

Super-Varsity Defeat Frosh In Scrimmage

Yearlings Leave Friday For Two-game Series With Medford Quintet

Spike Will Pick 10 Players To Take on Trip South

Spike Leslie's freshman basketball players saw more action in a two hour scrimmage session against the super varsity than they have received yet this season. They played a regular game, which the super won by a 27 to 28 score, and then after a short rest started the engagement all over again. Had they but played a few minutes longer, the games would have resulted in a preliminary to the varsity contest.

The frosh leave this coming Friday for a two-game invasion of Medford. They will meet the Medford high quintet, which is coached by Prink Callison. His team is touted as one of the greatest high school teams ever developed in the state of Oregon.

Medford Placed Second

The Medford team placed second to Washington high of Portland for the state championship last spring when they barely lost in the final game of the tournament, playing an overtime period to break the tie score. The Pear Pickers lost only one man this year, and he will face them this week end. Estill Phipps, the Medford center in 1928 who was named on the second all-state team, is on the freshman first squad and it seems that he has the center position cinched.

Ineligibility has taken its annual toll and left the freshmen with six less men. The loss of Chester Knowlton, all-state guard from Tillamook, will be felt most. Other men ineligible are Lewis Ankeny, Joe Britcher, Charles Graves, Ivan Kafoury, and George McFarland.

Ten Go to Medford

Coch Leslie has not decided upon the ten men who will make the trip to Medford but he announced after scrimmage last night that the squad will be selected from the following men: Steve Fletcher, Vincent Dolp, Henry Levoff, Paul Bale, Kermit Stevens, Estill Phipps, Don Ragen, Billy Keenan, Don Baird, Claude Mahan, John Rollwage, Jesse Bradley, Charles Teague, Kenneth Seales, Omar Palmer, and George Scavala.

The yearlings outclassed the super varsity in the first half of the regular game, but the older players came back in the last half to run up enough points to put them ahead.

This reversal was brought on partly by the large number of substitutes sent in by Spike Leslie, and partly because the super were making a larger percentage of their shots.

Fencing Exhibition To Be Given Legion

Steel clashing on steel, the old way of settling disputes, will be demonstrated to modern soldiers next Thursday evening when the University of Oregon fencing squad gives an exhibition for the American Legion convention in Eugene. The matches are on a program to be given in the Chamber of Commerce building in honor of the visiting delegates.

There will be a bout between Jesse Douglas, sophomore in pre-law, and Winchester Heicher, sophomore in history. Both are clever fencers, and a good match is expected. Warren C. Powell, instructor, will demonstrate the various positions and, paired with Heicher, will give a fancy exhibition with the foils. This year, under Mr. Powell, fencing has taken great strides.

Warren D. Smith Talks To Salem Lions' Club

Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the department of geology, addressed the Lions' club of Salem last Friday on the "Geology of Western Oregon." In his talk, Dr. Smith covered especially the possibilities and difficulties of getting oil in this part of the state.

college women that it had last year up to this time, according to Miss Dorothy Thomas, secretary of the organization.

Miss Thomas attributes the lack of increase in the amount of work to the poor financial situation this year which has kept many from coming to school unless they were sure of having a job.

Approximately $3000 was earned during the past term through regular work gained through the Y. W. agency. About $700 was earned by temporary work.

Forty-two girls were placed at regular jobs, and 50 did temporary work. More odd jobs were taken care of last term than usual, but there were fewer students available who wished to work for room and board.

Part time housework and caring for children were the most popular means of employment, though some stenographic and accompanying was done.

Director of Newman Club Leaves Eugene Goes To Washington, D. C., To Head National Bureau

Rev. Edwin V. O'Hara, founder and adviser of the University of Oregon chapter of the Newman club, has left Eugene to take up duties in Washington, D. C., where he will devote full time to the national rural life bureau of which he is director. In the eight years that he has been in this city as pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, the Newman club has grown to a Rev. E. O'Hara large membership from the few with whom Father O'Hara founded the organization.

He was especially interested in student problems and had a wide background for his work with the club, having traveled throughout Europe, where he was a chaplain during the war, and having visited every part of the United States and studied conditions in the entire country and in Mexico. Father O'Hara has been at various times, author of history and economics, editor of a magazine, nationally-known college lecturer, founder of the rural life bureau and of other groups, and has been a labor reformer while chairman of the state industrial welfare commission. This summer he plans to visit South America, and also will give an economics course at Notre Dame university.

