Players Take Light Workout Before Game

Regulars Listed in Lineup For Beaver Sport Tilt Tomorrow at Corvallis

Christensen in Dress For Annual Classic

Kitzmilller Stationed for Quarterback Position

Thirty-three Webfoot football players, seeking victory from the Beavers, will leave for Corvallis tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock. The team will arrive on the Oregon State campus a few hours before the game.

All the regulars will be in the starting lineup. The flu has been chased away, and, although some of the first stringers are not in the best conditions, the fact that the game is with Oregon State is enough to give them more than ordinary power.

The team paced through a light practice Thursday night, and will hold a meeting this afternoon in McArthur court for the last get-together before the Beaver contest. At this meeting Coach John J. McEwan will give final instructions concerning the mode of attack and defense the Webfoots will use Saturday.

Christensen to Play

George Christensen, the big tackle who is Oregon's greatest line threat, will be in uniform Saturday. Christensen has had little hard practice since the California game, but will be ready to go in against the Aggies. The Webfoot tackle injured his ankle in the Washington game, and then hurt it again in the Bear contest. Just when he was recovered he was caught by the flu epidemic which is sweeping the University of Oregon campus and sent to the infirmary. Wednesday was his first in uniform this week.

Tom Weems, first string reserve tackle, will be ready to replace either Colbert or Christensen Saturday. Weems too was in the infirmary with the flu, and was just released Thursday afternoon. Weems will alternate with Marion Hall as substitute tackle.

McCutchan to Go

Everett McCutchan, guard, and John Donahue, halfback, who were confined with severe colds, will make the trip with the team. The rest of the team is in fine mental and physical shape for the game.

Oregon's starting lineup will include Woodward Archer and Ted Pope, ends; George Christensen and Austin Colbert, tackles; Marshall Shields and Merrill Hagan, guards; and George Stadelman, center.

The backfield which will start against the Beaver is the same one which defeated the Washington Huskies. Charles Williams and George Burnell will be in at halves and Cotter Gould at fullback. Johnny Kitzmilller, the flying Dutchman, is stationed at quarterback, but Burnell will direct the team play.

Reserve Listed

The reserve squad includes: George Chappell, center; LaSalle Coles, end; Hal DeMott, guard; John Donahue, halfback; Marion Hall, tackle; Bob Keeney, guard; Jerome Lillie, guard; Everett McCutchan, guard, and Ted Park, guard.

Art Ord, halfback; Choppie Parke, quarterback; Bob Robinson, quarterback and halfback; Francis Hill, halfback; Ridgeway Johnston, halfback; Wallace Shearer, quarterback; Homer Dickson, tackle; Scott Warren, tackle; Willis West, end; Ira Woodie, quarterback; Harry Wood, end, and Lawrence Slauson, end.

Captain John J. McEwan, head coach, and Dick Reed, assistant coach, will accompany the team, as will W. D. Fletcher, trainer, and George Schade, manager.

Vice-president To Go To Southern Oregon

Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University of Oregon, is planning to visit southern Oregon next week, according to Dan E. Clark of the extension division.

Vice-president Barker is to be in Grants Pass on Monday evening and Tuesday morning, in Medford Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday forenoon, and in Ashland on Wednesday afternoon and all day Thursday.

He will speak before assemblies in the three high schools, and will be the guests at meetings of the Alumni association and the Oregon dads. Vice-president Barker is also to talk before the Medford chamber of commerce, and possibly the chambers in the other cities.

Dance Scheduled For This Evening

Unaffiliated Students Invited To Attend Hop

Hot music—shuffling feet—eager voices—applause. These are sounds which will be heard tonight in the vicinity of the Woman's building.

The explanation is simple. Tonight at 8:30 will begin the no-date dance which the student body, Phi Theta Upsilon, and the Girls' Oregon club are sponsoring for unaffiliated students.

The Varsity Vagabonds will furnish the music for the dance, and an unusual feature is promised by the committee in charge.

Those in charge of arrangements include: Beth Dimmit, placement; Maybelle Robinson, music; Dorothea Bushnell, reception; and Joanna Koberstein, patrons and patronesses.

The patrons and patronesses follow: President and Mrs. Arnold Bennett Hall, Dean Hazel Prutsman, Dean John Straub, Mrs. Henry D. Sheldon, Dean and Mrs. Earl Pallett, Mr. and Mrs. Ross, and Miss Dorothy Thomas.

