa Delta, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Hendricks Hall; 4:30 to 5, Three Arts Club and Thacher Cottage; 5 to 5:30, Delta Zeta, Oregon Club, and Sigma Beta Phi. Anybody not included in the above list may try out from 5:30 to 6.

Strict adherence to the time schedule is urged by O'Bryant, and visitors will not be allowed to witness the tryouts so that there will not be any unnecessary noise. The girls are requested to wear low shoes and suitable dancing apparel.

"We do not expect to discover finished dancers at the tryouts," said O'Bryant, "but we do want to see an honest effort at showmanship among the aspirants. There is absolutely no singing in connection with the chorus tryouts."

Tryouts for the men's chorus will begin the following Sunday.

Bishop Sumner Talk To Be Tonight at 7:30

Right Reverend Walter Taylor Sumner will speak on "Behaviorism" at a meeting for students and faculty members tonight at 7:30 in Alumni hall.

Dr. Sumner makes an annual visit to the campus, and he has spoken before students many times. He is a deep and broad student of sociological problems, and will stress the shifting emphasis of the moral trend at the meeting tonight.

Hoss To Announce Candidacy for State Job at Meeting Here

(By United Press)

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 8.—Hal E. Hoss, private secretary of Gov. E. L. Patterson, admitted today that "it is likely" he will announce his candidacy for secretary of state on a Republican platform at the meeting of the state editorial association in Eugene Friday and Saturday.

Hoss refused to comment further on his plans, but it is understood that if he announces his candidacy he will immediately resign as secretary of the governor.

The candidacy of Hoss for secretary of state has been urged for many months by his friends, many of them newspapermen.

Dime Crawl Brings Approximately $165 To Scholarship Fund

Many dimes crawled. In fact so many that they totaled approximately $165, although the exact count could not be given last night. This is only slightly less than the amount taken in at fall term Dime Crawl, said Mazie Richards, head of the Foreign Scholarship committee, of Women's League, and in charge of the affair, which is sponsored by the League.

Pi Beta Phi, with $16.53, again heads the list of houses in the number of dimes submitted for membership in the Foreign Scholarship fund. Gamma Phi Beta came second with $12.80, with Chi Omega closely following with $12.50.

Miss Richards reports more money from the Crawls this year than in any previous year of Dime Crawling history.

Newspaper Men To Spend Two Days in Meeting

Entire Sessions Will Be Spent in Discussing Editorial Work

The program for this year's newspaper conference, which opens at the school of journalism Friday morning, will extend over a period of two days. Formerly the conference began Friday morning and continued until Saturday noon, but this year it will adjourn Saturday night. This year sessions will be devoted to discussions, whereas in previous years this took place after addresses on papers.

Attendance in the past five years has never fallen below the 100 mark and last year there were seventy newspapers represented with a total of 150 delegates. Practically all the leading papers in the state of Oregon are usually represented.

Saturday the annual student luncheon will be held at Hendricks Hall under auspices of the University. Officers for the conference for the following year are elected and committee reports are read, followed by a musical program.

A chorus of twenty voices from the Eugene Gleemen, the Kiwanis' quartet and Burton's Co-ed Harmonizers will provide music at the banquet to be held at the Osburn hotel at 6 o'clock Friday evening.

Greater Oregon Man To Be Elected Soon By Student Council

The following was passed as a permanent resolution by the student council at its regular meeting last night at five o'clock: "Since heretofore the late appointment of the Greater Oregon Committee, prior to the close of the school year, has not permitted sufficient time for the proper organization of its members and their functions, the president of the student body shall appoint an upper classman as chairman of the Greater Oregon Committee not earlier than the first week in February, nor later than the third week in February. Furthermore, the newly appointed chairman shall select his directorate not later than two weeks after his appointment, who in turn shall immediately perfect the organization of their sub-committees so as to permit the functioning of the entire committee during the spring vacation preparatory to the heavy summer duties."

