

Relations Club To Work With U. Of Mexico

National University Writes To Local Group Asking For Aid, Cooperation

Institute Collecting Documents for Study American Problems Will Receive Close Attention

A program of close co-operation between the International Relations club of the University of Oregon and the newly established Inter-American Institute of the National University of Mexico is expected to be approved at the next meeting of the campus organization, it is announced by George Verne Blue, assistant professor of history, who is chairman of the faculty committee for the club. A communication from Alfonso Prunada, rector of the National University and president of the Institute has been received in which the work is outlined.

Institute Procures Papers

The Institute has been established to procure all documents necessary for the study of the problems of America which may be followed out later, to strengthen the cultural relations between all countries of America, to form a library and archive for the use of those studying issues before America, and to call meetings of members to discuss subjects which may be brought up, the letter states.

The session for last year was held August 13 to 18 at the National University of Mexico, during which the following subjects were discussed:

Subjects Discussed

Pan-Americanism, Latin-Americanism, Spanish-Americanism—which is the slogan most appropriate to Spanish America?

The problem of Inter-American communication.

Definition of imperialism in its various aspects—namely, economic, political, cultural, etc.

What type of culture is most appropriate to Spanish America?

Arbitration as a means of settling difficulties that can arise between the different countries of America.

What means can be put in practice to encourage intellectual relations between the nations of America?

To Establish Centers

The National University of Mexico also proposes that a similar institute be established in each country on the American continent, and that centers of study along this line be established wherever possible.

Dr. Arnold Bennett Hall, president of the University of Oregon, has written to Senor Prunada offering the utmost co-operation, and keen interest in the work is expected to be shown by the International Relations club here.

Sigma Xi To Hear Lecture by Sears

Dr. H. J. Sears of the medical school in Portland will give a lecture on the Bacteriophage at the next meeting of Sigma Xi, national honorary science fraternity, which will be held in Eugene January 25 for both the Portland and local chapters.

On February 8, the meeting will convene at Corvallis, where Dr. H. B. Yeom, professor of zoology, will give the main speech. His topic is as yet undecided.

Another popular lecture is to be sponsored by Sigma Xi towards the last of February.

Increase in Number of College Men In Legislature in Past Decade Shown

By JOE RICE

One of the topics of the day that hobs up constantly is the question of the qualifications of our state's solons to make our laws.

The query arises as to whether they are any better qualified by experience or by education than were their predecessors of the sessions of five, ten or twenty years ago.

The answer seems to be that the present legislature is better prepared, in the matter of educational qualifications, than any previous one. In legislative experience, that is, in the average number of years actually devoted to lawmaking by the members of the legislature now in session in Salem, the present group of legislators appear to be as well qualified as any other in the history of the state. These facts are revealed in information contained in the Who's Who edition of the Oregon Voter for 1929.

Bill Admitting Oregon Law Graduates To Bar Without Exam, Norblad's Idea

State Senator Will Introduce Measure in Salem Legislature; Dean Carpenter Mum on Issues

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 19.—(Special to the Emerald)—Senator A. W. Norblad of Clatsop county, president of the upper house, announced today that next week he would introduce a bill to permit graduates of the University of Oregon law school to practice in the courts of the state without taking the state bar examination. Senator Norblad pointed out that Michigan and some other states grant similar privilege to graduates of their state university law schools, even when examinations are required of graduates of famous institutions outside the state.

Dean Charles E. Carpenter of the law school, when asked last night to make a statement on the proposed bill of Senator Norblad, stated that he had nothing to say on the subject at present, but expected to issue one next week.

Should such a law be passed through the state legislature, it would mean the saving of countless

February Eight Is New Date Set For B.A.S.A. Hop

Rutherford Promises Wax For Floor, Good Music, Punch, Low Admission

Confliction in the dating of dances for January 25, has made it necessary that the business administration student body association dance be moved ahead to Friday, February 8, it was announced today by William Rutherford, general chairman of the affair.

Plans for the dance include all things, stated the chairman, that go to make a good dance better.

Jimmy Purrell's Perculators will furnish the clatter—piping hot—syncopation—enough to lighten the heaviest of the light fantastic toes.

"Admission," continued Mr. Rutherford, "is only six bits a couple. You can see we don't intend to have any student committees investigating our dance for profiteering, poorly waxed floor, lack of light, nor abundance of dirt. Seventy-five cents a couple, good punch and everything."

