

Fete Workers Prepare For Event Friday

Diving Board is Nearly Completed; Arch for Floats Begun

Space Allotted for Use of Workers

Gamma Hall Withdraws; Alpha Enters Race

Construction on decorations and staging for the annual Canoe Fete to be held on the mill race near the Anchorage next Friday night was begun last week-end and is now well under way, it was announced yesterday by Kenton Hamaker, general chairman of the fete.

The work on a new 10 foot diving board in across the race in front of the bleachers is practically completed under the direction of Del Richmond, chairman of grounds and staging, Hamaker said. This board will enable fancy divers at the fete to attain more artistic effects in their plunges than has been the case with the four foot boards which have been used in past years. The construction of the great arch through which the floats will come has been begun under the direction of Millard Schmeer, decorations chairman, and Ronald Murray, his assistant. The fine detail of the decorations, the motif of which is being kept secret, will be finished Thursday or Friday.

Lighting Under Way

Work on the lighting arrangements for the fete is under way under the direction of Darold Elkins and Perry Douglas, his assistant. The work will be completed Thursday night so that it can be tested to be sure that it is in perfect condition for the fete. The lighting effects will include globes beneath the surface of the water, as in previous years.

Space for each pair of organizations to use in building the floats has been staked off along the race above the Anchorage, and work may begin there at any time. The workers are asked to refrain from cutting small shrubs or branches from trees on the allotted spaces. Ted Sather, Dick Schroeder, and Art Rolander have been appointed as a committee to aid in launching the floats.

Dismantle Floats

All floats except the winners, which will be used in filming a scene from the campus movie, must be dismantled and the canoes returned to the Anchorage by 9 o'clock Saturday morning. The canoes will be needed for the water carnival which is to be held there at 11. Terence King, chairman of the clean-up committee, has appointed Clarence Field to be in charge of the dismantling of the stage and diving board and Bill Kuykendall to take charge of the dismantling of the decorations.

Fourteen floats, representing 28 living organizations will be entered in the fete. Gamma Hall, which was paired with Alpha Gamma Delta, has found it impractical to enter the competition, but Alpha Hall has entered instead and will be paired with the women's house.

Tickets for the Canoe Fete may be obtained at either the University Co-op or Jack Benefield's office. The tickets sell for 35 and 50 cents.

James Dezendorf Chosen Chairman For Soph Picnic

Committees Listed for Outdoor Affair of Class of 1931

Francis Hill Speaks Words of Praise for Group

James C. Dezendorf, newly elected junior man of the executive council of the associated students, will act as general chairman of the sophomore picnic it was announced yesterday by Francis Hill, president of the class of 1931.

Saturday, May 18, one day before the freshmen hold their frolic, has been set as the tentative date of the affair for the sophomores.

Further details and plans of the picnic will be discussed when the class meets to nominate officers for the coming year, it was stated by Hill. The exact place of the affair has not as yet been decided.

Dezendorf yesterday listed the personnel of the committees that will aid him in arranging the outdoor party. Following are the committees named by the general chairman:

Transportation—Windsor Calkins, chairman; John Yerkovitch, Jean Eberhart.

Food—Anton Peterson, chairman; Marjorie Clark, Stanford Brooks, Dorothy Eberhart.

Entertainment—John Kitzmiller, chairman; William Whitely, Kathryn Langenburg.

Music—Joe Freck, chairman; Jane Cullers, Kenneth Curry.

Publicity—Harry Tonkon, chairman; Rex Tussing.

Patrons and Patronesses—Alice Morrow, Reba Brogdon, Wilma Enke.

"While our picnic last year was declared to be the best in the university history," stated Hill, "we may rest assured that our party this year will be still better, because of the efficient group of people that have been selected to work on the details of the affair."

