

Many Boys Are Taught To Swim

National Swim Week Will End in Exhibition

Two-hundred-sixty-five boys and seventeen business men were given swimming and life saving instruction both on Monday and Tuesday, at the men's gymnasium pool, as part of the National Swim Week schedule. Classes will be continued until Friday evening when the campaign will end with swimming, diving, and life saving exhibition. Thirty students from the physical education department are acting as instructors; some at the local Y. M. C. A., which is also giving lessons, and the rest at the University.

In the afternoon students are grouped according to their grades in school, each class getting a half hour of instruction. The grades are from the fifth to high school, inclusive. Ninety per cent of the younger boys are unable to swim, Earl Widmer, who is in charge of the movement, states.

Of the business men, who meet in the evening, about one half can swim. Boy Scouts, Pioneers, High Y club members, and high school students who regularly swim at the University pool, also have instruction in the evening.

The demonstration will be held Friday evening, in the Woman's building pool. There will be exhibition of swimming and life saving stunts, and Donald Neer and Lamont Stone are scheduled for fancy diving. Amos Burg, who is well known for his canoeing adventures, will show 1000 feet of film, which he has taken of rapids and scenery along the Columbia river. Widmer especially urges townspeople to attend this exhibition.

Students instructing in swimming are: John Abele, Gilbert Sprague, Frances Sullivan, William Jost, Wale Rutherford, Arleigh Reed, Sylvester Wingard, Bert Miglioretto, Cordis Barber, Thomas Weems, Lloye McGee, Austin Colbert, Frank Smith, Bert Kerns, Marion Hall, Jerome Lillie, Lowell Mobley, Harold Harden, Henry Patton and Bob McAlpin.

Mothers' Day Is Almost Here

"All my life I've wanted an umbrella with a nice handle," sighed a little gray-haired woman recently, "but somehow I never seemed to get around to spending money on myself."

How well this little incident symbolizes the wistful yearnings after "nice things," the stifled personal vanities that the Mothers of the World tuck away in the bottommost corners of their hearts.

Our store is crammed from top to bottom with things to please Mother, from the most sensible of household wares to a frivolous boutonniere. It will really be a pleasure to help you with your gift problem. Won't you pay us a call?