Father O'Hara will be succeeded here by Rev. Frank Leipzig, who has had charge of the Newman club at O. S. C. while acting as the Corvallis pastor.

Famed Speakers Coming to Campus

Two speakers of national repute will be heard on the campus in the near future.

A. J. Elliot of New York, who is the associate secretary of the Student Division of the National Council of Y. M. C. A., is to be here on January 24. Several meetings are to be arranged for him, and the programs will be announced later.

Next Women's League Tea Will Be Thursday

Another Women's league tea will be given Thursday, from 3 to 5 in the Woman's building, according to Florence McNeerney, chairman of teas for this year.

Members of Alpha Omicron Pi will act as hostesses, with Theresa Young in charge. The list of women's living organizations is being followed alphabetically.

Entertainment and music for dancing is being arranged by Eleanor Planagan, assisted by Gladys Clausen, Helen Borden, and Etta Belle Kitchen. Refreshments are in charge of Marjorie Chester. Other members of this committee are Ethel Conway, Linnie Belshe, and Florence Cook.

Chamber Heads To Hold Annual Meet on Campus

March 18-23 Selected as Date for Conference of Chamber Secretaries

Intensive study of chamber of commerce problems peculiar to Oregon will be the main work at the annual school for chamber of commerce secretaries at the University of Oregon March 18 to 23, it is announced by David E. Faville, dean of the school of business administration. Under the direction of Ted Baker, Medford, who is president of the state association of chamber secretaries, a comprehensive program is already being worked out.

An expert technical speaker will be on hand to lead many of the discussions. An effort is being made to obtain James A. Ford, secretary of the Spokane chamber, who is regarded as an outstanding authority in this line, and it is also planned to have several other experts present for the various topics that will come up.

Subjects that will be taken up at the meeting include the following: Making office records effective for chamber of commerce secretaries. Getting effective volunteer help for chamber of commerce work or programs.

How to work most effectively with business organizations of the town.

How to work with the service clubs.

Handling tourist traffic.

How may secretaries make land settlement most effective in their communities?

How to read freight rates and traffic schedules.

The school is regularly attended by chamber of commerce secretaries from all parts of the state, many of whom come each year.

Four Physics Courses Are for Summer Term

A three term course in general physics, a course in the history and teaching of physics, and advanced courses in physical optics and analytical mechanism will be offered by the physics department during the summer session, according to Dr. A. E. Caswell, professor of physics.

well grounded in mathematics and physics and had done field work in geology, to take up the research work. Geo-physical work is a department of modern research in geology that calls for special training. It covers the use of electrical induction and the use of gravity in finding buried mineral deposits.

Mr. Southwick came to the geology department from the California Institute of Technology the first of this year after having completed his master's thesis there.

Mr. Bond is a brother of J. H. Bond, professor in the school of business administration. He is an Oregon graduate, having taken his B. A. degree in chemistry here.

Graduate Student Now at Heidelberg

L. Wiens Clerk on Tramp Steamer Two Months

Pursuing the phantom of knowledge, P. Lorenz Wiens, a graduate student in the University of Oregon last year, spent two months as second clerk on a tramp steamer and is now enrolled in the University of Heidelberg.

In writing to Dr. A. R. Moore, professor of animal biology, he says, "I arrived here about three weeks early and felt as forsaken as a chicken (poultry) on Broadway, but a lively landlady, a few nights in cafes, and several long walks through the country soon made me feel more at home. The life of the people and their philosophy is jolly interesting.

"There are two things, though, that are able to rouse me to fighting pitch: filthy and unreasoning diatribes on the Christian religion and slams against the, in so many ways foolish, but good old U. S. A."

Mr. Wiens explained that the German system of studying is to carry as much work as possible, take notes on it in class, and then cram in the few weeks of vacation before examination.

Mr. Wiens was born in Kansas, but his parents were missionaries, so, besides being able to speak German, as his parents spoke that language in their home, he is able to speak two different Chinese dialects.

Mother of C. G. Howell Spends Vacation Here

New York Visitor Praises Green Oregon Campus

All the way from Syracuse, city of a now snow-clad state, came Mrs. Jennie C. Howell, just before Christmas, to visit her son, Charles G. Howell, who is spending his first year here as instructor in French. She terminated her visit a few days ago when she left for California, planning to return to New York by the southern route.

