Hatton Replaces Moeller
Staters Reported Out

By Harry Van Dine

AS THE zero hour draws near the Oregon and Oregon State football teams are reported to be in great shape for their annual Homecoming battle — notwithstanding the deluge of "bear" stories that have been sent out from the rival camps. It is expected that both the Webfoots and Beavers will be at their full strength for the game, and with prospects for a dry, fast, field, there is every reason to believe that the contest will develop into a great exhibition of the overhead game. Both squads boast of several good tossers and receivers, and both have deceptive passing attacks. The famous Kitzmiller to Robinson and Kitzmiller to Archer combinations of the Webfoots are expected to again function today.

NATURALLY, the rival coaches have refused to announce their starting lineups until game time, but the regular Oregon team will remain practically intact for the game. The only probable change will place Hal Hatton at No. 3 back in place of Ed Moeller. Hatton has played great ball during the past few weeks and, although lighter than Moeller, he has won himself a regular berth. His offensive work is much better than the big discus thrower's, but he is not quite up to Moeller's standard on defense. Johnny Kitzmiller, No. 4, Captain Dave Mason, No. 1, and Al Browne, No. 2, will probably complete the starting backfield. There is one man who has entered several games in a pinch and has always delivered, and he will not remain on the bench long today. We are writing of Bobby Robinson, who will take his last crack at the Aggies today.

WORD came over from Corvallis that Chuck Stout, a regular tackle, is out of the game with the flu. A story of that sort must be taken with the customary grain of salt, as many times a man has left his sick bed to play in an important game. A good example was the Oregon State-New York university game last year, when half of the Beaver team entered the game with high fevers. Sayles Young will get the call if Stout is unable to start. Big Chief Thompson is also reported on the disabled list, suffering from an injured leg, while Del Scott, who has seen plenty of service at the right guard post, is also reported out. This leaves a great hole in the Orange line, and Barney Carlson is expected to try to fill it.

OREGON STATE will probably take the field with regulars in all positions except one guard and one tackle berth. The Aggies' starting backfield is very much a matter of speculation, with Curly Gilmore the only certain starter. This young man is one of the best fullbacks on the coast and he will cause the Webfoots plenty of worry. Ralph Buerke should start at quarter, as he has been holding down the regular berth all season. He is a brainy signal harrier, and a good all around man. Although it has been announced that Cecil Sherwood will not start the game, it would not surprise us to see him leading the Beavers on the field. He is reported to be completely recovered from his injuries and is expected to be the main cog in the attack of the Orangemen. Floyd Owen is expected to get the call at the other halfback position. Owen is a veteran back and plays a consistent game. Little Bryce Nosler, the diminutive quarterback, will probably see plenty of service during the afternoon. He is one of the fastest men in the conference.

WHILE the Webfoots will set down to another week of practice at home, in preparation for the University of Hawaii game, the Beavers will return to Corval-

Schissler Drills Eleven To Break Pass Attack of Lemon-Yellow

Aggie Punting Hit After Thompson Is Benched

By EUGENE DUNCAN
Oregon State College, Corvallis, Nov. 14.—Injuries in Oregon State's football team have taken their toll, with Chief Coquelle Thompson, guard, Chuck Stout, tackle, Del Scott, tackle, and Tige Larson, guard, in the hospital. Cecil Sherwood, halfback, and Pete Miller, tackle who have been able to play intermittently all season will probably be in uniform, but it is doubtful whether they will get to see action Saturday.

Fearing the Oregon passing attack, with Kitzmiller throwing the ball and Bobby Robinson, receiver extraordinary, Coach Schissler has been drilling his team on defensive tactics all week.

Thompson Benched

With Chief Thompson, who was expected to do the punting Saturday out of the game, Schissler will not be able to use Carl Metten at halfback. Metten who is a very good defensive back is not a punter, unfortunately, so defense will have to be sacrificed for a man who can punt.

Sayles Young will probably start at left tackle and either Bill Evington or Pete Miller at the other tackle, although the possibility of Miller playing for any length of time is small. Buck Hammer will see duty at right guard in place of Thompson.

Schissler Uses Ineligibles

Trying to smooth out the rough places in the forward wall Coach Schissler has been having long hard scrimmages using ineligible men as opposition. Clarence Dize, transfer from University of Oregon and Babe Peterson, transfer from Ellensburg normal, along with Rody Lamb, former Lombard quarterback, have been able to tear huge gaps in the line.

The backfield with Ralph Buerke, quarterback, Carl Gilmore, fullback, Cecil Sherwood, left halfback, and either Hughes or Owen at right halfback, seems to be well balanced, but lacking a back the caliber of either Kitzmiller or Robinson. Although Oregon is a decided favorite it should be a great game.

BEAVER AND DRUM LEAD NOISE PARADE

unable, despite previous admonitions on the part of university authorities, to restrain their natural feelings. To the strains of Oregon's famous battle cry they marched, "Oregon! Oregon! Rah, Rah, Oregon!"

And then someone struck up a song that is traditional for the eve of an Oregon-Aggie game, a song which, despite its slight vulgarity, is ever popular. It is a parody on "John Brown's Body" and is very specific in its application.

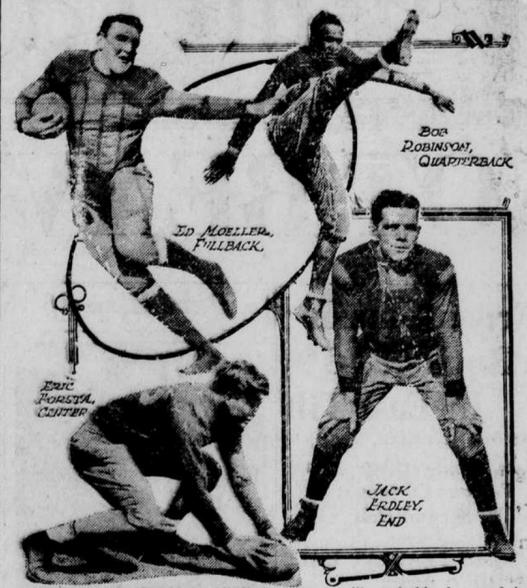

The big "O" on the butte was lighted as the parade turned down Willamette street and flared fully as bright as "O's" have flared in years past. Bombs and rockets set off added to the effect.