The dance will take place in the Woman's building Friday, February 8. The general chairman states positively that the floor will be fixed if he has to get down on his hands and knees to do it.

Members of the business administration student body association and their friends are privileged to attend this dance. "But," added Mr. Rutherford, "we consider that every one on the campus is a friend."

Tickets are new and a novelty. They are in the form of a balance sheet with the copy entered as debit and credit items.

Decorations are being planned, and Mr. Rutherford hopes to have a surprise for the campus in the way of something new.

Representatives for the selling of tickets to the dance are as follows: Grace Griggs, Roma Whisman, Harvey Robertson, Ronald McCreight, Ralph Geyer, Delbert Richmond, and Margaret Barratt.

The library in the commerce building will also have tickets for sale.

Miss Pauline Guthrie Will Sing at Vespers

Miss Pauline Guthrie, mezzo-soprano and soprano in the school of music, will sing "There Is a Land Mine Eye Hath Seen" as a solo number at the Sunday afternoon vesper service scheduled for 4:30 o'clock, January 20, at the music building.

The service will be read by Rev. Franklin J. Haas, D.D., pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Eugene.

John Stark Evans will be at the organ, playing music yet to be selected.

Teaching Jobs For Next Year To Be Filled Soon

Many Positions Offered Qualified Students by Appointment Bureau

The busy season for the placement of teachers will begin soon, reaching its height in March and April, according to Professor F. L. Stetson, director of the appointment bureau.

"All university students who expect to be qualified and available for teaching, positions next fall should register in the appointment bureau within the next month in order that their credentials may be prepared properly," said Mr. Stetson yesterday afternoon.

The appointment bureau is now located in commodious new quarters in room 1 of the Education building and is well equipped to take care of the many calls for teachers and administrators that come from Oregon and surrounding states, according to Mr. Stetson.

Last year the bureau assisted in the placement of nearly 300 teachers, including 147 of the 1928 senior class and graduate school.

"The registration fee is one dollar. I do not know of any similar investment which insures anything near the same amount of personal attention and service. This charge is especially low when compared with the five per cent of the first year's salary which is charged for placement by commercial agencies," continued Mr. Stetson.

A meeting of all prospective candidates for teaching positions is called for Tuesday, January 22, at 4 o'clock in the Education building when the work of the bureau and the process of registration and application will be explained.

Flood Problem Studied By Environment Class

Situation Between Eugene, Springfield Surveyed

The 9:00 o'clock "Man and His Environment" class, taught by Dr. Warren D. Smith, has been assigned a survey of the flood situation existing between Eugene and Springfield. This problem, which presents a real menace, has been discussed in the local papers for some time.

"Although many of the students do not consider it so, this is in reality a geological problem," stated Dr. Smith. "Its importance may be illustrated by the fact that the Union Pacific, the Southern Pacific, and the U. S. reclamation bureau have experts at work attempting to solve it. It shows that we do not have to go abroad for our research, but that we have problems to be solved at our very door—problems which are vitally connected with the daily life of the community."

Dr. Smith said that while he did not expect a final solution to this assignment, he did expect it to give the students experience, and to get them interested in the problems which confront the community.

Freshmen in R.O.T.C. Take First Aid Course

A short first aid course has been given to the freshmen taking military training by the R. O. T. C. department this week and will be concluded today. A quiz covering the work will be given Monday.

The work was aimed to give the students a general knowledge of what to do in case of accident or other cases in which victims need immediate attention. Snake bites, insect stings, broken bones, wounds, fainting, shock, burns, poisoning, and others have been taken up and steps for relief have been named. The men were also told how to care for the feet while hiking or marching, and how simple precautions may be taken to ward off disease.

Swim Meets With Three Schools Sure

Anderson and Silverman Furnish Main Strength; Twelve Will Go South

Stanford, O.S.C., U.S.C. Sign for Competition

Freshman Team Promises Powerful Agregation

Announcement of a tentative schedule for the Oregon varsity swimming team was made yesterday by Jack Benefiel, graduate manager.

Two meets with O. S. C., and one each with Stanford University and the University of Southern California are definite. Other meets will probably be scheduled before the opening of the season in February.

