Frosh to Meet Rooks at Medford, November 9, Says Council

Appointment of Lester McDonald as editor of the Oregoniana to succeed Serena Madsen Scheffer was made at a meeting of the executive council yesterday afternoon.

McDonald was recommended to the group following recent action by the publications committee selecting him as the outstanding candidate for the editorship, vacated when Mrs. Scheffer resigned.

Managers Appointed

Debate managers were also appointed, following the recommendations made by the forensic committee of the associated students. Eugene Laird will be general manager; Robert Miller, men's manager; Florence McNeerney, women's manager; and Horbert Wilson, manager of oratory.

In a report presented by the music committee and passed by the council, provision was made for a meeting of the yell leader, chairman of the band and of the glee clubs for the purpose of stimulating activity in music at the university. Special emphasis will be placed at this meeting, which will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, upon songs and music for use at athletic contests. Proposals that the band act in a more official capacity at the games and that the orchestra give Sunday musical concerts have been voiced about the campus and it is possible that action will be taken on this Thursday.

Frosh Play in Medford

Official permission for the Oregon Frosh-O. S. C. Rook football game to be played at Medford on November 9 was voted by the executive body. The Medford American Legion has offered $500 for each team and a large cut of net profits as an inducement. A second Frosh-Rook game this fall will be played at Corvallis.

The council also voted favorably upon the appointment of Gene Shields as assistant varsity football coach and Bob Keeney and Cotter Gould as freshman aides. Ernest McCutchan was to have helped instruct the yearlings, but did not return to school this fall.

Song Week Planned

Song week will be held this fall, sometime prior to the homecoming game with O. S. C. on November 16, it was decided at yesterday's meeting, following recommendation of the music committee. The two glee clubs of the university will be united into one

WORK GOES AROUND

The freshman parade is no more. Officials of the university and the student body have seen fit to campaign against it, against its promiscuous paddling and latent cruelty. They are in favor of a more fitting observance of the initiation of the newcomers into the ranks of the freshmen.

The Emerald is emphatically in favor of the abolition of the parade and the "mix" they have been in the past. Designed as the parade was to "instill Oregon spirit" into the first-year men, it has failed. The Emerald has always taken the stand that a quarter-inch oak plank may teach respect to a moron, but is the wrong approach to a college student.

In the place of the parade and mix will be a fitting and colorful ceremony, probably the university band escorting the freshmen across the football field at the Willamette game, to be "crowned" with their green caps at the feet of Tom Stoddard.

Such traditions as the Emerald considers useful it will support. It believes college life should retain all of the color and gaiety possible.

At the impressionable age which freshmen enter the university, colorful traditions mean much. To upperclassmen they also hold charm which seems almost necessary to the atmosphere of thrill which surrounds campus affairs. We would hate to see Oregon join the ranks of the business college so far as school spirit and campus life go. We pledge our support to Tom Stoddard in fighting it to the last ditch.

Oregon has outlived the paddling tradition. The time is ripe for a change to something better and we believe the student body is on the right path when it is scrapping the frosh parade and mix.

Sophs Debate Question of Class Pants

Local Merchants Unable To Secure Desired Trousers Soon

APPOINT COMMITTEE

Matter of Whipcords Will Be Discussed With Tom Stoddard

Far from being settled by recent disapproval of whipcords by the Order of the O, and a decision made by sophomore men at a class meeting held last week to return to "moleskins" at the beginning of the winter term, the "pressing pants predicament" of the second-year men is still pending final adjustment.

Last night at Villard Hall, a discussion of the trousers middle crept into a meeting of sophomore men primarily called by President Jack Steipe to consider the abandonment of the freshman parade. Reports show that the sentiment of most of those present was that the adjustment is unclear.

Moleskins Desired

It was pointed out that the local merchants declare it impossible to procure a large stock of moleskin trousers such as were worn last year in less than four or five months, as the material must be made up and the pants cut to order. Moleskins are not worn outside of a few universities and thus the manufacturers do not keep them in stock for the general retail trade.