Students Pledge Their Loyalty at Special Assembly

College Life Is What You Make It, Avers Booth; Howard Leads Reading

"Oregon's growth, Oregon's development, and Oregon's value in the sisterhood of states depends on what you give and on those who follow you," Hon. R. A. Booth told the students at the pledge assembly in McArthur court yesterday morning.

"Pledge day is a great occasion," Mr. Booth said, "and is a new occasion to teach new duties. It is the seventeenth time that the pledge to the state has been taken but it is new for those who are here. It is a wonderful thing to be as big as the time in which one lives. So much depends on what we do when we are here."

No one can escape leaving footprints behind him, Mr. Booth pointed out, as we have to follow the trails of others. Just as surely as we use fingerprints to identify those who go wrong, we leave fingerprints on those about us, he added.

"It takes exactness, calculation, and determination to have a credit for every entry in life," Mr. Booth continued. "If not our life is wasted." Mr. Booth told the students that he had once studied bookkeeping and had learned that things must balance to form a proper equation. "Factors in equations are puzzling things and sometimes the unknown quantities represent knots."

"Oregon students have great opportunities for the university has a splendid institution here," he said. "Use effort to the end," Mr. Booth urged the students. "Whether you pay as an investment, whether you stand out prominently in the end, whether you are successful, and whether you have assets to help others depends largely on our own efforts, Mr. Booth stated.

If you do not struggle you will not progress, Mr. Booth warned the students, and stated that that was the reason he did not want to believe that he was successful. The stimulus is gone when you do that, he continued, for one should remain in the struggle if a fraction of that one desires to be accomplished.

C. A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction, read the pledge to the state, and the students responded by singing the "Oregon Pledge Song."

Rev. Frederick Jennings, minister of the Episcopal church, gave the invocation. The men's glee club, under the direction of Roy Bryson, sang "As I Sit and Dream at Evening," and "Mighty Oregon."

Prominent Educators Teach Salem Classes

Prominent educators are teaching in the Salem extension classes this year, according to W. G. Beattie, director of the groups there.

Dr. C. L. Sherman, of Willamette university, and Dr. H. E. Taylor from the Oregon campus, are teaching classes in psychology and philosophy. G. V. Hug, superintendent of schools in Salem, and Mr. Beattie are conducting groups in education, and professor J. K. Horner of the university English department has a class in public speaking. Dr. H. C. Kohler of Willamette is teaching literature, and Professor N. B. Zane of Oregon is conducting a class in art.

The attendance at the Salem evening classes this year is 132, showing about a 40 per cent increase over last year's enrollment.

Webfoot Gridders All Set for Action at Bell Field Tomorrow

Here are four Oregon stars who will battle the Beaver team at Corvallis tomorrow afternoon: 1. Merrill Hagan, guard, is a two year letterman and faces the Aggies for the last time. 2. George Stadelman, center, is getting his second crack at the O. A. C. team. 3. George Burnell, acting captain of the Webfoots, like Hagan, is going in against the Beavers for the last time. 4. Marshall Shields is holding up the long tradition established by the famous Shields brothers, and is doing a good job at guard. 5. Choppie Parke, reserve back. 6. Cotter Gould, fullback, is the third man on the Oregon team to play against the Beavers for the third successive year. None of the players on the Oregon team have been in a victorious game with the Aggies, but they are determined to turn the tide tomorrow.

McEwan Puts Final Polish on Webfoots For Beaver Contest

Amid the cheers of a howling rooting section and the strains of "Mighty Oregon," the Webfoot varsity went through their final workout before the contest Saturday with Coach Schissler's Beavers.

McEwan put his entire string on the field and let them frolic around playing touch football and other favorite pastimes of college grid-ders. After everyone was thoroughly warmed up various offensive formations were tried time and again, with each time McEwan on the job to point out some minor error in the way the play was made.

It seemed that perfection was just about reached by the Oregon men, however, as the plays seemed to be properly timed the holes in the defensive line opened up in the proper manner. There was a variety of plays called ranging from different running plays to a varied aerial attack.

All the punting formations were tried again to make sure that there would be no feature of the game missing should the occasion arise against the Aggies.

After the offense had gone through their paces the defensive tactics were tried. Every phase of this work was taken up before McEwan called it a day.

Following the precedent of last year, Squeak Parks, yell king, had the men students assemble in the grandstand and go through the complete list of Oregon yells. Plans for rooting activities at the game were made clear to all the students.

Free Rides, Tickets Promised to Athletes

Plans of several different varieties will be discussed at the meeting of the Order of the "O" to be held this morning in the men's gymnasium at 11 o'clock.

