To the Graveyard . . .
Oregon Knights . . .
Art Exhibit . . .
Song Or Songs . . .

ANOTHER somber shadow has joined the march of the ghosts. The frosh parade has reached the twilight of its existence, and resonant whack of paddles along with the chant of the paraders will hang in the skeleton closet of "has beens." Intelligence certainly tells us that it is best that this tradition should go. It has been a misfit for several years. It is our sentimentality that breathes the sigh. We were ruthlessly treated and would not want the experience repeated, and yet . . . we're glad we went through it . . . college seemed to be in the making. However, sentimentality can give way to intelligence, and if the new scheme carries the color and glamour of the frosh parade without the physical discomfort, then the change must be for the best.

SOME of our worthwhile organizations are so taken for granted that we fail to give grateful acknowledgment. A few years ago the Oregon Knights were given the difficult task of assuming the responsibilities of all the defunct and decapitated service organizations. The pioneering process was hard, and criticism was plentiful. With very little background in experience and even less encouragement, this ambitious group set out to solve the problems of meeting teams at trains; ushering; assisting in registration; and the hundreds of other tasks busy groups were so willing to push off on them. They have performed their task so well and efficiently that we no longer appreciate their vital necessity to the A. S. U. O. We see them at every function, and expect them to be there. Certainly there is no organization on the campus that performs more real honest-to-god labor with less thanks.

IF YOU want to fake an intellectual jaunt . . . if you intend to add to your cultural self . . . may we suggest the exhibit of modern photographic art now on display in the little art gallery of the school of architecture and allied arts. You don't have to be an artist to appreciate this excellent and worthwhile feature . . . its beauty and expressiveness need no explanation. Find a little time to go vagabonding . . . follow the flagstone walk . . . the reward will be a delightful half hour.

WHILE all the various student committees are busy deciding things, will someone please solve, once and for all, which one of our various songs is THE alma mater song? We are aware of a change a few years ago in which "The Pledge Song" was official. The tendency has been of late to observe "Mighty Oregon" as the song of songs. We haven't any argument to advance on the merits of either. However, we should like to know when we stand and when we don't . . . or is that tradition to have an alma mater song passing too?

Mrs. Ben Hooper Declares Unity Is Necessary to World Peace

By WARREN TINKER

A SILVER-HAIRED woman stood before members of the International Relations club last night and proclaimed the philosophy of the world today in terms of world peace and brotherhood. Mrs. Ben Hooper, nationally known leader in International Relations, was the speaker.

"War is an emotion. Wars are made by governments; not by people. Yet people must be driven mad before there is war," stated Mrs. Hooper. Again and again she sought to emphasize that point; that people at war are mad, regardless of which side they are on. "The next war of international importance

Homecoming To Be Bigger Event This Year Says Chairman

HALL IS NAMED

Committee Chief Requests Co-operation in Its Undertaking

'Ab in Needed,' States and in Making pointment

Keith Hall, was yesterday chairman for this year's Homecoming. He is a member of the business administration, and has been a member of Homecoming committees for the past three years.

In announcing his choice, Stoddard said, "The position of Homecoming chairman this year is going to require the services of the most able man on the campus. On that basis I have chosen Keith Hall to fill the position. His record in college has been of the highest caliber, exemplifying in every case his ability to assume full responsibility and to achieve signal success in the work assigned to him."

Homecoming week-end will fall on November 15 and 16. On the afternoon of the 16th Oregon will clash with Oregon State at Hayward Field for the football supremacy of the state. This annual classic always attracts a capacity crowd, and it is expected that the game will be an attraction which will help to make this year's Homecoming the greatest ever held in Eugene.

When reached by phone last night and questioned regarding his plans, Hall said, "As the university grows each year, the duties of the Homecoming chairman become greater and more difficult, and I realize that I have a hard job ahead of me, but knowing the spirit that now prevails upon the campus, I feel confident that the whole university will co-operate with me in making this year's Homecoming Oregon's greatest."

In addition to his three years' experience on Homecoming of past years, Hall has taken part in many other branches of student activity.

Two years ago he was president of the sophomore class. During his junior year he was a district chairman of the Greater Oregon committee and business manager for the canoe fete. At present he is vice-chairman of the Greater Oregon committee and a member of the rally committee.

