

Physical Ed Faculty Rates In Northwest

Academic Rank Highest Of Coast Universities Gaining Recognition

New Tennis Courts Asked By Dean John F. Bovard

Oregon stands ahead of any other college on the coast as regards the academic rank of its physical education staff, it is shown in the annual report of Dean John F. Bovard, of the school of physical education, just filed at the administration offices. The report reviews the entire year's work in Dean Bovard's school.

A compilation of the academic rankings of the physical education staffs of Pacific coast universities is attached to the report, showing that Oregon leads the coast in academic recognition and also in degrees held by our faculty. Oregon staff members are gaining recognition elsewhere, Dean Bovard states.

"Flu" Expensive
The 1928 influenza epidemic is reviewed in Dean Bovard's report, which shows that extra expense incurred by the health service during the epidemic totaled $4225.61. The largest item was for extra nurses and janitorial help, totaling $1993.65. Figures are cited showing that in 1918 influenza patients included about one-third of the student body, while in 1928 they included about one-tenth.

Dean Bovard also reviewed the student council investigation of the health service, criticizing the policy by which the investigation was carried out and the impressions given by its publicity, but stating that any constructive investigation made in the right way would be welcomed at any time.

Tennis Interest Increases
Discussing field expansions, Dean Bovard stated that the growing importance of tennis at Oregon demands the construction of two new tennis courts costing $2400 each, the money to be taken from school of education funds. Last year 20-150 players used the tennis courts, and use during the winter is constantly growing. Increased facilities for women's field sports are recommended by the dean. Fencing the athletic fields and remodeling of the dancing studio are also suggested.

Advancement of personnel work in the school, need for better selection of major students, methods of following out the junior college program in the school, and the graduate work are other matters discussed by Dean Bovard in his report.

Attached to the report are tables showing the work of the school, statistically. These include the use of the plant, numbers enrolled in various activities, university health service report, and so on.

University Grad Shows Plain Life In Recent Book

Haycox, Former Student, Gets Novel About Texas And Dakotas Published

Editing the Sunday Emerald in 1923 was one of the earlier literary experiences of Ernest Haycox, 25. He has just received congratulations on the publication of his first novel, "Free Grass," copies of which have been added to the High Hat rent shelf and book balcony of the Co-op.

Haycox was a member of Tabard Inn, writer's honorary, and won the Edison-Marshall short story contest one year. He is a member of Delta Tau Delta, social fraternity.

Haycox has not once lost contact with the atmosphere of blue pencils, printer's ink and typewriters since finishing his university course. He spent one year as a reporter on the Oregonian, then went to New York and other eastern cities studying the publishing situation for a year or more, and since made his home in Portland writing short stories. He is married and has one child.

Friends of Haycox recall that he showed a keen interest in stories of pioneers about Eugene and in interviewing them was storing up material for future writing. His novel is a story of life on the plains, with its setting in Texas and the Dakotas, while most of his short stories have a western theme.

Other books recently received at the Co-op include "Mamba's Daughter," by Du Bose Heyward, "The Snake Pit," by Sigrid Unset, "Old Pybas," by Warwick Deeping, "Bad Girl," by Vina Delmar.

A new shipment of books for the Modern Library shelf has also been received this week.

Oregon Journal Prints Picture of Glee Clubs Portland People Will Hear Campus Musicians Soon

A large picture of the University of Oregon symphonic choir appeared in the music section of last Sunday's Oregon Daily Journal. Concerning the choir, the Journal said: "The University of Oregon glee clubs combined into a 100-voice symphonic choir, will come to Portland from Eugene, Monday, March 4, to appear as a special attraction with the Portland Symphony orchestra."

"The university orchestra will play a one week's engagement, beginning Saturday, March 16, and ending Friday, March 22, at the Portland Theatre as an added attraction on the same bill with the Public Road productions.

Clarence Veal will be manager of this year's orchestra. Albert Cousins will have charge of the men's glee club, Perry Douglas, the women's glee club, and Lawrence Ogle of the band, according to appointments made by Herb LaSalle, general music manager."

Miss Hair Will Lecture On Birds Saturday

Miss Mozelle Hair, of the extension department, will give a lecture on birds, to members of the Girl Scouts, in the auditorium of the McMorran & Washburne store Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

Frosh Plan Trip To Washington Campus Friday

Game Slated for Saturday; Huskies Have Defeated Oregon Aggie Yearlings

Plans for the trip of the freshman basketball team to Seattle where they will play the University of Washington frosh in the first of a two game series on Saturday, February 16, have been completed, it was announced by Spike Leslie, frosh coach, last night.

