

'Tex' Rankin Will Address Aviation Club

Flyer Wires Club Prexy Stating He Will Arrive Wednesday Afternoon

Will Use Sister Ship To Lindy's for Trip

Captain Herbert and Two Students to Make Trip

A telegram from J. G. "Tex" Rankin, nationally known aviator, will probably arrive yesterday by Leonard H. Delano, president of the campus Aero club, stating that he would visit the University of Oregon campus on Wednesday.

Captain P. Herbert, a navigator and ex-navy man will accompany Rankin.

Two students studying cross country flying under Tex Rankin, will probably accompany the flyers to Eugene, stated Mr. Delano.

Tex Rankin is widely known for his rise in the field of aeronautics. Starting some years ago with one old "Jenny," Tex has worked up a flying school that is second to none other in the United States, according to Delano.

The Rankin School of Flying is known from coast to coast, and his method of instruction is used in many other flying schools.

Rankin will fly to Eugene in his Ryan biplane, a sister ship to the renowned "Spirit of St. Louis."

The local club has been working for some weeks now to secure Rankin as a speaker. Two weeks ago he was scheduled to visit Eugene and address the club, but at the last minute, was obliged to cancel his engagement because of a hurried business trip.

"We are indeed fortunate," said Delano, "to have two such men as Tex Rankin and Captain Herbert visit the campus for the sole purpose of addressing Oregon's aviation club. It shows that our work has not been useless, and that the spirit of 'air mindedness' that the club is trying to produce on this campus, is being recognized by men of authority."

The work of the local organization to date has been mostly passive, stated Delano, but with a long list of prominent aeronautical experts scheduled to attend the meetings of the club during spring term, and to give actual instruction, more intensive activity is expected.

The time and place of the meeting at which Rankin is to speak have not been definitely arranged, said the president. Announcement will be made in Wednesday's Emerald.

Film Depicting Power Sources to Be Shown

"Sources of Power," a two reel moving picture filmed by the U. S. bureau of mines, will be shown this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Villard hall, Warren D. Smith, head of the geology department, announced yesterday.

All university students are invited, Dr. Smith said, and no admission will be charged.

Plans at present call for the showing every week during March and part of April of different pictures issued by the bureau of mines.

Phi Beta Secretary Visits

Oscar M. Voorhees, national secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, will be a visitor on the university campus Monday, March 25, according to M. H. Douglass, secretary of the local organization.

Since spring registration will be under way it is unlikely that Mr. Voorhees will give any public address, Mr. Douglass said, but a banquet will probably be given him by university Phi Beta Kappa members.

Blind Pupil to Give Recital Tonight; Learned Piano by Unique Methods

"Stone walls do not a prison make Nor iron bars a cage." The above quotation from Byron has been immortalized for 80 years and will doubtless continue to be so until time immemorial, but it has never been better illustrated than in the case Malcolm Medler, graduate student in the school of music, who, though blind since birth, has overcome seemingly insurmountable obstacles and, in the space of two short years, has become one of the best pianists in the university.

Malcolm has never been able to see, he can only hear, feel, and

Mr. X Talks on Women as He Puffs On Cigarettes and Big, Black Cigar

Timid Woman Needs Less Protection Than Man

The Emerald today is printing an interview with a well-known campus professor on the subject of "women." See if you can guess his identity. His name will be revealed in tomorrow's Emerald.

By CAROL HURLBURT

It was a dangerous subject, and the Wise Man was careful. Women have been called his hobby—but he was wary. His wit was not naughty, as usual, and his brave black mustache was subdued.

He smoked cigarette after cigarette and finally a long black cigar. Evidently he was nervous.

"It's quite apparent that no man with any sense takes a woman for granted," he remarked between puffs.

"Frankly the thing I admire the most in women is greatness of nature. Mere prettiness doesn't last. One of the most beautiful women I ever saw was Eleanor Duse. She didn't use any make-up on her face. She must have been a woman of over 50 and she relied on the lines of her face to give it expression. Any one who has lived greatly or felt deeply has something of beauty about her.

"The Duse was wistful but heroic."

The Wise Man generalized on his subject. His blue eyes were opaque. "Of course all beautiful-women are creations of art as well as of nature."

"But men," he said, "instinctively judge a woman by her emotional attitude. The movies show just siren naughtiness. Of course no man of character cares to be worked on."

The black mustache bristled just for a moment. "When you see a girl with a timid confiding manner, who looks as if she needed to be protected, it seems to me that the men need to be protected from her."

