Webfoots To Travel Far . . .
Kitzmiller Out for Year . . .
Frosh Season Successful . . .

By Harry Van Dine
NOW that the annual squabble as to whether Oregon or Oregon State has the better football team has been settled for another year, the McEwan coached Webfoots will turn their thoughts to three big games during the next three weeks. The period might be appropriately termed a "coach's nightmare" as McEwan calls it, for the Webfoots will travel about five thousand miles to play the games, and will meet Hawaii, in Portland, and the powerful St. Mary's eleven, in San Francisco, within the span of five days. The varsity coaching staff will have to do some careful substituting to be able to keep a strong team on the field at all times.

It was announced yesterday that the great Johnny Kitzmiller would covet on the gridiron no more this year as he suffered a broken ankle in the Aggie game. It was indeed a costly victory, as Kitzmiller's loss will be very keenly felt by the Webfoots. Too bad that the mishap would have to happen just now, with Kitz going his best and these tough games on schedule. If he could have played the same brand of ball against Florida that he has been displaying in the conference games, Kitz would have undoubtedly received all-American mention. Kitz is not only a great football player, one of the best Oregon ever had, but he is probably the best drawing attraction on the coast. Oregon will miss Kitzmiller, and we are fortunate to have him back for another year.

FOUR conference victories and one defeat—not such a bad record for the season. The Webfoots ended their conference season in a blaze of glory in their clean cut victory over Oregon State and are considered one of the leading teams of the country. Coach McEwan's men certainly made a great comeback after their defeat at the hands of Stanford in the opening conference battle. The Webfoots presented a well balanced, alert football team in the annual Homecoming fray, and their old fighting spirit was very much in evidence. The Webfoots are assured of at least a tie for Northwest honors, with Washington State still in the running by virtue of its 13 to 0 victory over Montana.

PROBABLY the most surprising upset on the coast Saturday was the 13 to 7 victory scored by the Santa Clara Bronchos over Pop Warner's tricky Stanford aggregation. For once Pop was fooled, he started his second string and the Bronchos scored in the first six minutes of play. The "old fox" then sent in his regulars but they were unable to do anything until the third period, when Moffett scored on a pass. The Santa Clara team was not to be beaten, though, and talked again in the fourth. Washington again made a gallant stand, this time against California, and held the Bears to a 7 to 0 score. Bagshaw's team has certainly perked up and should offer Chicago a real battle next week.

COACH PRINK CALLISON'S football team showed the stuff they were made of when they came back to score a smashing 31 to 19 win over the Oregon State Rooks in the final of the "little big game." This victory gave the frosh the undisputed claim to the better of the two teams, although the Rooks scored a 7 to 6 win the previous week at Medford. Jack Rushlow and George Currie showed their heels to the Rook linemen time and again and both turned in a great game. This fellow Rushlow looks like a certain varsity prospect, with his terrific line smashes and good defensive playing. Bill Morgan, Johnny Hare, and Bernie Hughes showed their usual high class of playing and stopped the young Aggie backs time and again. The yearling team has a record of four wins to one defeat for the season, with the Rooks being the only team able to turn the tables on them. Callison's men more than made up for the defeat when they smashed their way to victory at Corvallis. It certainly was a great week-end for Oregon athletic history.

Loss of Flying Dutchman Felt by Great Oregon Squad

McEwan System Works Like Slow Powder Against O.S.C.

Londahl To Try Matching Strides With Kitz

The costly victory over the Oregon Aggies Saturday for which Oregon paid the price of Johnny Kitzmiller, who may be lost to the team permanently with a badly broken ankle, was not gained so sloppily by the Webfoots as some critics seem to think.

It is true that O. S. C. made more yardage from scrimmage, more yardage from passes, completed more passes, intercepted more passes, made more yardage on punts, recovered more fumbles, made more first downs, and lost the ball less on fumbles than did Oregon. But there was a good reason for it.

It is possible for almost any team to make yardage against Captain McEwan's squad in mid-field, because of his six-man pass defense. The center plays several yards behind the line of scrimmage, and that leaves a defensive wall of only four men against an offensive line of seven men.

If Colbert, Christensen, Shields, and Lillie were not the brilliant stars they have shown themselves to be, such a method of defense would not be possible.

When O. S. C. drove down to the goal line, however, they could not throw passes any farther than across the 10-yard zone, and the Oregon center and fullback were free to move up and bolster up the line. When that happened, it took O. S. C. about a dozen downs to gain a couple of yards.