Hall will spend several days in selecting the committee heads for his Homecoming directorate, and will probably have his choices ready for announcement about the middle of next week.

Advance signs indicate that a record-breaking crowd of alumni will pour into Eugene for the two days of Homecoming. Advance ticket sales for the game are so

Committee on Music Plans to Find New Song

Selection of New Hymn to Be Followed by 'Song Week' for Practice

Freshman to Sing Pledge Song at Saturday Game

Plans to make singing of university songs and band music play a larger part in the development of pep and spirit at the football games this fall were laid at a meeting of the music committee held yesterday afternoon.

This movement will get under way at the Willamette game Saturday afternoon. Just before the start of the game the band will parade the field and then halt before the rosters' stand to accompany the singing of "Mighty Oregon." Between the halves the "Pledge Song" will be used in the freshman induction ceremony.

Competition Planned

In order to develop enthusiasm for the singing idea, a competition will be held in the near future for new songs which will be more suitable for mass pep singing than those now in use, according to Kenton Hamaker, chairman of the music committee. It is hoped that such a competition will result in the composing of some such song as the "Bow Down to Washington" which has made our northern rival so well known about the country.

Definite plans for the competition and members of a managing committee will be announced in a few days by Hamaker. The selection of new songs will be followed by a campus-wide "Song Week," the object of which will be to familiarize the students with the songs by intramural singing competition and other means.

Committee Formed

Members of the music committee, which is fostering the drive, are, in addition to Hamaker, John Stark Evans and George Hopkins of the school of music faculty; "Doc" Robnett, assistant graduate manager; J. H. Stehn, director of the band; Joe Freck, band manager; James Dezenford and Florence McNeerney.

Godfrey Snaps Jumper in Drop From Aeroplane

Pictures to be Shown on Regular Register, McDonald Reel

Very unique motion pictures of a parachute jumper in action were obtained by George H. Godfrey, director of the university bureau of public relations, at the opening of the new Springfield flying field last Sunday afternoon. Godfrey was taken up in a plane by Major Gilbert Eckerson, president of the Eckerson Flying school, owner of the new field. One of the stunts of the afternoon was a parachute jump made from a height of 4000 feet.

Major Eckerson followed the jumper in his plane from this altitude to within 100 feet of the ground, circling round and round him while Godfrey took closeups of the descent.

These pictures will be shown on the regular Register-McDonald news reel which will be featured tonight and tomorrow at the McDonald theatre.

LAIRD TO ATTEND O.A.C. CONFERENCE

Eugene Laird, forensic manager of Oregon at a conference at Corvallis this Saturday.

The conference which is of the executive committee of the intercollegiate oratorical association of Oregon, will decide on questions for debate between schools in the state of Oregon and also will take care of the annual business of the association.

In the national rifle matches held at Camp Perry, Ohio, last August, Harvey Wright, senior in the university, tied for third place. He was also individual high point shot in the R. O. T. C. here last year.

Soph Committee And Order of 'O' Decide Class Garb

Dark Grey Whipcords Are Chosen as Official Trousers

Silver-grey Pants Must Go At End of Term

No longer shall the burning question of what the well-dressed sophomore man shall wear below the belt vex the campus. A committee appointed by Jack Stipe, president of the sophomore class, met yesterday with the Order of the O and Tom Stoddard, president of the student body, and an amicable settlement was reached.

Sophomores fortunate enough to have purchased whipcords of a dark grey color may wear them for the remainder of the school year. The lighter, silver-colored whipcords may be worn for the remainder of the fall term, but after the beginning of the year their owners will wear them at their own risk.

The committee appointed by Stipe, Wednesday evening, included Phil Hammond, chairman, Chet Knowlton, and Dick Jennings.

This committee agreed with the viewpoint of the Order of the O men that whipcords should not be worn at all after this year. Steps will soon be taken to make "mole-skins" the permanent sophomore garb after this year, according to George Stadleman, president of the Order of the O.

WOMEN INVITED TO DANCE

All women students who do not have a regular place of organization where they may take part in open house Saturday night are asked to come to the Y. W. bungalow for the annual campus event, Gracia Haggerty announced yesterday.