Due to the action taken by the council a permanent resolution concerning regulation of expenditures for class dances will be prepared. This matter has been under consideration for some time, due to the common opinion that more money than is necessary is usually spent for decorations at such functions.

Erring Frosh Must Report at 10:45 Today

The following frosh report to room 3 of the Administration building this morning at 10:45. Warning! There are several of these men listed below who have been failing to report. Unless they do so tomorrow these men will be dealt with in a "special" way:

Jack Dant, Ralph Hill, Max Rubenstein, Jean Eberhart, Forest McKay, John Reed, Lyle Harrington, Don Devereaux, Russel Keiser, Guy Halferty, Alex Orr, Tom Johns, Tom Balentine, Al Schneider, John Daugherty, Morell Weber, Forrest Giesey—no lids.

Bun Sergeant—Junior sitting on senior bench.

Ted Park—Stepping on seal.

(Signed) TOM STODDARD.

Burt Brown Barker Arrives on Campus To Assume Position

New Vice-President Will Devote Self to Service For State of Oregon; Mrs. Barker Here, Daughter Will Come Later

"I suppose you're wondering why I've come out here to take the vice-presidency of Oregon," smiled Burt Brown Barker as he seated himself leisurely in one of the deep chairs of President Hall's home, shortly after his arrival in Eugene on the nine o'clock train last night.

"As a boy in Oregon, I had the conception that a man should devote his life into three periods. The first twenty-five years in preparation, the second twenty-five in money-grubbing, and the third in some public service."

During his travel in England, Mr. Barker said, he saw men doing just that thing. There many retired business men were entering into politics or using their money to better conditions in their communities.

Ridings Leads Northwest Scorers With 57

Individual Playing Is Hindering Webfoot's Chances for Victory

By RICHARD H. SYRING
Sports Editor

At the expense of the University of Montana Grizzlies, Gordon Howard Ridings, Oregon's scoring ace, jumped into a two-point lead for individual honors in the northern division of the coast conference basketball play. Before Tuesday night's fray Ridings was tied with Cloyse Overturf, Montana forward, for second place with a total of 43 points each. Bill Gordon Ridings Burr, Aggie captain and forward, was leading with 55.

Against the Montanans, Ridings scored six field goals and converted two fouls which gave him 14 points or a total of 57. He leads the Aggie captain by two markers.

Burr and Ridings have played in five games, while Overturf has participated in six. First eight individual scorers are:

Games	Fg	Ft	Tot.
Ridings, Ore.	5	23	11 57
Burr, Ore.	5	23	9 55
Overturf, Mont.	6	24	5 53
Chinske, Mont.	6	14	14 42
McDowell, W. S. C.	6	16	5 37
McMillan, Idaho	5	16	4 36
Snider, Wash.	5	13	8 34
Milligan, Ore.	5	12	9 33

Scotty Milligan, Oregon center and guard, boosted his individual scoring also at the expense of the Grizzlies. Scotty's 11 points against Tuesday night's visitors brought him from 14th to 8th place in the individual scoring column.

The Montana game may have been a disappointment to many fans. It was anticipated by many, that the Grizzlies would be "easy meat," so to speak. Just because the Aggies took the Montanans down the row, 31 to 12, Monday night, does not show and superior team. According to those who witnessed the game, the Grizzly hoopers were having tough luck with their shots and could not connect with the basket.

Oregon's team has been hampered somewhat this season by individual playing. Although Ridings has materially aided in bringing victory by his high scoring, he has also hindered team playing by "hogging" the ball and by dribbling to an excess. Ridings is not the only Oregon player who has done this.

(Continued on page two)

New Basketball Hours, Teams Will Be Picked

The new practice schedule for girls' basketball is: Monday at 5, freshman and senior; Tuesday at 5, sophomore and junior; Wednesday at 5, freshman and sophomore; Thursday at 5, open to all classes; Friday at 5, junior and senior.

It is urged that all girls come out to practice this week as the teams are being picked now and it is thought that games will begin next week.

