

Casaba Men Find Basket In Practices

Chastain First Casualty; Injury May Slow Him For Coming Season

Hughes, Olinger, Eberhart Outstanding Newcomers

Two hours' drill perfecting the passing and shooting of the varsity basketball squad was staged last night by Coach Billy Reinhart and his assistant, Chuck Jost. Reinhart worked with the most promising of the material, and Jost supervised the work of the super-varsity.

The team is fast rounding into form and the men were locating the basket regularly, making many good shots during the practice session.

Chastain Injured

Oregon's first basketball casualty was suffered during the last practice before Thanksgiving when Mervin Chastain, scrappy forward and a letterman from last year's squad, hurt his shoulder. It is not known whether or not he will be in shape to play this season, and at best, his injury will slow him down. His loss will be keenly felt by the team as he is noted for his accurate shooting and good defensive play.

Joe Bally, Scott Milligan, and Don McCormick were going at top speed in practice last night. These three veterans look to be in mid-season form and are playing faster than ever. Coach Reinhart is spending most of his time correcting minor individual weaknesses. His other three lettermen are in good condition and eager for the season's opening.

Newcomers Work Good

The work of Roy Hughes, Harold Olinger, and Jean Eberhart has been outstanding among the newcomers on the squad. These three men are fighting every minute to break into the varsity lineup and are making things hot for the veterans. Many other aspirants for the team have shown promise of developing into high class basket tossers and will be heard from in time to come.

Reinhart will drill his men hard for the remainder of the term in preparation for the practice games to be played during the Christmas holidays. With the preliminary work cleared up and the men in good condition, the varsity mentor expects to start scrimmage soon. Much time has been spent already in short scrimmage sessions, and regular practice games will soon be started.

K. Reinhardt Speaks On European Ideas Before Newman Club

"Extreme nationalism is the modern heresy," Dr. K. Reinhardt, professor of German, told the Newman club, Sunday evening, November 25, at Newman hall, in discussing various phases of the modern German youth movement. The speaker talked in particular about the movement among German university students and graduates.

Dr. Reinhardt related the history and historical background of the present youth organizations. "It originated much before the war, and had its climax in 1913 with a great meeting at Munich. This meeting brought home the fact that the movement was a revolt against all tradition and opposed the old methods of political and ethical education as established by the older generation," Dr. Reinhardt said.

The causes of the movement may be traced back as far as Plato and Aristotle. Among the Germans who contributed to the causes were Martin Luther, Edmund Kissel, Max Faber, Bismarck, Kant and Leibnitz, he said. The beginnings of the movement were immediately preceded by an extensive tendency of university students to adopt more the newer unreligious attitude, brought about by an insufficient knowledge of Christianity, and, hence, inability to defend it.

"The war taught many lessons, so now Germany, France, England, Italy, Austria, and Switzerland are united in ideals upheld by the youth organizations," Dr. Reinhardt said.

Such problems as capitalism, labor, world peace, modern government, mental diseases and their treatment, with outstanding scholars to treat the various topics, are discussed.

The Newman club will meet Sunday evening, December 9, according to Richard Burke, president. Evolution will be the topic for discussion.

Library Reading Room Gets New Light System

Campus electricians are installing a new system of lights in the general reading room of the main library. There has been complaint for some time about the lights, according to M. H. Douglas, librarian, and since there is no immediate prospect for a new library, the improvement is being made.

There will be about twice as many lights around the reading tables as there were before, although the lights will be smaller. Better distribution of light is the principal consideration in the new system. Before, some parts of the library would be light enough while other parts would be too dark.

Hall Expected Back From South Tonight

President Arnold Bennett Hall will return to the campus tonight from Los Angeles, according to word received by his secretary, Miss Marian Phyl.

President Hall has been ill in Los Angeles for the last week and a half with influenza. He was returning from his eastern trip and had stopped to visit with his wife and daughter when he was taken ill.

Dr. Hall has canceled engagements which were to have taken him to Seattle the latter half of this week.

Freshmen Will Meet In Villard Hall Today

There will be a freshman class meeting at Villard hall this afternoon at 5:00 o'clock, and Brian Minnaugh, class president, urges that all freshmen attend.

"The meeting is very important," Minnaugh said, "and we are expecting all the freshmen to come if possible. It will not last very long."

University Co-op Buys Copyrights To School Songs

Volume May Be Published Middle of Winter Term; New Songs Are Included

The University Co-op is going to have a new song book.

For some time it has been felt that the student body should own the copyright to the former publication which has been out of print for two years. The University Co-op store has been negotiating with Albert Perfect, former University of Oregon school of music faculty member and composer of Mighty Oregon and other songs, and succeeded in purchasing his copyright.

Negotiations were completed last week and all hand, orchestra and sheet music arrangements are now owned by the co-op store. It is hoped that a new edition may be published by the middle of the winter term, and at present a thorough study is being made on the new songs which will be included in the next publication.

It has been thought advisable to include in this book some songs of other schools and colleges. Several schools on the coast have already done this, University of Washington having four songs of "Oregon" in its book. These are, "As I Sit and Dream at Evening," "March, March on Down the Field," "Mighty Oregon," and "All Hail to Thee."

Fourteen old songs are included in the first publications made by Mr. Perfect, who is now teaching in Hollywood, California. It is thought that all of these will be reprinted.

Barry Cerf To Give Lecture in Portland

Students and faculty members in Portland over the week-end will have a chance to hear Dr. Barry Cerf, professor of comparative literature at Reed college, discuss Anatole France, the French writer, before a meeting of the Portland Center Graduate club Saturday evening, December 8, at a banquet beginning at 6:00 o'clock. Dr. Cerf is the author of a book, "Anatole France."

The talk will be at the Sign of the Rose tea shop in the Woodlark building, 365 Alder street.

E. L. Shirrell's Books Gift to Oregon Library

A gift of 137 books has recently been received by the university library from the private library of Elmer Shirrell, who was dean of men at the beginning of the term. The books are mostly on topics relating to social science and economics.

Copies of Final Exam Schedule Obtainable

Students who desire extra copies of the final examination schedule, which was published in the November 28 issue of the Emerald, may obtain them at the Emerald business office at the rear of Friendly hall, according to members of the staff. A nominal sum will be charged.

This Changing World

To-day, you can see big buildings erected noiselessly—by electric welding.

The structural steel worker is dropping his clattering hammer for the electric arc. Silently, swiftly, rigidly, economically, buildings are being fabricated by electric welding, which knits steel with joints as strong as the metal itself.

Building silently! Nothing seems impossible in this electrical age.

Not only in building construction, but in every human activity, we instinctively turn to electricity to add to the comforts of life and to eliminate the wastes of production—another evidence that the electrical industry is maintaining its leadership in this changing world.

Not only industrial equipment, but electric refrigerators, MAZDA lamps, and little motors that add to the comforts of home, are manufactured by the General Electric Company. All are identified by the G-E monogram—a symbol of service.