While the Wise Man knows much

Schipa Domestic Person; Acclaimed As Excellent Cook

Pet Monkey Shows Hatred Of Family Cat and Pulls Out Large Hunks of Fur

Tito Schipa, premier lyric tenor of the world, who will be heard at McArthur court Wednesday, March 6th, at 8:15 o'clock has two American homes; one is near Daytona, Florida, and the other at Beverly Hills, California, in a section where many screen celebrities, friends of himself and Madame Schipa, also have their homes.

Singing in concert and opera the musical season through, Schipa has only occasionally a brief glimpse of either home, but when a real play-time comes for him he makes the best of it, for the great tenor is genuinely domestic when he gets a chance.

Part of his days there he gives to composing and selecting programs for his coming tours, and part to Elena, his little five-year-old daughter, who always, with her mother, Madame Schipa, accompanies him on his foreign engagements. During one of these Elena picked up Spanish, to add to the three other languages she speaks, English, French, Italian.

In boyhood Schipa loved to be near his mother when her duties as good housekeeper called her to the kitchen. Watching the preparation for his favorite dishes, he profited. Today, he can reproduce a number of them and of an excellence which has been praised by Mary Pickford, Pola Negri, Ramon Novarro and a host of others, when they come to the Schipa Beverly Hills place for a late supper after one of the great tenor's concerts in Los Angeles.

The California home, like the one in Florida, is built in the Spanish style. In its garden, where there are palm trees, Toto, the pet monkey, given Schipa during his recent triumphs in South America, feels quite at home. Being of a jealous disposition, Toto is not especially fond of family cats. In days past one of them shared the garden with him; she is no longer "among those present."

One morning while Schipa was composing a waltz to which Doris Niles, the young American "star," danced recently before King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain, Toto's activity disturbed him. So he put the monkey in his favorite palm tree and went back to work.

A ghastly yowl shattered the air. Rushing out Schipa saw the family cat flying like a streak of lightning. She has not been seen since. Toto, darting from his perch, had lit on her back, clawed out a bunch of fur and fled. This Schipa quickly realized, Toto's claws still holding tufts of hair.

Staff Will Show Movie Tests in Villard Tonight

Aspiring Film Stars to Be Only Ones to See Reels, Assures James Raley

At last the time has come, and aspiring movie heroes and heroines will see themselves tonight at Villard hall where the showing of the campus movie screen tests is to be given, at 7:10. Only those people who took tests will be allowed to be present at the showing, and they will only see that reel which their picture is in, according to Jim Raley, one of the movie directors.

"If anyone has lost his ticket," Raley said, "or does not know which reel their picture is in, he can find out by going to the information desk in Villard hall that night, where Marjorie Chester, campus movie secretary, will furnish him with the information."

Three projectors have been secured, and the tests will be run off by the following projection staff: Wilson Jewett, Willis Dumivay, and Ray Rogers. According to Wilson Jewett, some of the tests will be slightly dark, due to the fact that they were taken indoors under artificial lighting. The tests were taken on very small film, due to expenses. The movie itself will be made on regular size 35-millimeter film.

Those who want to get their strip of film to keep may get it at the campus movie office on the second floor of the journalism building Saturday. Members of the movie staff may secure admission to the showings by seeing Marjorie Chester.

A second and last showing of all the reels will begin at 8:15, according to James McBride, movie supervisor; and the directing staff, Carvel Nelson, Jim Raley, and Bea Milligan. The following schedule will be observed.

Reels 1, 7, and 15, to be shown at 7:10; reels 2, 8, and 16, at 7:20; reels 3, 9, and 17, at 7:30; reels 4, 10, and 18, at 7:40; reels 5, 11, and 19 at 7:50; reels 6, 12, and 20 at 8; and reel 21 at 8:10.

"The showings will begin exactly on time," Jim Raley said, "and those who are not on time will be out of luck unless they see the second showing of their reel."

McAlister Planning Glass Blowing Course

E. D. McAlister, professor of physics, will teach a course in glass-blowing spring term. The course will be the first of its kind ever taught by a regular instructor of the university, and will be designed primarily to teach the manipulation of soft glass for ordinary laboratory work. At the end of the term students will take up the handling of pyrex and hard glasses.

Professor McAlister announced yesterday that all students planning to take the course should see him in his office in Deady hall before leaving for spring vacation, in order that he may adequately prepare the laboratory. The first meeting of the class will be held in room 8 of Deady hall on March 26, at 4 o'clock, to arrange the hours at which the course will be taught.

Former Student Visits

Howard (Hod) Hall, university student fall term, was a visitor on the campus Saturday. Hall, who was a pre-medicine major here, is attending the North Pacific College of Optometry at Portland.

