

Trench Mouth Rumors False, States Miller

Restaurant Is Uninfested By Disease, Despite Malicious Report

Statement Sent to Hall Through Mails

A report, now found to be maliciously false, was circulated on the campus Thursday to the effect that cases of trench mouth existed here and that they had originated in the kitchens of the College Side Inn. The statements asked the students to boycott the establishment, and rumors were soon flying in all directions.

In the following statement, Dr. Fred N. Miller, head of the University Health Service, emphatically denies the rumors.

The University Health Service desires to deny a report which is alleged to have originated in the Health Service concerning the prevalence of trench mouth in the College Side Inn.

It has come to our attention that this noon the following notice was read in Susan Campbell and Friendly halls.

"Numerous cases of trench mouth now prevalent on the campus have been traced to the College Side Inn kitchens. We have asked the management several times to clean the place but every time they have failed to co-operate with us. We can not ask you to stop eating there but we are taking the privilege of telling you that you eat there at your own risk."

This statement was signed "Health Service"—but with no name. It was later learned that this statement came through the mail in a plain envelope and we have been unable to trace the source.

I wish to state that neither I nor anyone associated with the Health Service made any statement to anyone about the prevalence of trench mouth on the campus, and that apparently this is a malicious attempt on the part of someone who is unfriendly toward the College Side Inn.

This is the same sort of story that was started last spring. At that time an investigation was made by the Health Service at the request of the College Side management and no one there was found to have the disease. As it happens there is less of the condition on the campus at the present time than there was about the same time last term.

Trench mouth is a condition which is not uncommon in people of University age and it is fairly common on almost every campus. It is a condition which should not go untreated, and it sometimes yields very slowly to treatment, but can always be cleared up without any serious consequences when carefully treated. It is rare that the condi-

Trolley's Shove Aids Stalled Auto; First Car Rides Thrill Professors

Chug, chug, chug! With its one cylinder going strong, the automobile of a little more than 20 years ago was a marvelous invention. The driver, dressed in guster and motoring cap, and with his hand on the tiller, was the dandy of the community. The thrill of the first ride in a horseless carriage was one that corresponds to the initial flight in an airplane.

Professor A. S. Kingsmill of the school of business administration thought awhile before he answered the query about his first automobile ride.

"I was up in Ontario, Canada, about 1909, and it was while I was there that I took the first automobile ride that made any impression on me," he said. "I remember the incident because the car stalled on the trolley line and the street car came along and gave us a shove."

"No, we didn't hold up traffic to any great extent, there being not so much to interfere with. The people enjoyed our discomfiture just as much then as they do now when one gets stalled in a traffic jam."

"It was an old high-backed McLaughlin, that being the name of the Canadian company that handled the car now known as the Buick. It was painted a vivid red and it had lots of brass. The old type of horn that you had to squeeze to get a honk out of was on the right side, for, of course, it was a right-hand drive. The brakes and gear shift were outside the car, too. We never stopped to use the little low doors, we just stepped over them. It was some classy car for those days."

The first ride of Professor H. C. Howe of the English department occurred at the University about 1912 in an old White Steamer, a car which is practically out of existence at the present time.

"I was due at Creswell to speak at the commencement exercises," began Professor Howe, "and I had ordered the car from the only garage in town, called the Sweet-Drain garage. As it happened, there was a big picnic that day and the car didn't come in till late. The roads weren't paved then and my ride to Creswell was surely a bumpy one. We didn't go so very fast, compared to the speed we make now, but over those roads 20 miles an hour was too fast for me. I got there eventually, but they had to hold up the exercises over an hour to wait for me."

"The car was a big thing, even as cars run now, painted white, of course, and used steam as its propelling power instead of the now universal gasoline."

Alton Gabriel instructor in the chemistry department, thinks that his first automobile ride was taken in an old Oldsmobile, a one-lung, with hard rubber tires. Mr. Gabriel was just a boy when this momentous occasion came to pass. He places the date around 1908 and the place Portland.

tion is severe enough to require a student to miss any classes.

At the request of the management of the College Side Inn I have examined carefully the mouths of all workers at the College Side. I found no evidence of any infection of the mouth in any of those who had been working there, but did find a slight infection in the mouth of a boy who applied for work there this afternoon. This boy will not be given work until such time as his mouth is clear from any infection which will be determined by bacteriologic study.