Committee Named

At the close of the meeting Steipe appointed Phil Hammond, Dick Jennings and Chet Knowlton as members of a committee to meet with Tom Stoddard, president of the Associated Students, and with him take the matter of the whipcords up with the Order of the O. This action was taken as a result of rumors that the Order of the O did not disapprove of the dark grey whipcords, but frowned upon those of lighter shades as bearing too strong a resemblance to upperclassmen corduroys.

Frosh Parade Familiar Stunt To Early Indians

Revengeful sophomores intent upon instilling the old Oregon spirit into freshmen with paddles and a freshman parade up to Skinner's butte and back were not the originators of the joyous little game, "running the gauntlet."

On the contrary! They just stole somebody else's stuff. Take the Indian for example. An Emerald reader with a nose for news, Francis Coad, sent in the following historical excerpt, which seems to trace the frosh parade back to the heyday of the aborigine:

Initiation of Yearlings At New Ceremony on Hayward Field Planned

Class Presidents and Officials to Discuss Proper Time and Place for '33 Men to Receive Lids at New Ritual

Plans for Painting of the 'O' Will be Made; Abolition Of Annual Tug-of-War Not Certain

The freshman parade is a thing of the past. With a regularity that clicked like a cash register, three official campus bodies yesterday placed their okay on the move to abolish the traditional march up Skinner's butte. Along with it the class mix at Hayward field was junked.

Three class presidents, Tom Stoddard and Assistant Dean Hugh Biggs yesterday morning went into a conference which resulted in the recommendation that the parade and mix be discontinued and an impressive ceremony of some kind for the donning of frosh lids be substituted.

In the afternoon the student affairs committee turned its thumbs down on the affair which was slated for Saturday morning. With these two recommendations, the plan went to its third group, the executive council, and received its unanimous approval.

So the tradition of many years' standing is relegated to the pages of past Oregonians.

To Meet Today

This morning the class presidents will again meet with Stoddard and Biggs to work out a suitable ceremony for "crowning" the green-cappers. A plan advanced yesterday by Dean Biggs is receiving serious attention.

The university band, under this plan, would march at the head of the body of freshmen across the football field between halves of the Willamette game Saturday. In front of the university president's box they would be duly initiated as freshmen simultaneously with the placing of a green cap on the head of their president, Lawrence Bay, by Tom Stoddard. A couple of short, timely talks by President Hall and Stoddard would end off the program.

Will Paint "O"

At today's meeting, plans will also be made for the painting of the "O" on the butte. An effort will be made to place the task in the category of a privilege for the freshmen to keep the "O" painted instead of a duty.

Abolition of the tug-of-war across the mill race on Junior Week-End was not thought advisable yesterday by the student affairs committee. It is also probable that some revised plan will be made for the annual burning of frosh lids which also comes off that week-end.

Sponsoring of Advertising Club To be Discussed

Subjects to be Taken up At Alpha Delta Sigma Kick-off Meeting

The advertising club to be sponsored by Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising fraternity, will be one of the subjects up for discussion at the big kick-off meeting which W. F. G. Thacher chapter will hold at noon today at the Anchorage.

At this time George Weber, Jr. will give a report of his trip to the National Convention of Alpha Delta Sigma at Lexington, Kentucky, where he represented the local chapter. Well-known business men of Eugene and professors in the university who are associate members will give short talks.

Handles Management

Last year Alpha Delta Sigma handled the management of the Junior Vod-Vil, Mask and Buskin, and Guild Theater plays. The Krazy Kopy Krawl, the fraternity's big social effort of the year, is ranked as one of the most successful brawls of the campus season. Two years ago the local chapter won a plaque awarded annually to the most active chapter of the national organization.

