

Kenneth Binns Repeats Tale Of Beaver Fame

Paul J. Schissler picked up a dry Portland Telegram crying towel and sobbed forth a long lugubrious story to Kenneth Binns, well known sporting editor of the Telegram.

The fortunes of the Beavers are like the trials of the newsboys and the bootblacks of Horatio Alger fame—only more so if any, which means yes.

Schissler evidently backed Binns against the wall of the Telegram sport office and poured forth volumes of grief.

Binns, who printed the Beaver mentor's "thoughts and impressions somewhat serially," finally got to the Oregon game.

"That mud . . . it taught us a lesson. So did McEwan," declared Schissler in speaking of the Web-foot game.

And yet more had P. J. to say: "That game taught us one thing. Next year we'll have a canvas cover on that field whenever it rains.

But the past conference football season has little interest to the Oregonians now when they are about to welcome a victorious grid team back from Hawaii.

"Mysterious Prowler" Committed to Asylum

The report produced on the campus toward the end of the fall term caused by the activities of the "mysterious prowler" came to an end Sunday, December 23.

33 Students Flunked Out Of University

Men Worst Offenders in Failing To Pass; Six Women Fall Under Ax

Ninety-three Placed On Probationer's List

Underclassmen Hardest Hit By Rules About Study

Scholarship regulations at the University of Oregon have reduced the enrollment here by 33, of whom 27 are men and six women.

A total of 93 lower division students were placed on probation. These students made more than five hours, but less than 10 for the term.

In spite of the drastic scholastic regulations the number "flunking out" is not high. This is attributed to the fact that students have realized more the need of intensive study.

Some of the students reported as being dropped may be re-instated this term if they can show good cause for their deficiencies.

Mortar Board Ball Is Saturday, January 5

Debut of All-campus Dance Is Formal for Women

Tickets were placed on sale yesterday for the first annual Mortar Board Ball, an all campus dance to be given Saturday evening, January 5.

There are grounds to back the statements that there will be good music, good floor, good features and good decorations.

And yet more had P. J. to say: "That game taught us one thing. Next year we'll have a canvas cover on that field whenever it rains.

But the past conference football season has little interest to the Oregonians now when they are about to welcome a victorious grid team back from Hawaii.

Infirmiry Gives Many Students Medical Aid

During the fall term the university infirmiry provided treatment for 450 patients, a number almost equal to the number treated during all three terms of the 1927-28 year.

John Mueller To Go To Portland Sunday

John H. Mueller, assistant professor of sociology, will leave Sunday for Portland on business. As he will return Tuesday, his class in primitive society at 9 o'clock, and the two in principles of sociology at 11 and 2, will not meet.

U.S. Dry for Ten Years

Oregon Profs Differ Upon Success Of Prohibition; Need Enforcement

By LESTER McDONALD

"Prohibition has been greatly exaggerated!" The tenth anniversary of the Volstead act was the first of January.

"As a question of morals, Dr. Townsend declared that the amendment has nothing to do with morality. Violent pros and cons try to make it such a question, he said, but it has made no man better or worse.

"Prohibition has not made a better, but a safer and more orderly United States. In my boyhood I lived in a Nebraska town of 2000 people," said Dr. Townsend.

Prohibition is a success, is the view of Dr. H. G. Townsend in discussing it from the angle of ten years after.

"As a question of morals, Dr. Townsend declared that the amendment has nothing to do with morality. Violent pros and cons try to make it such a question, he said, but it has made no man better or worse.

"Prohibition has not made a better, but a safer and more orderly United States. In my boyhood I lived in a Nebraska town of 2000 people," said Dr. Townsend.

C. Calouri Earns Highest Grades For Fall Term

Increased Standards Cut Number on Honor Roll To Fifty-six Students

Catherine Calouri, a senior in Latin from Portland, led the fall term honor roll with no grade below I, the highest mark given.

Formerly students might receive the honor rating by carrying a load of eight hours and receiving no grade less than II.

The registrar announced the following as having received no grade less than II: Bliss Annes, La Grande; LeRoy Bove, Portland; James Coombes, Eugene; Frank Hall, Creswell; Richard Kneeland, Portland; Karl Lindstrum, Lebanon; Robert Miller, Pendleton; Richard Morris, Portland; Wade Newbegin, Portland; Herbert Pate, Eugene; Russell Richmond, Siletz; Francis P. Robinson, La Grande; Frederick Sandberg, Portland; Clement Shafer, Lewiston, Idaho; Cecil Snyder, Eugene; Theodore Tetz, Portland; Harry Van Dine, Portland; John W. Weik, Astoria.