Abercrombie

Stanford Listed

After meeting the Oregon State swimmers on February 9 at Eugene, the Oregon team will train for California to contest with Stanford and U. S. C. Two other opponents will probably be selected, the University of California and the University of California at Los Angeles if negotiations now under way are completed. If these schools are not signed up, one or more California club teams will be met.

The second O. S. C. meet will be March 4 at Corvallis, and unless Washington State college arranges meets with O. S. C. and Oregon, this will complete the Webfoot season.

Anderson Leader

Foremost among the men expected to show up well against the well trained southern swimmers is John Anderson, holder of several Pacific coast records. Charles "Chuck" Silverman, distance swimmer, is expected to win his event at least once in the California meets. Twelve men selected from the squad of 20 now out will make the southern trip.

Webfoot freshman swimmers will participate in a meet with O. S. C. and enter the Oregon state championships at Portland. One of the strongest freshman teams in the history of Oregon swimming is a likelihood for this year. Three performers of note from California, Tommy Blankenburg, Frank Walton, and Frank Mooney, entered the university the winter term and will be eligible for the varsity in 1930.

Oregon Rifle Team Schedules Matches With Many Schools

The Oregon rifle team will have a schedule including matches with teams in almost every part of the country, according to Capt. C. H. Bragg, rifle coach.

The schedule includes the following: February 9, University of Washington, University of Dayton, Ohio; February 16, Washington State college, University of Illinois, Kimper Military school, Missouri; February 23, Agricultural and Mechanical college, Texas, North Dakota university, University of Cincinnati; March 2, Culver Military academy, Rhode Island State college, Lafayette college, Pennsylvania; March 9, Washington university, St. Louis, O. S. C., Corvallis.

The team members have not been chosen but the squad will consist of 10 men. The contesting teams shoot on their home ranges, then send the scores to the college with which the match was being held. A national contest for the William Randolph Hearst trophy will take place from February 15 to April 10.

Moran Breaks Record With 187 P. A. Points

A new high point score of 187 was piled up in the last physical ability tests held at the men's gymnasium last Saturday, January 12, by Thomas Moran, freshman in architecture. Gilbert French, freshman in pre-law, made the next highest score of 177 points. Moran's and French's scores both broke the previous record of 175 points made in the fall term by Tyrell Lowery.

Frank Walton, freshman in journalism, broke the swim record of 59.3 seconds for the 100 yards swim—which, by the way, is his own—by 1.3 seconds, thereby establishing a new record of 58 seconds. The average of the scores in all the events and of the total scores for the contest was considerably higher than the scores of the fall term.

Freshman Mentor

This is Spike Leslie, himself, for the last three years freshman basketball and baseball coach and assistant freshman football tutor. Spike is a former all-coast guard from Oregon and started in the Harvard game at Pasadena New Year's day, 1920.

Frosh Win Game In Last Minute Of Play 21-24

Free Toss by Ragen, Field Goal by Keenan, Give Victory to Oregon

By DAN BOWERMAN

MEDFORD, Ore., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Oregon frosh won their basketball opener here tonight by defeating Medford high school 24-21 in a game so close that the score was tied one minute before the final whistle.

A free throw by Ragen, closely followed by a field goal by Keenan, gave the frosh their victory. Medford had a chance to come out ahead but threw it away when Bowerman and MacDonald each missed tosses from clear positions.

Keenan, with 11 counters, was high point man for the frosh. Dolp and Stevens both played a flashy game.

Gain in Enrollment Reaches 4 Per Cent

3,164 Are Registered This Term; 3,044 Last Year

There are 120 more students registered in the university this winter term than there were at this time last year, according to the statistics of the registrar's office. The total enrollment for this term is 3,164 while last winter term it was 3,044. This shows an increase of four per cent.

Men outnumber the women by 376. There are 1770 men registered in the university and 1394 women. The graduate students number 140.

The four per cent increase in enrollment is larger than the increase usually shown in colleges and universities, according to the registrar's office. Wednesday, January 16, was the last day to enter the university.

'Desert Sweet' Flower Found by L. E. Delting

A pale yellow flower with exquisite narrow leaves and an odor as of dried rose petals only pungent and spicy—something from Arabia, has been found in the Paulinas mountains of Oregon by Leroy Ellsworth Delting, instructor in romance languages.

This flower is known as "Desert Sweet," because it grows only in extremely arid lands. It has never before been found in Oregon, but was discovered in the Modoc lava beds of California.

