Oregon's Resolution

THE students of the University of Oregon are deeply and permanently pained that they permitted themselves to be so lax in the elements of hospitality November 16 that the inestimable O. S. C. Barometer was obliged to devote some four columns of solid type matter calling our attention to it. That such inexcusable laxity may not re-occur, the Barometer proposes transferring the annual gridiron conflict from Eugene alternately to Portland, Salem, or Junction City until such time as Oregon students can learn to behave.

The Oregon students, as has been said before, are deeply pained, and on their behalf the Emerald herewith offers its sincerest apologies for what Oregon did to O. S. C. November 16, for what Oregon has done to O. S. C. in years past, and for what Oregon may do to O. S. C. in the years to come.

And, on behalf of the Oregon student body, the Emerald assumes an humble and penitent frame of mind if the Barometer will only reconsider its decision to take the big game away from Eugene. After consulting with university officials, we are authorized to submit the following program for the game of 1931 for the approval of the Barometer:

1. The O. S. C. student body arrives at Hayward field and is seated in the west grandstand in the vicinity of the 50-yard line.
 2. The entire staff of the O. S. C. Barometer is escorted to the press box, provided with typewriters, adding machines and dictaphones, and served with ice cream, coffee, cake, pie, pickles, sandwiches, oranges, corned beef and cabbage.
 3. The Oregon students serpentine around the field, lustily singing "Carry Me Back to O. S. C." and enthusiastically waving orange and black pennants.
 4. The Oregon students in their rooting section at the end of the field go wild with joy as the O. S. C. team appears on the field.
 5. The O. S. C. band parades around the field playing the "Stars and Stripes Forever," pausing in front of the Oregon rooting section to play the O. S. C. Alma Mater song.
 6. Oregon kicks off, and Webfoot adherents go wild as O. S. C. man runs ball back for a touchdown.
 7. Oregon rooters boo the referee as he awards a first down to the Webfoot.
 8. Oregon rooting section entirely uncontrollable after fifth O. S. C. touchdown in first quarter.
 9. Oregon rooting section cheers clever between-halves stunt of a beaver pursuing, capturing, and annihilating a duck.
 10. Coach Schissler borne off the field on the shoulders of enthusiastic Oregon rooters following the game.
- It is the Emerald's hope that the Barometer can see fit to accept this proposal and continue to let Eugene have the big game every other year.

The Purpose of Football

OREGON'S football team journeyed to Portland last weekend to score a thrilling victory over the University of Hawaii, but Oregon's student body stayed behind, detained in Eugene by Saturday classes and frank discouragement from attending on the part of the university administration. It was rather a curious situation. Doubtlessly the administration was correct in insisting that the students remain on the campus, but that does not alter the fact that some hundreds were prevented from attending the Hawaiian tilt, which was essentially a home game.

Just what is the purpose of intercollegiate football, anyway? It is the opinion of the Emerald that football can be justified by but one purpose, the entertainment of the student body. When it exceeds this purpose, it should be curbed.

The argument is advanced by the student administration that games must be played in Portland if football is to be a success. The attendance at the Hawaiian game Saturday was 11,800, over 5,000 less than at the Idaho game earlier in the season. Out of the receipts Hawaii was paid her expenses, amounting to some $7,500, and the remainder was split between Oregon and the Multnomah civic stadium. It is not to be presumed that the game caused any great inflow into the coffers of the A. S. U. O.

What would have been the situation if the game had been played in Eugene? That is a matter of much speculation, but it is the opinion of the Emerald that Oregon would have been approximately broken even. The contest here with U. C. L. A. drew an attendance of something over 4,000, including students, but the visiting team was known to be of an inferior caliber, and there was no prospect of any formidable competition. The game with Stanford in 1928 drew an attendance of 7,752, and it is probably safe to assume that the Hawaiian game would have attracted at least 6,000 persons had it been held here. It should also be borne in mind that in intersectional contests the A. S. U. O. has the privilege of charging students, so there would have been no non-paying section of the crowd. Neither would it have been necessary for Oregon to pay the expense of taking the team to Portland or of renting the stadium for the game.

In any event, whether money is made or lost, it is the opinion of the Emerald that as many games as possible should be played each year in Eugene, instead of taking all the more important home games to Portland. After all, football was made for students, and not students for football, as a growing tendency would seem to indicate.

And before we forget it, let's hear that new policeman's yell. You know, that one about "Hold 'Em Jail!"

She was only an electrician's daughter, but she sure shocked the old maids.

TODAY'S PUTRID PUN
 Use "decreasing" in a sentence. The laundry is in decreasing and cleaning business.

Which reminds us of the Scotchman who bought his collars too large because he expected a goiter.

When we asked a member of the band if he had a good time up in Portland he said he couldn't remember. And J. Benefiel sent them all the way up to Oregon's metropolis to play around.

Mother Would Appreciate Flowers

... for Thanksgiving

Mother is different . . . just a remembrance means more to her than the most gorgeous diamond. A bouquet or a potted plant is a remembrance from you to her—even if you cannot be home just remember her with a gift.

Telephone 654, and we will telegraph your order to our representative in your home town . . . besides, the flowers will be delivered that same day.

Yes, they call him "Will Scarlet" because he wears red flannels.

What's the name of that great church in Salt Lake City?
 Oh, you mean the "Moremen" church.

We shall next be entertained by a few strains from the new Tree song.

The which?
 You know, that one that goes "Oh, how can you leave me?"

"After prohibition we will live in a 'Hebrew' era."
 Yes, hebrew, you brew, we all brew.

FRATERNITY VODVIL
 Why are some frosh like Christmas trees?
 Because they need ornaments?
 No, because they're evergreen.

Such a rush! But only three days of classes—Monday, classes and house meeting—Tuesday classes and, oh! I must take Mother something for all she is doing for me and the family Thanksgiving day. Let's see—I know! I'll go to the Oriental Art Shop—they'll have just the thing!

Later . . . I got it . . . at the Oriental—and it's oke, too. A bang-up scarf . . . there were lots of other things, but I thought it would please her best. Wednesday—classes and home. More later.