The group has been asked by Jack W. Benefiel to take charge of the rooters' section at the Oregon-O. A. C. game and free transportation over and back, as well as admission to the game, will be given the 15 athletes signing up at this meeting. Les Johnson, president, announced yesterday.

The gridgraph, homecoming parade before the game, and the Order of the "O" banquet for old graduates who are members of the organization will also be discussed, Johnson said.

Dramatic Coach Names Cast for Acting of 'Pigs'

Production of Senior Class Play Will Be At Heilig Tuesday, December 4

"Pigs," a comedy of American life, will be staged at the Heilig theater Tuesday night, December 11, by the senior class in cooperation with Mask and Buskin.

The cast has just been announced and intensive rehearsals are in progress at Guild theater.

Thomas H. Atkins, senior, will be played by Gordon Stearns.

Thomas Atkins, junior—Lawrence Shaw.

Hester Spencer—Marshall Hopkins.

Ellen Atkins—Diana Deininger. Spencer Atkins—Hugh Logan. Mildred Cushing—Grace Gardner. Grandma Spencer—Constance Roth.

Lenore Hastings—Helen Allen. Mr. Hastings—Edwards Merges. Dr. Springer—Milton George.

How Lawrence Shaw and Grace Gardner as Thomas Atkins, junior, and Mildred Cushing, two 18 year old youngsters, buy some sick pigs and cure them, thereby swelling the family fortune, will be demonstrated the night of the senior class play.

"Pigs" was written by co-authors, Anne Morrison and Patterson Nutt. It has been played by stock companies, and went over with quite a success when it was presented in New York.

Rifle Men To Practice Six Days Each Week

Practice hours at the rifle range have been changed to include a time during every day in the week except Sunday, according to Captain Bragg, coach.

The new schedule of hours on which the range will be open to marksmen is as follows: Monday, 3 to 5 p. m. Tuesday, 8 to 10 and 11 to 12 a. m. Wednesday, 3 to 5 p. m. Thursday, 8 to 10 and 11 to 12. Friday, 3 to 5 p. m. Saturday, 8 to 12.

Captain Bragg announces that there is still time for men to try out for the team, and asks that those interested see him during one of the above practice periods.

Flu Victims Increase To Thirty-two; Five Extra Nurses on Staff

Although influenza victims are still increasing in number, there was not as great a raise yesterday as there has been in the last few days. Yesterday there were thirty-two students who were suffering from the malady. One more graduate nurse has been added to the staff, making a total of five.

New patients at the infirmary are: Anna Kogielski, freshman in sociology; Henry Patton, senior in physical education; and Bob Hammond, sophomore in economics. Elwood Harrigan, freshman in business ad, is suffering from appendicitis. Thatchler cottage has seven new ones: Anton Peterson, sophomore in journalism; Henrietta Akers, freshman in music; Ed Appelgren, sophomore in pre-law; Bill Eddy, senior in pre-law; Helen Barnett, senior in English; Margaret Cummings, sophomore in music; and Winston Loun-dagin, sophomore in business ad. There are no new patients at the annex.

The infirmary's old patients are: Ethel Lou Crane, Elizabeth Fletcher, Jack Card, Dorothy Russell, John Kier, Louise Stora, Bob McMath, Mardina Medler, and Gladys Baylis. The old patients at Thatcher cottage are: Harriet Atkinson, Don Sanders, Verne Dale, Edwin Jensen, Charles Bussey, Ralph Morfitt, and Ralph Sewall. The infirmary annex has six: Bill Patterson, Sam Luders, Silas West, Stewart MacDonald, John Donahue, Fred Meacham.

Instructors Attend Clackamas Institute

Professor T. H. Gentle of the extension division, returned Tuesday from Oregon City, after attending the Clackamas county teachers' institute, which he reports to have been one of the largest ever held in this state.

Besides Professor Gentle, two other members of the university faculty who attended were Kenneth L. Shumaker of the English department, and F. M. Warrington of the Portland extension center.

This institute was one of the first in this state to be laid out according to a plan formulated by the teachers themselves, Professor Gentle said, and in the two days, November 13 and 14, that it was in session, 14 different school departments were represented.

Daring Count Holds Audience With War Tales

Running Through English Blockade in Disguise Told by Von Luckner

By WILFRED BROWN

Had the shades of Paul Jones and Steven Decatur and David Farragut hovered around the stage at the Woman's building last night, doubtless they would have hearkened back to their own romantic careers and have welcomed Count Felix von Luckner with open arms to the fellowship of picturesque and adventurous seamen.

