

41 Players Report For Frosh Team

First Baseball Practice For Yearling Squad Held Wednesday Eve

Light Workouts Scheduled For Remainder of Term

Forty-one men had reported to Spike Leslie, freshman baseball coach, to try out for the frosh team late yesterday afternoon. For the past week battery men have been working out daily, but not until Wednesday was practice held for those playing other positions.

Until spring term practice will consist of playing catch, and practice in hitting, Spike announced. Although it is not necessary that all attend, workouts will be held during examination week. "Anyone getting an hour free in the afternoon may come out and practice hitting," is the word of the coach.

The list of players includes: Art Adams, Bill Crowe, Dan Chew, Edmund Charles, J. E. Fritz, Joe Garrett, Weston Hayden, Frank Harrow, Peter Hamilton, Tom Handley, Tom White, Bill Lindeman, Ruben Lockitch, Amos Lawrence, Sam Mitchell, Otto Mauer, John Marden, Art Pulford, Marion Powell, Bib Quinn, Kermit Stevens, Joe Stall, Richard Wilson.

were three or four sheds around the mill which were intended as temporary shelter for farmers' horses while they were having their grain milled.

"My two cousins and I conceived the idea of stalls in the sheds and renting them to the farmers who came in for the fair. We constructed about twenty sheds and succeeded in keeping them full during the fair.

"As well as I can remember, my cut on the receipts was about $11, and it looked like about $1100 to me at the age of eight. The rates were 25 cents for the use of the stall, 50 cents for the stall and one feeding of oats, and one dollar by the day.

"One of the things which I remember most distinctly was standing by the village horse-trough, shouting my wares to the farmers as they arrived in town," Mr. Thacher concluded, smiling.

THEATERS

By OSBOERNE HOLLAND
The Taylor Players offer a very good bit of comedy and mystery at the Heilig theater in "The Cat and the Canary," John Willard's play, famous as a thriller. Nearly all of the characters are well cast and perfectly at ease in their roles, but several opportunities were lost to improve the characterizations in the minor parts.

Ferris Taylor himself steals the show as usual as a comedian deluxe, and frequently injects humor of his own manufacture much to the delight of the audience. Alma Trub, as the gossipy aunt of the heroine, is given an excellent opportunity to shine and certainly acts her part nobly. Jack Daugherty and Leona Taylor also come in for their share of applause but neither merits any unusual compliments.

The scenery is a trifle too plain, and the properties are rather shabby but all this goes by unnoticed in the excitement and fun of the action. "The Cat and the Canary" is billed as a melodrama but no one would ever realize it from the Taylor company's presentation.

"Four Sons," now at the Colonial, is perhaps one of the most charming and delightful pictures ever filmed.

The superb character portrayal of Margaret Mann is so different in its appeal that even the most hardened theater goers are moved to sighs and tears. Mother love is the theme of the entire picture and the director has succeeded wonderfully in obtaining reality, so seldom found on the screen.

James Hall and Francis X. Bushman, as two of the sons, are excellent in their roles and give much support to Margaret Mann, but both are denied the chance to win laurels for themselves. Critics have chosen "Four Sons" as one of the ten best pictures of 1928 and it certainly deserves this distinction even though it is a silent drama. The perfect portrayal of family life in Germany has a charm all its own and the bits of comedy scattered here and there are of the very highest type.

McDONALD—"Manhattan Cocktail," starring Nancy Carroll, Richard Arlen and Paul Lukas. Sparkling comedy. Also the Crooners in "Crooning Along" and "Oswald" in his second sound comedy.

COLONIAL—"Four Sons," featuring Margaret Mann, Francis X. Bushman and June Collyer. Also "Shooting Wild," comedy, and "The News."

HEILIG—"The Taylor Players in 'The Cat and the Canary.'"

REX—"The Manhattan Players present 'Halsed Street,' an underworld drama. Also Hoot Gibson in 'King of the Rodeo.'"

MISS TAYLOR RECOVERS

Miss Lourene Taylor, instructor of botany and bacteriology, who has been confined at her home in Eugene the past few days with the measles, is recovering rapidly.

Spanish Fraternity Initiates 9 Members At Prof Wright Home

Nine new student members and two honorary faculty members were initiated into Sigma Delta Pi, honorary Spanish fraternity, at a meeting held at the home of Dr. L. O. Wright, associate professor of romance languages. Mr. and Mrs. Wright lived for several years in Mexico and Mexican dishes featured the banquet which followed the initiation.

