Rolin Pease, Soloist, To Sing in Oratorio

Rolin Pease, famous baritone of Washington, D. C., who sang the baritone solo part in the oratorio "Elijah" with the Eugene oratorical society last year, may sing again with the society in Verdi's "Requiem," according to John Stark Evans, director of the group. "Requiem" will be presented late in April or early in May.

The first practice of the society was held Monday evening of this week. A large number of town and campus singers were present. Practices will continue each Monday evening including Armistice day next week.

The absence practice, for those who were unable to attend Monday evening, has been postponed from this evening to a later date pending announcement.

Students, faculty and townspeople are eligible to join the oratorical society. Those who are interested should report to one of the voice instructors at the school of music or to John Stark Evans, director of the society.

Underwood To Act as Judge at Music Meet

Rex Underwood, director of the university orchestra, is to be sole judge of stringed instruments playing at the Seattle and King county contest December 28 and also at the Victoria musical festival to be held April 22, 23, and 24.

Mr. Underwood has been invited to act in the same capacity at Kelowna, B. C., for the Okanagan valley festival in April.

Mr. Underwood, with Mrs. Underwood, has a number of piano and violin recitals scheduled. The first is billed for November 19 at Vancouver, B. C. Others scheduled are: at Bellingham Washington State Normal school, November 20; at Bellingham, for the Women's Musical club, November 21; and at Victoria, B. C., November 22.

Oregon Drum Major Gets New Equipment

A shako, green and yellow and silver, will soon be here for the university band's drum major, Harvey Wright.

There will also be a new baton, said Major Barker, head of the military department. It is to be green and silver with a yellow cord. These two new articles of artistic design are to arrive in time for the band leader to display them at the O. S. C. game November 17.

The band is, according to Major Barker, featuring several new pieces, and some tricks in fancy marching preparatory to the game at Corvallis.

The major said that the band had enough material from which to pick a good group of musicians, and that he hoped to have the band as a unit prove itself successful as the season advances.

McMurphy's Band Playing in Portland

George McMurphy's Columbia recording orchestra, formerly the Kollege Knights, is now playing at Cole McElroy's Spanish ballroom in Portland. The orchestra recently completed successful engagements in California ballrooms and theaters and has opened at McElroy's for an indefinite stay.

The band is composed of practically the same personnel as last year. The members are Tom Sandvall, Howard Root, Al Taylor, Claude Burch, "Razz" Asbury, Ted O'Hara, Wally Marks, Billy O'Bryant and Prent Marks. "Lefty" Smeerer, a tuba player, came from Chicago to join the orchestra for the Portland engagement.

George McMurphy is manager of the ballroom and is featuring a collegiate night every Friday, catering exclusively to the collegians on that night every week.

Architectural Group To Have Dinner Dance

The Architectural club, at a meeting held yesterday in the lecture room of the Art building, decided to give a dinner dance at the Anchorage 6:30 Wednesday, November 14. The affair is to be for architecture majors only and is given principally in the interest of the freshmen.

President Glenn Gardiner appointed as his assistants the following chairmen: Wilbur Sohn, decorations; Marvin Cone, finance; and Clarence Wick, floor.

This is the first of a series of social functions which the club is planning to give throughout the year.

Dr. Reinhardt To Talk At Y. M. C. A. Meeting

Dr. K. Reinhardt, assistant professor in German, will address the men's frosh commission this evening at 7:45 at the "Y" hut. Dr. Reinhardt will speak on the subject of the youth movement in Germany and Europe. The officers of the commission hope to have a large group present to hear Dr. Reinhardt. All freshmen men are cordially invited.

An election of officers will also take place at the meeting this evening as two of the former commission officers have resigned. A discussion schedule and social program will also be worked out for this year.

Finance Management Class Hears Cashier From Eugene Bank

Speaking of the various problems arising between the business man and his banker, Arthur A. Rogers, cashier of the First National bank of Eugene, addressed Professor Moser's 10 o'clock finance management class Thursday morning.

"Business," Mr. Rogers said, "is subject to constant change. It is necessary that the business man and banker keep in touch with changes at all times. If he does not, he cannot grant credit intelligently."

Mr. Rogers cited the peppermint oil industry which is being developed in the vicinity of Eugene. In studying this industry the banker gathers information from extensive sources, including reports from the department of commerce.

The banker, he stated, requires a statement of condition from all his borrowers, a practice gradually put into force since the establishment of the federal reserve system.

Before coming to Eugene, Mr. Rogers was associated with a bank in Idaho, and has had other experience in this field.

'Chi Chapter News' Appears on Campus

The first issue of "Chi Chapter News," which is the quarterly publication of the University of Oregon chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national men's honorary in education, appeared this week. It contains a list of all members of the local chapter since it was founded, several short articles, and news of the local chapter.

Henry B. Johnston, principal of the Eugene high school, is president of Chi chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, and Ethan Rothwell of the University high school, historian, is editor of the Chi Chapter News.

Blind Music Student Overcomes Handicap To Voice Instruction

Malcolm Medler, brilliant blind student, is scoring a remarkable triumph over a great handicap in voice training.

According to Roy Bryson, Mr. Medler's voice instructor, the field of voice training is divided into two parts. The first is the art of singing, which combines interpretation, histrionic ability, imagination and personality plus the voice itself which is the physical vehicle through which one sings.

The second part is voice development. Training of the voice is a process of physical co-ordination. The ideal or finished product in a singer is a balance between the art of singing and voice production.

With Malcolm Medler blindness has been no interference to his voice training except that the lack of sight for a lifetime has limited him in the conception of movement, distance, space, and physical co-ordination.

Malcolm Medler, however, is too smart to let such a handicap interfere with his success as a singer.

What Oregon Students Think

Campus Views on Day's Topics Are Gathered By Inquiring Reporter

Today's Question: What do you think about padding frosh on the library steps?

Gwendolyn Shepard, sophomore in sociology: "It is very entertaining, to say the least, and sets an example for the other disobedient frosh on the campus."

George Lowe, sophomore in education: "I don't think it's a good idea at all. It's a lot of foolishness in the first place, and creates too many enemies for those padding."

Francis Sturgis, junior in pre-law: "I think this is a very good way of impressing school spirit on insubordinate freshmen. In a way it is rather a crude manner of punishing them, but it usually gets results."

Bertha DeYaney, freshman in education: "I think the frosh go through enough at the first of the year and padding hurts their pride. But on the other hand it prevents them from being too cocky and makes them respect upperclassmen and Oregon's traditions."

Harold Kinzell, sophomore in pre-law: "I think it has been a tradition of Oregon in the past years and it is something which all the upperclassmen go through. It is only proper that those who follow in their footsteps should be dealt with in the same manner, as it has proved very successful before."

Dorothy Thomas, sophomore in journalism: "I don't think they will ever be able to enforce traditions by that sort of thing, because I don't think frosh have any respect for traditions enforced in this manner."