Daughter of Oregon

The new vice-president told how his daughter Barbara, a girl of 18, now studying at a private school in Orange, New Jersey, was first to encourage him in accepting the Oregon offer. Although he was offered the vice-presidency of a large college with millions for endowment, he decided to come to Oregon to tackle the job that offered him the most in public service.

"If the state wants me bad enough to call me, I am going to that one that gave me my young ambitions and ideas," Mr. Barker decided.

"I'd sooner work five years here and have a decent funeral, than live in luxury for 25 years in New York and die a simp. My ideals and start I got here. Now I return to do a piece of public service."

Likes University Life

"Isn't that logical?" asked the new vice-president with a smile that was irresistible. He took off his glasses, and held them in one hand. "There's nothing strange about the decision I made, for I grew up and trained myself for that very thing."

Mr. Barker was glad that he had found his work among university people. All his life he has kept in contact with student groups, first at Willamette, then at the University of Chicago, then at Harvard. He has trained many debating teams and is himself a founder and charter member of Sigma Delta Rho.

Work Will Live

"This is a great public service institution," said Mr. Barker, in speaking of the University. "It takes care of the boys and girls of Oregon. Every bit of energy I put in here will go on long after I'm gone. Isn't that a comforting feeling?"

The new vice-president is quite tall, has soft grey hair and blue eyes that seem dark and friendly. Ties of boyhood days, which have never been severed, bring him back to Oregon, feeling that he is really acquainted and belongs here. "Why," said he, "your governor has known me ever since I was born."

Likes U. P. in Emerald

Mr. Parker was interested to know if the Emerald office had received his letter in which he had enclosed his subscription payment. "Do you know," he said, "I can write letters that you would split your sides laughing at, but the minute I get on my feet to make a speech I get serious. I guess that is the preacher in me coming to the surface."

"The thing that seemed outstanding to me in the Emerald was the fact that it carried general news of the outside world of real value. It shows that somebody on the staff has been using unusually good judgment in the selection of this news and they are to be commended. Surely if the Emerald is self-supporting, there is no need for such stunting as to cause suspension of the service."

Infirmiry Patients Have Varied Ailments

The University infirmiry continues with its usual ailments of colds, coughs, sore throats, or what have you, at least as long as King Boreas holds forth. There are seven patients among the infirmed at present.

Daughter of Oregon

The new vice-president told how his daughter Barbara, a girl of 18, now studying at a private school in Orange, New Jersey, was first to encourage him in accepting the Oregon offer. Although he was offered the vice-presidency of a large college with millions for endowment, he decided to come to Oregon to tackle the job that offered him the most in public service.

"If the state wants me bad enough to call me, I am going to that one that gave me my young ambitions and ideas," Mr. Barker decided.

"I'd sooner work five years here and have a decent funeral, than live in luxury for 25 years in New York and die a simp. My ideals and start I got here. Now I return to do a piece of public service."

Likes University Life

"Isn't that logical?" asked the new vice-president with a smile that was irresistible. He took off his glasses, and held them in one hand. "There's nothing strange about the decision I made, for I grew up and trained myself for that very thing."

Mr. Barker was glad that he had found his work among university people. All his life he has kept in contact with student groups, first at Willamette, then at the University of Chicago, then at Harvard. He has trained many debating teams and is himself a founder and charter member of Sigma Delta Rho.

Work Will Live

"This is a great public service institution," said Mr. Barker, in speaking of the University. "It takes care of the boys and girls of Oregon. Every bit of energy I put in here will go on long after I'm gone. Isn't that a comforting feeling?"

The new vice-president is quite tall, has soft grey hair and blue eyes that seem dark and friendly. Ties of boyhood days, which have never been severed, bring him back to Oregon, feeling that he is really acquainted and belongs here. "Why," said he, "your governor has known me ever since I was born."

Likes U. P. in Emerald

Mr. Parker was interested to know if the Emerald office had received his letter in which he had enclosed his subscription payment. "Do you know," he said, "I can write letters that you would split your sides laughing at, but the minute I get on my feet to make a speech I get serious. I guess that is the preacher in me coming to the surface."