Water Dog Research Is Main Experiment

A very interesting experiment is being made by Mr. R. J. Main, demonstrator in animal biology, over in the research building. The idea is to discover the reactions or reflexes of water dogs without their inner ears or in other words minus their sense of equilibrium. If tickled on a certain spot the creatures do one thing, if tickled on another spot they do another. All of which is of significance to the biologist but to the ordinary observer looks like ordinary squirming. Then if the ears are in one and out of another they act differently when suspended by the tail or when lying on their backs. Mr. Main "catches his own" for his experiments. They look something like lizards only their skin is not scaly. They're far from admirable looking things but they are doing their part in contributing to the advancement of biological facts.

Y.M.C.A. to Be Independent of United Board

John Maxwell Adams Has Church OK to Be Secretary

Men's Work Group To Reorganize

New Directorate Members Will Be Announced In Short Time

The present United Christian Work board will be superseded by a new board of the choosing of the Y. M. C. A. membership, and the Y. M. will sever its connections with the United Christian work to function as an autonomous association as the result of action taken last night by the board when it met at the Anchorage. The motion, made by Victor P. Morris and seconded by P. A. Peterson, was inserted in the minutes as follows:

"Be it moved that the activities for men students on the campus be turned by this advisory board over to the Y. M. C. A. when that organization shall have elected a competent board of directors and shall have assumed financial responsibility for the work of the next year with the expectation that the change will be effected at the end of the present school year."

Five Appointed

Five members of the new advisory board have been appointed, but the committee is not ready to announce the complete board, as six members are yet to be selected. The Y. M. cabinet committee working on the new board is composed of Alson Bristol, chairman, Hal Anderson, Wilbur Sohm, and Don Campbell, ex officio.

Drafting of the association's new constitution, containing provisions necessary to affiliate it with the national Y. M. C. A. organization is not yet completed. The committee working on it is made up of Walter Evans, chairman, Shailer Peterson, Alson Bristol, and Don Campbell, ex officio.

Adams Reports

Supplementary business taken up at the meeting last night included the hearing of the report by John Maxwell Adams, student pastor at the Presbyterian church, of his trip to Portland recently to consult with the Westminster foundation regarding his appointment as half-time secretary to take the place left vacant by the resignation of Henry W. Davis, the present secretary. His report was favorable, the foundation agreeing to the board's proposal regardless of the organization under which the work continues.

Don Campbell, president of the Y. M., reported the action of the Y. M. cabinet last Monday in making itself a voting membership and in deciding to affiliate with the national student division of the Y. M. C. A. Work of drafting the new constitution and appointing the new board of directors began then. It is not yet complete.

H. M. Douglass, chairman of the board, appointed the following committee to work on clearing the deficit from the past year's work: Walter Myers, W. G. Beattie, and Victor Morris. Mr. Myers was named a committee of one to see representatives from the community chest to determine the technicalities of transferring the finances of the old board to the new one.

Mr. Davis has offered his home on College Crest for the use of the group when it meets for the last time on Tuesday, May 28. At the meeting Mr. Davis will present his annual report of the United Christian work. Mrs. Charlotte Donnell, secretary of housing and employment for men will also report at that time.

Members of the advisory board present last night were H. M. Douglass, chairman; Walter Myers, treasurer; L. J. Temple, secretary; Victor Morris, John Maxwell Adams, W. G. Beattie, P. A. Peterson, H. S. Tuttle, and Nelson L. Bossing. Representing the Y. M. at the meeting were Don Campbell and Alson Bristol.

Two Hundred Voices Praised in 'Requiem' Takes Lead

By R. N.
In a majesty of sound the voices of 200 people mingled with the solemn tones of the organ at the music auditorium last night in the haunting melody of Verdi's "Requiem."

From the tempestuous "Day of Anger," through the lovely solo parts, to the final cry and prayer of the "Lord, Deliver My Soul," the singing was superbly done, and the chorus excellently balanced with the soloists.

The chorus was well climaxed in its soloists, Mr. Rollin Pease, while not carrying the heavy part he sang last year in the "Elijah," supplied the deep sonorous baritone; Mr. Arthur Boardman's magnificent tenor was excellently complemented by the lyric soprano of Miss Jane Burns, and the deep mezzo-soprano of Miss Bernice Alstock.

