

Webfooters' Relay Teams Meet Aggies

First Races of Season Will Be Run Off Today at 2:00

Oregon Has Strong Entries To Compete Against Beaver Squad

By JOE PIGNEY

If the predictions of Bill Hayward, Oregon track coach, are at all trustworthy, and they usually are, the Webfooters have more than an even chance to defeat the Aggies in the relay meet this afternoon on Hayward field at 2:00.

Held up all season by rain and cold weather, both Oregon and O. S. C. are uncertain as to actual strengths of their teams. This is the first competitive work for each school, and from the results of relays the possibilities for the University of Washington relay carnival at Seattle next week will be judged.

Shot Putters Doped to Win

The Webfooters hope to take the majority of the relay races and to win the shot put. Hayward's team is perhaps weakest in the four mile event through the loss of Hill and Beal, both experienced men. Hill injured his leg in preliminary training runs, and Beal has been handicapped by an attack of mumps.

In the shot put relay, Hayward has developed a combination which will be difficult to defeat. Both Wetzel and Dickson have been making heaves of around forty-five feet in practices and Stadelman and Stager have not been far behind. Under close competition, it is probable that these men will do even better.

Each man is allowed three throws in the shot put relay, his best heave counting. The team total is taken as a basis for first place.

Mile Relay Team Fast

With five fast 440-yard dash men to pick from, Hayward believes that his mile relay team will be a winner. Joe Standard, veteran and letterman, is the keynote of the combination. Standard has been closely pressed by rivals this year, and the competition has served to increase his speed. LaVerne Pearson, who has been on the relay team for two years, and Ruben Ross, newly discovered as a sprinter, are running as second and third men.

The fourth man will be either McKennon or McCarty.

Two high hurdle lettermen give foundation to Bill's assertion that the Webfooters will win the shuttle relay. Bill Crawford and Loye McGee are the experienced men, and they are ably backed by Kelly, Prendergast, and Foster.

Team Selection Announced

The distance medley is another event in which the Oregonians are expected to shine. Ross, Pearson, McKittrick, and Jensen form the combination for this event which includes the 220-yard dash, the 440-yard dash, and the 880-yard run.

Athletes who will form the teams have been announced as follows by Coaches Hayward and Schissler: 440-yard relay—Oregon: Prendergast, Brown, Kelly, and Flangus; O. S. C.: Oglesby, Doty, Fleetwood, Striff, and Whitlock.

Juniors Should File Degree Applications

Juniors and all students expecting degrees in 1923 are urged to fill out and file at the registrar's office an "application for degree" card.

These cards should be filed before April 30 in order that summaries can be made out and sent to the prospective graduates during the summer.

Primary Race Holds Interest

Smith and Hoover Possible Party Nominees

WASHINGTON, April 26—(UP)—The possibility that Herbert Hoover and Governor Al Smith may meet as the nominees of their parties in the November election was the chief subject of discussion in Washington political circles today following the Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Ohio primaries.

Elaborate claims on the nominations were being made by campaign managers, supporters, and friends of both Hoover and Smith; and the contentions bore such weight of reasonable expectations that they were accepted for serious discussion among all the factions of both parties.

Hoover's friends now say they have an excellent chance to carry

Indiana in the primary May 8 against Senator James E. Watson, the native son candidate.

Smith's friends report that the California primary next Tuesday will put an end to any doubt which may exist concerning their candidate.

"If Smith carries California it's all over but the shouting," they are telling everyone around Washington.

The fight there is between Smith and Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, who is being backed by Smith's old opponent W. G. McAdoo, Jr. McAdoo's home state, Senator Jas. Reed, of Missouri, is entered in the contest but the Smith people claim the main battle is against Walsh. They reason that if Smith is able to beat Walsh, in McAdoo's home territory, doubtful Democrats over the country will be so impressed by his vote getting powers that they will make no effort to oppose him seriously.

Two weeks ago Indiana political observers saw no change for Hoover there. Now they say he not only has a chance but a good one. They point out that the Republicans of the neighboring states of Michigan, Ohio, and Kentucky, now have manifested a strong desire for Hoover. Illinois Republicans on the fourth side have overthrown the entrenched Republicans machine. Charges of corruption are believed by Hoover followers to have demoralized the old Republican Indiana organization.
