

Plan Survey Of Plumbing For Oregon

Business Ad School Grants Request of Workmen of Eugene Will Be Carried on in Several Cities of State

A state wide study of costs in the plumbing business is to be carried on by the research bureau of the business administration school here, under the direction of David E. Faville, dean of the department, it was announced yesterday.

Dean Faville

The research was requested by the Master Plumbers' association of Eugene at a meeting of the association in the Osburn hotel Monday night.

School to Do Work

It was decided that the association turn the work of research over to the school of business administration. The research will be started in Eugene, and probably extended to Marshfield, Cottage Grove, Roseburg, Albany and Corvallis.

A committee of A. L. Williamson, and Raymond Warlett, was appointed to secure the necessary data from the local plumbers.

Modeled After Bureau

The study will be modeled on the methods used in cost studies by the Howard Bureau of Business Research, Dean Faville stated. Similar studies have already been made in the building material trades, automotive supplies business, hardware and other wholesale and retail lines, said Dean Faville.

Rough Stuff in Hazing Must Stop, Says Faculty

"Rough Stuff" fraternity hazing was barred at Ohio State university by action of a faculty committee last week.

The "informal initiations" of the fraternities, under the committee's orders, must not last longer than 36 hours, and must be "confined to the premises."

Since the "rough stuff" put on by the fraternities in the usual Hell Week that precedes the administration of the formal ritual, is the only vestige of hazing left on this campus, the faculty order means that within a few years hazing will be a thing of the past.

It has been years since freshmen were hazed by sophomores at Ohio State, for there is virtually no class spirit left at the university. Class spirit is hard to work up among 3,000 freshmen.

The Ohio State Lantern, undergraduate daily, has been editorializing against hazing for some time as a "childish" practice.

Shimuzu to Be Head Of Cosmopolitan Club

New officers for the next year were elected at a meeting of the Cosmopolitan club which was held last Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. hut.

Frank Shimuzu was elected president. Other officers include: Elizabeth Hughes, vice-president; Francisco Tubban, secretary; and Ruth Johnson, treasurer.

Plans for international night, at which time the members of the club will entertain in honor of the members of the Cosmopolitan club of O. S. C., are progressing, according to the new president. The affair, which will be held early next term, is an annual event.

Y. M. C. A. Installation Set for Wednesday

The newly-elected officers of the Y. M. C. A. are formally to take over the work of the association at installation services at the "Y" hut next Wednesday afternoon.

At that time there will be a joint meeting of the old and new cabinets. There are two men still to be chosen before the new cabinet is complete. These will be selected next week.

The new officers to be installed include: Don Campbell, president; Hal Anderson, vice-president; Shailer Peterson, treasurer; and Walter Evans, secretary.

Seven Other States Using Proposed Regents System

ments. The system has been in practice since 1896.

North Dakota's board has six members, three appointive and three ex-officio. Montana from 1893 to 1913 had a joint board but changed the whole system so that there is but one institution, the University of Montana, with the other two state schools as branches of it.

In Idaho the state board of education handles all the business of the state schools.

The reason for the scarcity of single boards of regents in the east is seen in the fact that many of the states do not have institutions of their own, but are full of endowed and private schools.

A large number of the states in the United States have land grant colleges which are linked with the state universities so that only one regent staff is necessary, so between this fact and the one above, there are but few states which are still eligible for a change from multiple boards to a single one.

Many Swimming Aces in Frosh Team Uncovered

Good Varsity Material in Yearling Ranks Will Aid Webfoot Team in 1930

Oregon's 1929 freshman swimming team showed as prospects for next year's varsity, several of the most promising swimmers ever to enter Oregon.

Blankenburg

Trio Seen as Aces

Blankenburg, Walton and Miller, though they did not compete against the rooks or Salem high school, were outstanding in their performances. Between them they unofficially broke several national intercollegiate, and Pacific coast records. Swimming against Northwestern medley relay team the three men gave one of the greatest exhibitions of the medley race ever seen in the United States.

The Northwestern team, in winning, broke the world's record for the event and the Webfoots clipped time off the intercollegiate mark in coming in second.

Blankenburg bettered the national mark for the 200-yard breast stroke in the varsity-frosh meet, first meet of the season. Walton bettered coast marks in back stroke and free style events in practice sessions and Miller clipped part of a second from Johnny Anderson, varsity star's Pacific coast mark in the 100-yard free style in an unauthoritative time trial.

Others Good Material

Among the rest of the squad, Al Edwards, Paul Lafferty, and Dick Torrey turned in high point records for the season. Edwards swam in the 50 and 100-yard free style races, Lafferty performed creditably in both the breast stroke and free style. Torrey won two of three back stroke events in the frosh meets.

Tom Robinson, coach of the Northwestern swimming team, which met the varsity here and gave the exhibition against Blankenburg, Walton, and Miller, said that Oregon has prospects for a nationally ranking swimming team in 1930.

Persian Customs Subject of Talk By Helen Clark

Westminster Guild Hears Story of Progress in Far Eastern Countries

"Persian Customs and Costumes," was the subject of a talk by Helen Clark of Rescht, Persia, before the regular Tuesday meeting of the Westminster Guild, campus organization for Presbyterian women students.

Miss Clarke was formerly a professor of biology at Reed college in Portland.

To create a distinctive atmosphere, Miss Clarke wore the costume of a Persian peasant. It consisted of a short red skirt, coming above the knees, black satin trousers, a white shirt, red vest, and around her head a light veil. Over the whole was worn a shawl, which Miss Clarke explained was only worn while indoors. Some of the shawls, she said, were very artistic in color and design, others were quite gaudy.

Rescht, Persia, is a city of 70,000 people. Miss Clarke visited Persia in 1923, and was surprised at the changes that she noticed in this and other cities upon her return visit last year.

To illustrate the development of motor cars as a means of travel, she said, "In 1923 I traveled from Kazzin to Rescht, a distance of 120 miles by automobile for $100.00. This year the same trip cost me $5.78. Fords and Chev's are so numerous that the Persians call them 'pasee,' which means mosquito," Miss Clarke said.

German air lines afford transportation to all parts of Persia. They have been instrumental in reducing postal rates, stated Miss Clarke.
