

Women Add Much to University Life, Says Dr. Mez at Meeting

Lecturer Addresses Co-Eds At First Official Assembly

Finer Things in Life and Institutions Brought About by Participation of American Women, Asserts Speaker

"THE increasing participation of American women in political life has emphasized some of the finer things in the life and institutions of our nation," declared Dr. John R. Mez, associate professor of economics and political science, before the first mass meeting of the Women's League in Gerlinger hall yesterday afternoon. "This is also very evident in our universities and colleges, where the presence of women has added much to our realization of these finer things."

Dr. Mez pointed out that the women on the Oregon campus have made a splendid contribution to that spirit of the university which makes it a proud and lovely seat of learning, and an inspiration to all who live and pursue their studies here.

Women Have Place
"Women have their place in the world; not only in the esteem of men, but above all here in the university, where they have not only the esteem of the students, but of the state and the world," he stated.

Dr. Mez then referred to the Kellogg pact in which more than fifty nations have solemnly pledged themselves to renounce war, and he emphasized how fine it is that the United States should lead the way in the renunciation of warfare. "What a wonderful thing it is to have a democracy of men and women which stands behind such a lead! That is progress, that is enlightenment, learning, and culture," he added.

World Peace Necessary
The growing interdependence among nations was emphasized by Dr. Mez, who declared that the United States could not exist for a day without the supplies which she gets from foreign nations. He also stressed the increased cooperation between the nations of the world which has been brought about largely through the general advance of human knowledge and the great steps forward in transportation and communication.

"Women have come to see that power and war are not the best ways of handling the world's problems, and their influence has modified man's old ideal of conquering and subduing."

Dr. Mez concluded with a quotation of the famous character from Greek drama, Antigone: "Not to hate have I been born!"

Gavel Presented
Helen Peters announced that Dr. George Peters had presented the league with a mallet.

Dr. Peters is the father of Helen Peters, president of the organization. The name of the donor is engraved on a small silver plate attached to the gavel.

Louis Myers as Mr. Jessup; Howard Barrett as Hal Briggs; Beatrice Beebe as Mrs. Montgomery; Gerda Brown as Maria Scott; Clara Fitch as Mrs. Maxwell; Florence Shumaker as Carlotta Maxwell.

Every one who took part deserves credit for a very fine performance. The play was very successful and if the Little Theatre group continues the season as they have begun it, there is no doubt that their productions will be appreciatively received in Eugene.

AT THE REX—
Although "Imagine My Embarrassment," was scheduled to appear a few weeks back conditions were such that it could not be secured at the expected time. Now it is here to thrill theatre goers.

AT THE McDONALD—
"The Greene Murder Case" has an unusual group of players. William Powell again appears as Philo Vance, and charms his audiences with his polished portrayal of a super detective. Florence Eldridge of "The Studio Murder Mystery," and Jean Arthur, a 1929 Wampus star, help uphold the feminine characterizations.

AT THE COLONIAL—
The Colonial will be given over tonight to a Christian Science lecture. Tomorrow will bring Eddie Quillan in "Geraldine."

AT THE NEW HEILIG—
"Goldiggers of Broadway," that matchless all color, all talking success will be resumed today for a two day run. Those who aren't talking about it are humming one of Nick Lucas' song hits.

AT THE STATE—
A new Mix thriller comes to the State today when "The Drifter" is flashed on the screen. In this western the modern element creeps in and we find airplanes as well as bandits, tail spins as well as the gallops of Tony.
