

Sigma Nu-Fiji Game Tonight

Thrilling Contest Will Be Open to Campus

With bleacher seats to accommodate 250 people installed in the tank of the men's gymnasium, the preparations for the second Fiji-Sigma Nu clash to be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock, are practically complete. As an added attraction the two teams will be outfitted in the regulation water polo outfits that were purchased for the varsity last year, and have not yet been used. The second meeting of the two teams will undoubtedly be as evenly-matched a battle as the first, which ended in a tie with two goals scored by each squad.

Johnny Anderson, varsity merman, is the main hope of the Fijis, and whether or not John Creech, stellar Sigma Nu guard, will be able to again hold Anderson to one goal, will determine in a large part the outcome of the contest. The Sigma Nus will also depend heavily on the abilities of one man, and Bill Gillette's playing tonight will win or lose for the Sigs. The winning team will enter the world's series with the Phi Psi five for the donut championship.

Coach Abererombie will be the chief referee. He will be aided by other officials of various rank, including a timekeeper with a gun who may also serve as a bodyguard in case of emergency. Lineups for the game, which is open to everyone, are as follows: Sigma Nu—Kinsey, Garrison, Harthong, Dallas, Creech, A. Hamilton, DeBusk, Stadinman, and Captain Gillette; Phi Gamma Delta—Atkinson, Hosford, Schmeier, McDonald, Christensen, Ison, Dunham, Brooks, and Captain Anderson.

Students Try Out for Emerald Day Editors

Students aspiring the positions of day editor for the Emerald next fall have been having tryouts the past few days under the watchful eyes of the present day editor staff. Appointments from the staff trying out will be made at the start of fall term.

Rex Tussing of Brownsville has been appointed by Arthur Schoeni, managing editor, to be head night editor for the 1928-29 Emerald.

Those who are trying out for day editor positions are: Laurence Mitchellmore, Leonard Delano, Joe Rice, Serena Madsen, Ruth Hansen, Clarence Craw, and Chrystal Ordway.

Common Fund Serves Stanford Organizations

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Palo Alto, May 23—(P.L.P.)—"Success of the Stanford student organizations fund has elicited congratulations from colleges and universities all over the West and has caused imitation of the system by many institutions," said Robert Cecil, student manager. The fund, organized in 1919, handles the finances of all student body organizations, making a minimum bookkeeping charge. The money is handled by the requisition system. Last year $150,000 passed through the fund. Organizations on the campus can get estimates of probable costs of undertakings from the manager.

First Girls' Extensport Contest
Margaret Edmundson, varsity debater, was chairman; Dean Virginia Judy Esterly, Dr. Dan Clark and Robert Horn of the University faculty were judges.

This was the first woman's extensport contest ever held on the campus. The women contesting had the general topic, "Woman in the Modern World," for about six weeks but drew for subjects but one hour before the contest. Each competitor spoke ten minutes.

Dorms Are Open To Reservations

New Dorm and Friendly To House 375

Applications for residence in the University dormitories for the fall term, may be obtained at Dean Shirrell's office, and they should be filled out and returned at once to the dean of men for the new dormitory and Friendly hall, or the dean of women for Hendrick's hall, Susan Campbell and Thacher Cottage.

Applications must be accompanied by a $10 deposit or rooms will not be held. The deposit will be returned only if there is no space available or if the student is prevented from attending the University. Upon entrance into the dormitories, this application fee becomes a breakage deposit and a certain percentage is returned at the end of the school year after deductions are made for damages to University property.

The new administration ruling requires all lower division students to live in dormitories, social organizations under University supervision, or with parents in Eugene or vicinity. Permits to live out are granted for one quarter at a time to students who work for room and board, and to others only when the halls are filled.

The A. S. U. O. offices are to be moved from their present location and Friendly halls will then house 100 men. The new dormitory provides accommodations for 275 men. The Friendly hall men will have a private dining room in the new hall, and the old Friendly hall kitchen will be abandoned and this space will be used for class room.

Rental at all the dormitories will be paid in advance for a term and is as follows: Friendly hall, Hendricks, and Susan Campbell, $30; $36 per student for double room in the new dormitory and $40 for a single room. Board is payable by the month at the present rate of $6.25 a week.

Knowledge of Economics Aids in Advertising

"R. T. Kuhn, advertising service" on the glass door of 421 Oregon building, Portland, Oregon, means none other than Randolph Kuhn, Oregon '23, better known on the campus as "Cap."

Mr. Kuhn has spent an eventful five years since leaving the University, working for the Botsford-Constantine advertising agency in Portland, as Professor W. F. G. Thacher's assistant here during the school year of 1924-25, traveling over the United States and Europe. After his travels he worked for Honig, Cooper in Portland, and about a year and a half ago started his own agency.

"Since leaving school I have found that a college student is like a tack," "Cap" said on his recent visit to the campus. "He will only go as far as his head will permit him. That's not just a mere wise crack either, for in every case it is the man with the best education that goes the highest."

Speaking of his own education, "Cap" said that his study of economics has been of the greatest benefit to him in his business of advertising. It has helped him to grasp the details of the businesses of his various accounts.

"The fellow that makes a success in the world," "Cap" remarked, "is the one who can understand business situations and who knows what is going on in the world." It was with this idea in mind that Mr. Kuhn went around the rim of the United States and traveled in Europe. In his own words, "to become less provincial, to broaden my viewpoint."

At present Mr. Kuhn is handling the account of the United States National bank of Eugene and has received national recognition for the work. Chicago papers have clipped the advertisements and commented favorably on them.

"Cap" was the first student of the University of Oregon to major in advertising. During his senior year he had charge of the Emerald advertising service, a class which was just starting, and was also president of the Advertising club, the forerunner of the present W. F. G. Thacher chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma. He was a charter member of Lambda Psi, which is now a chapter of Phi Sigma Kappa.

Dr. Douglass To Teach At Pennsylvania College

Harl R. Douglass of the school of education will spend next year at the University of Pennsylvania where he will be acting professor of education. Dr. Douglass will be on leave of absence from the University of Oregon and will give the courses in secondary education usually given by Dr. E. D. Grizzell, who will spend the year in Europe.

Dr. Nelson L. Bossing, who has been with the extension center at Portland in the department of education, will take over Dr. Douglass' courses in educational methods and will be acting director of the supervised teaching. Dr. Huffaker will give the course in statistical and experimental methods during the year and Professor Stetson will act as director of the appointment bureau.
