

Oregon Emerald

University of Oregon, Eugene

ARDEN X. PANGBORN, Editor    LAURENCE R. THIELEN, Manager

EDITORIAL BOARD

W. E. Hempstead Jr., Assoc. Editor    Leonard Hagstrom, Assoc. Editor
 Joe Pigney, Assoc. Editor    Wilfred Brown, Assoc. Editor
 Ron Flubbs, Assoc. Editor    Arthur Schoeni, Managing Editor
 Harry Tonkon, Chief Night Editor    Carl Gregory, Acting Mgr. Editor

UPPER NEWS STAFF

Carl Gregory, Asst. Managing Editor    Sports Editor
 Dennis Hudson, Feature Editor    Lavina Hicks, Society Editor
 Serena Madison, Literary Editor    Leonard Deiano, P. E. Editor
 Jo Stoffel, Secretary

EDITORIAL STAFF

DAY EDITORS: Vinton Hall, Lawrence Mitchemore, Serena Madson, Carl Gregory, Mary Frances Dilday, Mary Klemm and Harry Tonkon, assistants.

NIGHT EDITORS: Fred Bethell, Thornton Shaw, Charles Barr, Merlin Blais, Max Carman.

BUSINESS STAFF

William H. Hammond, Associate Manager    Charles Reed, Advertising Manager
 George Weber Jr., Foreign Adv. Manager    Harold Koster, Asst. Adv. Manager
 Dorothy Ann Warnick, Asst. Foreign Mgr.    Ted Hewitt, Circulation Manager
 Phil Hammond, Service Dept.    Larry Jackson, Asst. Circulation Mgr.
 Louise Gurney, Secretary

ADVERTISING SALESMEN: Addison Brockman, Lucile Catlin, Margaret Harris, Bernard Clapperton, John Panton, Elaine Henderson, Bob Holmes, Iva Tremblay, Betty Hagen, Jack Gregg, Don Abner.

OFFICE ASSISTANTS: Constance McKenzie, Louise Gurney, Florence Jordan, Estelle Mays, Helen Sullivan, Dorothy Bell, Kathryn Perigo, Julianne Benton, Harry Hanson, Fred Reid, Harold Allen, Lloyd Hennigan.

Cowboy Debaters

(Linfield Review)

THAT the present loss of interest in debating is due to the lack of entertaining and informing abilities on the part of college speakers is the opinion of J. Mack Swigert, president of the Harvard University Debating Council. He believes that the day of decisions is gone and that the time has come when the college debater must present speeches which are capable of drawing the interest of an audience because of its informational and entertaining qualities.

The novelty of winning has worn off in most schools, and victory alone is hardly a sufficient inducement for attendance at a debate, he contends. The "win" spirit has subsidized the content of the debate and as a result the speakers have centered their energies on material that will bewilder their judges into a decision over their opponents while the meagre audience sits hard by attempting to solve some of the arguments presented.

In his efforts to prove his point, he cites the case of one southern college which sends a team on a tour dressed in native, cow-puncher costume—"boots, spurs, chaps, ten gallon hat and all." Following the debate they present "twenty to thirty minutes of clean entertainment" consisting of "cow-boy ballads, cow-boy stories, stories of the western country in which they live, and like items."

These movements on the part of some far-seeing debate managers and directors may have the desired effect of bringing the present waning debate back to somewhere near its former status among college students. There is little doubt that some effort must be made at some angle to return this interest in college debate for the audiences present at debates nowadays, leave little doubt but that something must be done else debate be relegated to a place in the past.

Play Director - Seeks Tall Men, Short Ones

"Wanted: Men for soldiers, courtiers, and populace in senior play 'If I Were King'." Such an advertisement, and Mrs. Ottilie Seybold, who is directing the play, is searching for tall men, short men, fat men, thin men.

You may be awkward and gangling, you may be almost roly-poly. You may be a handsome shick or you may be a sweet and simple soul. Mrs. Seybold wants you.

Anything in trousers, as the saying goes.

You will wear dashing uniforms. You will swagger, and you may be drunk (just pretend), you can be a fool if you are used to acting that way. Anything, any one.

The play will be presented Friday night, June 7, in front of McClure Hall.

Anyone who is interested is asked to report at the drama office in the Administration building Monday at 3 o'clock.

This is your chance to become popular. Learn to be an actor. Mrs. Seybold can teach you in half a dozen lessons.

this respect. Those who wish to swim during the afternoon should bring their own suits and towels and a dime for locker rental.

Busses will leave from in front of Johnson hall on successive trips, the first leaving at 2:15 and the last at 4:00. Return trips will be made starting at 7:30 in the evening.

KORE to Sponsor Special Movie Night

(Continued from Page One)

piano solo, "Caprice Viennoise" (Kreisler), by Nelda Cooper.

