

Varsity Men To Strengthen Debate Team

McKeown and G. Belloni Expected To Compete Again For Oregon

Possible Material Found In Speaking Classes

With two of last year's participants in oratory on hand, Oregon should make a very creditable showing this year, according to J. K. Horner, professor of public speaking, who is in charge of debate coaching and general forensic activities.

Joe McKeown, president of the associated students, won first place in the state division of the National Constitutional oratorical contest last year and it is expected that he will compete for honors in that field again this year. Also, George Belloni who entered in the State Old Line contest that was held here last year is expected to try out for a place on the team.

Have Experienced Men

In addition to these two experienced men from last year's team, Mr. Horner expects several new aspirants to enter the contest since there are several men in the advanced speaking classes that show possibilities of developing into orators of merit.

Oregon will enter the State Old Line contest, the National Constitutional contest, and the Pacific Coast Oratorical contest this year, according to Mr. Horner. It is doubtful if they will enter the National Peace contest this time, he said, since three contests are about all they can prepare for along with their regular debate schedule which at present includes nine debates.

Contest Is Innovation

The Pacific Coast Oratorical contest is new this year and is under the direction of the Pacific Forensic League which embraces most of the coast schools in its membership. The orations for this contest may be upon any subject that the speaker wishes to choose and any student in the University is eligible to try out for this contest, said Mr. Horner. This contest will be held in Moscow, Idaho, at the same time as the annual meeting of the Forensic League.

The tryouts for all three contests will be held some time near the beginning of the winter term, the exact date will be announced later.

Entrance

(Continued from Page One)

he had gotten across the border of the country.

This rebuttal only served to increase his determination to reach Lhasa a hundredfold, McGovern said, so he decided to try another trip, this time disguising himself as a native. After a great deal of trouble he engaged three Tibetan servants to accompany him. The first thing he had to do was learn the colloquial language of the people. He managed to perfect himself in this by taking out an adobe brick between the wall of his bedroom and the native servants' kitchen and secretly listening to their conversation.

The next step taken to secure a good sendoff for the trip was to go back to India and start from there so that he could throw the Tibetan officials off his track. After securing three ponies and three mules they started out, the head servant, nicknamed "Satan," taking the part of leader.

Disguises Self as Native

The party first passed through the hill country experiencing a good deal of trouble with the heat. This difficulty was soon dispensed with,

Oregon World-Tour Debaters Will Give Illustrated Travelogue

Jack Hempstead To Speak At Oregon City Tonight

One of the debaters who wrapped Oregon around the globe last year, Jack Hempstead, will present a travelogue illustrated with moving pictures in Oregon City under the sponsorship of the University of Oregon extension division and the Oregon City parent-teachers association tonight.

The travelogue, called "Talking Around the World," is given alternately by the three men, Jack Hempstead, Avery Thompson, and Benoit McCroskey, members of the debate team, to schools, parent-teachers associations, or other organizations planning entertainments for educational purposes. It is based on their experiences during their 35,000 mile tour in which they visited, among other countries, Hawaii, Japan, China, Straits Settlements, Burma, India, Ceylon, Palestine, Egypt, Italy, Switzerland, France, England, Scotland, and Ireland, and also, while crossing the United States, numerous colleges and universities in this country.

The lectures are illustrated, by means of a portable projecting machine, with motion pictures taken during the trip. The pictures are well chosen, and the lecture which accompanies them, adds greatly to their entertainment, and educational value, says Dr. Dan E. Clark, assistant director of the University extension division.

To enhance the value of the program, a selection of foreign records are played softly on a phonograph during the lecture, and musical numbers are arranged for, to take place between reels.

when they reached the high mountain passes that lead into Tibet. McGovern had started the trip in winter as the paths into the country are much less carefully guarded then. When they reached the top they were trapped for three weeks by a snow storm. Fear of starvation made them go on. After unimagined difficulty and experiencing mountain sickness the party got over into the Tibetan country. Here McGovern finished his disguise by staining his skin with walnut juice and iodine; cut his hair short and put hair restorer on it to turn it darker, and put lemon juice in his eyes to make them turn dark—which caused an inflammation that he called snow-blindness and enabled him to wear dark glasses that the natives use in such circumstances.