Catherine Calouri, Portland; Jane Cochran, Portland; Wilma Eddy, Corvallis; Alice E. Edwards, Tacoma, Wash.; LaWanda Penlason, Portland; Mary G. Gauntlett, Aberdeen, Wash.; Jeannette Hermance, Eugene; Naomi Holman, Portland; Irene Hollenbeck, Newberg; Ruth Jackson, Eugene; Katherine Karpenstein, Portland; Jennie Klemm, Eugene; Dorothea Lensch, Portland; Margaret McKnight, Eugene.

Agnes Scherzold, Oregon City; Marguerite Peterbaum, Mount Angel; Olga Sadilek, Oswego; Sarah Starr, Portland; Celia Stoddard, Portland; Kathleen Tharaldsen, Portland; Margaret Tingle, Eugene; Jean Thomins, Pasadena, Cal.; Mildred Wharton, Portland.

Students with no grade below II, but having an incomplete in one subject are: Edward McDaniel, Elkton; Allan East, Portland; Russell Hendricks, Portland; Keith Ingalls, Eugene; Aubrey Walker, Grants Pass; Mary Cameron, Portland; Katherine Galbraith, Portland; Florence Hill, Harbor; Margaret Knapp, Aurora; Willmadene Bichelsson, Portland; Rose Roberts, Portland; Marion Sten, St. Helens; Georgia Upthegrove, Portland; Zelma M. Woods, Dallas.

Dean Carpenter Sick With 'Flu' After Trip

Dean Charles E. Carpenter of the University of Oregon law school is confined to his bed with influenza, and will be unable to attend classes during the first week of the winter term.

Dean Carpenter Sick With 'Flu' After Trip

Dean Charles E. Carpenter of the University of Oregon law school is confined to his bed with influenza, and will be unable to attend classes during the first week of the winter term.

Teachers Hear Oregon Profs At Conference

Ten Faculty Members Talk At Meetings; Results of Special Studies Given

Ten University of Oregon professors told members of the Oregon State Teachers' association the results of their studies and suggested changes in the public school system to improve its efficiency.

The handwriting of Oregon school children is poorer than that of pupils in other states, though they write at a greater speed, Dr. Huffaker said.

The handwriting of Oregon school children is poorer than that of pupils in other states, though they write at a greater speed, Dr. Huffaker said.

The handwriting of Oregon school children is poorer than that of pupils in other states, though they write at a greater speed, Dr. Huffaker said.

The handwriting of Oregon school children is poorer than that of pupils in other states, though they write at a greater speed, Dr. Huffaker said.

Hall Urges Students To Co-operate With Faculty During Term

The fall term of the university has come to a close, the first term for many students. The term has brought its problems as well as its joys and pleasures.

Hall Urges Students To Co-operate With Faculty During Term

The fall term of the university has come to a close, the first term for many students. The term has brought its problems as well as its joys and pleasures.

East Schools Regard West In New Light

McKeown Returns After Attending Convention Of Student Officers

Colleges on Atlantic Respect Westerners

Oregon State Man Wins National Presidency

"Ersel Narver, student-body president two years ago of O. S. C., was elected president of the National Student Federation of America.

Joe McKeown said yesterday regarding his trip to the University of Missouri during the Christmas vacation to attend the federation's annual meeting.

"It seemed to be regularly admitted. The western representatives came around to see me and asked to see our constitution. They seemed to be most interested in the graduate manager system, and the organization of the student and executive councils."

The majority attending the university seemed to think traditions a fine thing, McKeown continued, but the easterners couldn't understand how Oregon upheld the tradition that only seniors may wear cords.

The initial step was taken to have blanket rules for eligibility in athletics. Such a rule, if put into effect, would cover all inter-sectional games and would eliminate fifth-year athletes.

Tucker P. Smith, executive secretary of the national committee of militarism in education, had a debate with a prominent attorney of Columbia. "The University of Missouri had a strong R. O. T. C. and they didn't want doubt cast on its utility.

The committee on international relations brought up the Kellogg pact and the league of nations. Cablegrams were sent to the universities of Bolivia and Paraguay expressing hope that the difficulties of the two countries might soon be settled.

McKeown was a member of the standing committee of publicity. He suggested a plan to publish a monthly magazine giving the news of all the colleges of America.

McKeown continued, "I must say, people of Missouri are certainly hospitable. The university was closed down because of the flu, and many of the sororities and fraternities were closed. Still places were found for all of us, and our time was completely taken up with interesting and educational programs."

Emerald Staff Shifted For Winter Program

Several changes and additions to the news staff of the Emerald were announced yesterday by Arthur Schoeni, managing editor. A shake-up of the reporters of the paper has also taken place and different beats given to each of them to afford variety of work for the students.

Vinton Hall was promoted to a position of day editor and Mary Klemm will act as an assistant day editor. Fred Bechill, Ruth Gaunt, and Barney Miller received advancements to the position of night editor.

Merlin Blais and Rex Tussing were the only newcomers among the reporters.