The squad composed of nine players, a coach and manager will leave on the Shasta Friday evening at 6:45, and will arrive in Seattle early Saturday morning. They will play the Washington yearlings that night and will leave for Eugene after the game.

The second game with Washington, which will wind up the frosh season, will be played at McArthur court prior to the Webfoot-Husky game, February 22.

From comparative scores the frosh will be the under dogs when they meet the young Huskies. Washington defeated the Aggie frosh, and they in turn won three of the four games played with the Webfoot yearlings.

As only nine players will make the trip north, strong rivalry has been developed among them for places on the chosen squad. It is practically certain that Kermit Stevens, guard; Steve Fletcher, guard and center; Vincent Dolp, guard; Don Ragen, center; Billy Keenan, forward; Jesse Bradley, forward; and Henry Lovoff, forward, will be chosen on the squad, Spike Leslie, states. Four other men will battle it out for the other two places. They are Estill Phipps, center; Claude Mahan, guard; Paul Bale, guard; and Don Baird, forward.

General Geology Class On Field Trip Today

Dr. E. L. Packard's classes in general geology will take field trips today to Skinner's Butte, with Farrell Barnes, senior in geology, in charge.

The 1-3 o'clock section will meet at the foot of the butte at 1:05; and the 3-5 o'clock class will meet there at 3:05. The study of the geological formations on the butte will take the place of a regular laboratory period.

Dr. Packard Speaks At Sigma Xi Meeting

Dr. E. L. Packard, of the geology department, was one of the speakers at the joint meeting of the Sigma Xi society of the university, and the Sigma Xi club of O. S. C. which was held at Corvallis, Friday evening, February 8. Dr. Packard's topic dealt with the breaks in geological form, as illustrated by the findings in Eastern Oregon.

Student Leader Guest Of Local 'Y' Groups

Miss Alice E. Gwinn, who is traveling on the coast doing work for the Student Volunteer movement, is to be on the campus Sunday and Monday, February 20 and 21. Several talks and interviews are to be arranged for her under the joint auspices of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A.

Miss Gwinn, who is a graduate of the University of Washington, has spent one term in Japan under the American Board of Foreign Missions. She is here now on a furlough and has been studying at the Hartford Theological Seminary and School of Missions. Next month she must return to Japan.

Two Books of Poetry Added to Rent Shelf

Two books of poetry new to the rent shelf were added to that collection yesterday with the receipt of "Chills and Fever" and "Two Gentlemen in Bonds," both by John Crowe Ransom, one of the "fugitive" group of the Southern poets. The books are partly reprints from past publications in poetry magazines and books. "Two Gentlemen in Bonds," 20 sonnets from which the volume takes its name.

Tuttle to Teach In Minnesota Summer School

Middle Western Education Systems to Be Studied; Will Speak on Morals

When the University of Minnesota holds its 1929 summer session, beginning June 18 and ending July 27, Harold S. Tuttle, assistant professor in education of the University of Oregon, will be a member of the faculty.

Mr. Tuttle confirmed news of the appointment yesterday afternoon, shortly after receiving notification from Dean M. E. Haggerty. He will have two educational sociology classes, one subject being, Emphasis on Moral Training in Public School. The Oregon professor will have further opportunity to observe the educational system in the Middle West at the completion of the session when he will give lectures at several county school institutes which meet in the summer months. His daughter, Lois, who is a senior in music on the campus this year, will accompany him East and will attend the summer session at Northwestern, doing graduate study in drama, with a view to drama coaching work.

Minnesota is Professor Tuttle's original home. He spent his boyhood in Worthington, Minn. This will be his first experience as instructor at a summer session off the Pacific coast.

Bill Reinhart Confined To Bed With Influenza

Billy Reinhart, head basketball coach, has been confined to his bed since Sunday with a case of the flu, leaving it only long enough each day to work his varsity squad in preparation for the game with Washington State here this Saturday. The flu has already taken its toll on the players, Scott Milligan, Gord Ridings, and Joe Bally have all been subject to its attacks, and did not entirely get over the effects of it until within the last two weeks.
