

Premiere of Dream Follies Opens at 8:00

Nile Revels Form Part of Junior Revue at Heilig Tonight

See Success for Portland Showing of O'Bryant's Extravaganza

By BILL HAGGERTY
Eyes of the Eugene theatrical world will be focused on the Heilig theatre tonight when the opening performance of the Dream Follies will be presented as a climax of weeks of preparation under the direction of Billy O'Bryant. The stage is all set, the tickets practically sold out and everything is in readiness for the first grand function of Junior week-end.

Two rehearsals yesterday served to put the cast in the pink of condition and nothing short of an earthquake will halt the show. The final rehearsal began at 11 o'clock last night after the vaudeville performance at the Heilig theatre was over, and ran into the small hours of the night. Costumes, scenery and lighting effects were all assembled and the practice went off in the same order that the first performance will.

Dream Forms Plot

One of the most fantastic and entertaining dreams imaginable is the thread that binds the twenty different scenes of the plot together. When the curtain rises at 8:00, a gay crowd of young people are seen having a frivolous time at a roof garden party in New York. One of the crowd who has been away for several years returns from his travels carrying a mysterious cup which has been lost by the legendary "Maker of Dreams." The action begins for the party when the "Maker of Dreams" comes to claim the cup and gives as a reward a dream filled with picturesque scenes, humorous situations, and a galaxy of beautiful and graceful dancers.

The dream carries the group to the banks of the ancient Nile river, where Cleopatra held her court amidst all the splendors of Egypt; into an unknown jungle in which a negro wanderer runs across a horde of beautiful savage women ruled over by a wild man; to the romantic land of Hawaii where the ukeleles furnish music for the eccentric hula dancers; and many other lands of mystery and charm known only by the fantastic dream man.

No Individual Stars

Unlike the musical comedy, "Creole Moon," given by the juniors last year, Dream Follies will be a revue type of show and will not have any individual stars appearing throughout the production. However, the pony and beauty choruses, Madge Normile, featured blues singer, Jack Reynolds and a number of other will appear in several scenes, though in different roles each time.

There will be no long waits or pauses between the scenes, according to Billy O'Bryant. A competent stage crew headed by George Mason will handle the scenery in experienced fashion and skits will fill the time necessary to change settings.

George McMurphy and his Kollege Knights will furnish all the music for the dances. The orchestra trio will also be featured in the show. Billy O'Bryant has written all the music used in the songs and dances and if early predictions are not too far off, many of these pieces will furnish the part of the campus capable of carrying a tune with new material. "The Dancing Rhythm" is one that should prove fully as popular as "New Orleans" did last year.

Portland Trip

The assurance of a trip to Portland for the entire cast of the Follies has been an added incentive this year for those taking part to exhibit the best possible and the co-operation has been unusually good this year. Members of the advisory staff, consisting of Donald Erb, S. Stephenson Smith, Constance Roth, Ronald Hubbs and Joe McKeown, have expressed highly complimentary opinions of the show and look forward to its success both in Eugene and Portland.

Oregon-Reed Netmen To Clash Today on University Courts

Oregon and Reed will clash today at 10:00 on the University courts in the first tennis match of the local season. Although both teams have been hindered by the wet weather, Oregon has had the advantage of training and is hoped to win.

Matches in the singles will be played which will include the following Oregonians in ranking order: Hartmann, Shaw, Edge, and Cross. Cross defeated Powell, 7-5, 7-5, yesterday for the right to enter as fifth man. Shaw and Edge will form the first double combination, and Cross and Powell the second. Coach Edward F. Abercrombie has devised these teams in order to give Neer and Hartman a much needed rest.

Reed College always presents a formidable team, and this year will not be an exception, said Abercrombie. The outstanding players of the Portland school's squad are Trenholme, Shapiro, and Swett.

Fliers to Attend Bennett Burial

Flight From Quebec May Start Today

(By United Press)
MURRAY BAY, Quebec, April 26.—Casting aside all other considerations, including the elaborate welcome which New York City had planned for them, members of the crew of the trans-Atlantic airplane Bremen will fly to Washington Friday to attend the burial of Floyd Bennett.

Immediately after reaching Murray Bay Thursday afternoon on the relief plane which brought them out from ice-locked Greenly Island, the German-Irish crew of the Bremen held a conference with Fraulein Herta Junkers. Then they announced they would take off at dawn for Washington.