During all this time they had been camping out at night. When the thermometer registered fifty below zero the servants objected so he was compelled to stay at the rest houses in the villages. Here he came closer to Tibet's unusual custom of polyandry than he had any desire to. The landlady approached him with a very coy glance and confided to him that she already had five husbands and was looking for a sixth. McGovern also had the unenviable job then, he stated, to have to cook the food. This consisted of Yak meat, barley flour and tea, which was made of stale butter, soda, salt and some boiled tea.

Explorer Imprisoned

When only seventy-eight miles from Lhasa, the sacred city that is forbidden to outsiders, McGovern received word that the Tibetan authorities knew that a white man was in the country and that guards had been posted everywhere. McGovern went on and finally managed to reach the sacred city. Here he was discovered and imprisoned for several weeks by the Supreme Pontiff, who turned out to be friendly towards him and later gave him a guard of fifty men to escort him to India. It was on the way out that he managed to take the motion pictures that were shown to

Is Friend of Smith

Dr. McGovern is an old friend of Stephenson Smith, associate professor of English, both having attended Oxford at the same time. Both expressed great pleasure at seeing each other again. McGovern said that he considered the Oregon campus a very beautiful place and believed that the maples around Villard would lend inspiration to anyone. From here he goes to Salem where he will speak.

Twelve in Infirmary Hope for Release Soon

Twelve Oregon rooters are hoping against hope that the doctors and nurses in the university infirmary will release them before the Washington game in Portland this Saturday. The gloomy prospect of remaining in Eugene over the weekend is facing these people: Ruth Galloway, sophomore; Warren Tinker, junior; Tillman Peterson, senior; Edwin Chase, graduate; Pauline Kidwell, junior; and Norma Eyon, Lucille Rose, Winifred Winkler, Douglas Tennant, Robert Brandon, Howard Dirks, and James Overturn, freshmen.

Victory

(Continued from Page One)

Shields is a sophomore, but already brilliant playing of his brothers, Oregon stars a few seasons ago.

The Webfooters will work out on the Multnomah gridiron this afternoon. There are no physical defects on the team, according to Willis D. Fletcher, trainer, and the players are in the right frame of mind to defeat the Huskies.

BUSTER LOVE'S FOOD SHOP

"The Food Is the Thing"

Address Given At 'Y' Bungalow On Sex Relations

Harry Bone Tells of Work Done by Research Body; Talks Sex With Students

Harry Bone, member of the national staff of the Y. M. C. A., gave a short address last night on the subject "Relations Between Men and Women on the Campus" before a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. at the Bungalow.

Mr. Bone has been working with a committee for the past year collecting data and material on the subject of which he spoke. The committee making the research, he said, was representative of every part of the United States. There were 14 members in the committee, seven women and seven men.

"This group," he said, "met once every two weeks and made reports on books pertaining to the subject and listened to lectures of psychologists, psychoanalysts and other scientific men. Also, many case histories were used in the research which included practically all the campuses in the United States.

The results of this research have been collected and combined into a book of 12 chapters. The book has to undergo some revision yet, said Mr. Bone, "but we expect to have it off the press in the latter part of January." The book is directed primarily to undergraduates.

After Bone's address an animated hour of discussion was held by the group on the subject of sex. The question was debated pro and con under the able guidance of Mr. Bone, but no definite conclusions were reached on either side.

The Y. M. C. A. cabinet held a short meeting after the lecture. The only business concluded was the hearing of the report of the social chairman, Claud Addison.

Freshman Wins Prize For Naming 'O' Lunch

Kenneth Curry, Sigma Alpha Epsilon freshman, is the lucky possessor of $10 as a result of submitting the most appropriate name for the lunch counter at 349 East Thirteenth street. The contest has been going on for the past three weeks and has created considerable interest on the campus. The "O" Lunch was the winning name. Students acted as judges.

Radio

(Continued from Page One)

will strut their stuff. And everyone knows what that means in the way of entertainment. And How! Captain McEwan, head coach of the University of Oregon football team, is also on the program and will shoot out a few athletic apothegms telling something about the team.

