

MOTHERS INVITED HERE MAY 10-12

Leaflets Telling of Events of Junior Week-end Mailed to Homes

Living Organizations Plan For Open House

All University of Oregon students have been asked by members of the Mother's Day directorate to write to their mothers this week-end and invite them to spend Junior Week-end, which comes May 10, 11, and 12, on the campus.

Mother's Day officially is May 12, but it has been set for Junior Week-end so that the mothers can enjoy the festivities with their sons and daughters. This new policy was set last year and the mothers reported that they enjoyed the canoe fete, campus luncheon, and junior prom immensely.

Leaflets Mailed

Leaflets telling of the week-end's activities, together with reservation slips for the banquet planned for the mothers, have been sent out by the university. Oregon students have been asked to make reservations for the banquet immediately if their mothers do not wish to do so.

Friday, May 10, is a holiday and has been officially designated as Campus Day. A luncheon for students and parents and the annual canoe fete are the main features of this day. Saturday there is a water carnival, special Mother's Day meetings and teas, a banquet and the junior prom, for which all mothers may secure special reserved seats. On Sunday there will be special Mother's Day services at all the churches and a vespers program.

Talks Given at Homes

Yesterday noon a group of university men and women visited all living organizations and urged students to write home and ask their mothers down for the week-end. A new feature, described by these students, is the open house which is planned by the fraternities, sororities, and halls, for Saturday afternoon.

Men and women speakers at the houses they gave talks at are: Dorothy Baker, Phi Kappa Psi, Phi Sigma Kappa, and Kappa Sigma; Elizabeth Strain, Delta Gamma, Sigma Nu, Theta Chi; Lucille George, Beta Theta Pi, Chi Psi, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Margaret Reid, Psi Kappa, Delta Epsilon, Phi Gamma Delta; Carol Harburt, Bachelor's, Sigma Chi, Sigma Pi Tau; Alberta Rives, Alpha Tau Omega, Alpha Upsilon, Delta Tau Delta; Lou Ann Chase, Alpha Beta Chi, Phi Delta Theta.

Marshall Hopkins, Pi Beta Phi, Chi Delta, Delta Delta Delta; Don Carver, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Kappa; Morgan Hartford, Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Chi Omega; Tony Peterson, Alpha Phi, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta; Charles Reed, Kappa Alpha Theta, Chi Omega, Alpha Xi Delta; Hal Allen, Phi Mu, Gamma Phi Beta, Alpha Delta Pi; Milton George, men's dormitory, Gamma Nu.

Officers of Phi Delta Kappa and Pi Lambda Theta, men's and women's educational honoraries, are arranging a banquet to be given at Hendricks hall on the evening of April 26 in honor of Dr. William Burnham, nationally known authority on educational psychology, who will be in Eugene on that date.

R. U. Moore, principal of University high school and president of Phi Delta Kappa, is working with Elizabeth Fry and Irene Hollenbeck of Pi Lambda Theta in making plans for Dr. Burnham's reception. A musical program is being arranged for the banquet.

Dr. Burnham was formerly a professor of education at Clark university of Wooster, Mass., where he helped pioneer the application of psychology to education. Included among his students at Clark were several men who are now members of the Oregon faculty, and who will attend the banquet honoring their old professor. They are Dean H. D. Sheldon and Professor B. D. DeBusk of the school of education, H. R. Crosland, H. R. Taylor and Professor Edmund S. Conklin of the psychology department. Dean James R. Jewell of the O. S. C. school of vocational education is also a former student of Dr. Burnham, and is expected to be present at the banquet.

MANY HOUSES ENTER INTRAMURAL SPORT

Local Diamonds Will See Action Next Week

Twenty-three houses have entered teams in the intramural baseball league, according to Merrill Hagan, who has charge of the sport, necessitating the teams being split into four sections, three of six teams each and one of five. The first games will be played next Tuesday, with the schedule appearing in Tuesday morning's Emerald.

League A is composed of Sherry Ross hall, Sigma Pi Tau, Bachelor's, Omega hall, Chi Psi, and Delta Tau Delta.

In league B is Phi Gamma Delta, Gamma hall, Alpha Tau Omega, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Alpha Beta Chi, and Phi Delta Theta.

In league C is Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, Phi Sigma Kappa, Alpha Upsilon, and Kappa Sigma.

League D has Sigma Nu, Phi Kappa Psi, Psi Kappa, Zeta hall, and Theta Chi.

Due to the large number of teams, a number of games will have to be played and Hagan asks the cooperation of all the houses. After the winners of the four leagues have been decided a championship series will be played.

Freshman Views Vaudeville Practice—Oh My!