There is a reason for everything, freak plays included, and it is apparent that Coach McEwan has mastered enough of these reasons to have all but patented a method with which he can manufacture his own breaks.

Practice for three weeks prior to the Aggie encounter was significantly plotted into passing, pass defense, punting, and punting defense drills.

There were two big reasons for this sort of preparation—Kitzmiller and Bobby Robinson. Without these two men or men like them, it is possible that McEwan would have changed his whole system.

It is a known fact that given a couple of inches head start, either Kitz or Bobby can break up any ball game, and when Kitzmiller was carried from the field, Bobby came to the front like a medieval saint to the rescue of his monastery.

When Bun Stadelman was wrecked, Eric Forsta stepped in and did his work. Now Johnny Londahl will probably have to take over Kitzmiller's department.

Londahl is developing fast, and no one can say yet that he won't be as good as Kitzmiller, but he doesn't play the same style of game. It is possible that McEwan will revamp his whole system now, and find a nucleus other than the Flying Dutchman around which to build his team and be about as well off as he was before the accident or whatever it was.

Visited Injured Man
"I went down to see Kitzmiller Sunday morning with the doctors and again this morning with Dr. Dillehunt. Kitzmiller assured me that he had every attention, comfort, and courtesy that could come to him. When I talked to him he was in fine spirits and his whole conversation was about the future of the football team and not his own personal suffering, which is very characteristic of the man."

Kitzmiller's room at the Eugene city hospital was flooded with flowers yesterday, sent by nearly every fraternity and sorority on the campus, according to Tom Stoddard, student body president, who said that flowers had also been sent by the associated students.

SPEEDBALL TEAMS TO BE ELECTED

Senior girls out for speedball met yesterday and chose their team which will be announced next week. Juniors will meet tonight and elect their team, the sophomores, tomorrow, and the frosh Thursday.

This year it was decided that the speedball teams would be elected, subject to the approval of the coach and head of speedball, because Miss Margaret Duncan, the coach, was unacquainted with the girls.

Announcement of the teams will be made Friday.

The speedball schedule is as follows: Nov. 25—junior vs. sophomore; Nov. 26—seniors vs. frosh; Dec. 2—sophomore vs. frosh; Dec. 3—senior vs. junior; Dec. 4—senior vs. frosh; Dec. 5—junior vs. frosh. The champion game will be played Dec. 10.

OFFICIAL OF Y. W. CAMPUS VISITOR

Leila Anderson, freshman secretary of the Y. W. C. A. at Berkeley, and also Episcopal student secretary at the University of California, was a visitor on the campus yesterday. Miss Anderson talked to the leaders of the discussion groups, which are taking the place of the regular frosh commission, yesterday afternoon at the Y bungalow.

An informal dinner was given at the Anchorage last night in honor of Miss Anderson, by girls who were delegates to the Seabeck conference last summer. Miss Anderson was at the Seabeck conference and also the Asilomar conference in California.

Varsity Debate Tryouts Today In Villard Hall

Five Minute Speeches on Either Side of Question To Be Argued

Varsity men's tryouts will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the assembly room of Villard hall, and varsity women will debate at 7:30 this evening. Eugene Laird, general forensics manager, urges that all aspirants report promptly for tryouts.

The decision will be announced in tomorrow's Emerald, according to Dr. Ralph C. Hoerber, debate coach. Both men and women will debate on the question, "Resolved, That the nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament."

Speeches will be five minutes in length and devoted to any phase of the question that the speaker desires.

Every one will have an equal chance since the new debate coach plans to use as many people as he possibly can who are willing to work.

Squads of about 16 varsity men and 12 varsity women will be chosen.

A ny aspirant having other pressing work and who is unable to prepare a speech will be given an opportunity to make an impromptu talk, according to Walter E. Hempstead, of the public speaking department.

Wrestling Takes Its Place in Field Of Minor Sports

Matches To Be Planned For Squad; Successful Prospects Seen

Wrestling is rapidly coming to the front as a minor sport, according to Harry Elliot, coach of the Oregon squad. The sport will undoubtedly play an important part in the winter calendar of varsity sports, he said.

A squad of a dozen men has been working out three times a week for the past six weeks. Conditioning and the fundamentals of wrestling were stressed.

Elliot is particularly pleased with the attitude of the squad in taking the work seriously, in view of the fact that until recently no outside competition was assured.

An exhibition card is planned for November 20 at the Eugene Masonic temple and a donut tournament is in prospect for early in January.