A violin sextette composed of Carolyn Cooper, Mabel Kullander, Estelle Johnson, Bertha Abu, Roma Gross, and Helen Althaus played "Reverie" (Glen). Theresa Kelly played the accompaniment.

Ruth Lent and Norma Lyon played a piano duet, "Barber of Seville" (Rossini).

"Waltz in A major" (Brahms), a violin solo by Mabel Kullander, was the next number on the broadcast. She was accompanied at the piano by Marguerite Spath.

Sing Oregon Songs

Katherine Starr, Carolyn Cooper, and Mabel Kullander sang a group of Oregon songs.

A violin solo, "Spanish Dance" (Rehfeld), was played by Estelle Johnson. She was accompanied by Theresa Kelly. Miss Kelly followed with a piano solo, "Two Larks" (Leschetitzky).

"Negro Spiritual (Poster), a violin solo by Carolyn Cooper was the next number on the program. Constance McKenzie played the accompaniment.

The broadcast was finished with a piano solo, "Scherzo" (Mendelssohn), by Marguerite Spath.

The Extension Division Emerald broadcasts are a feature over KORE every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday nights at 8 o'clock. Programs of talks, music, drama, and special features will be presented for the rest of the term, and will most likely be resumed next fall.

Oregon State to Send Orchestra Here on Sunday

(Continued from Page One)

whenever played. It is of quiet, religious character. Tschaiowsky's "Slave" march on the other hand is full of thrills that lead to a colossal climax, with brasses and percussion going full force.

The feature will be Concerto in G minor for violin and orchestra by Bruch, played by Mrs. McManus, director of the symphony.

This concert will be in the form of a return visit, as the University of Oregon symphony orchestra journeyed to Oregon State College last year to play. It has been the custom for several years for the orchestras of the two schools to exchange programs.

The program will be as follows:

Overture to "Russian and Lull-milla" ..... Glinka
 Concerto in G Minor, for violin and orchestra ..... Bruch
 1-Vorspiel, Allegro moderato.
 2-Adagio.
 3-Finale, Allegro Energico.
 "At Church" ..... Tschaiowsky
 "In the Village" ..... Ippolitov-Ivanoff
 "Marche Slave" ..... Tschaiowsky

DUCK SOUP

DUCK SOUP'S FIRST HOBI AIRPLANE CONTEST OFFICIALLY CLOSED LAST NIGHT.

OREGON CO-ED WINNER OF AIRPLANE CONTEST

At Least One Girl Took Contest Seriously

Elaine Crawford was declared winner in the Duck Soup-Hobi airplane contest, which officially closed last night. The judges, A. B. Hall and Herb Hoover, finally chose her contribution from the host submitted. She will be given her ride in the skies as soon as possible.

The exclusive print rights to her joke will be given to College Humor, and she will be eligible for any or all of the blind-fold cigarette tests. Her winning joke is published below.

THE FOLLOWING JOKE WON ITS AUTHOR A RIDE IN ONE OF THE HOBI AIRPLANES. ACCEPT OUR THANKS, MR. HOBI, AND ALSO ELAINE'S.

ALPHA CHI: "D'ya know that tramp across the street?"
 THETA CHI: "Do I? Well, we been roommates fer 6 years."

Dear Cook:
 Now that the year's almost over, would you mind saying frankly whether you think any contributions dropped in the Duck Soup box in the library would have been in danger of being stolen if there hadn't been a padlock to prevent it?
 SOPHOMORE SAM.

Dear Sam:
 I know what you mean, but I'm not going to take it that way. I do get some material that would be in danger of being stolen, but you never see it.

THE COOK.

FIRST MOVIE ACTOR: "How many shots did you get today?"
 SECOND MOVIE ACTOR: "I'll have you know I don't drink!"
 —D. J.

The worst break I've heard lately is that of a junior weed-end visitor. She saw a University high football player's sweater and remarked, "It's funny Eugene high should have the same colors as Oregon."

 SOPHOMORE SAM.

The Most Stupendous Spectacle
 The Marvel of the Age
 Don't Miss the Master Super Production
 The Most Unique Plot
 The Most Touching Southern Melodrama
 The Most Superb Cast And Acting
 The Hit that Held Broadway Spell-bound
 Cast by Flowery Stinkfield
 Produced by Cal Tamalle
 "The Wash Boat"
 For Only 6-10ths of a Dollar!!!
 And all the Other Acts that Nearly Go With It.

WILL THE LADIES KINDLY REMOVE THEIR HATS?