As the rally reached the intersection of Seventh and Willamette, it broke up to allow the passage of the Noise parade. When the noise-makers were past, the traditional pep session was held under the direction of Harold Kelly, varsity yell king, Tom Stoddard, president of the A. S. U., O., and Baz Williams, one-time Oregon grid star, spoke to the students, who responded lustily, as Oregon students always do on such occasions. Williams admitted that he did not like O. A. C. and never had, and suggested that Oregon ought to do something about it.

The assembled fans loudly assured Baz that something would be done today at 1:30 o'clock.

Immediately after the game to board a train for Portland. From there they will leave for Chicago Saturday night, and after a two days' stay there will proceed to Detroit to meet the strong University of Detroit eleven. The Detroiters have not lost a game in 22 starts and have been recognized as one of the greatest teams in the country. The game will be played November 23, the day Oregon meets Hawaii.

Ready To Face the Orangemen

These tough Webfoots of the gridiron will probably be used in today's game with the determined Beavers. A ferocious battle is predicted.

Webfoot, Beaver Teams To Engage In Harrier Race

Start of Three Mile Run Will Be 20 Minutes Before Kickoff

Today, while the crowd at the Homecoming game is getting settled, the annual Oregon, Oregon State cross-country race will get under way. The signal which will start the harriers on their three and a half mile grind is scheduled to be given 20 minutes before the kickoff of the main event of the day.

Oregon State, by means of an intramural program, has developed a team which according to Corvallis sources will be hard to beat. Bill Hayward, who is coaching the Webfoot team, however, can be counted upon to have a good squad in the race.

The course this year is arranged in such a manner that it requires the runners to make one lap on the Hayward field oval at the start as well as the finish of the race. This will give the spectators more than the usual fleeting glimpse of the men as they finish.

The Webfoot team captained by Pat Beal will include: Ralph Hill, Ed Jensen, Leonard Steels, Art Fitch, Kay Neal, John Runyun, Ruff, Hamilton and John Schaefer.

FROSH WIN FROM O.S.C. ROOKS, 31-19

quired a lot of drive to put them over. When the Rooks were backed up on their own goal line was about the only time that they fought during the last quarter.

For the Frosh, the outstanding player in either the line or the backfield was George Currie. Though he has not done much in the way of carrying the ball in the games preceding this classic, today was his day. He tore off tackle, he received kicks and in every way merited the warm hand-clasp he received from Prink Callison when he was taken out late in the fourth quarter. Strange as it may seem Currie's only score was tallied when he averted a Rook touchdown falling on the ball after a blocked kick for a safety.

Don Watts was too closely watched to get away for any long runs as is his custom but did account for the first score and showed that his value is not all in the offense by his tackling during the last part of the game.

Rushlow Plunges Line

Perhaps as outstanding as Currie was Jack Rushlow though his efforts were less spectacular. His line plunging was as good as any seen on Hayward field this year and that does not exclude anyone. He accounted for three touchdowns after runs of 15, 1 and 2 yards.

The line from end to end played as any coach would want a line to play during that last half and it is hard to pick anyone as the outstanding man. Johnny Hare scored on a long pass from Rushlow that everyone in the stands thought was destined to be grounded behind the goal. Bill Bowerman twice halted aerial attacks which the Rooks pulled as a last resort, intercepting long the presentation of tickets issued on their registration. Relatives or intimate friends accompanying students may purchase tickets at the door of the Igloo.

The committee on arrangements, headed by Jack Stipe, started work placing tables at McArthur court at 7 o'clock this morning. The remainder of the workers will begin at 10 o'clock this morning. Brian Minnaugh, chairman of clean-up; Dorothy Teepe, in charge of the serving; and Larry Wiggins, in charge of the tickets, comprise the other members of Miss Grebel's directorate. Miss Teepe asks that all girls working under her wear smocks while they are serving.

Governor to Attend

Governor I. L. Patterson will be present at the game this afternoon and will officiate at the opening by heaving a football into the arena. Governor Patterson will make a short speech just prior to the kick-off. Tom Stoddard, president of the A. S. U. O., and Ranson Meinke, president of the O. S. C. student body, will also make short talks.

The usual parade of the Order of the O. Oregon's athletes of today and of the years gone by, will take place shortly before the game opens. The bands of Oregon and of O. S. C will also parade around the field. There will also be a surprise stunt, according to Earl Miller, chairman of the Homecoming features.

Decorations at Hayward field will be in green and yellow, and orange and black, the official colors of the competing institutions. Each pair of goal posts will be decorated in all four colors, instead of just two as in previous years. A large flag in Oregon colors at each end of the east grand stand will indicate the class having the largest number of alumni present and the oldest class having representatives at the game.

ENLARGE STADIUM FOR FLORIDA TILT

According to an announcement received yesterday by the graduate manager's office, plans are nearing completion for the enlargement of the Madison Square Garden stadium, at Miami, to take care of the large crowd expected at the University of Oregon-University of Florida game which will be held in the southern city, December 7.

The announcement also stated that 50 per cent of the Miami allotment of tickets had been sold with the game still a month off. This assures that approximately 75 per cent of the total number of tickets have been disposed of.
