Chinese Skill Shown In Exhibit In Murray Warner Rooms

Picture of Ming Period Is Drawn on Silk

A collection of beautiful Chinese paintings are now on exhibition in the Murray Warner Oriental art museums of the University of Oregon, which have never before been shown in the United States. The pictures were brought here from China by Mrs. Murray Warner, director of the museum, and will remain permanently with the collection.

There are six pictures in this new exhibition, all done in the delicate style known only to the Chinese. They are of the Ming period, which covered approximately 1300 to 1600 A. D., and are excellent illustrations of the tendencies of the time.

Five Painted on Silk
Five of the pictures are painted upon the finest woven silk, giving them a luminous luster which is not attainable on paper. They almost seem to glow. The surfaces are dusted with tiny glistening specks which, although not visible at a distance, give a very pleasing tone to the paintings.

Chinese pictures are not hung, but are kept in rolls, which are unwound to show the picture. Now, however, in their Western environment, they are framed behind glass, to protect their extremely delicate surfaces.

Landscapes Featured
Four of the paintings are landscapes, with quaintly designed trees outlined in exquisite tracery of foliage. Their perspective is, of course, in the Eastern style, and at first appears odd, but, upon closer acquaintance, it has a special attraction.

One of the pictures is of a man, in an elaborately embroidered costume, with two little boys on either side of him.

The remaining painting is of a cluster of large peonies, above them hanging a delicate spray of a tulip tree. The coloring is very fine and blends harmoniously with the luminous background. The fragile petals are edged faintly in a subtle pink, and the whole is entirely charming.

The museum will be open the regular hours, from 2 to 4 on week-day afternoons and from 3 to 5 on Sunday afternoons, during Junior Week-end, according to Mrs. Lucy Perkins.

Tiny airplanes at each place announced the engagement of Esther Lee Taylor to Herman H. Hobi at dinner at the Alpha Delta Pi house Tuesday evening, May 7.

As the engagement was announced an airplane piloted by Mr. Hobi flew over the house. After the first course two girls dressed in helmets and goggles, and leather coats, brought to the table two large boxes of candy.

While Miss Catherine Miller accompanied by Miss Virginia Hunt sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning," a bouquet of red rosebuds was given to Miss Taylor.

The table was artistically arranged with a large centerpiece of pink and white roses, and iris. Suspended above the centerpiece was a miniature silver and blue monoplane. Blue tapers also carried out the color scheme of silver and blue.

Guests for the dinner were Miss Helen Hobi and Mrs. Carl Nelson, of Aberdeen, Washington, sisters of Mr. Hobi; Mrs. Gavin C. Dyott, Mrs. Smith L. Taylor, Miss Margaret Taylor, and Mrs. Will Dennis of McMinville.

Miss Taylor is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Taylor of Eugene. She will receive her degree from the university in June, majoring in fine arts. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi.

Mr. Hobi is president of the Hobi Airways company.

The wedding will be an event of early June.

Members of the Girls' Oregon club entertained at an informal tea for about fifteen of their friends on Sunday afternoon, May 5.

The hours were from 3 to 5 o'clock. Lois Tuttle gave two vocal solos, and Norma Lyons and Ruth Lent played a duet.

Tulips and lilacs formed the decorations about the room. Ruth Woughter was in charge of arrangements.

Those who missed "Interference" will have their last chance to see this fine motion picture at the Colonial theater tonight and those who want to see it again will no doubt enjoy the silent version fully as much as the talkie. William Powell is cast for the first time as more or less of a respectable gentleman and makes just as good a hero as a villain. Evelyn Brent, that little wildcat who gained her fame as an underworld character, has a fascinating role that leaves the heroine far in the background and places herself in a rank with the best of screen stars. Our friend, Clive Brook, has elevated himself from portraying pick-pockets and bums to playing the part of English nobility and needless to say he makes an unusually charming "Sir John." "Interference" is indeed a picture deserving of the best of comment and appreciation.

Hagan Gets Post Held by Callison At Medford High

Ex-Webfoot Football Star Wins Berth at School In Southern Oregon

Merrill Hagan, three year Oregon letterman in football, will succeed Prince Callison, another ex-Oregon football star, as coach of athletic teams at Medford high was the announcement made by the Medford school board yesterday afternoon. Callison will come to Oregon as head coach of all freshman teams.

Hagan acted as captain for the Oregon team last season, and was rated as the best guard in the northwest. Before coming to Oregon Hagan played for Roosevelt high of Portland. He was all-star quarterback.

Merrill was chief assistant to Captain J. J. McEwan, Oregon football coach, for spring training. He was offered a job on the Webfoot staff, but preferred a full-time job elsewhere. He will take over his duties at Medford next fall.

Built like an airplane

... built for speed ...

THE structural difference between a Dayton Steel Racquet and other types is as striking as that between an airplane and a motor car. In an airplane tunnel test the Dayton showed 48% less air resistance. That's why it gets your ball over quicker—30% quicker. That's why it actually gives you the jump on speedier players. You've a right to demand facts. Here's the second question of a series:

Q. How does the thinner construction of the Dayton affect its comparison with a standard wood racquet in size, weight, and balance?

A. Measurements at the Y. C. Lab. showed the Dayton to be exactly its rated weight, the wood 2% over weight. With the wood racquet as a standard for dimensions, center of gravity, moments of inertia, etc., the average variation of the Dayton was less than 5%. Prof. L. H. Young of M. I. T., who made the tests, says "The makers are to be commended upon an exceedingly clever piece of design." Dayton Steel Racquet Co., Dayton, O.