THE COOK

Datson Awarded Scholastic Honor In Business Study

Name Will be Engraved On Bronze Plaque By Honorary

The name of Bradford Datson, freshman in business administration, was selected by Beta Gamma Sigma, national scholastic and commerce honorary, to be placed on their bronze scholarship plaque, which hangs in the upper hall of the commerce building. Datson was chosen as the freshman business administration major having the highest average in grades in all his subjects, at a meeting of the honorary held in the commerce building at 5:30 last night.

Beta Gamma Sigma is recognized by the American schools of business administration as their highest scholastic honorary. The purpose of choosing a man from each freshman class is to encourage good scholarship. The plaque was first hung in 1920, and the first name appearing on it is that of Elwyn Craven, '24. Since then seven other men have been chosen: John B. Roger, '25; Harry De Franco, '26; Richard M. Nance, '27; Fred G. Niemi, '28; William T. Foley, '29; Clement A. Shafer, '30, and Ronello B. Lewis, '31. Shafer and Lewis are still students in the university.

Installation of officers was also held at the meeting last night in which Datson was selected. The new officers are: Karl Landstrom, president; Emerson Bolz, vice-president; George Stadelman, secretary-treasurer, and J. A. Johnston, assistant professor in business administration, as faculty advisor. Wade Newbegin is the retiring president.

Interclass Tennis Matches to be Played

Three interclass matches will be played for women's intramural tennis next week, according to Ernest Troemel, coach of the sport. Matches may be played at the convenience of the individual players, but they must be played by the end of the week. Umpires must be secured from Miss Troemel or from Naomi Moshberger, head of the sport.

The schedule for the week follows: freshman vs. juniors; Alice Wingate vs. Helen Detrick, Frances Haberlach vs. Ione Garbe, Carolyn Haberlach vs. Irene Greenbaum; and Althea Clark vs. Naomi Moshberger.

Sophomores vs. seniors: Grace Vath vs. Kathryn Langenberg, Beth Salway vs. Mildred Pike, Henrietta Steinke vs. Esther Malkasian, and Daphne Hughes vs. Harriet Osborne.

Sophomore second vs. junior second: Virginia Sterling vs. Arlene Earhardt; Gladys Haberlach vs. Marion Van Scoyoc; and Kathryn Kjosness vs. Nadie Strayer.

KELLY PLANS NEW COURSE

A new course in life insurance selling will be given in the school of business administration next year to meet the demand of the large number who are training for this line of work. C. L. Kelly, professor of accounting, is returning to the campus to teach this new course. He will also conduct a class in C. P. A. problems to prepare students for the Certified Public Accountant examinations.

Classified

WILL the man who took the wrong pair of trousers by mistake from University Tailor, Saturday evening, please return and exchange for his own trousers.

CAMPUS BULLETIN

Mousike, literature and poetry group of Philomelto, will meet Sunday afternoon in the Gerlinger building. Members at 3:45, visitors cordially welcomed at 4, Sun room.

All Phi Theta Upsilon members are invited to be guests of the literature and poetry groups of Philomelto Sunday afternoon at 4 in the Sun room of the Gerlinger building.

Wanted: Men for soldiers, courtiers, and populace in senior play, "If I Were King." Please report at drama office, Administration building, Monday at 3 o'clock.

Editorial staff members of the Emerald will find their invitations to the banquet on the bulletin board of the Shack. Please notice at once.

STUDE'S PROGRESS

A Satire: By Wilfred Brown

BOOK VI (Continued)

When Student had done with his meditation, he arose up from the stone whereon he sat and bedook himself on his way. And presently, after a diligent search, he once again met with Promisor, the lieutenant of the party of Debater, who was a candidate for the office of the presidency of the council of the Happy Land of Collegia. Promisor, upon seeing Student, smiled upon him warmly, saying:

PROMISOR: Greetings to thee, fellow pilgrim. And hast thou made up thy mind as to whether thou shalt support our brother Debater for the office of the presidency of the council of the land, which shall shortly be vacated by the present incumbent?

STUDENT: Yea, I have decided to give my support unto Debater, although in so doing I shall oppose the policies of the Gamma guild, with which I am affiliated.

PROMISOR: Let not thy heart be troubled, friend Student. It is better to be kindly tormented than to suffer from a troubled conscience, which should surely be the case shouldst thou cast thy vote for the party of Halfback, the party which calleth itself Independent.

STUDENT: Yea. I am voting according to my conscience, and I have found that the adherents of the Independent party are utterly perfidious by nature. Politicio, the lieutenant of Halfback, promised unto me the office of supervising the clearing of the meadow of debris following the great banquet which shall be held there one year hence should I give unto him my support, and later I found that he promised that same position to none less than five other persons.

PROMISOR: That is in verity the nature of the adherents of the Independent party. However, give unto us thy support, and thou shalt have the position of supervising the waxing of the floor in preparation for the grand hall which shall be held one year hence.