Mr. Delting's hobby is plant biology, and all last summer he spent, camping by himself, with only the company of foresters, studying the flora of the Paulinas mountains. These mountains have been studied before, but Mr. Delting brought in the most complete collection of flowers and the only seasonal one there is.

A set of these belongs to the herbarium of the university.

Husky Battle Seen As Crucial Game Of Basketball Season

Play-by-play Reports for Opening Tilt To Be Staged at McArthur Court at 7:45; Dope in Favor of Seattle Men

Championship of Northern Section May Hinge On Outcome of Battle With Washington Team

Tonight at Seattle the basketball teams of Oregon and Washington begin their drives toward the championship of the northern section of the Pacific coast conference. Because either one of these teams is generally conceded the title for 1929, the game is the most important on schedule for today.

As Oregon battles the Huskies in the University of Washington athletic pavilion, eager students at Eugene will hear the results of the game at McArthur court. The first news of the game will start coming over the wires at 7:45 o'clock.

The game at Seattle will not be broadcast and to satisfy the demand for a narrative report of the game the Oregon Professional sport writers have made special arrangements to bring a play-by-play description to McArthur court.

A direct hook-up between Eugene and Seattle has been completed and as soon as a play is made in the Washington pavilion it will be announced at the Igloo. A special amplifying set of megaphones has been set up in McArthur court, and the reproduction of what may be the championship game of the north will be heard under the most favorable conditions.

Three announcers, all having a thorough knowledge of basketball, have been selected by the Writers' association, to announce the tilt. They are Charles Jost, W. T. Fletcher, and Sam Wilderman. These three will alternate in telling the story of the game. Jost is assistant coach, Fletcher is trainer, and Wilderman is the sports publicity director. Doc Robnett, assistant graduate manager, has charge of the event.

Special features have been arranged for before the game and between halves. There will be a full program of orchestral dance music, and the sport writers predict the best combined entertainment, athletics and dancing, of the year.

Huskies Doped to Win

Washington, on the basis of its championship last year and its exceptional pre-season record of this year, is favored to win from Oregon tonight. The Webfoot team has been developing slowly, hampered practically all season by numerous injuries. Streaks of brilliance in pre-season contests give promise of power in the Oregon basketball combination. If the Oregonians are "on" tonight, Washington will find a tough team to beat.

Bill Reinhart, with his customary wariness, refuses to announce a starting line-up for the game. The combination which won from the Checkerboards last Tuesday and the one which has been working together in practice since then, undoubtedly will get the first call.

Line-up Announced

The most probable line-up includes Gordon Ridings and Scott Milligan, forwards; Ray Edwards, center; and Don McCormick and Dave Epps, guards. This is a veteran outfit, and all five of the players were in the two Washington games last year.

In the last three years Oregon has not lost a basketball game at

Style Revue Peacock in Splendor; Lounging Robes, Sports Togs Shown

All dressed up and nowhere to go! The atmosphere was of jewels. There were dresses that sparkled with them—dresses that shone with them—and a dress that ran silver with satin. There were small feet shod with gold and many with silver slippers.

Had you closed your eyes, you would have dreamed you were in heaven, listening to a perfect serenade.

"I'll marry you tomorrow And I'll die if you say no."

Thus sang the S. A. E. quartet, members of which were Billy Sierter, Don Eva, Chown Phillips and Art Hansen. Other music was furnished by Roma and Martha Gross on the violin and piano, and Jack Dennis played the saxophone.

The style show last night outdid the last one by its magnificence—and the mannequins were dressed for the eye of man. An attempt was made to improve the show. The lights, instead of being deepened, were brighter and too harsh for most of the models, although, through regulation, they were better at the end of the show than at the beginning.

The picture of the fashion revue was peacock in its pride, splendor, and futuristic scenery. The exhibition of fashions repeated for the public was sponsored by the Women's league for the benefit of the fund for the new infirmary.

Elsie Goddard was general chairman, and was assisted by Martha Stevens, Mae Tobin, Carl Heilborn, Floyd Runk, and Dorothy Kirk.

The clothes for sports and school wear were mostly of the trim, tailored kind. The afternoon creations were either deep tones of claret red, wood brown or else vivid blues, and lounging robes were luxurious.

And then a small girl ready for bed, all comfy with an alarm clock. Time for the sandman!