And last, but by no means least, the man without whom no student function is complete, will charm the little boys and girls of radioland with a few well chosen vibrations. That man is Joseph A. McKeown.

McDONALD NEW SHOW TODAY

Emil JANNINGS IN THE LAST COMMAND

Again America's greatest actor gives the screen one of his finest characterizations.

With EVELYN BRENT WILLIAM POWELL

"PREVIEW" Tonite at 9:10 Sharp

Don't Forget OREGON-WASHINGTON GRID-GRAPH Matinee Saturday

25c NIGHT Matinee 20c Children 10c

NOW PLAYING FRED THOMSON Kit Carson A Paramount Picture

a drama of the life and loves of America's favorite Indian scout.

Also - The POLICE REPORTER a thrilling detective drama by ARTHUR B. REEVE COMEDY NEWS REX MUSIC

DON'T FORGET

those

Rooters Lids Pennants and Oregon Stickers

for the game tomorrow

Lemon "O" Pharmacy

SPECIAL TRAINS

Via Southern Pacific

To Portland and Return

$3.80

ROUND TRIP

Sales Dates—October 19 and 20, Good Returning October 21st

Special Trains as Follows: Leave Eugene Friday, October 19, at 8:00 A. M., and 4:00 P. M.; Leave Eugene Saturday, October 20, at 8:00 A. M. RETURNING Leave Portland Saturday after the game at 7:30 P. M. Leave Portland Sunday at 6:30 P. M.

Tickets also good on regular trains but not on Motor Coaches or after 8 a.m. Saturday

Southern Pacific

F. G. LEWIS, Ticket Agent Phone 2200

The junior revue trio from last year, composed of Marjorie Clark, Louise Stolla and Jo Ralston, are billed to sing several selections from the revue. The girls were one of the hits of the show and should furnish plenty of thrills for the radio listeners.

Daniel Green House Slippers at

Buster Brown Shoe Store

"28 Styles"

For Quick Sale To Individual or Group Will sacrifice 17 foot 2 horsepower inboard motor canoe Speed 10 miles per hour Decked Electric Running Lights Windshield Guaranteed first class shoe with no "bugs"—has towed 4 canoes 30 miles without effort, will demonstrate this week-end by appointment. Phone Portland Atwater 2588

That Snappy, Practical Waterproof Rain and Sports Coat

TRENCH COAT

Invades the College Campus and Becomes Popular!

Here it is, priced very Specially at Charles F. Berg's for only

7.95

This extremely smart Trench coat (sketched) was inspired from the French Military coat—trim, swagger! Note the notch collar, that it's tightly belted, double breasted, nickel ring trimming at belt and cuffs. The flap at the shoulder gives an air of distinction, as well as being all the more waterproof when buttoned. The fabric of the coat is double texture twill, plaid faced. Featuring the new Fall shade, Champagne! Both small and large sizes!

For street, sports occasions and campus no coat has won more popularity or higher favor than the Trench Coat. If you would appear appropriately and smartly dressed for Saturday's game, invest in one of the snappiest "Every-weather" coats of the season—The Trench Coat. It's a wonderful value at $7.95 too!

CHARLES F. BERG'S

Are Headquarters for Raincoats and Bob-rellas

On the Sports Balcony

Charles F. Berg

who's your hoser

Portland, Oregon 309 Morrison St. Post Office Opposite

GIFTS

A Gift

What is the appropriate gift for her? Many men are puzzled by that question. They shouldn't be. They should come here.

"The Shop That's Different"

"Aladdin"

1076 Willamette Next To Y.M.C.A. EUGENE

TODAY and SATURDAY Matinee Sat.

HIS BEST IN YEARS

HOWARD R. HUGHES PRESENTS

THOMAS MEIGHAN The RACKET

LOUIS WOLHEIM and MARIE PREVOST Directed by LEWIS MILESTONE Produced by THE CADDO COMPANY

We know you'll be more than glad to hear that "Good Luck Tom" is here in a story of power and appeal. Finer even, than the Broadway stage hit of the same name.

Bobby Vernon Comedy "SHORT SOCKS"

Pathe News Reel USUAL PRICES

Colonial THEATRE