One Patient Enjoys Infirmiry Vacation

Thacher Cottage, Annex Closed; 'Flu' Abates

When dear old Santa Claus reached the U. of O. infirmiry during his Christmas eve meddlerings he found only one sick student awaiting his arrival.

Since the re-opening of school, however, several new patients have been confined to the infirmiry, and yesterday five beds were occupied. Marian Fluke is the only influenza case.

Varsity Debate Plans Formed By J. K. Horner

Freshman Tryouts Listed For January 9; Squad Much Smaller This Year

The men's varsity debate schedule has been definitely arranged by the debate coach, J. K. Horner, and the first forensic encounter for them will be in the latter part of February, according to an announcement made by Mr. Horner yesterday.

At the present time there are six coast schools on the schedule with a total of eight debates since both Idaho and Nevada have contracted for dual debates to be held at the respective schools.

"In addition to these there is a possibility of a dual debate with Stanford university and also Northwestern university of Evanston, Illinois, wishes to debate here if it is possible to obtain a date on our schedule," said Mr. Horner.

The tryouts for the freshman debate squad will be held Wednesday, January 9, and the women's varsity tryouts on January 19. Both tryouts will be held in Villard hall at 3 p. m.

The schedules for the freshmen and also for the women are not completed as yet, said Mr. Horner, but the managers are working on them and will have a number of good debates for both squads this year.

"The squad for the men's debates is smaller this year and all those picked on the squad are required to register in intercollegiate debate," the debate coach stated. "This class will meet on Thursday from two to four and by this method we hope to do away with a lot of the customary night work that has been necessary here at previous times," Mr. Horner said.

Dean Eric W. Allen Returns From Meet

Appointed Head of New Committee on Research

Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism, has returned from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, Michigan, where he was a delegate to the annual convention of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism, which met December 27-29.

Dean Allen was named the chairman of a new body created at this convention, the National Research Council in Journalism. Other members of the board are: W. G. Bleyer, University of Wisconsin; Dean Walter Williams, University of Missouri; J. W. Cunliffe, Columbia University; J. O. Simmons, Syracuse University; Dean E. M. Johnson, University of Minnesota; and Dean A. L. Stone, University of Montana.

Working with his fellow members through correspondence, Dean Allen will be ready to give a report at the next convention, which is to be held at Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

High School Conference Plans Ready

Over 500 Prep Students Are Expected To Arrive On Campus Jan. 11-12

Banquet, Style Show Planned for Visitors

Principals' Conference To Be Held in Conjunction

Plans are rapidly being completed for the High School Conference to be held on the campus, January 11 and 12, during which the university will be hosts to some 600 high school students from all parts of Oregon.

Hal Anderson, chairman of the correspondence committee, reports acceptances from about 100 schools that will send delegates. This is approximately half of those he sent out.

The banquet will be held in the men's dorm and will be in charge of Mrs. Davis. Arrangements have been made by Paul Hunt, chairman of the campus tour, for transportation of the delegates from the depot to the campus, and the Oregon Electric has offered special rates to high school students coming down for the conference.

Discussions, exhibitions, teas, election of officers, luncheons, open swim, and a style show are scheduled for the program for the Girls' League section of the High School conference. Edith Dodge, president of the Women's league, is in charge of all plans and she is being assisted by Dorothea Lensch, with W. A. A. programs, Elsie Goddard, style show, and Dorothy Kirk, publicity.

The first meeting of the Girls' league delegates will be Friday morning. Members of the Girls' league of University high will entertain at luncheon that day, and in the evening all delegates will meet in a group at the banquet. During the afternoon a tea will be given by Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalistic honorary, for all women editors and business managers.

A close Saturday noon, after a morning of exhibitions, games and a style show. Discussions will be conducted at various times upon subjects of interest to presidents, secretaries, deans of women, advisors, and members of athletic associations.

Student problems will be discussed during the conference, and plans will be offered whereby difficulties may be smoothed out. "High School Athletic Problems" will be discussed by John Finley of Grant high, Portland; Barney Cameron of Salem will speak on "Debating in the High School"; "Problems of Finance" will be the topic of Helen Hall, The Dalles; Harold

Law Review Carries Restatement Results

The Oregon Law Review is the first periodical to carry results of the restatement of law by the American Law Institute. The Oregon law school faculty is working over the entire restatement, correlating it with the Oregon statutes, and the first results of this work were published in the review, just out.

In a number of other states similar projects have been started by university law school faculties, but none has yet been published.

F. V. Harper Accepts New Law School Job

Fowler V. Harper, professor of law at the University of Oregon, has accepted an appointment to teach in the law school of Northwestern university, Chicago, next summer, it was announced yesterday. Prof. Harper will handle courses in jurisprudence and bills and notes at the Chicago school, teaching from July 24 to September 24. He will return to Eugene in the fall to resume his work here as professor of law and editor of the Oregon Law Review.