Officers Listed

George Weber, Jr. is president of W. F. G. Thacher chapter. Other officers are: Charles Reed, vice-president; Anton Peterson, corresponding secretary and treasurer, and Cecil Snyder, recording secretary. Harold Kester, William Hammond, Edward Bissell, Richard Horn, Fletcher Udall, Harold Allen, Ted Hewitt, John Nelson, and Addison Brockman are the other active members. Associate members include W. F. G. Thacher, Robert Hall, David F. F. Thacher, John M. Rae, Nowland B. Zane, Ralph D. Casey, Arne G. Rae, all on the university faculty, and Karl F. Thunemann, Frank Hill, William Cruikshank, and Chalmers Nooe, who are engaged in business in Eugene.

GERMAN READING COURSE OFFERED

A German reading course is being offered to graduate students in all departments. Those students interested will meet in room 106, Oregon building, Thursday at 4 o'clock. The class will be conducted by Diana Deiningner with the aid of the German staff. Students enrolling for the two afternoons a week will pay a $3.00 monthly fee. This will give the students a reader's knowledge and will enable them to pass the reading examination.

Dean J. H. Gilbert Leaves on Tour For Two Months

Will Study Educational Reforms in Eastern and Mid-western Schools

Prof. Will Return With Football Team

A study of the educational reforms that have been introduced during the past several years in eastern and mid-western schools is the object of the tour on which Dr. James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of literature, science and the arts, left yesterday. He will visit educational institutions in those sections of the country during the next couple of months.

In a report presented by the music committee and passed by the council, provision was made for a meeting of the yell leader, chairman of the band and of the glee clubs for the purpose of stimulating activity in music at the university. Special emphasis will be placed at this meeting, which will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock, upon songs and music for use at athletic contests. Proposals that the band act in a more official capacity at the games and that the orchestra give Sunday musical concerts have been voiced about the campus and it is possible that action will be taken on this Thursday.

Jessie Puckett Fills Vacancy in W. A. A. Cabinet

Riding and Marksmanship To be Scheduled for Sport Calendar

Mary Wilburn Elected to Head of La Crosse

Jessie Puckett was elected vice-president of the Women's Athletic Association to fill the vacancy left by Nellie McDonald, who failed to return to school this fall, at the mass meeting yesterday in the Gerlinger building.

Mary Wilburn was elected head of the La Crosse.

"Everyone for a team, and a team for everyone," is the slogan adopted by the W. A. A. More students are asked to come out for all of the fall sports, speedball, volleyball and swimming, as more are needed to fill places on teams. Two practices a week are required.

Riding has been accepted as a new sport on the program, and will be offered all year. Points will be awarded on the honors basis, only 50 points can be earned during the year. For further information call Betty Beam, 204.

Honors also are given in swimming and dancing. Fifty points will be awarded to anyone passing the requirements for membership in Amphibian, and likewise, 50 points will be awarded anyone who passes the test for the Master Dance group.

Rifle sport has been resurrected after a lapse of three years. It, too, will be on the honors basis, 50 points being awarded upon completion of certain tests. Arrangements are not yet complete with the R. O. T. C. but it is hoped they will be completed soon. All who are interested are asked to call Mahalah Kurtz, 49.

Houses award activity points for coming out sports. Upon the earning of 100 points the student is eligible for membership in W. A. A.

Big Sisters Hold 'Get Wise' Party For Frosh Girls

Activities to be Explained By Skit; Dancing, Talks And Music Planned

All Women on the Campus Are Invited

Frosh women will learn what college is all about from the activity side, Friday afternoon when Women's league will give a "Get Wise" party for them at the women's gym.

Miss Joan Patterson, vice president of the league, is general chairman of the annual party, and a large corps, representing various campus organizations and honoraries is working with her in preparations for the entertainment.

Big sisters are to bring their little sisters.

Miss Patterson today, speaking for the league council, urged every woman on the campus to attend the Friday afternoon party. "We should like to have every frosh woman present and we want a large representation of all classes as well," she declared.

Dean Virginia Judy Esterly will speak to the group during the afternoon.

There is to be an informal two-hour program, including dancing, "eats," and a skit that will be the means of giving incoming students information about the campus.

Taking part in the skit will be Helen Peters, representing Women's league, Gracia Haggerty, Y. W. C. A., Mahalah Kurtz, W. A. A.; Adelle Wedemeyer, Thespian; Barbara Mann, Kwama; Marjorie Chester, Mortar Board; Darphie Hughes, Phi Theta Upsilon; Margaret Cummings, Big Sister work.