Tryouts For Vodvil Begin Wednesday

Aspirants for Choruses to Perform Before Judges In Villard March 6, 7, 8

Schedule for Houses Listed by Chairman

Lead Competition to Be Held Thursday Evening

Tryouts for parts in "Oh Dear," the Junior Vodvil, to be presented May 2 and 4 at the Heilig theater, will be held tomorrow, Thursday, and Friday, announcement was made yesterday by the assistant chairman, Tom Stadlard.

Tryouts for the men's and women's choruses will be held in Villard hall at 5 o'clock each afternoon of the three days. The head of each house on the campus has been notified to urge all the members who have and desire to participate in "Oh Dear" to come to Villard hall and try out. Each person will sing any song he chooses, and will dance before the judges. Chorus Judges Named

The judges who will select the choruses were announced yesterday by Paul Hunt, chairman of Junior Vodvil. They are Virginia Moore, who is also dancing director of the Vodvil; Bob Warner, who was one of the judges for the selection of the Vodvil scenario; Madge Normille, who has starred in Junior Vodvils for the last two years; Constance Roth, graduate assistant in drama; and Boone Hendricks, director of music for the Vodvil, and co-author of "Oh Dear."

The choruses will be announced Saturday morning.

Tryouts for leads of "Oh Dear" will be held Thursday in Villard hall, beginning at 7 o'clock. The judges will be Constance Roth; Don Johnston, general director of the Vodvil and one of the authors of this year's play; Madge Normille; Boone Hendricks; S. Stephenson Smith, associate professor of English; and Gordon Stearns, who has been active in dramatics on the campus. The leads will be selected on the basis of dramatic and musical ability.

Tryouts Begin Tomorrow

Independent students who wish to try out may do so any of the three days. The schedule for those in houses is as follows:

Wednesday, March 6: Alpha Chi Omega, Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Omicron Pi, Alpha Phi, Alpha Xi Delta, Chi Omega, Chi Delta, Delta Delta Delta, Delta Gamma, Delta Zeta, Gamma Nu, Kappa Alpha Theta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Kappa Delta.

Drama Class to Give Play on March 30

Tentative Cast Rehearsals Will Be Given at Rex

"Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," a play in six scenes to be given March 30 by the university class in dramatic interpretation, has an appeal not only for young children, but also for adults, as its previous successes have shown.

The original production of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" was given at the Little theater, New York, in the fall of 1921. It was there that Marguerite Clark made the world of grown-ups as well as to the thousands of little children who have marvelled over the story of the little princess, the wicked queen, and the seven faithful dwarfs.

The play will be presented at the Rex theater the first week end of spring term. Rehearsals have been in progress for some time with a tentative cast and a definite announcement will be made soon, according to Constance Roth.

Piano Instructor Is Ill

Mrs. Clark, piano instructor in the school of music, has been confined to her home with illness for the last few days. She expects to meet with her classes again in two or three days.

Editorials? Opinions of Campus Sought by Ballot

Do you ever read editorials in newspapers? Did you ever peruse the editorials in the Emerald before they were abolished this term? What per cent of them were you in the habit of reading? Do you want them to be resumed, whether or not they are read? The Emerald wants to know.

Last month the editorial board abolished the column. Much comment was made in state papers, both for and against the move. But before deciding definitely whether or not to take up the journalistic weapon again, the Emerald is going to conduct a ballot to determine campus opinion on the point.

The first ballot is printed at the bottom of this page. Fill it out and deposit it in the Duck Soup ballot box at the entrance of the main library.

Campus favor or disfavor of Emerald editorials will be measured by the results of the investigation. Names are being asked for, but will be used only in tabulations and will be kept strictly secret by the paper. The only requirement is that the ballot be made out in full, otherwise it will not be counted. The reason for your decision is particularly sought.

Fill the ballot out today and hand it in.

Medical School Has Noteworthy Success

High Standard Maintained By Limited Enrollment

Noteworthy success has rewarded the efforts of Richard B. Dillehunt, dean of the Oregon medical school, who has attempted to maintain a high standard of scholarship for the school by a limited enrollment policy.

Since the enrollment has been limited to 225, the standard has raised considerably, according to Dillehunt, and there has been a negligible amount of inferior work encountered.

"Great caution is exercised to select only the superior student applying from states other than Oregon," the dean said. "The first obligation of the medical school is to our own state, and the second to Washington and Idaho. So far, the present limitation has worked no hardship upon those applying from Oregon but such might be the case in the future, and if so, additional budget will be required to enable expansion in numbers."

In pointing out advancement of the medical school, Dean Dillehunt stated that the clinical activities progressed in such a manner that students are no longer leaving the school for eastern or middlewestern institutions. This has been made possible by affiliation with the Multnomah county hospital, as well as the clinical work at the Doernbecher hospital for children.