Jack Benefiel, graduate manager, is planning other matches for the squad. These will be announced later.

The majority of the squad has had some past experience in the art of wrestling, Coach Elliot said. With several new men showing up well, prospects for a very successful season are bright.

The following men are turning out regularly, and compose the backbone of Elliot's squad:

Arthur Markewitz, 118; Gerald (Whity) Van der Lugt, 118; Clair Mersel, 135; Louis Feves, 135; Karl Klemm, 145; Spencer Raynor, 125; "Spud" Bowers, 158; Ed Bloom, 143; Kermit Sumerwell, 158; Virgil Langtry, 135; Bill Johnson, 145; "Banney" Berenson, 145, and Chuck Bigmon.

Ten Ex-student Body Presidents Hold Breakfast

Dr. Fred J. Ziegler Oldest Past Chief Present At Meeting

Ten former student body presidents of the University of Oregon met at a breakfast banquet for which Tom Stoddard, present incumbent, was host at the Osburn hotel last Saturday morning.

Dr. Fred J. Ziegler, who served as the university's third student body president for the year 1901-02, was the oldest past chief executive present, and from him a chronological list of the breakfast guests ranges down to Joe McKeown, who was president last year.

Straub Is Talker

Dean John Straub, guest of honor, made the opening address, which was followed by short talks from each of the guests. Recent developments in the machinery of student government was the subject for most of the remarks. Several of the former presidents commented favorably on the recent modification of the attitude toward freshmen. The modern trend to make more of the executive positions of the student body appointive rather than elective was also declared to be a step forward.

Many Are Present

Those present were: Dr. Fred J. Ziegler, 1901-02; George Hug, 1906-07; Robert Prescott, 1907-08; Percy Collier, 1910-11; Carlton Spencer, 1912-13; Herald White, 1918-19; Lyle Bartholomew, 1921-22; Randall Jones, 1924-25; Hugh Biggs, 1926-27; Joe McKeown, 1928-29; Thomas Stoddard, 1929-30.

Lamar Tooze, 1915-16; and Fred Steiwer, 1905-06, sent telegraphic regrets for their inability to attend the reunion.

Frosh Harriers To Run Against Portland Teams

Race Will Be Preliminary To Webfoot-Hawaii Football Game

As a preliminary to the University of Hawaii-Webfoot game at Portland November 23, the yearling cross country team will run a two mile race against the Reed college harriers and a group of runners from the Portland high schools.

The race will not be an orthodox cross country race as it will be run entirely on the Multnomah field track, however, it will provide the frosh team with their first competition. They were to have met the Oregon State Rooks at Medford and again at Corvallis but both engagements were called off by the Corvallis authorities, and the team will have to be content with Saturday's meet as it is the only one on the schedule as it now stands.

The team has been working out daily under the watchful eye of Bill Hayward and is in perfect condition for the race. The squad of ten is captained by Louis Neale, of Eugene, and includes, Edward Hicks, Winfield Tinnerstedt, Ray Adams, Edward Bolds, Norman McCaffery, Russell Eddy, Juan Cinther, Robert M. Hall and Burton Long. This may have to be cut down to five for the Portland race but as yet the selection has not been made by Hayward.

1929 VOLLEYBALL SEASON OPENS

The red trunks of the junior physical education majors added color to the opening games of the 1929 volleyball season, in the gym of the Gerlinger hall.

The senior first team defeated the freshman first team, 42-40, in a close but rather dull game. The first junior team barely nosed out the second junior team, 29-28, in the other game, which was much more exciting.

A new president will be elected to take the place of Eleanor Welcome, who failed to return to school this fall. Dr. M. E. Erickson, graduate assistant in the Spanish department will speak on "A Midsummer in Mexico."

"Eyes" for blind flying!

Three new G-E contributions to the conquest of the air

LINDBERGH, flying blind much of the way, hit Ireland "on the nose" as he winged toward Paris. Now, as an aid to air navigation comes the magnet compass, a product of General Electric research, which gives pilots a navigating instrument of extraordinary accuracy. Meanwhile, two other General Electric contributions to aviation have been developed—the electric gasoline gauge and the radio echo altimeter. The ordinary altimeter shows only height above sea level. The radio echo altimeter warns the pilot of his actual distance above ground or water by flashing green, yellow, and red lights on the instrument board.

Every year hundreds of college-trained men and women enter the employment of General Electric. Research, similar to that which developed "eyes" for blind flying, is one of the many fields of endeavor in which they play an important part.