FEE SOURCES EXPLAINED

Non-Resident Students Paid Extra Assessment in 1926-27 Totalling $13,750

By REX TUSSING

Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of surveys by Rex Tussing, associate editor of the Emerald, briefly outlining the direction of student fees and taxes as received by the university.

Each year L. H. Johnson, comptroller of the university, submits a certified account of expenditures and receipts to the board of regents. The report for the year ending September 30, 1929, is now in process of compilation and will not be printed within the month, but figures from the 1928 report show an approximate trend.

Remember that last year student registration fees were $19.75 instead of this year's $26.25.

Fees from students:
Regular registration.....$ 27,924.75
Late registration.....2,572.00
Infirmary.....24,237.00
Non-resident.....13,750.00
Transcripts.....351.75

Unique Party Planned For Frosh Women

'Get Wise' Affair Big Event On Fall Term Social Calendar

ESTERLY PLANS TALK

Prominent Members of League to Take Part In Entertainment

A crowd running well up in the hundreds is expected to attend the Women's League annual "Get Wise" party, given to acquaint frosh women with campus life, this afternoon at three o'clock in the women's gym.

Final arrangements for a big afternoon that will include dancing, "eats" and a skit with some of the outstanding women leaders on the campus taking part, were being made yesterday under the direction of Joan Patterson, who, as vice-president of the league, is in general charge.

All Women Invited

Every big sister is to bring her little sister, if possible, and those in charge are particularly anxious that every frosh woman attend. Every woman student on the campus is invited.

Dean Virginia Judy Esterly will speak during the program.

"It will give frosh an opportunity not only to learn what Oregon women do, but a chance to make new friends and to get the 'feel' of the league spirit," was the comment of one league officer yesterday.

"Judging from one rehearsal of the skit, there won't be a dull minute during the afternoon," she added.

Changes in Law School Finished; Morse New Prof.

New Classroom Added; Douglas in Charge Of Library

A new classroom, a new professor, a new plan for the direction of the library, and the law school on the third floor of the Oregon building feels itself greatly remodeled. The classroom is a small one which has been enlarged to take in part of the hall, but its increased size and appearance have given it the title "new."

The new professor is Wayne Morse who comes from Columbia university to be an instructor in law here; and the new plan for the library is its addition as a part of the main library with M. Douglas in charge. Student help will be employed by Mr. Douglas, and, it is said, library work will be run on a more business-like plan than heretofore.

With the addition of Hugh Rosson to full-time professor of law, and Orlando Hollis to his old position of part-time instructor, the law school faculty is complete and ready to go ahead with an entirely "new" year.

Oregon Knights Pledge List To Be Out Oct. 12

'FRESHMAN INAUGURAL' WILL BE SUBSTITUTE FOR PARADE

Ceremony to be Conducted At Half Time of Game; Dean Straub, Stoddard, To Address New Men

By DAVE WILSON

Final details of plans for the "freshman inaugural" ceremony to be held on Hayward field between halves of the Willamette game Sunday afternoon were worked out in a meeting of the directorate for the affair held yesterday afternoon in the office of Acting Dean of Men Biggs.

Representatives of the Order of the O, the Oregon Knights, the rally committee, the university band, and the freshman, sophomore and junior classes talked over the details of the ceremony and worked out a plan which it is hoped will be a great step forward in the inauguration of freshman men into the traditional life of the campus.

Section for Frosh

A special section in the east grandstand will be reserved for the freshmen men, and they will be required to sit there. Smaller sections nearby will be reserved for the band, the order of the O and the Oregon Knights. At the beginning of the half time intermission the frosh will form on the east track, and preceded by the band and the Order of the O will march around the edge of the field and halt in front of the central box of the west grandstand.

Here the Dean Emeritus of men, John L. Straub, will deliver a short address to the class, welcoming them to the life of the university. He will be followed by Tom Stoddard, president of the Student Body, who at the conclusion of his words of welcome, will place an official "green lid" on the head of Lawrence Bay, newly-elected president of the freshman class.

Frosh Don Lids

At this signal, all of the frosh will kneel and place their lids on their heads, to wear them until Junior Week-end next May. The band will then strike up the Oregon Pledge song, and the newly-crowned freshmen will sing it. They will then be escorted back to their places in the east grandstand.