It was Mrs. Howell's first trip to the Pacific coast—and her first glimpse of western universities. She paid Oregon a compliment when she termed its campus "even prettier than the campus at the University of Syracuse." Her home is just two blocks from the New York school.

Mrs. Howell came anticipating the novelty of a green Christmas holiday season, but she did not find the coast entirely minus snow during her stay.

Teaching Mrs. Pierre Thomas, wife of the professor in French, how to make apple pies "à la American" was just one of the interesting events of the New York visitor's stay.

Public Speaking Tryouts Slated For January 22

Oratory, Extempore Squad To Be Selected; Full Schedule Is Planned

Oratory and extempore speaking squads will be selected by A. Holmes Baldrige, coach, when men wishing to represent Oregon in oratorical and "extemp" contests try out next Tuesday, January 22, in Willard hall at 3 o'clock. Any and all men except freshmen may try out. Mr. Baldrige says, and a full program of meets is being arranged.

A ten-minute original oration on any subject will be given by those trying out for oratory, and "Big Business and Politics" is the topic for the extempore tryouts. Contestants will read in the general subject and 10 minutes before they are to speak will be assigned a specific topic on which to talk for six minutes. The time set for the "extemp" tryouts is 4:30.

Two new meets are on the schedule this year: the Pacific Forensic league's oratorical contest and the extempore meet sponsored by the same body. The Pacific Forensic league is analogous to the Pacific football conference, according to Mr. Baldrige, and includes in its membership the Universities of Arizona, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, California, and Southern California, as well as Oregon State college and Willamette university. These two contests, to each of which Oregon will send one representative, are the most important the school has ever taken part in, the coach says.

Both Mr. Baldrige and Debate Coach J. K. Horner will journey to Moscow, Idaho, the scene of the contests, to attend the meetings for the discussion of speech problems of the various schools. The conference is scheduled for the last week in March. Cash prizes are offered the winners in the league's contests, which are held annually.

The Old Ling oratorical contest will be held at Pacific university, Forest Grove, the second week in March. Original orations are to be presented on a topic yet to be announced. The winner will be presented with a medal.

A state contest in extempore speaking will be held at Linfield college, McMinnville, sponsored by the Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Association of Oregon. Representatives will deliver a five-minute speech on a topic yet to be selected. Prizes offered are $25 for first, $15, second, and $10, third.

The first week in May Eugene will be the scene of the district elimination meet for the national inter-collegiate constitutional contest. Speakers will prepare and deliver an original oration on the subject of the constitution.

Jazz, Oregon Style, In Store for Orient

5 Campus Musicians Plan 2-Months' Tour Abroad

The Orient will have a chance to hear American classical music and American jazz (Oregon flavored) within the next few months.

For Jack Reynolds, Junior Revue star, and four mates of the musical scale, will leave the campus on January 21 and embark from Seattle on board the S. S. President Pierce for a two-month tour of the Orient.

The five-piece orchestra, composed of Cliff Bird, Al Woodroof, Merlin Drury, Gene Bart, and Jack Reynolds, will do their stuff in all of the big oriental ports in Japan, China and in the Philippines and Hawaii, as well as on board the American Mail line steamer.

All five of the men are well-known on the campus as musicians. The company expects to be back by spring vacation so that Reynolds can take part in the Junior Revue, in which he has done jazz dancing specialties for the past two years.

Y.W.C.A. Staff Dinner Is Slated for Tuesday

The monthly Y. W. C. A. staff dinner will be held next Tuesday evening, January 22, at the Bang-low at 6 o'clock, announces Dorothy Thomas, secretary. These dinners are open to anyone who is interested in Y. W. work.

Marguerite Spah, who is in charge of the ticket sale, has appointed representatives in each of the living organizations. Women who are not living in organized groups on the campus may obtain their tickets at the Bungalow. The tickets, which are 25 cents, will be on sale until Friday.

Miss Marcia Seeber, Seabeek division secretary from Tacoma, will be a guest at the dinner.

Hazel Hilberg, who is in charge of the dinner, promises a good menu and urges that those who are interested in attending should buy their tickets as early as possible.
