

Moeller Wins First Place In Discus Throw

Distance May be World Record; Beats Old By Nearly Foot

Oregon Men Good in Five Events at Washington Meet Saturday

When Ed Moeller sent the discus spinning through thin air for a distance of 160 feet 7-10 inch to win a first place for Oregon in the dual meet with Washington at Seattle Saturday he probably set a new world's record for that event, according to Coach Bill Hayward.

The recognized world's record in the discus is 158 feet 1-3-4 inches, set by Bud Houser of the University of Southern California in 1926.

The discus Moeller used in the throw has been sent to the east to A. A. U. officials for measurement and weighing. A diagram and a photograph of the throw were also sent east. The wind was blowing across the field at the time of the throw, and could have in no way affected the distance.

There is little doubt but the discus is standard in every respect. The discus was found to be actually two ounces over-weight when put on the scales in Seattle. It is the same one that Moeller used in the Olympic tryouts last spring. Then it passed official inspection. Ed Moeller used this same platter also in several of his throws before coming to the university. He heaved it 149 feet when in high school at San Diego, and 156 feet when in Fresno.

A month or so ago, Eric Krenz of Stanford was credited with a throw of 163 feet 8-3-4 inches, but it has been reported that officials will not allow the mark because the discus he used was thinner than the standard platter.

Last spring Moeller bettered the world's record with a throw of 159 feet in practice. Hayward believes that there is still room for improvement in Moeller's throwing form.

Bill Hayward discovered a lot of things about his track team Saturday. The Huskies took first place in every running event, while Oregon captured all but one of the field events.

Homer Dickson won the javelin throw by a margin of nearly 10 feet, throwing the spear 186 feet 3 inches. Orville Bredthauer took the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet 2-3-8 inches, bettering the nearest Washington mark by a foot and a half. Bobby Robinson pole vaulted 13 feet to Washington's 12. Bob Everts won the high jump with a margin of 2 inches, clearing the bar at 5 feet eleven inches. Ed Moeller won the discus event by nearly ten feet.

The mile and the two-mile runs were the only races in which the Huskies completely ran off from the Webfoots. Ralph Hill placed third in the half-mile, there being only a yard or so between him and the winner, Genung of Washington, at the finish. The dash men and the quarter milers finished in the same close formation.

Bill Prendergast did some great work in taking seconds for Oregon in both the 100 and the 220. Tyrell Lowry has been out-sprinting Prendergast in practice, but for some reason or other, Lowry was off form Saturday. Lowry has been covering the century consistently in 10 flat, but Saturday he could not even place against the winning time of 10.5 seconds.

It was thus that the meet was not so close as the score of 82 to 49 in favor of Washington indicated. And it is because of this, and because of the fact that Oregon men were especially good in five of the events that Bill Hayward is optimistic in regard to the Pacific held at Hayward field May 29 and 30.

Oregon Golfers Are Champions Over Huskies

Moe, Captain, Ties Record Score of Country Club Links

The Oregon golf team won the championship of the northern division of the Pacific coast conference Saturday, when the Webfoot five man team defeated the University of Washington squad on the Eugene Country club links. The match score totaled to 3 to 2 after some sensational playing by members of both teams.

In the feature match of the day, Don Moe, captain of the Webfoot golfers, played a great game to defeat Charles Hunter, Washington captain and holder of the amateur championship for that state. Moe played brilliantly on the first round, tying the course record of 69. His medal score was one under par when the total for the 36 holes was computed. Hunter was not far behind with a medal score of two above par.

Dick Richmond, Washington number one man, defeated George Will, Oregon number two, in the second match, three up and one to go. Will came back strong after losing the first six holes, and tied up on the 27th hole. Richmond won out with a total medal score of two above par. Bill Palmberg, Oregon, defeated Bob Gorley, Washington, 8 up and 7 to go. Palmberg turned in a good exhibition for the day's play, shooting 4 above par.

Francis Heitkemper, Oregon, lost to D. Rossell, Washington, 8 up and 7 to go, when the visitor succeeded in leading most of the way. This match tied the play up at two for each team.

The Staples, Oregon, furnished the deciding punch to win the title for Oregon, when he defeated B. Thompson, Washington, 7 up and 6 to go. The Huskie star made better drives than Staples but lost out on the local golfer's uncanny putting and approach shots.

Prospective Salesmen To Meet in Commerce

A meeting for all students on the campus interested in getting positions with the sales organization of the Club Aluminum company will be held this afternoon at 3:00 in room 105 of the Commerce building by two representatives of the company.

Anyone gaining a salesmanship position will be in training for a managerial position, according to Alfred L. Lomax, professor in the school of business administration in the university extension division at Portland. Students with a university education are wanted by the company. Professor Lomax said in a recent communication to Dean Fawcett of the business administration school, and the students can work in their home town or state if they so wish. Private interviews with the two representatives will be granted after the meeting of those most interested.

