

Aviation Work To Be Studied

Visitors To Study Air Passenger and Mail Service

Aviation in all its phases will be studied intensively at the annual session of the secretaries of commerce of Oregon, it is announced by F. E. Folts, head of the school of business administration. The session will be held on the campus during the week of March 19 to 24.

J. G. (Tex) Rankin, head of the Rankin Flying school of Portland, will be one of the leading experts who will be present for the week, it is announced. Rankin will come down here in his new five-passenger plane, which will be placed on exhibition on the campus, near where the school is being held. A talk by Rankin on Thursday, March 22, has already been scheduled, and the Portland expert is also expected to hold several conferences and give demonstrations.

To Survey Fields
A complete survey of flying fields and aviation facilities of the state will be completed in time to put before the conference, it is announced by A. L. Lomax and C. L. Kelly, professors of business administration. In this report, Mr. Lomax and Mr. Kelly will also include figures on estimates for passenger and mail lines in all parts of the state.

Session To Be School
The session will be organized as a school, and aviation will be taken up as a study. Mr. Rankin is expected to describe the qualifications of good landing fields, to point out factors necessary to insure regular plane service, and to tell something of the actual flying work. His data is expected to be of great value to secretaries who are working out plans for airports and aviation facilities in connection with their chamber of commerce projects. A national viewpoint on this subject is also expected to be presented by Rankin, who will report on the recent conference at Washington, D. C. This was called by William P. McCracken, assistant secretary of commerce for aviation. Rankin attended as representative of the Northwest.
Both Mr. Lomax and Mr. Kelly are well known for their previous extensive industrial surveys of the state, and they are now compiling what is expected to be an authoritative set of facts and figures on aviation in this state.

Intramural Track Men Meet at Igloo

Intramural representatives for the preliminaries to the last big indoor track meet of the season for donut athletes will meet with Bill Hayward tonight at seven o'clock in McArthur court to decide heats for the different events.
The preliminaries will be run off Friday afternoon on Hayward field in order that the best talent may be had in the big wind-up Saturday night at McArthur court. Only two men from each house may be entered in each event and one man may only enter two events.

Six men will be qualified in the 440 for Saturday's meet. This will narrow competition in this event and should provide an exceptionally fast race.

Several men who made good records at the last meet will endeavor to better their marks. Robert Hill, freshman independent miler, who ran the 3/4-mile in 3.18 at the last meet, should do better against the tougher competition he will have Friday and Saturday. "Bun" Stadlerman, who won the shot-put at the last meet, will attempt a new mark in the indoor meet.

California University Observes Traditions

U. C. L. A., Feb. 28.—P. I. P.—"Traditions of the University will be actively enforced this year," said the Daily Bruin of February 13th. Machinery to carry out the enforcement was provided, and offenders were to be called before the Traditions committee and tried.

The hour of trial came, the members of the committee assembled, and everything was prepared for handing down judgments on students who dared belittle the respected customs of their Alma Mater. The only thing lacking in the whole proceeding was that no offenders appeared.

Two explanations offered themselves. Perhaps there were no students who violated University traditions. This explanation did not seem plausible and it was suggested that there were offenders but that they did not consider the summons to appear in a serious light.

If the second explanation is true, as Arthur Parks, '29, chairman of the traditions committee, believes, the violators will be brought to justice through the efforts of a committee of "ways and means" which will be formed to fulfill the purpose.

Drama Tournay Judges Tentatively Selected

Preparations for the second annual high school drama tournament were advanced yesterday in a meeting in 110 Johnson hall, when the committee in charge, headed by Miss Florence E. Wilbur, selected a tentative list of judges for the contest. Names are to be held secret until final selections are made, Miss Wilbur, who is instructor in drama and play production in the University, announced.

Growing interest in the contest was reported by Dr. Dan E. Clark, assistant dean of the extension division, who is secretary of the committee. It is expected that before the middle of March a full list of high schools to compete in Guild theatre, on the campus, May 2, 3, and 4, can be announced.

The contest last year was won by Roseburg high school. Honorable mention was given by the judges to Milwaukie high school and to Jefferson high of Portland.

State Court Must Decide

Value of Dormitory Bond Issue To Go Before Supreme Bench

(By United Press)
SALEM, Oregon, Feb. 28.—Validity of an act of the 1927 legislature which made it possible for regents of the University of Oregon to authorize issuing and selling of a $400,000 bond issue for a men's dormitory on the University campus must be decided by the state supreme court.

The decree of Circuit Judge Evans of Multnomah county, upholding the act, which provides for construction of dormitories, boarding, housing and other student activity houses on the campus of either the university or the state college at Corvallis through bond issues to be paid for from rentals of such buildings, has been appealed to the high court.

It is the second move of a "friendly" action instituted by Marion F. McClain to determine whether the legislative act violates the constitutional inhibition against creation of a state debt in excess of $50,000.

"Hands Up," by Capini Vequin, is not a book on highway robbery, but has been written to afford pleasure to those who are interested in fortune telling by palmistry.

State College Station Sends 300 Radiograms

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Feb. 28.—P. I. P.—More than 300 radiograms were transmitted by Oregon State college radio station 7AJR for visitors and students during the Educational exposition. Free radiograms proved so popular that the station was literally "swamped" with messages. Since the station could handle but 25 messages an hour many had to wait.

Two messages for Australia, two for Germany and two for the Philippine islands were started on their long journeys. Direct communication was established to Kentucky, Minnesota, Texas, Illinois, Alaska and southern California stations.

Does Friendship Really Count In Business?
Quite a long time ago someone said, "there is no friendship in business." He couldn't have been thinking very hard when he said it because nothing was ever farther from the truth.
The business of our store has been built up entirely on friendship—the sincere kind that tries to give our customers just a little more than a square deal.
The very future of this town depends on the friendship of the surrounding community, and we who serve in its stores should remember that every discourteous and selfish act on our part hurts our own future; every kind and thoughtful act is just another stone to build up mutual prosperity.
Let's make 1928 a big year for community development. We can do it if we'll all pull together.