STUDENT: I thank thee, Promisor, and I shall give thee my most hearty support.

PROMISOR: Excellent. And as thy first duty I shall ask thee to post these placards in prominent places along the wayside.

And so saying, Promisor gave unto Student a great quantity of placards, which bore, in effect, this lettering: The Independent Party, What Is It? Halfback, Theta; Politicio, Sigma—and so the names of all the members of the Independent ticket, showing them all to be mem-

New Wash Silk

Sleeveless Dresses Ensembles

Also "Flop Hats" Everwear Hosiery

Co-Ed Dress Shop "House of Youth" Tiffany Bldg.

bers of the Grecian guilds of the land.

Student took the placards and continued along the way, sticking one here and one there as he traveled. But he had traveled not far when he met with Politicio and a number of the other adherents of the Independent party. Behold, shouteth Politicio, and the group closed in upon Student.

One person seized Student by the hair of his head and another tripped his feet so that he went down in a heap upon the ground. One person snatched the remaining placards from him and tore them into shreds, and the whole of the group leaped in turn up and down upon the prostrate Student.

But about this time there appeared on the scene Promisor and a number of the adherents of the party of Debater. Promisor and his colleagues rushed in upon the group which were abusing Student and met them full force. Whereupon ensued one of the most horrible battles in the history of the Happy Land of Collegia.

And Student meanwhile, lay prostrate upon the ground underneath the mob of Independents and others who fought over him. Now one trod upon his ear, now another upon his nose, and now another upon his abdomen.

Presently Promisor and his aides overcame Politicio and his, and the Independents retreated in great disorder down the road. Promisor came unto Student and assisted him to his feet. Student found that none of his bones were broken, but he was bruised horribly, and was scarcely able to stand upon his feet.

PROMISOR: Accept my congratulation, friend Student. Thou showest the proper spirit, the spirit of fair play and of righteousness for which the party of Debater ever standeth.

STUDENT: I scarcely thought that Politicio and the other adherents of the Independent party were so inclined to violence.

PROMISOR: The adherents of the Independent party are by nature totally evil and perfidious. But trust us, Student. We will deal with thee fairly and honorably.

STUDENT: I thank thee heartily, friend Promisor. Thou mayest depend upon me.

(To Be Continued)

THEATERS

By OSBORNE HOLLAND

Something unusually good in silent drama is offered by the Colonial theater this week with "The Trail of '98," an epic of the Klondike gold rush. Real Alaskan scenes have been spirited to Hollywood to furnish awe-inspiring background for a locale that presents all that can be desired in the way of thrills, romance and adventure. Dolores Del Rio and Ralph Forbes are excellently cast as the leads and although they overplay their roles, a better team would be hard to find.

Actions abound in "The Trail of '98" and the director spares no opportunity to make the audience lose its breath. A few old timers from the bygone wild west drama have been injected into the production to give it a touch of reality and Harry Carey and George Cooper give ample support to the stars. But the director made the big mistake common to most directors, that of overplaying the scenery, and evidently forgot that audiences don't pay to go on scenic excursions.

Presently Promisor and his aides overcame Politicio and his, and the Independents retreated in great disorder down the road. Promisor came unto Student and assisted him to his feet. Student found that none of his bones were broken, but he was bruised horribly, and was scarcely able to stand upon his feet.

McDONALD—Laura La Plante and Joseph Schildkraut in "Show Boat." With an atmospheric prologue from Ziegfeld's follies.

COLONIAL—"The Trail of '98," with Karl Dane and Dolores Del Rio." First run in Eugene. Also Our Gang in "Growing Pains."

HELLIG—"The Taylor Players present 'The Country Boy.'"

REX—"Thundergod," from Oliver Curwood's novel. Also comedy and news reel.

Collegiate Chaff—Editorial Comment on This and That

(Continued from Page One)

fy the document somewhat, but the surface has scarcely been scratched. An antiquated constitution has no place in a progressive student body. The new administration has a challenging problem, and it is certainly capable of meeting it. What we need is not a revised and patched up framework; we should have a NEW constitution.

Did you ever read the book on how to keep clean?

—neither have we, but we do know there are other ways to cleanliness and one specifically is to—

Phone 825

New Service Laundry

New Wash Silk Sleeveless Dresses Ensembles

Also "Flop Hats" Everwear Hosiery

Co-Ed Dress Shop "House of Youth" Tiffany Bldg.

Athletic Pictures

PICTURES OF ALL ATHLETES

SEE OUR WINDOWS

University Pharmacy

"The Student's Drug Store"

Floating University For Men and Women

Travelling by land and sea around the globe. Starting in October; eight months of education, leading to bachelor's and master's degrees. Address Graybar Bldg., New York, for descriptive catalog.

1928 University is now in Europe The World its Laboratory