

Float Order During Fete Announced

Kappa Delta, Theta Chi To Head Procession Down Mill Race

Swimming Test Required Of Those on Canoes

The sequence of the floats in the mill race on the night of the Canoe Fete was determined by lottery yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the representatives of the houses entered with Hal Anderson, assistant chairman of the Fete.

The float entered by Kappa Delta and Theta Chi will be in the lead of the 14 which come down the mill race past the Anchorage on the night of the Fete. Betty Pennock acted as the representative of the two houses at the meeting. The sequence of the other 13 floats is as follows: second, Kappa Alpha Theta and Kappa Sigma, represented by Verne Dale and Bessie Darling; third, Oregon club and Sigma Chi, represented by John Nelson.

Alpha Chi Fourth
Fourth, Alpha Chi Omega and Psi Kappa, represented by Grace Vath; fifth, Zeta Tau Alpha and Sigma Phi Epsilon, represented by Margaret Underwood and A. F. Murray; sixth, Alpha Omicron Pi and Zeta Phi, represented by Dorothy Hildge and Ralph Hadfield; seventh, Delta Gamma and Delta Epsilon, represented by Bart Tamkin; eighth, Gamma Phi Beta and Sherry Ross hall, represented by Donald McCall.

Ninth, Alpha Phi and Phi Gamma Delta, represented by Noel Thomas and Ada Allen; tenth, Phi Mu and Alpha Tau Omega, represented by Mary Koon; eleventh, Sigma Kappa and Alpha Upsilon, represented by Claire Warren and Wilbur Sohm; twelfth, Susan Campbell hall and Chi Psi, represented by H. Meyer; thirteenth, Alpha Gamma Delta and Gamma hall, represented by Bob Kipp and Edith Ebell; and fourteenth, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Sigma Nu.

Return Canoes Saturday
Anderson issued to the houses general instructions for the building of floats for the Fete. Every person who rides on a float during the scene must have passed the university swimming test, he said, to eliminate any danger in case a float capsizes, as floats have occasionally done in former years. No float may cost more than $30. All floats which are built on canoes rented from the Anchorage, with the exception of the three or four winners which will be held over for use in the campus movie, must be torn apart and the canoes returned by 9 o'clock Saturday morning. A number of the canoes will be needed for the canoe race during the water carnival Saturday morning.

Del Richmond, who is in charge of the grounds and staging for the Fete, has appointed Wayne Veatch and Hal Baughman as assistants in construction, and Clarence Veal as chairman of the cleanup work after the Fete. Richmond will mark off and allot space for building floats along the mill race to the various houses within a week.

The titles and brief descriptions of the 14 floats entered have been submitted to Anderson. He states that there have been a number of novel ideas on some that should work out into very beautiful and spectacular affairs, but of course all that is supposed to be kept a secret until the night of the Fete.

The wedding, which will take place on the morning of June 6, will be at the Church of the Madeleine in Portland.

Miss Deery is a graduate of St. Mary's academy. Dr. Sharkey is a graduate of the University of Oregon and of the university medical school and later studied in Dublin and Vienna. He is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

A visitor in Eugene the past week-end was Miss Margaret Hensley of Medford. Miss Hensley, who was a former student in the school of journalism, is now a member of the advertising staff of the Medford Mail Tribune.

Should the Libraries Be Open on Sundays?

Is it necessary for the university library to keep open Sundays? That is the question asked M. H. Douglass, librarian, in an inquiry sent to him recently from the University of Wisconsin. The University of Wisconsin library does not stay open Sundays, and it wants to know why the Oregon library does. In answer to their question, Mr. Douglass sent them, along with other information, a paper "Sunday Openings in College and University Libraries," written by Miss Rita Ridings of the library staff. Miss Ridings read her paper at the Pacific Northwest Library association conference held in Vancouver, B. C., last summer.

Dayton whip-steel SPEED

gives you the jump on faster players

Look at the lines of a Dayton Steel Racquet. It's built like an airplane, built for speed. The frame is shaped like a strut, thin edge to the wind. The steel strings are like guy wires—less than half the thickness of gut, much stronger, more springy.

The wind resistance of a Dayton Steel Racquet, measured in the wind tunnel of an airplane laboratory, was 45% lower than that of standard wood-and-gut racquets.

That extra energy is imparted to the ball, and gets it there faster, 20% faster. And that extra 20% gives you the jump on speedier players.

In impartial scientific tests, the Dayton comes out ahead in the laboratory, just as it does in practical tests on the courts. Dayton Steel Racquet Co., Dayton, Ohio.
