Alpha Tau Omega Flash Good Basketball To Beat Kappa Sig Five

Teams Enter Third Round For Today's Schedules

Playing the finest brand of ball seen this season, the Kappa Sigma-A. T. O. quintets went through an hour of fast basketball yesterday afternoon. Sonnekes, K. S., forward, nestled the first shot two minutes after the game started. From here on both teams hounded the ball closely. The half ended 7 to 6 in favor of Kappa Sigma. At the close of the second quarter, Sonnekes, colliding with Waffles, A. T. O., forward, broke his nose. With his withdrawal the A. T. O. managed to pile up the necessary points. The game ended 18 to 13 in favor of A. T. O. The game was played on the north floor of the Igloo at 5 o'clock.

men in the realm of languages. Although a man received the highest grade in the artificial language section, and another man tied the highest woman's score, the women's average was much higher than that of the men.

An interesting sidelight on the results is that the two highest scores were both made by students from Lincoln high school of Portland.

A chart has been made showing the comparative average grades made by students from different sections of the state and from outside states. The differences are shown to be very slight, with Pottland students heading the list, and those who hail from Idaho standing at the bottom.

"You will all notice that students from California and Washington are well up toward the top," said Dr. Taylor, in commenting on this chart. "This refutes the oft heard contention that students entering this university from those states usually do so because they are not able to meet the scholastic requirements of their own state universities."

"It also shows," he said, "that the University rule which provides that no student from an outside state may register here unless he can meet the entrance requirements of the university of his own state is being enforced."

Eugene, for a minimum period of nine months out of the twelve.

"Local property controlled and owned by students amounts to the sum of $1,200,000 in valuation. Students pay municipal taxes and fees on this property. It seems unfair and unethical that a group so vitally interested and vitally affected by municipal regulations, should be disfranchised, and not be permitted to voice their opinions on those regulations.

"Especially does it seem unfair when one takes into consideration the fact that traditionally students have always been permitted to vote upon municipal issues and no expectation was created that this year would be an exception to the rule."

What Oregon Students Think

Campus Views on Day's Topics Are Gathered By Inquiring Reporter

Today's Question: What is your opinion regarding sophomore pledging rather than the present system of pledging freshmen and new students?

Mac McFaden, senior in history: "I really think that sophomore pledging is a better idea because it is fairer to the new student and would eliminate so much releasing which is the result of unsatisfactory pledging."

Delbert Addison, sophomore in journalism: "I think that it is a very good idea because it would give the students a chance to know what they're getting into and acquaint the house with the person in question."

Marion Barnes, senior in art: "I do not favor this plan of pledging, it would be too hard for the houses, and the incoming freshmen the first year, making them feel that they were on probation. It would also prolong the rushing and only make it harder for the houses to manage."

Perry Douglas, senior in English: "The main benefit of sophomore pledging would be to give the student a better idea of campus life as a whole and give the student a better opportunity of becoming acquainted with the individual organizations."

Johnny Anderson, junior in physical education: "I am in favor of sophomore pledging since it has been so successful at other universities, especially at Stanford, and beneficial to both the incoming students and the organizations."

Oregana

of the measures already taken. The council decided that everything possible would be done to encourage voting of students who have fulfilled time requirements and are self-supporting.

The campus chest was voted out. It was held last year in connection with the community drive put on by the Y. W. C. A., the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross and the veterans' bureau, and proved unsuccessful.

The money taken in was insufficient to make up for the time and the energy expended. Such collections as can be made can be easily taken care of by other organizations more closely connected with the drive.

Would Add to Fees

In view of the fact that the campus chest has been abolished, and that the Oregana news, a motion picture brought up that $1.25 be added each year to student fees. Last year the year book went behind $1200, and the amount has increased steadily each year, so that it will be impossible to edit another Oregana unless more revenue is raised, it was brought out.

The amount mentioned is less than the usual $5.00, and the system more evenly distributes the cost among the students.

"It will certainly reflect on the student body of the University of Oregon unless enough money can be raised to publish their year book," Art Anderson, vice-president of the student body, said.

However, the suggestion was not carried further, and will be raised at today's assembly. If it meets with the approval of the students it will be published later in the Emerald, and then voted on at a special election.

and of the city of Eugene for 30 days.

This view is confirmed by Stephen Mattheu, prominent Portland attorney, and president of the Portland Alumni association of the University of Oregon.

Mr. Wilderman called attention to section 3907 of Oregon laws, subdivision six, which holds, "The place where an unmarried man sleeps shall be considered and held to be his residence."

"It also makes clear that the place where an unmarried man sleeps shall be considered and held to be his residence."

This one section, Mr. Wilderman and Mr. Mattheu contend, makes every student of Eugene, who otherwise is qualified to vote, a legal voter. The section, the two attorneys said, is mandatory. It leaves no loophole for the brotherhoods.

Opinions of 10 other Portland attorneys were to the same effect. "Every presumption should be in favor of the vote," Mr. Mattheu said. "The state is interested only in the fact that its citizens be given a right to vote. It is not interested where the students vote, but the statute emphatically states that one may vote at the place of his residence if he be here one month and otherwise fulfills the provision of the statute."

"Each day brings us closer to the big Sophomore Informal," said "Red" Hill, president of the sophomore class, "and I can hardly keep the committee down, they are so enthused with the idea of making this informal just the biggest, squarest, and best soph informal ever staged at the University of Oregon."

Dorothy Eberhard, chairman of the refreshments committee has promised more punch than last year, even more than the thirstiest thirsty could hope to down in weeks.

"Decorations? And how," was the comment of Helen Gatens when approached on the subject. "As chairman of the committee, I'm here to tell you they will be super. No you can't find out from me what they are to be, but the motif is new, artistic, and surprising."

According to Foad Smith, chairman of the floor committee, the floor will be as slick as sturdy arms and backs of the frosh class can make it.

"Be sure and mention," said Harry Tonkin, publicity man, "that everyone is invited, and it doesn't cost a dime. Not even taxi fare. Why? Make her walk November 3."

Soph Informal Will Be Biggest, Best Yet, President Hill Says