And well might these heroes of long ago look to the exploits of the venturesome count. The capture of the lordly "Serapis" by the obscure "Bonhomme Richard" fades into obscurity beside the running of three British blockades, all well equipped with dreadnaughts and cruisers, the fastest vessels built, by the dauntless Luckner in an old Yankee clipper disguised as a Norwegian schooner. The feats of Porter and Farragut with the "Essex" heralded throughout American history, would compare rather unfavorably with that of the "Sea Raider," which destroyed vessels containing 258,000 tons of Allied shipping, and at the same time did not take a single life on any of the captured vessels.

Forceful Speaker

A picturesque speaker was the Count, with his broad, good-natured Teutonic face; his deep and even guttural voice; his slurred r's, broad a's, and short w's; and his intensely varied gestures.

The Count paced the stage, as he so anxiously walked the deck of the clipper one dark night in the midst of a hurricane twelve years ago. "It was nine o'clock," he said. "We were at the first of the British blockades." He joined his thumbs and middle fingers in circles and applying them to his eyes as field glasses, peered about the room. All was dark, there was no sign of an enemy ship.

Midnight came, and von Luckner and his crew passed the second blockade unmolested, the hurricane carrying them rapidly towards the Atlantic. In the morning, and just as they thought themselves safe, they spied a cruiser bearing down upon them. The Count gasped, stamped his foot on the stage, and

Rally Slated For Tonight At 6:30 Sharp

Three Lines Will Gather At Corner of Campus, Says Student President

Igloo Will Be Scene Of Great Noise Fest

'Squeak' Parks Promises Magnificent Explosion

Bombs that have been simmering, both literally and figuratively, on the campus for weeks, are going to have a magnificent explosion tonight at 6:30 o'clock when a "rally of rallies" prelude the annual O. A. C.-U. of O. football classic will begin.

Detailed plans for the concentrated outburst of victory-bent pep were mapped out at a lively session of the rally committee, 15 strong, with Joe McKeown, student body president, yesterday afternoon, immediately after which he outlined the line of march for the serpentine and issued a call to the entire student body to participate in making tonight's event "the rally of the ages."

Parade Starts 6:30 p. m.

"We're going to start exactly at 6:30 with a formation of three lines that will be swelled on the way to McArthur court where the three marches will unite in a gigantic rally. We're going to have a brief program, not more than 20 minutes long, and the whole thing will be over by 7:30 o'clock, in plenty of time for dates," announced the student body president.

"Dinner must be served at 5:30 p. m. at all houses so that we can get off on the minute," he added.

Speakers at the program will be Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the university, Professor H. C. Howe, and Basil "Baz" Williams.

Three Groups to Form

"Squeak" Parks, yell king, will be on hand to set the match to the yell-bombs—and he says it's going to be an almighty explosion.

"Every organization must be ready on the dot," urged McKeown in outlining the course of the serpentine. One will be formed, at the Phi Delta Theta house, one at the Alpha Upsilon house and one at Beta Theta Pi, McKeown explained.

From the Phi Delta house the serpentine will pick up Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Bachelordon, Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Pi Tau, Alpha Beta Chi, Psi Kappa. These will unite at the Sigma Chi corner with the Beta line which will include Chi Psi, Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Nu, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Theta Chi, the latter two joining at 12th and Alder.

These two lines, united at the Sigma Chi corner will proceed to the Igloo where they will be joined by the third line, coming from Alpha Upsilon and including Phi Gamma Delta, Delta Tau Delta, Delta Epsilon, and Alpha Tau Omega.

Journalist Honorary Elects New Members

Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism honorary, announced the pledging of the following: Elaine Crawford, Mary Frances Dilday, Bess Duke, Mary Klemm and Elise Schroeder, yesterday afternoon. Formal pledging will take place the afternoon of Wednesday, November 21, preceding a banquet which Theta Sigma Phi will give in honor of Miss Edith Abbott, national secretary, from Spokane, at the regent's room of the men's dormitory.

Co-op Shelves Filled For Week of Books

The University Co-op is joining with the rest of the United States to observe National Book Week, by a display of the best literature in one of their windows.

This is National Book Week and it has been set aside to stimulate interest in good books and bring to the minds of the great public the value of good reading. The Co-op reports that persons on the campus are usually interested in good books, and it is the desire of the management to bring them into contact with such reading.

Among the best books displayed in the Co-op window are "Samuel Pepys' Diary," "Thais," and "Revolt of the Angels," by Anatole France; "Dostoevsky, the Man and His Work," by J. Meier Graef.

At the University high school library may be found another exhibit of good books.
