

Hoover Victor In Straw Vote By Big Margin

Few Opposed to Sunday Movies; Grads Favor Al, Women Like Herb

Poll Shows Faculty Evenly Divided on Candidates

That Hoover is a woman's favorite—that Sunday movies are nearly everyone's favorite, are two evident facts disclosed by the Emerald's straw vote that ended last night after running for over a week. Another fact, quite as evident, is that only about one-fifth of the student body voted.

Of the 579 votes cast, 359 or approximately three-fifths of them were for the Republican nominee, Herbert Hoover; 202 of them were for Alfred Smith, Thomas polled 16, and Varney received 2. Men, women, students, grads, faculty, seniors, freshmen,—people in all walks of campus life, all were overwhelmingly in favor of the Sunday movie, the final vote showing a total of 476 votes cast for the proposed measure that will come up on the city ballot next November, and only 93 against it.

Women Like Hoover

Three women out of every four voted for Hoover, but in the men's case the vote between the two major candidates was more evenly divided. Two hundred and one women voted for Hoover, 65 for Smith, and 4 for Thomas. Not a single female vote was cast for Varney. The men's vote included 158 for Hoover, 137 for Smith, 12 for Thomas, and 2 for Varney.

If the figures in the Emerald vote can be taken as an index, then the question as to whether men or women have the most interest in politics is settled. Figures show that 309 men and 270 women voted. During the first few days of the balloting only a few women voted, the men casting ballots outnumbering them by far, but in the last two or three days, more and more women voted until they increased their total to within a small figure of the men's votes. In the last two days of the ballot women outnumbered men in the number of ballots cast.

Grads Favor Smith

Just as women favor Hoover, so graduate students favor Al Smith. Thirteen of the 22 votes cast by graduate students were for Smith. And to make another comparison, just as the men students were evenly divided, more or less, on the two candidates, so were the members of the faculty who voted. The faculty vote gives Hoover 7, Smith 5, and Thomas and Varney each 0. Seven faculty members wanted Sunday movies, and four cast ballots against them.

Three Arts Group Sponsors Exhibit of Ex-students' Cuttings

An exhibition of Miss Mary Louise Fitch's silhouettes, sponsored by the Art Guild under the leadership of Miss Mary Ellen Driscoll, was held at the Three Arts club yesterday from 4:30 to 6:00. Members of the guild served tea.

Miss Fitch, a former student in the art department of the University, awakened one morning to find herself 'arrived' in art that is original. This art which grew out of cutting paper dolls is now reaching the point where it ranks among the fine arts.

Letters from art departments at the important coastal cities are inviting Miss Fitch to exhibit her new art at their respective stores. Her silhouettes will be shown the last two weeks in November at Frederick and Nelson in Seattle. The calls are so many and as each silhouette is an original one, she has found it necessary to have her subjects copyrighted and reproduced.

An exhibition of her work will be shown at McMorran and Washburne for one week beginning Monday.

Faculty members of the art department who were present at Miss Fitch's exhibition yesterday expressed favorable comments on her ability.

'Grid-graph' Matinee Slated at McDonald Saturday Afternoon

As a special service to University students, and townspeople who are unable to attend the Oregon-Washington football classic in Portland this coming Saturday, a "grid-graph" matinee, depicting the play-by-play reproduction of the gridiron struggle, will be held at the McDonald theatre Saturday afternoon, it is announced.

The game is scheduled to start at 2:15, and the "grid-graph" will be put into immediate operation simultaneously with the starting whistle on Multnomah field, say those in charge.

The football matinee will be run in conjunction with the regular picture program.

Yell kings and Oregon songs and yells will be featured throughout the McDonald "grid-graph" matinee.

What Oregon Students Think

Campus Views on Day's Topics Are Gathered By Inquiring Reporter

Today's Question: What do you think about Edward Hickman's execution? (This punishment is scheduled to take place this morning in California).

Professor R. C. Clark, head of the history department, answered: "He should be executed, it is very unfortunate that he could not have been executed sooner, it should not have taken a year to punish him. Our courts are too slow, and it is unfortunate that there should be so much sentimentalism concerning him."

"It's a huge joke, all this delayed procedure," stated Mr. E. P. Schmidt, assistant professor of economics. "I do not believe in punishment because this man was a criminal, but because he should be removed from society. I was especially impressed by this delay because in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in the Hotelling case, the laws were enforced so much more rapidly."

Ronald Robnett, assistant graduate manager, replied: "I think it should have been done six months ago. I do believe in capital punishment, I'm all for it. But I do not believe in all these legal technicalities however."

Joe McKeown, president of the associated students, stated: "I do not believe in capital punishment but I do think that Hickman should have been taken away from society. This delayed execution only shows the slow processes of court procedure today in relation to modern times."

Kalisky Drops Match to Jason In Donut Tennis

Victory Puts Winner Into Finals; Title Matches Scheduled for Monday

Only two of the scheduled three matches were played off as slated in the donut tennis tourney yesterday. Bob Hoogs, one of the reigning favorites in the betting, did not get into action at all. He was slated to play the winner of the Hopkins-MacLaren tilt but as that match was delayed, Hoogs did not get his chance to work his way into the finals.

After Joe Kalisky had put forth some fast tennis to drop Don Ragen out of the running yesterday, he nevertheless, was no problem to Gord Jason in yesterday's tangle. Jason opened up from the start and took Kalisky in two straight sets, 6-1 and 6-1. It was just the case of Jason's being in a better class but Kalisky put up a good fight before a better man.

In the other match Marsh Hopkins nosed out MacLaren after two good sets of tennis by 6-4 and 6-3 scores. This puts Hopkins in line to meet Hoogs for finalist in the upper bracket.

It was originally planned to play the finals today and Saturday but every one of the competing men will be in Portland to view the Wolffoot-Husky classic so tennis will take a back seat until Monday.

Looking back over the whole series, it seems probable that Gord Jason will meet Bob Hoogs for the title. There is always a chance however, that Hopkins will spill Hoogs and get a chance at Jason himself, but taking the series in all Jason and Hoogs have worked up to the favored positions.
