

Hill Breaks Leg, So O. A. C. Harriers Win

Ralph Hill Wins First; Four Webfoots High At End; Score 73-92 Doubt Whether Team On Seattle Trip Nov. 29

Losing perhaps 18 points as a result of an accident during the cross-country meet with O. A. C. Saturday which caused Clarence Hill, Webfoot captain, and winner of first place in the classic last year, to break a leg, Oregon was defeated by O. A. C. by a score of 92 to 73. Ralph Hill, Clarence's brother, won first place for Oregon, covering the two and one-fourth mile course in 10 minutes and 52 seconds. His beautiful strides carried him to victory by easily 25 yards. Oregon took four of the first ten places. Leonard Steele was fourth, Pat Deal was seventh and Bill Winter, just recovered from a touch of flu, was eighth. Clarence Hill was leading by about 20 yards when his misfortune occurred. No one quite understands what caused the bone just above his ankle to break. It simply gave away while he was running on smooth, firm ground. His brother, who followed him in second place, stopped and tried to help him, but when several O. A. C. men passed them, Ralph was forced to carry on. There is a question now as to whether the team will be sent to Seattle for the northwest meet November 29. Oregon would have to take a team of five men, but as Hill will be disabled, and as Ed Jensen, who runs close to Hill, will probably not be sufficiently recovered from the attack of flu which kept him out of Saturday's race, it is doubtful that Oregon would have much of a chance. Mr. Hayward, however, is going to hold tryouts in order to get a final check on the men.

Honors

(Continued from Page One) est 30 per cent of the men and women who have received their junior certificates become eligible, automatically, to candidacy for the degree with honors may, at the discretion of his school, department, or division, be excused, during the last two terms of his senior year, from final examinations in any or all courses that may fall within the field covered by examination for honors, including allied courses accepted for this purpose. Regular rules of attendance may also be relaxed in his case. On the examinations which he takes he shall be graded like any student not reading for honors, except that a low grade shall not in itself deprive him of his candidacy, but shall be regarded as a warning. Should his work on a thesis or other subjects be inconclusive or unsatisfactory to a term, the grade sent in to the registrar shall be "honors." Credit varying from 3 to 9 hours for his thesis, and credit varying from 3 to 12 hours a year for each year in which he is enrolled in the course called "honors reading," may be counted by an honors student towards the total number of hours required for the degree. Oral Examinations Required 7. At the end of their senior year, candidates for the degree with honors are required to take a comprehensive examination in the subject or related subjects in which they have chosen to work for honors. This examination may be written or oral or both. The examination shall be given during the last quarter and at least two weeks before the final examinations. Should the examination be oral, there must be present a member of the honors council not himself affiliated with the school, department, or division giving the examination. Should the examination be written, the questions shall be sent to the chairman of the honors council one week before the examination is given. After the candidate's paper has been graded, it shall be sent to the chairman of the honors council together with the candidate's thesis or report. Four One-Act Plays to be Put On Two Evenings; Variety Promised

What would you do, if, while in the arm's of a minister's wife, said clergyman entered the room? Would you take the advertiser's advice and "light a Murad?" There's a still better way than that, if you'd like to find out. Such a close call comes to one of the characters in "The Flattering Word," one of the four one-act plays being given under the auspices of the Guild hall players Wednesday and Thursday night of this week. "The Flattering Word" is full of breath-taking situations, harrowing experiences and clever banter, and is known in dramatic circles as one of the funniest of funny comedies. Of the three other plays, "Will o' the Wisp" is probably the most weird and unusual, keeping you in breathless suspense to see what the strange white-faced girl, who never utters a word throughout the play, will do. Then there's "The Glittering Gate," one of Dunsany's best one-act plays. A story of a hanged criminal and his fellow crook trying to get through the gates of heaven. Did you ever think of trying to get in without St. Peter's consent by using a safe-cracker's methods? That's just a hint. Of course you'll like "Lonesome Like." You'll want to find what happens to the old woman who is scheduled for the poor-house. We'll tell you this much. It takes the half-wit to save her.

The plays are being put on by the students in the class of the technique of acting, while the stage decorating is done entirely by the class in stage craft. The entire production is supervised by Mrs. Ottilie T. Seybolt, head of the drama department, who just came to the university this fall from the east.

Eastern Oregon P-T.A. Hears Miss Hair on Home Study Groups

Miss Mozelle Hair, of the extension division, addressed the eastern Oregon district meeting of the Parent-Teacher association on the subject of "Home Study Groups" last Thursday, November 15. The groups are being formed to promote the study of various topics by the parents, according to Miss Hair. A good deal of interest is being shown in the project, she said, and several groups will probably be formed before the end of the year. At present there are three groups in Eugene, two at the Condon school, and one at the Francis Willard. Several more have been organized in various sections of the state, according to Miss Hair, and more are expected to be formed later.