The addresses of Dean Straub and Stoddard will be carried to those in the east stand by means of the field amplifying system, according to "Doc" Robnett, assistant graduate manager, who is handling the details for the ritual. "All house presidents and hall-sponsors should see to it that all their freshmen come to this game, urged Stoddard. "And all the freshmen should remember to bring their green lids in their pockets when they come."

CATHOLIC GROUP WILL BREAKFAST

The Newman club, Catholic student organization, will breakfast Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's hall, 11th and Lincoln streets, according to Richard Burke, president of the club, who, with Irene Moore, treasurer, is in charge.

Captain John McEwan and Bill Reinhardt, varsity football coaches, and Prink Callison, frosh coach, will be guests at the breakfast. The club will elect officers for the coming year, and plans for the organization will be discussed.

INDEPENDENTS TO JOIN OPEN HOUSE

All independent men on the campus wishing to attend open house may secure that privilege by leaving their names at the campus Y. M. C. A. today or tomorrow. This has been arranged so that a check on the number going will be available. All those who sign up will meet at the Y. but at 6:30 Saturday evening and start from there.

TODAY'S WEATHER
Oregon: Cloudy, with showers in west portion Friday. Saturday probably rain; moderate south and southeast winds on coast.

Each Living Group To Be Represented

Officers for Next Year to Be Elected at Meeting Next Week

Tradition Enforcers Will Direct Green Cap March at Game

Pledging of new freshman initiates into the Oregon Knights is scheduled for Saturday of this week, it was announced at a meeting of the Knights held yesterday afternoon. One freshman will be chosen from each fraternity and living group on the campus and initiated into the Knights at an early date.

Election of officers of the organization on the campus will be held next week, according to James Dezenford, duke, to fill in vacancies left in the lineup selected last school year.

New Policy Planned

For several years in the past the Oregon Knights have been the organization which has handled the turning-in of freshman for library steps punishment. Offenders of traditions were spotted and reported. A new system will be put in use this year. Slips with the name of the freshman will be made out by the knight and a duplicate given to the freshman at the time the offense is noted. This is aimed to obviate all cause for cries of "discrimination," Dezenford pointed out.

Plans for directing the freshman green-cap march between halves at the Willamette game were also made at the meeting. Besides their regular duty of handling the crowds and ushering at all games, the Knights will act as escorts for the freshmen when they march across Hayward field to be officially "crowded" with their lids by Tom Stoddard.

GROUP DISCUSSES ARMISTICE PLANS

Plans to celebrate Armistice day on the Oregon campus in a more constructive way rather than with previous militaristic ballyhoo were discussed by a group of Eugene people interested in the National Council for Prevention of War at a meeting held at the Anchorage last Wednesday night.

Through better understanding of existing conditions throughout the nations of the world and closer contact with the officials of each council believes that it will make it possible to settle all international disputes without relying upon the evils of war.

Speakers at Wednesday night's meeting were Professor E. E. DeCoul, president of the Eugene Council for Prevention of War; Professor Harold S. Tuttle, secretary of the organization; Dr. William Kuykendall, Eugene physician; Mrs. E. W. Allen; Rev. E. M. Whitesmith, pastor of the Unitarian church; A. E. Caswell, professor of physics, and E. W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism.

Entrances Show Interest Toward Rhodes Scholarship Examinations

AS MUCH interest as in former years is being shown in the forthcoming Rhodes Scholarship tests, and a number of students have already signified their intentions of taking part, according to Dean George Rebec. All of the students who have thus far announced their intentions of entering the competition are seniors except one, who is a junior.

The Rhodes Scholarship competition is an annual affair. Two students chosen from the state are given the advantage of three years of study at Oxford, in England, and on the continent. Two are chosen from each state and the District of Columbia and each receives his transportation to and from England, plus $2,000 a year expense money.

Due to the shortness of the terms at Oxford, a student is able to take advantage of opportunities to study in continental universities as well as to gather first-hand information concerning European countries.

There are no formal limitations to eligibility except that the contestant must be an American citizen. The standards are so high, however, that none but seniors and an occasional junior have a chance of winning.