Baron von Huenefeld, Captain Koehl and Major Fitzmaurice have been deeply touched by the death of Bennett, Fraulein Junkers said after her conference with the fliers. They feel, she said, that nothing is so important to them as to express their grief and affection for their comrade of the air, the heroic Bennett.

Bernat Balchen, Bennett's associate and the man who piloted the relief plane to Greenly Island after Bennett took ill, will pilot the plane to Washington. His only passengers will be Baron von Huenefeld, Captain Koehl, Major Fitzmaurice, and Fraulein Junkers.

The freshmen nominated are: Alexander McEwen, Josh Alexander, and Allen Palmer.

Good-will Caravan to Come From California

As many students as possible are asked by these clubs to be on hand when the parade comes down 13th.

University Press Well Supplied With Paper

One hundred and ten pounds of ink on 30,000 pounds of paper equals one year's issue of the Oregon Daily Emerald, according to R. C. Hall, of the University Press.

There is now almost two years' supply of paper stored in the pressroom in huge rolls weighing 750 and 500 pounds each.

The Oregonian and Old Oregon use about 10,000 pounds apiece.

Frosh Trounce Ashland Normal

Freshman Nine Show Form In 10 to 2 Victory

By RICHARD H. SYRING
Sports Editor

In the first baseball game to be played on the local diamond this season, the University of Oregon freshman, showing good form despite the lack of outdoor practice, trounced the Southern Oregon Normal school of Ashland, 10 to 2, yesterday afternoon. Except for a batting spree by the Oregon yearlings in the second and fifth innings, the game was much closer than the score indicates.

Yesterday afternoon was the second time in a good many seasons that outdoor activities were permissible but Coach "Spike" Leslie's proteges took to the green turf of Reinhart field as a duck does to water. Only two errors were chalked up against the green cappers.

Coach Leslie used four flingers in yesterday's fray and they all gave a good account of their hurling ability. Dave Bloom took up the burdens at the beginning of the contest and breezed along nicely, allowing but one hit and striking out five, until the beginning of the fourth, when Big George Chappell, another right hander, started shooting them over. Bloom will probably start the game against the Rooks in Corvallis, Saturday.

Chappell Bears Down

Chappell demonstrated his ability to come through in a pinch in the fifth inning. May beat out a hit to short, Stewart struck out, Laws drove a nice Texas leaguer over second and Ashcraft walked. At this juncture big George, decidedly in a bad hole, tightened down and struck out Shields and Dartnell. Vernon Arnett, southpaw, did some good chucking in the seventh and eighth cantos, and Barber pitched the ninth.

Lewis Stewart, Normal school slabman and pitcher for the O. S. C. Rooks last year, pitched pretty good ball, allowing 11 hits. If it hadn't been for the two bad innings, things might have been different.

"Goliath" Hilgers, diminutive second sacker, Harold Olinger and Francis Andrews did the heavy stick work for the freshman.

This trio also did the scintillating work in the infield. Andrews hit a home run in the fifth. May, first sacker for Coach R. W. McNeal's nine, gained two safe singles out of three trips to the plate.

The Ashland team started the fire works early in the fray when Ashcraft, second batter up, walked. He scored on Marshall Shield's deep double into center field. Shield's, former Oregon freshman athlete, hit this drive so hard that it at first looked like a home run.

Frosh Score Early

The local first year men started their heavy barrage of hits in the second inning. Olinger singled and was advanced to second and scored on Andrews' fielder's choice. Smith singled and both scored when Maurice Sussman, freshman basketop, drove one nearly to the school house for a triple. Sussman was out at home on a squeeze play. Bloom walked and scored on Hilger's single into right field. Two singles and Olinger's triple and Andrews' home run scored three more in the fifth. A pair of bingles brought one home in the sixth and two walks and a

Lone 50 Cents Waits Out of Owner's Reach In Commerce Library

A fifty cent piece is resting in the sky light of the commerce library waiting for some ingenious person to bring it down to earth. It was thrown there Thursday morning by Harold Socogofsky, senior, when he was playfully tossing it around. He miscalculated his distance. The 50 cents landed on the railing of the sky light, and there it has stayed ever since.

Its quiet presence far above the heads of the crowd has caused many longing eyes to be cast upward, and there has been much speculation as to the best way to dislodge it. Its owner managed to get up on the roof, hoping to reach it from there, but he was unsuccessful. About the only recourse left is a long ladder or a pole with a hook on the end.