Frosh Gridders Complete Season With Aggie Battle

Win Two, Lose One on 1928 Schedule; Some Good Varsity Prospects

By DEL ADDISON The freshman football season is over. The team has won two games and lost one. The two wins were over the Aggies—just to keep them from getting the, so-called Aggie habit, you know. Their one loss was to the University of Washington freshmen. They lost by one touchdown, pushed over in the last of the game.

Spike Leslie, who piloted the frosh again this year, is one of those coaches who talks little but works much, and when he does talk he isn't given to bragging. When asked of the possible outcome of the first Frosh-Rook game, he said, "The Rooks have a mighty strong team, we'll be lucky to hold them down at all." His team won, 27 to 0.

When the final game was played on this campus last Friday, he said the Rooks had been hampered by injuries and were just coming into their prime for the game. "It's going to be a different story. Bet your money either way, the teams are even," was his advice. The Frosh won, 13 to 0.

Bredley Best Bet Regarding the players chance for the varsity next year, it is hard to say who will be working in there next season. That won't be decided until the season is over, but Jack Erdley, who hails from the same town as Johnny Kitzmiller, seems to be the best bet. He is an end and has made a good showing throughout the season. The end position on the varsity was the hardest to fill this year and graduation will leave a vacancy on the first string and also weaken the reserve strength.

Dean Rieks, the other frosh end, should also have a splendid chance next year. He and Erdley are of medium height, but of the fast charging, hard tackling type that can absorb words and worlds of punishment.

Forsta Good Player Eric Forsta, the tousled haired, Karl fighting center from Astoria has shown varsity calibre in his play, but will face plenty of trouble when he has to compete with the present varsity centers. Forsta, also known as "Moco" or "Mokey," beat out Shirley Carter, brother of center "Nick" Carter of a few years ago. "Mokey" is one of those lean, long players. He is plenty tough. Irving Schultz and Francis Keltner held down the tackle assignments this season. Schultz is the biggest of Spike Leslie's linemen. Desmond Anderson, guard, end, back, or what you will, was a valuable man because of his ability to take over new assignments and play them right. Spike Leslie, line coach, had two good guards in Cy West and Glenn Bessonette at the first of the year, but Bessonette dropped school and West was ill with the flu for the last game. Weston Hayden and Gilbert French were drafted from the second string for the second Rook game.

Al Browne and Steve Fletcher are two backs that Reinhart has been using all season. Browne is a quarter. He can pass, and he hit the line for consistent gains last Friday. Fletcher has shown up in three ways this year, on off tackle slants, receiving passes and punting. In good weather he averages from 40 to 45 yards on his kicks. Londahl Gets Chance Johnny Londahl, little blond line cracker who can kick and has a great pair of hands for the ball and a good throwing arm, has been working all season and acting as reserve back, got his big chance in the final game. He played a consistent game, playing safety, kicking and passing, and doing his share of hitting the line.

Clarence "Dizzy" Dizney was hurt in a practice game with Ashland Normal early in the season and just got into shape for the last game. He did some spectacular playing, intercepting two passes, one of them for a touchdown, but he is really an interference runner and a back who can back up the line.

Oregon Frosh Wins Bet on Game; Gets Ride

Oregon State College, after they had lost Saturday's football game to Oregon, "took an Oregon freshman for a ride" to get even for the defeat. Only in this case, the "ride" was not of the Chicago gunman variety, but in a good old-fashioned wheelbarrow. The freshman, who was George McFarlane, won a bet against a member of Astoria named the unlucky Corvallis man had to wheel McFarlane downtown and back, a distance of approximately two miles, in a wheelbarrow to pay off the bet.

Moe, Dolp Face Tough Golf Game With Champions

Walter Hagen and Frank Farrell To Play Match On Eugene Club Links

Two of golfdom's greatest stars, Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell, will play an exhibition 18-hole match today with two of Oregon's most promising youthful club swingers, Don Moe and Vincent Dolp, both students at the university. The match will be played on the Eugene Country club links and is scheduled to start at 1:30 p. m. Anticipating a number of university students who would like to attend, N. W. Wintler, chairman of the tournament committee, has scheduled a special bus which will leave the College Side Inn at 1:10 for the country club. A nominal charge will be made for the trip.

Hagen and Farrell need no introduction to golf fans, Hagen being at present the British open champion, and Farrell holding the United States open title. Don Moe is the present Oregon state amateur champion, which title he won recently from Vincent Dolp in the final rounds of the match. The older pair is doped to win from the Moe-Dolp combination, but the match should be interesting from a spectator's standpoint and it is expected that a large gallery will follow the illustrious foforesome around the Eugene links this afternoon.

are being made for him to lecture on the campus before he leaves for the University of California. "Oxford University, Its Press, and the Making of a Book" was the subject of his lecture delivered at the University of Washington a short time ago where he discussed English schools with special emphasis on Oxford games and traditions.

Dr. Spere possesses the smallest book in the world, a one by one and a half inch Bible. Dean Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, has been appointed chairman of a committee to arrange for Dr. Spere's program during his stay in Eugene. The time and place of his illustrated talk will be announced later.
