

Arthur Hicks Piano Recital Tonight at 8

English Professor Takes
Music as Hobby; Said
Talented Pianist

Pupil of George Hopkins to Perform in Auditorium

Arthur Hicks, a professor in the English department and winner of the Juilliard extension scholarship in music, will present a piano recital at the music auditorium tonight at 8. Professor Hicks is a pupil of George Hopkins, instructor in the music department.

It is seldom that a recital is presented outside of the music school, and especially by a professor who is connected with another department.

Professor Hicks, although taking up music as more or less as a hobby, is an accomplished pianist and has appeared in public programs on several former occasions.

The program will be as follows:

Pastorale Varie ..... Mozart
Sonata Quasi Una Fantasia,
Op. 27-I ..... Beethoven
Andante
Allegro Molto
Adagio con Espansione
Allegro Vivace

Barcarolle in A Minor.....Moszkowski
Gavotte in A Minor ..... Hopkins
Vogel als Prophet ..... Schumann
Rhapsodie in G Minor,
Op. 79, No. 2 ..... Brahms

Concerto in D Minor, ..... MacDowell
Op. 23 .....
Larghetto Calmato
Presto Giocoso

Largo Molto Allegro
Orchestral accompaniment played by Frances Pierce, Organist.

Something Neat in Outfields

The quartet of ball players pictured above represents the likely ones to fill the varsity outfield positions this year. They are, left to right: Cotter Gould, Ray Edwards, Carl Nelson and Dave Epps. Nelson played first and outfield last year in good shape. All four of the men are heavy hitters, Gould and Edwards being left-handers and Nelson and Epps swinging from the right side of the plate.

Montana Student Art Work on Display Here

Work of students from the department of applied arts at Montana State college was put on exhibition in Oregon's little art gallery today. The work will be left in the gallery but two days.

The work consists of a series of plates in historic and dress design, and of a series of colorful compositions on the life of the American Indian made in students' original interpretations. There are also a few poster and textile designs.

This is an exchange exhibit between Montana State and the University of Oregon. Olga Ross Hanson is in charge of the exhibition.

are looking good in the preliminary practices, and have excellent chances to break into the lineup. Marion Hall and Scott Warren, reserve left-tenners, will both be back.

Three wingmen are showing potentialities in spring practice. Woodward Archer, first string in 1929, will be back to take his old position. Gene Tarbell and John Erdley, graduates from frosh ranks, are at present the most likely candidates for the other end. If Harry Wood returns to school McEwan will have a strong quartet of ends. There are about two dozen candidates for the backfield positions. When the final elimination is completed next fall, only 8 or 10 will remain on the first squad. Those who have shown the most ability are Johnny Kitzmiller, Dave Mason, Chuck Williams, John Donahue, and Bob Robinson, all lettermen. Al Brown, John Londahl and Steve Fletcher are the best from the frosh team. Chuck Spear, who played for Ashland Normal school, is another possibility.