Sees Many Notables, Also Costumes; Requested to Leave

By B. G. and H. L.

Well, I had heard a lot about the Junior Varsity so thought that I might go up and look it over. Entering the stately portals of our most austere and ancient Villard hall, it was somewhat of a shock to hear some very snappy strains of joyous jazz emanating from the assembly hall. I remembered that four years ago, or maybe it was three, that two students and one professor were removed from the institution for playing Beethoven in the same assembly. I had a few qualms and wondered what the disastrous result of this careless type of entertainment might be. I was especially worried about Stevie Smith.

So, when I got there I saw a great flash of extraordinarily thin legs and knobby knees. That didn't make much difference because the practice costumes were scanty enough to make one forget the details. And there was Maxine Glover, our own rehearsal pianist, hammering away at one of Boone Hendricks' melodies as though it were a matter of life and death. She really should have been dancing. Just then Virginia Moore would have to shout out above the

FOOTBALL DRAWS FROSH

Nine Lettermen Working at Spring Practice; Show Up Well

The freshman class is well represented in spring football practice with nine frosh numeral men showing up as promising material for next year's varsity team. The freshmen who are working under Coach McEwan and Merrill Hagan, line coach, are: Irvin Schultze, tackle; Al Browne, half; Jack Erdley, end; Gene Tarbell, end; William Hayden, guard; Eric Forsta, center; Neal Carter, center; and John Londahl, half.

HIGH SCHOOL BILLS PLAY

A three act comedy, "The Colonel's Maid," by C. Leona Dallymple, will be presented by the University high school dramatic club April 25 and 26. The play will be given at Guild hall and is under the direction of Mrs. Edna Assenheimer and Miss Mary Goldsmith, both of whom have done work with the Guild Hall players.

crowd, and all operations immediately ceased. It was just as though McBride had called "Cut" for the campus movie scene.

After they had that out of their system, the rehearsal took on a new life. First I saw Anne Stange, the Delta Gamma "Joan Crawford," in the second row, and, strangely enough, Bill Gillette was right behind her.

Then right along side of Gillette were a couple of very stiff-kneed chorus men by the name of Dant and Dunham, having a grand time. And who should be in the middle of the line but the Del flash and silver throated oriole bird, Maurice Kinney? He was swell. That just about did up the row of men, except for Crosby Owens, who really seemed to have only one reason for being there, and that wasn't dancing.

Then I should immediately take notice of the girls again. I just couldn't seem to keep my eyes off of the pony chorus. They trotted so gracefully. And who should we see but Avis Hartsman, right down in the front row. She is a Chi Omega.

Just about the time that I was really starting to enjoy Betty Shipley's and Helen Katenbrink's costumes, that fellow Hendricks came along and told me that this was HIS show, and that I might leave now anytime. Jo Ralston bellowed out a husky goodbye as I blushed my way out of the doors.

REVIEWS WINNING SHORT STORIES

Work of Winners in Edison Marshall Short Story Contest Found Pleasing by Freshman Critic

By Bob Guild

(The following is a review of the short story, "Then Ask Not Wherefore" by Carvel Nelson, which won first place in the Edison Marshall Short Story contest, and the three other stories which you honorable mention. They are: "In Any Language" by Robert Hunt, "Past the Pop-corn Wagon" by Alice Bricknel, and "Fern" by Wilfred Brown).

"Then ask not wherefore, here, alone,
Conversing as I may,
I sit upon this old grey stone
And dream my time away."

With those words we are transported to the sleepy streets of a middle western town, where bees are humming, birds are resting, and the world is asleep. We move slowly from event to event, as though we, too, were living in the dull heat of the dusty August. Lovable old Balt McCreedy, the dreamer, is by our side. He is a character of which Booth Tarkington would have been proud.

With him we dream of the day when Littleton, Illinois, will no longer be a slumbering little town, and with him we share his slow, lazy, optimistic dreams. We all know his nagging wife, his jobless son-in-law, the mean old banker, his sceptical cronies. They are old friends whom we greet with open arms.

His scheme is our scheme, his triumph is our triumph. We rejoice with him at the discomfort of his old enemy, the skinflint banker. In fact Carvel Nelson's story, "Then ask not wherefore, here, alone," is real and close to us. We like it.

We look at life through the eyes of a pop-corn vendor. Day after day he sits in hot wagon and watches people go by. He also wonders where all the things he sees in the papers happen. He doesn't know, but he sees it all. It is a cross-section of life. Old Jim is a good character. We see him plainly, and are not told a word about him. All day long he sits and thinks about beef stew, while he cheerfully greets escaped bandits, bank robbers, run away girls, and policemen. Of course he doesn't know.