"Ah, Remember," which was sung by Miss Alstock and Miss Burns, was especially haunting in its beautiful, and sad melody, and seemed particularly fitted to these voices. It was followed by "Sadly Groaning, Guilty Feeling," by Mr. Boardman, and by "From the Accursed," a hymn sung by Mr. Pease. And then, together they sang "Oh, Lord God," which was almost a prayer in its solemn and simple entreaty.

Jane Burns sang the chant of the "Lord, Deliver My Soul" in a wonderfully effective manner.

Mr. John Stark Evans, who has spent many weeks in preparation for the presentation last night deserves much credit for his work, as also does the chorus. It was not an easy thing to do, especially since the members of the chorus had to practice alone until almost the last night, when they went over the more difficult parts with the four soloists.

Mothers' Banquet Tickets Selling Fast Says Biggs

Over 400 Reservations Already Made; Students Must Get Own Ducats

Students who wish to make reservations for the Mother's Day Banquet, to be held Saturday at 5:30 in the gym at the Woman's building, must do so as quickly as possible, Hugh Biggs, dean of men, said yesterday. Already more than 400 tickets have been sold and more requests keep coming in both by mail and from individuals. Those students whose mothers are writing for tickets must also make application as soon as they are able so that Mrs. H. W. Davis, who at the present time manages meals at the dormitories and who is to have charge of the banquet, may make arrangements.

Graham Stewart, professor of political science at Stanford university, will speak before the International Relations club at an open meeting which will be held in the men's lounge of the Woman's building at 7:30 Thursday evening.

"He is a leader in every community," declared President Hall in speaking of him. Dr. Stewart received a Ph. D. from the University of Wisconsin, where he afterwards served on the faculty. He has spent one year in South America for the Carnegie Foundation and four years in Europe; and he has an excellent foundation for French foreign policy, on which subject he has written a book.

Cougars Win Second Game With Oregon

Baseball Match Finishes With Locals on Short End of 6-4 Score

Oregon's Drive Comes in Ninth

Contest With Washington Set for Friday

Oregon's baseball team, which was leading the northern section Pacific Coast conference league three days ago, lost the second game to Washington State college's Cougars, 6 to 4, yesterday afternoon at Reinhart field. The Web-foot players were on base time and again, but the hits to send them home did not come.

The most determined campaign to gain the lead came in the last of the ninth. Washington State led 6 to 2. Ken Robie drew a walk, Kramer Barnes, hitting for Johnson, was thrown out at first and Robie advanced to second. Robie Stole third and Ray Edwards walked. Dave Epps hit a two-baser over first that scored Robie. Cotter Gould drove a high fly to center field sacrificing Edwards in. Harold Olinger, next man up, was walked, but Coke Smith, who took Nelson's place at first, ended the game by fanning out.

W. S. C. Takes Lead

Washington State took the lead in the third inning and maintained it through the game. A hit, an error by Epps, a sacrifice, and a two-base hit by Ted Rohwer gave them two runs. Oregon filled the bases in the next inning with only one out, but the side was retired on a freak double play. Carl Nelson had walked and was on third, Bill Baker had been hit and was on second, and Robie was on first with a walk. Al Hilgers, playing second base in place of Johnson, was at bat. He hit the ball and it dropped to be a foul Hilgers did not run and Buzzard, Cougar catcher, scooped up the ball tagging Hilgers and Nelson, who was running in from third. Umpire Christian ruled the ball fair and the inning was over.

Two More in Seventh

The Cougar sluggers tallied two more runs in the seventh. Oregon filled the bases in their half of the inning and there were no outs, but Jones, Washington State pitcher, who relieved Cragin, tightened down and the next three batters were out. "Big Train" McDonald, batting for Hilgers, hit a foul fly to first, Edwards fanned out, and Epps hit to the pitcher, who threw him out at first.

The box score shows an improvement for Oregon over Monday's game. The team obtained four runs and six hits, while Monday only four runs and four hits were made. Six errors were made in the first game and only four in the second. No home runs were made although Ted Rohwer, Washington State, hit one out of the lot. It