"This will be a variety to the usual more formal means of 'getting the frosh wise,'" explained the vice president.

Frances Humphrey is in charge of posters, Gracia Haggerty heads "eats" arrangements, Lou Ann Chase and Bea Milligan are assisting with entertainment.

The party will begin at three o'clock, and is to be held at the Gerlinger building in the gymnasium.

RELATIONS GROUP WILL MEET TONIGHT

The International Relations club will meet tonight at 7:15 in the geology lecture room on the first floor of Condon hall, according to Warren D. Smith, acting head of the group. Mrs. Ben Hooper, who is prominent in International Relations work in the middle west, has been engaged to speak to the group on work being done in this field in other parts of the country. The club will also be organized for the year at this meeting, and various plans will be discussed.

OREGON STUDENT MADE SECRETARY

Announcement has been made of the appointment of Miss Lynette Davis, former Oregon student, to the secretaryship of the university school of journalism.

According to Eric W. Allen, dean of the school, Miss Davis will arrive Saturday, October 12, from her home in Emmett, Idaho, after a two years' absence from the campus. She will succeed Miss Ruth Gregg, who has resigned the position to accept the society editorship of the Astoria Daily Budget.

While in attendance here, Miss Davis became well known and, in addition to her academic work, served as secretary to Dean Rebec of the graduate school and of the college of liberal arts.

O. K. BURRELL HAS ARTICLE PUBLISHED

"An Experiment in Determining Student Aptitude," by O. K. Burrell, professor of accounting, has appeared in the September issue of "The Accounting Review." Work has been going on for the past three years in the business administration school here for the purpose of ascertaining the aptitude of freshmen in accounting for their work. The experiment is a report of the progress to date, and is part of the general program of the school in attempting to advise freshmen in regard to their work.

D. Barnes Tells of Work Done in British Museum Last Year

By BOBBY REID

Two years ago Dr. Donald Barnes was known the campus over for his lecture courses in English history, and the ones dealing with the life and loves of Henry the 8th, bid fair to rival the A. S. U. O. series in their popularity. He spent last year in England doing research work on a Guggenheim fellowship on the life of Henry Pelham, and now he is back on the campus resuming his classes in the history department.

Dr. Barnes plans to write a book on the life of Henry Pelham. The Guggenheim fellowship enabled him to gather valuable material in preparation of the work.

"Ah, I say," he said to me, "do you understand about the Guggenheim thing?" I admitted my rank ignorance, and he proceeded to explain.

"It's for men somewhere between 25 and 35 years old, past the Ph. D. stage but as a rule not reached the stage of celebrity, and who are interested in all creative endeavor, almost all fields are included." I thanked him and we proceeded with the discussion of Pelham.

Almost all his work was done in the manuscript room of the British museum, where he gathered his material from two groups of papers, the Newcastle papers and the Hardwicke papers.

Oregon Senior Tries Chicago Slum And Factory Life During Summer

Living the life of a factory girl in the slums of Chicago for six weeks last summer was the experience of Margaret Edmunson, senior in sociology at the university. Miss Edmunson was one of twenty-eight college women chosen from all sections of the United States to participate in a project of the National Student Council of the Y. W. C. A. The purpose of the experiment which has for several years been held in Chicago, is to determine how people other than ourselves live, and to learn the relationship between employer and employee.

"We were sent to the city," said Miss Edmunson, "without money, without a job and without a place to stay. I went to fifteen different places before I finally found a place in a box factory making Crackerjack boxes. The hours of work were sometimes from five in the morning until three or four in the afternoon. This necessitated arising in darkness at three, eating breakfast of whatever one was able to rustle the night before and hurrying to the factory which was usually many blocks distant.

"I worked in the 'peeling department'," she continued, "where hammers are used in the making of the boxes. My blistered hands did not heal all the time I was there and sometimes the arms of" (Continued on Page Three)