Research work as well as teaching has been a feature of all departments of the medical school. Dr. Olaf Larsell received the Casselberry prize in recognition of his work upon the anatomy of the nervous system in conjunction with Dr. Ralph A. Fenton.

In pointing out the needs of the future, Dr. Dillehunt discussed the importance of establishing a university school of nursing, as well as a general hospital to which adults from all counties may be committed, as now obtains with reference to children. Establishment of psychiatry on a more effective basis is described as a manifest need at the medical school, also.

Spike Issues Call for All Frosh Baseball Men

Players to Report at Igloo Wednesday at 4 o'Clock

Earl E. (Spike) Leslie, head freshman baseball coach, issued his second call for yearling baseball players last night. He wishes to have all frosh who intend to try out for the team to report to McArthur court Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Equipment will be issued at that time.

The frosh battery men have been working out for the past week and all others begin their spring training tomorrow afternoon. For the remainder of this term they will spend their time mainly in loosening up their arms. Ten pitchers and ten catchers make up the squad at this time.

Senate Approves Bill For New Infirmary; Governor Will Sign

All of Newly Selected Board of Regents Confirmed by Upper Body, Starr First Is Refused, Then Reconsidered

Colt, Irvine, Sammons, Watzek, Burch, Callister And Oliver Other Members of Education Board

Salem, March 4.—(Special)—After having refused to consider the appointment of C. L. Starr, of Portland, reconsidered its action and confirmed his appointment as the ninth member of the state board of education. The vote was 25 to 3, with two absent. Bennett, Klepper and Upton were the opponents, Mann and Hall were the absentees.

SALEM, Ore., March 4.—(Special)—With an affirmative vote of 21 the University of Oregon infirmary bill which will provide for an appropriation of $50,000 to match a like amount raised by private subscription for a hospital on the university campus, passed the senate this morning. Governor Patterson has promised to sign the bill.

Six senators voted against the bill, the opposers being Senators Bennett, Butt, Elliot, Jones, Marks, Schulmerich and Strayer. Bennett and Strayer spoke against the bill, Bennett on the grounds that the bill was not properly before the senate since the calendar showed that it had not been referred to the ways and means committee, while Strayer said that it had twice been before the committee and twice had been reported adversely. He said that the bill had been "railroaded" through by a round-robin which secured the signatures of ten of the committee, all of them favorable to the bill.

The bill was defended by President Norblad who left his chair in its defense. Norblad, and Representative Lonergan were the originators of the bill.

Last Series of Y. M. Discussion Groups Tonight

Hal P. Anderson Has Been In Charge of Meetings Held in Men's Houses

The last of the series of discussion groups which are being sponsored at the men's living organizations by the Y. M. C. A. will take place this evening, according to Hal P. Anderson, who has been in charge of the affair.

The list of speakers and their topics follow:

Alpha Beta Chi, Rev. Palmer, "The New Morality"; Chi Psi, H. Scott, "Morals and Athletics"; Delta Tau Delta, E. M. Whitesmith, "Is There an Ultimate Right and Wrong in Conduct?"; Delta Epsilon, N. L. Bossing, "The Modern Christian View of the Bible"; Phi Gamma Delta, Lieutenant Herbert, "Should We Have Compulsory Military Training on the Campus?"; Theta Chi, Dean Landsbury, "The Relation of Clothes to Morality"; Psi Kappa, G. Mueller, "The Moral and Social Adjustment of the College Man"; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Washington and Idaho. So far, the present limitation has worked no hardship upon those applying from Oregon but such might be the case in the future, and if so, additional budget will be required to enable expansion in numbers."

The following speakers have not yet chosen their subjects: Beta Theta Pi, Ernest Moll; Kappa Sigma, Dean Carpenter; Sherry Ross hall, Max Adams; and Zeta hall, L. E. Wright.

Shumaker Reads Play In Alumni Hall Sunday

Kenneth Shumaker, reading Browning's play, "The Return of the Druses," in Alumni hall Sunday afternoon, displayed his ability to carry several parts in a dialogue, by giving each character an individuality of voice and expression.

The Druses are a people who dwell chiefly in the Lebanon mountains of Syria. In the play, Browning makes use of the time in the 14th century when these people were under the rule of Venice.

The play is a tragedy, and holds much emotional stress, typical of Browning. Jabal, a young Druse makes an effort at returning the independence of his people by impersonating "Hankin" the inaxpation of God. He begins a campaign against the oppressors, then falls in love, and this causes him grief, which leads to the death of the woman loved and himself.

Henderson Near Recovery

L. F. Henderson, curator of herbs and research fellow, who has been confined to the Pacific Christian hospital because of an operation, expects to be out in a few days and hopes to resume his work early next term.
