Jotting Down Assembly Doings

THERE has been no assembly in the recollection of the Emerald so good as yesterday's. From the start when Don Bealar beckoned the retiring officers into the back seat, to the impressive introduction to a pair of Jap dolls whose names we didn't catch, we thoroughly enjoyed it. Maybe it was because the official weight of the Emerald was transferred from our's to Arden Pangborn's capable shoulders.

Week-end

receive a four piece silver tea set with tray from Laraway's which will be engraved with the house crest after the fete and also a silver cup. Second prize for men will be $12.50 credit at McMoran and Washburne and for the women it will be a bronze candelabra from the Aladdin Gift Shop or any article of the same value in the store.

Miss Tingle Injured When Autos Collide

When Autos Collide

Miss Lillian Tingle, head of the department of household arts, sustained bruises and shock when the automobile which she was driving collided with another machine at Eleventh avenue east and Mill street.

She was unable to attend her classes after the accident, but she will be able to resume her work Monday.

Humorous floats in the Fete tonight, and in order of appearance:

Waxes Poetic Over Favorite Tobacco

"A Prescription"
 Have you ever noticed right after a meal how tired and lazy you always feel? I'm telling you folks it isn't a joke, it will freshen you up if you try a good smoke. But whatever you do these lines you must heed, there's a certain tobacco of course, that you need. It's packed in a tin, the tin's colored blue. Not only the smoking but the chewing kind too. Of course if you never are bothered this way, just keep the prescription for some other day. Ask for tobacco, the best that's on earth; to shorten the story, just call it "Edgeworth." Chas. J. Butler, Owensboro, Ky. Feb. 2, 1927

TOKIO, May 10—Toichiro Araka today completed his round the world tour, just 36 days after he started from Tokio.

Harold S. Tuttle Has Article in Magazine

"The fact to be kept in mind by the teacher of morals is that the survival of any custom or tradition or institution is no proof of its moral value," states Harold S. Tuttle in his article on "Imitation and Moral Progress" which appears in this month's Education. "The fittest to survive is not necessarily the socially most helpful, the morally best. Imitation functions quite indifferent to the adaptability and serviceableness of the tradition adopted. Rational thinking and alert imagination, vitalized by a deep moral conviction, are necessary to keep traditions revised and adapted to changing needs and rising ideals."

Film Tips

MCDONALD: Friday and Saturday—Milton Sills in "BURNING DAYLIGHT"—a mighty melodrama with Sills playing the most colorful role of his career. It's a story of the Klondike, with Sills as "Burning Daylight," the first of the many thousands to find a bonanza in the frozen wastes of Alaska. Doris Kenyon, playing the part of "Virgie," ably supports Sills. The photoplay is taken from the famous novel written by Jack London. Altogether, Milton Sills, supported by a great cast, does the best acting he has ever done. The greatest "sour-dough" to ever come out of Alaska. One can't help liking the play, because of its fierce emotional appeal to the human instincts which at times reach almost dynamic climaxes.
