

Frosh Meet Ashland for First Game

Fifteen Players Named On Yearling Squad As Likely Men

Spike Leslie's Team Leave Campus Thursday

The freshman baseball nine will have their final practice session this afternoon, and leave for Ashland tomorrow to play the Southern Oregon normal school on Friday and Saturday.

Word of final arrangements of the trip had not been received by Spike Leslie, freshman coach, last night, but he named the first fifteen men on the squad. If less than fifteen are to take the trip south the players will be chosen from this group. It will be necessary to leave Thursday in order that the squad reach Ashland in time for the game Friday.

Those included in the first fifteen are: Charles Hoag, catcher; Larry Jackson, first base; Brian Mimaugh, second; Kermit Stevens, short; John Londahl, third; Orville Garrett, outfield or infield; Harry Molatore, outfield; Omar Palmer, outfield; Robert Quinn, outfield; Hal Waffle, pitcher; Edmund Charles, pitcher; Clyde Kershner, outfield, first or pitcher; Estill Phipps, pitcher; Amos Lawrence, catcher; and Les Jacobs, catcher.

Inter-church Group Plans Skating Party

An all-campus skating party will be given Friday night from 10 to 12 o'clock at the Winter Garden, Seventh avenue and Olive street, under the auspices of the Inter-church council. Refreshments will be served, and students may bring dates or not, as they please, according to Wilbur Söhm, who will have charge of the affair.

A Comedy in One Act

DRAMATIS PERSONAE

G. Okada, Meiji university baseball coach.

An Oregon ballplayer.

Scene: Hotel Osburn dining room.

ACT I

OREGONIAN—Howdido, I see you're from Japan.

OKADA—Yes. Yes. You play? Yes?

Denotes Lapse of 10 Minutes

OREGONIAN—Let's eat.

Japanese coach and his team of 19 move toward banquet table.

Oregon team does likewise, only in American.

OREGONIAN—How do you like American girls?

OKADA—In Hollywood, very pretty. Others not so good.

OREGONIAN—You visited Hollywood?

OKADA—Yes, I see Douglas Fairbanks . . . Japanese like movies. Talkies. Yes, yes. (Much nodding of head and smiling).

OREGONIAN—What do your players think of kissing scenes?

OKADA—(Evidently Okada did not think much of kissing, which is practically immoral in Japan).

OREGONIAN—(Indicating rare beef) Japanese eat meat?

OKADA—Yes, yes. Food very good. Yes. (More nodding of head).

OREGONIAN—You like ice cream?

OKADA—Yes. Yes. Sherbet. Very good.

OREGONIAN—Where you go after here?

OKADA—Chicago, New York. In London we play two games. Germany, France, Italy.

OREGONIAN—That's swell. Well, I'll be seen' ya at the game.

OKADA—Yes. Yes. (Smiles and bows profusely). Yes.

Co-op Gets Fine Books

O. Wilman Visits Store

Copies of various limited editions of fine books, most of them autographed, several interesting anecdotes, three writups in California papers, and Oscar Wilman, a young man who is manager of the Washington State college co-op, were the souvenirs which Marion F. McClain, manager of the university co-op, brought back with him when he returned Saturday from the western division convention of the American Booksellers association, held April 15, 16, and 17 in San Francisco. Mr. Wilman went to Pullman Sunday.

Included in the stack of books McClain brought back with him was an unusual little blue book, a replica of the first book ever published on the Pacific coast. It is Noah Webster's "Blue Back" spelling book, an edition of which was published at Oregon City in 1847. The press is now in the possession of the university, and is on display at the University press.

Many prominent authors attended the bookseller's conference, according to McClain. Among them were Lewis Browne, Kathleen Norris, Gertrude Atherton, and Elbery Walters.

W. D. Smith Supervises Tunnel Construction

Dr. Warren D. Smith, professor of geology, has been supervising for some weeks the work of running a long tunnel at a Douglas county mining camp. Last week this 1000-foot tunnel encountered a high grade body of limestone 400 feet below the outcrop, which will insure the company an adequate supply for some years to come.

F. S. Dunn Has Article In May 'Old Oregon'

The May issue of "Old Oregon," University of Oregon alumni magazine, which will be published soon, will be full of interesting features and clever stories, according to Miss Jeanette Calkins, editor.

Professor Frederic S. Dunn, of the Latin department, has written a very amusing article on "Early Days of Eugene," which will be given special prominence in the edition. There will be a story on the success of the Eugene gift campaign fund for the new Fine Arts building, and Mrs. Kathleen MacNeal Clarke, of Grants Pass, author of the novel "Under the Skin" and of numerous plays and poems, has contributed a story summarizing her impressions of the high school drama