Oregon Tennis Stars Leave for Southern Meet

Good Chance Conceded To Harrison and Lockwood

Tournament to Determine Inter-collegiate Champions

Bradshaw Harrison and Sherman Lockwood, Oregon tennis stars, left last night with Coach Abercrombie for Los Angeles, where on Friday and Saturday of this week, they will meet players of other coast universities in the annual tournament to determine individual inter-collegiate champions for the Pacific coast.

Harrison at present is holder of the Oregon State, Washington State, and northwest singles championships, and is conceded a good chance to add the coast inter-collegiate singles championship to his laurels at Los Angeles on Saturday.

Lockwood Close Second
Sherm Lockwood has given Harrison a good battle for first ranking on the Oregon team since resuming play this spring and is also expected to acquit himself well in this tournament. Harrison and Lockwood make up an unusually effective doubles combination, and Coach Abercrombie is counting on them to show up well in the doubles play.

Just before leaving for his train last night, Abercrombie gave vent to a few feelings of dissatisfaction about the way the inter-collegiate tournaments are conducted. "The trouble with a tournament like this," he said, "is that each school is allowed to send only two players, who must play both singles and doubles. Two men cannot properly be called a university team, and all the emphasis and interest in the tournaments is centered on the individual players and individual championships, instead of on the fact that they represent certain universities."

New Scoring System Planned
"The national inter-collegiate tennis association plans to adopt a new scoring system as soon as the present trophy is won permanently, which will probably be within a year or two. Under this plan each school may send any number of players up to four to the tournament. For every player that they can place in the semi-finals, each school will receive one point; the school represented by the runner-up will get two points additional, and the school of the champion will receive three points. Doubles would be scored in the same way, and the sum of the doubles and singles points would be each school's score."

Shows Collective Average
"This scoring system would, of course, determine the individual champions in the same old way but its big advantage lies in the fact that the team championships would go to the school whose players show the best collective average of play.

"If this system is adopted," Abercrombie concluded, "an immense amount of trouble would be saved in determining sectional and national team championships. Instead of having to hold separate dual matches such as the one Oregon played with Washington here last Saturday, the team rankings could be determined at the big tournament at the same time that the individual singles and doubles championships were being settled."

Two Weeks Left For Final Play of Intramural Golf

Link Privileges to End on June 1; Tilts Must Be Played Soon

"The few remaining matches in intramural golf must be played within the next two weeks," said Carl Nelson yesterday, who is in charge of the tournament, "as the Eugene Country club privileges extend only until June 1. After that day the golfers can no longer use the courses, meaning that the championship can not be decided."

In league A the Phi Deltas continued their upward climb last week and took the Theta Chi mashie welders into camp 7 to 5. They will meet the ATO's in what promises to be a feature battle with the league championship at stake. The ATO golfers defeated Friendly hall which in turn defeated the Phi Deltas in the opening round. Since then the Phi Deltas have discovered some new material. The match is scheduled for early this week.

In League B the Sigma Chi-Sigma Nu play is slowing down the match and must be played early in the week or be scratched. The winner of this plays Phi Kappa Psi for the right to play the Betas for the league championship. The Betas won their last week's match with Phi Sigma Kappa by default.

Omega Tossers Win From Sherry Ross

With Giles pitching air-tight ball, Omega hall emerged victor over Sherry Ross hall, 4 to 2, yesterday afternoon in an intramural baseball game.

Giles allowed the Sherry Ross team but two hits and would have had a shut-out victory if his team mates had given him support in the field. Balsley, Sherry Ross pitcher, was nicked for only four safe hits but they all came when hits meant runs.

Oregon Golfers Leave for Coast Meet at Seattle

Don Moe, George Will Will Enter Champ Tournament

All Conference Schools to Have Teams in Play-off

Don Moe and George Will left Eugene last night, bound for Seattle to represent Oregon in the Pacific Coast Inter-collegiate golf championship play, to be held on the Seattle Golf Course links, Thursday and Friday.

Don Moe

The team representing the University of Washington is expected to furnish the most opposition for the Webfoots. Moe defeated Hunter, Washington number one man, Saturday in the Oregon-Washington dual match held in Eugene, while Richmond of Washington defeated Will in a close battle. Both men rank number two on their respective teams. The University of Southern California putters are conceded a strong team in Maser and Thompson. Stanford, California, Oregon State, and U. C. L. A. will also send teams to Seattle.

The tourney, which is recognized as the major college golf classic of the coast, will be played as a 72-hole medal tournament. The entrant making the lowest score for the course will be declared the individual champion of the coast, while the two men from one school taking the fewest strokes to complete the course will be awarded the team championship.

"Six or seven of the players will later represent their schools at the National Intercollegiate championships, to be held the last week in June, on the Hollywood Country Club course, at Deal, N. J., declared Moe last night. "We will face some very good golfers, but we will do our best to win."

Vine Dolp, George Kotchick, and Treve Jones led the frosh team, while Bogart and Wallin were responsible for the rook scores.