Mr. Centeno, teacher of Spanish, and Mrs. Wright were made honorary members.

Election of officers for the coming year was held. Willmadene Richolson was elected president; Karl Landstrom, vice-president; Grace Mortenson, secretary; Leroy Dettling, instructor in romance languages, treasurer.

Dance Will Be Given By Eugene Girls' Club

An all-campus dance will be given the afternoon of March 21 from 3 to 6 o'clock at the Craftsmen's club by the Eugene Girls' club.

It is a "no-date" affair, and every one who stays at Eugene over the holidays is invited. The price of admission is 25 cents.

There will be a three or four piece orchestra, and refreshments will be served during the afternoon.

Today's Question: What do you think of the new registration system?

Dorthea Bailey, freshman in Latin: "I think the new system of registration is decidedly an improvement. Perhaps we shall now be able to register without all the enjoyment of standing in line for two or three hours when we need our material."

Joseph Holaday, senior in history: "Having for a number of years suffered changes in technique of registration, I have little hope for the future, but I am prepared to give the new system a whirl."

Lillian Terrell, freshman in education: "Anything that will eliminate the trouble and red tape gone through last term will be an improvement. It remains to be seen whether the new system will or not."

Randolph Rebe, junior in business administration: "It seems like it will be quite an improvement over last term which certainly did not prove successful."

Elma VanWey, freshman in music: "It doesn't seem as though it will be much of an improvement because when one is taking subjects in a number of different departments they will have to get about the same number of signatures as they would otherwise."

What They Say

Tabloid Bits Taken From News of the Day

RELIGION TODAY is the shell of what remains after all effective human activities have been taken away. Originally the temple contained all the community's activities, but gradually the professions, business and the arts slipped away, leaving religion an empty shell divorced from life. Religion is as much a matter of one day as another.—Professor Harry Overstreet, in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

SOB SISTER juries and whimpering women—the latter pleading to the jurist that another chance be given the murderer—unwittingly succor crime and perpetuate lawless escapades. People expect us to deal with men of the underworld with kid gloves. But they don't deal with you that way. The trouble is that law is common sense badly administered.—Harry E. Lewis, supreme court justice, in New York World.

My First Job

Professors Relate How First Money Earned

"I was always making pin money selling old iron, old bones or old rags, but my first real job was weeding onions in the heat of a boiling sun...and all for 50 cents a day," said W. F. G. Thacher, professor of English and advertising.

"However, I consider my first experiences as entrepreneur much more interesting. Our family lived in the town which was distinguished by a county fair each year. My father ran the grist mill and there

Pianist All "Encore" for This Smoke

San Francisco, California, August 8, 1928

Larus & Bro. Co., Richmond, Va.

Dear Friends: I have been a very heavy pipe smoker for the last thirty years, and have always used Edgeworth Tobacco (Plug Slice) and find there is no other tobacco like it for a cool and well flavored taste.

I am in the vaudeville business, and have traveled all over the world with my brother, and always have had very great pleasure in recommending your tobacco; and many a time I have had to pay double the price in different countries for it, but I would sooner do that than smoke anything else, as I have tried all different brands. I generally buy a one-pound tin and roll it up; and believe me, gentlemen, it is real tobacco.

With best wishes from Yours sincerely, Sam La Mert of the La Mert Brothers' Piano Novelty Act.

You are looking at history

The hawker of yesterday who cried his wares in the public places is now but vaguely remembered—swallowed up in yesterday's seven thousand years.

Today the news of goods for sale becomes an indelible record of human achievement.

You may take, for instance, the history of transportation in America and read that extraordinary tale of progress in an unbroken series of advertisements in the files of newspapers—advertisements that inform us of each progressive step from the sailings of sloops out of Boston for Philadelphia in the days of Franklin, to the flight of the Air Mail from Mitchel Field to San Francisco in our own day.

You may read the startling story of the revolution in household economy and the emancipation of the American wife and home-builder in the advertisements of the last twenty-five years.

But in today's papers you find an even more amazing record—the advertisements of radio outfits, automobile equipment, electrical appliances, foodstuffs, clothing, medicines—things which have raised our civilization to a plane higher than the world has ever known. Do you quite realize that in these advertisements you are examining a contemporary contribution to the recorded history of civilization?