Furthermore, I have inquired into their manner of washing their dishes and find that this is properly taken care of.

I should simply like to add that whenever a statement comes from the Health Service it will be signed by me personally, and that unless my signature is attached it had best be disregarded.

Very sincerely,
FRED N. MILLER, M. D.,
University Physician.

K.K.K. Has Six Big Numbers on Its Feature Bill

Warner Holds Surprise; Madge Normile Will Sing Blues Hits

Six big features have been gathered for the Krazy Kopy Krawl, Alpha Delta Sigma's Washington's birthday hop to be held at the Campa Shoppe Tuesday night, February 21. Bobbie Warner, chief follies entertainer, Madge Normile, blues singer incomparable, has some of the latest hits for her numbers. A new star has risen, Elythe Dippel, song and dance lady, is the latest constellation.

The Kappa Sig trio, featuring Al Beyden, John Low and Kenneth Allen are billed for some close harmony. Another new idea feature the Kollege Knights' trio singing, using the new George Olsen effect in presentation.

Bobbie is holding out a surprise feature. This follies impresario has a feature that is so new and different that he dares not release any advance information.

The features will harmonize with the general effect of the dance. Carnival spirit will prevail. Why shouldn't it, the next day is a holiday?

Advertising in all conceivable forms of presentation will cover the walls and ceiling of the Campa Shoppe. Bill Hammond, decorator, is adopting last year's method with added improvements. Last year's

How Will You Pay Expenses Next Year?

Several hundred college men solved their tuition problems this year through the money-making opportunity offered by the Scholarship Department of GOOD HOUSEKEEPING and COSMOPOLITAN Magazines. A liberal salary, bonuses and extra awards are available to any man who wants work during the summer vacation. Positions as salesmen and team captains are still open for men in your college.

pictures and signs were a scream. Bill promises that they will be a "screech" this year.

Better food, announces Bob Byington, general chairman of the dance, and there is no extra charge for the same. Programs will be given at the door and they, too will fall in with the general advertising scheme of things. It is an informal grille dance that will be as crazy as its name indicates.

Tickets to the Krawl are to be had from house representatives and at the Co-op. Only 150 tables are to be sold. Tables may now be reserved by presenting the tickets to the cashier at the counter in the College Side.

Noble, S.A.E. Pooch, Lured by Cigarette Shekels, Sells Face

A deeply involved scandal is now arousing more interest on the campus than the Fall-Sinclair trial did, in Washington, D. C. Dirty work has been done at the cross roads and many are the expletives being thrown in the direction of the S. A. E. domain up Alder street. No, Gretchen, none of the S. A. E.'s have committed murder or sold the house to any professor for a better grade. It is not even at the cook that these vile accusations are being thrown. Worse than that, it is being told about the campus that Noble, S. A. E. mascot, has forsakon the path of righteousness and sold out to the enemy.

The Lucky Strike company is now on the trail of the villain who induced Noble to pose for advertisements for "Barking Dog" cigarettes.

Story by Thacher in Western Advertiser

"The Tale of an Ancient Consumer," by W. F. G. Thacher, professor of advertising and English, has been published in the February number of Western Advertiser. According to Thacher, the article is a humorous account showing that "everyone" is in the market for everything all the time.

Hunts 2 Years for the Right Tobacco
Dallas, Texas
March 22, 1927
Larus & Bro. Co.,
Richmond, Va.
Gentlemen:
The worst thing in the world to try to find is a good pipe tobacco that is well within the reach of everybody, and at the same time does not taste like it had just come out of the cabbage patch.
I have been smoking a pipe for two years and have just this month started to smoke a real smoke, Edgeworth. If at first you don't succeed, try, try again. Believe me, I tried for two years, but finally success is more than mine.
I have just been looking around, and have found to my delight that I can get Edgeworth practically anywhere. I even found it out at the lake near Dallas where I go fishing. Oh boy, what a combination—a perfect day, a can of good tobacco, and your pipe.
I always thought these ad letters were the bunk, but this time I know somebody is wrong and that is me.
Here's to old Edgeworth.
